On Wednesday forenoon, 26th inst., at an early hour, a telephone message was received at the police station in this city from the navy yard, requesting the arrest of a sergeant of marines, who, having been detected in the commission of acts for which it was likely he would receive severe punishment, had managed to skip from the yard, and was supposed to be in this city. Assistant Marshals Hurley and Peverly effected his arrest after considerable search and a lively run, during which the marine jumped from a window in a Charles street house to the ground eighteen feet below, and he was returned to the navy yard on the eleven o'clock boat. The offence with which he is charged is said to be the theft of a large quantity of clothing from stores which it was his official duty to guard from theft—a good commentary on Secretary Whitney's "economical" measure of putting marines in place of civilian watchmen on the several navy yards.

BOATS AND RACES.

Mr. Wm. W. Dixon of Kittery, and his son Charles Dixon, are building several new row-boats, which will be for sale when finished. Mr. Wm. W. Dixon still maintains the supremacy of his sloop yacht Dolphin over anything on the river, notwithstanding she was so badly defeated in a race to the Shoals and back last fall by the Tryphosa, owned by Mr. Charles S. Drowne of this city, and on the opening of the racing season next summer will hold himself in readiness to match his boat for money against anything owned on the Piscataqua, for five or ten miles to windward or leeward and return, Boston yacht club rules of measurement and time allowance to govern the race. Capt. Samuel H. Pilsbury of Kittery, having finished the English cutter yacht with which he intends to clean out the whole fleet of local racing yachts next summer, is now building a boat for Zina Jackson. It is rumored that a series of sweepstakes races for all fast — or supposed-to-be-fast — yachts owned on the river, whose owners wish to test the sailing qualities of their favorites in a set match, will take place early the coming season; it is thought that two if not three such races can be arranged, with two good prizes to be contested for in each race, and besides furnishing lots of interesting and legitimate sport, the winning boat of the series will be entitled to fly the "rooster flag."

THE DEVIL'S AUCTION.

The Philadelphia Press says of this great spectacular melange of comedy and ballet that it "is just crammed full of good things, and we wish we could spare the space to fully describe the many wonderful specialties that are introduced in the play. Suffice it to say that we never saw their equals in their peculiar line. It is altogether a most enjoyable and, in many respects, the very best show of its kind ever presented in this city, and the Central will deserve big houses while it is on the boards. Though in the house there was a fair representation of ladies, yet the preponderance of the other sex shows that the 'Devil's Auction' is not properly understood by the gentler ones, who love the spectacular. The ballet is thoroughly clean, and nothing in the dialogue or any part of the piece is coarse."

At Music hall next Saturday evening; see advertisement. Tickets now on sale at Goodrich's.

PERSONAL.

It is announced that Commodore Philip P. Johnson, commandant of the Portsmouth navy yard, is seriously ill.

William M. Locke, son of Alderman Locke of ward one, is visiting his parents in this city. Mr. Locke was for several years in the employ of Charles E. Laighton & Son, and is now a resident of far away Dakota.

Mr. Arthur W. Walker will move today into his handsomely refitted residence on Middle street.

Hon. Frank Jones was re-elected a director in the New Hampshire Fire Insurance company, and John Sise, Esq., a director of the New Hampshire Trust company, at the late annual meetings of those companies held at Manchester.

Mr. Wm. E. Noyes, who has been confined to his house for several weeks by pneumonia, which at one time threatened to take on a typhoid character, has so far recovered that he was out of doors on Wednesday, 26th inst., and took a drive of several miles in a snow storm! Prudent. But what can yon expect of a newspaper man?

Miss Nettie Hayes, daughter of Mr. John W. Hayes, started Tuesday morning of this week for Alabama, where she has secured a position as teacher of one of the principal schools of the state. Miss Hayes is an excellent teacher, and a very estimable young lady. She has been employed on several occasions within the last two years as substitute in some of the schools in this city. Our school board might have done well to have found for her a permanent position here. —Times.

A large and handsome picture of the ship Granite State, of this port, was placed in one of the windows of Montgomery's music and art store on Wednesday, the 26th inst.; it represents the ship under full sail, running in for an anchorage at some Chinese port, apparently Hong Kong, with a Chinese "sampan" towing astern, and just commencing to take in her light sails. The picture was painted in China by a native artist. The Granite State is now at New York, loaded with oil for Shanghai, and nearly ready for sea. Capt. Wm. Ross, who will command her this voyage, will be accompanied by his wife; they will leave this city Monday for New York.

A select social assembly was given at the town hall, Greenland, Tuesday evening, Jan. 25th. The music was furnished by Turner's quadrille band, and a bountiful oyster supper was provided. A delegation from this city, by private conveyance, was in attendance and passed a pleasant evening.

Mr. Al. Watts, (not the noted dog catcher,) a wholesale fish dealer, of Boston, has commenced business at the southend wharves, by purchasing fresh fish, all boxed, from the different dealers.

Capt. John Lawry of Kittery Point, who, some months since, went to Clinton, Mass., to engage in the fish and meat business, has recently sold out his business there and returned to Kittery Point.

It has been definitely decided to hold the Masonic ball which is to be given on the evening of Feb. 21st, in Franklin hall.

It is reported that Lola M. Johnson of Manchester, a young girl who recently disappeared from her home, ran away to join the Ella Hill burlesque company, which played to a small audience in this city on the evening of Jan. 21st, and did join the company at Suncook.

Says the Biddeford Journal: "The Boston Evening Record says that Camden is the coming rival of Bar Harbor. The Record is mistaken. The most healthy rival Bar Harbor will have to compete with during the next few years, is the historic old town of York. The construction of the York Harbor & Beach railroad, from Portsmouth, will give this already famous resort a big boom, and we predict the town will soon be the leading summer resort of the state."

We have been informed that the Portsmouth Athletic club will give a minstrel show and exhibition of athletic exercises in Music hall on the evening of Feb. 22d.

Augustus S. Chick has been appointed postmaster at Limerick, Me., in place of John F. Chase, resigned.

I will furnish Hacks for funerals for $2 in the city, attending church 50cts. extra; and at the Catholic yard $2 50. All the hitch-outs to be in first-class order. Similar reductions will be made for weddings, parties, etc. NATHAN JONES.

A great reduction has been made in the price of Ladies' and Children's Cloaks, by Lewis E. Staples, 7 Market street. At the prices now marked they will sell rapidly.

Cobb's Complexion Soap heals chapped hands, and is the choicest of all soaps for the toilet and bath. For sale by David Kimball & Co., F. B. Coleman, Wm. D. Grace and A. P. Preston.

In the senate, on the day of the passage of the Edmunds bill making it the duty of the president to adopt retaliatory measures against Canada in case of any further unjust interference with our fishermen, Senator Frye of Maine, commenting upon the case of the American vessel which rescued and fed seventeen wrecked Canadian fishermen, and whose captain was then refused permission by the collector of a provincial port to buy half a barrel of flour, so that his seamen, who rescued and fed the Canadians, had to go hungary for a whole day, said that such brutality and inhumanity could not be found in the Fiji islands or anywhere else in the world. Something should be done when Canada could so cruelly punish American seamen for being God's messengers to the shipwrecked Canadian seamen.

Rheumatism

It is an established fact that Hood's Sarsaparilla has proven an invaluable remedy in many severe cases of rheumatism, effecting remarkable cures by its powerful action in correcting the acidity of the blood, which is the cause of the disease, and purifying and enriching the vital fluid.

It is certainly fair to assume that what Hood's Sarsaparilla has done for others it will do for you. Therefore, if you suffer the pains and aches of rheumatism, give this potent remedy a fair trial.

A Positive Cure.

"I was troubled very much with rheumatism in my hips, ankles, and wrists. I could hardly walk, and was confined to my bed a good deal of the time. Being recommended to try Hood's Sarsaparilla, I took four bottles and am perfectly well. I cheerfully recommend Hood's Sarsaparilla as one of the best blood purifiers in the world." W. F. WOOD, Bloomington, Ill.

For Twenty Years

I have been afflicted with rheumatism. Before 1883 I found no relief, but grew worse. I then began taking Hood's Sarsaparilla, and it did me more good than all the other medicine I ever had." H. T. BALCOM, Shirley, Mass.

"I suffered from what the doctors called muscular rheumatism. I took Hood's Sarsaparilla and am entirely cured." J. V. A. PROUDFOOT, letter carrier, Chicago, Ill.

We shall be glad to send, free of charge, to all who may desire, a book containing many additional statements of cures by

Insurance Notice.

THE OLD INSURANCE AGENCY,

AT THE OLD STAND,

No. 13 Pleasant Street,

PORTSMOUTH, N. H.

To my Old Customers and Friends. Are you insured? When your home or other property is being consumed by a raging fire, a good insurance policy is a great comfort. The subscriber, with his experience of fifteen years, is now prepared to place your Insurance in the Insurance Companies of New Hampshire, and in Companies organized in other States. No one can place your Insurance better or safer!

NOTE.—Mr. Ilsley, my late copartner, still states in his published card, that he purchased of me all my right to the "Fire Insurance Business of our late firm." I have heretofore denied this statement. He never offered to buy of me the business or goodwill of the firm, and I never offered or even thought of selling out my business. I hired our old office, and advertised to carry on the business in all its branches, weeks before a final settlement. Now, if he has a bill of sale, bond or any agreement whereby I conveyed to him any rights to the goodwill of the old firm or any rights to do a Fire Insurance Business in New Hampshire with old or new customers, let him prosecute me for a breach of contract, or cease publishing or repeating his false statement. I am ready to meet this issue in any court of justice. I make this statement in justice to my customers and friends and to vindicate my own integrity.

Ballooning in Paris.

Some curious ballooning experiments were made by M. Goddard recently in the old courtyard of the Tuileries. Two balloons, one filled with hot air and the other with bicarbonate of gas, were sent up. In one, the "Dynamiteuse des Airs," M. Goddard sat himself, while in the car of the other, called the "Nouveau Monde," three young aeronauts were seated, who made the crowd of gazers shudder by their boldness in performing climbing feats as they rose in the air. Before the ascent of the larger balloons, M. Goddard released about forty smaller ones, called "balloons-poste." They can be used for the postal service in time of war. Some of them, indeed, had been used during the last siege of Paris for the transmission of letters and dispatches beyond the Prussian lines.

"Mr. Black, I've called to see why you haven't taken any notice of my repeated duns?" "Silence is golden, you know, Mr. White." "Well, now, it seems to me a darned sight more like brass. It won't pay any bills."—Philadelphia Call.

Brown (to Robinson, whose mother-in-law has recently died)—"I was sorry to hear, Robinson, that you and your wife have recently sustained a heavy loss." Robinson (with feeling)—"Yes, the old lady must have weighed over 250 pounds."—Life.

They were in a West Chapel street car. "Where have you been, dear?" "O, I've been shopping all day long." "So have I. What did you get?" "O, I didn't get anything, did you?" "No, but I priced almost everything I saw."—New Haven News.

Dear Sir;—I feel it a pleasurable duty to extol your medicine to the very highest. I have been a sufferer from the dreadful disease dyspepsia from childhood, and very often after eating have vomited up the greater part of my victuals. About 3 months ago I was induced to try a bottle of your invigorator, which at once gave me relief, and I have not had a vomiting spell since. I feel like a new man, and am perfectly well. I have tried many medicines, but none had the least effect until I took your Invigorator. Hoping you may go on in your great work for suffering humanity, I am Truly yours,

Alleged Abduction.

A good deal of interest is exhibited in Great Falls and vicinity over the case of one John Dominique, a grocer of Great Falls, who went into Berwick, Me., Jan. 25th, and was arrested by Sheriff Hurd for a debt alleged to be due to a Portland trader. Dominique requested the sheriff to return him across the line to Dover to get the money to pay the debt, and to consult counsel, which request was granted. In Dover, the counsel consulted told Dominique that the sheriff had no jurisdiction over him, as he was in New Hampshire, and that he need not go to Maine. Dominique then informed the sheriff that he would not go, and went home to Great Falls. In the evening the sheriff met Dominique and it is said forced him over into Maine, where he again arrested him, and took him before a justice. Dominique's counsel claimed that his client was kidnapped, but the justice ruled otherwise, and ordered the prisoner to give bonds for his future appearance or go to jail. Dominique denied that the justice had jurisdiction, and went to jail. Counsel for Dominique went to Biddeford on the 26th, and secured a writ of habeas corpus. Dominique states that he will sue the sheriff and his bondsmen for $50,000 damages, for kidnapping and false imprisonment.

Left His Money Behind.

Nicholas Pike of Calais, Me., who has for years lived alone, in filth and apparently the most abject poverty, died recently, and in a loft of his hut was found a trunk containing over $25,000. His first wife is a spiritualist medium living near Boston, and his two married daughters, who live in Massachusetts, thought so little of him that they refused to attend his funeral; they will take the money, though, being his sole heirs. No one knows how he came by so much money; but it is supposed that he made it during the construction of the Knox & Lincoln railroad, by cashing the due bills of the laborers before pay day at a great discount. His first wife left him on account of his miserly, filthy habits, about twenty years ago; he obtained a divorce and married a young girl, who died in the insane asylum at Augusta. Since then he had lived alone, and would often walk to a neighbor's house to warm himself rather than build a fire. He was sixty-seven years of age, and was at one time a lawyer.

The Poet's Pipe.

No slim, archaic reed, or sylvan flute
Of soft and pith-like utterance, I sing—
'Tis but a brown, gnarled bowl of briar-root,
Wedded to its mate stem with twisted string.

What time, of old, the satyr, rapt in song,
Charmed the young night with gently breathing notes,
Or swaying, ran his willowy hands along
The mutinous reed with its seven bird-like throats.

The poet, resting from day's ruder cares,
Puts fire and fragrance in this voiceless bowl,
And, leaning back with face against the stars,
Stains it with the concoction of his soul.

Look where the subtile essence out and in Impregns the winding fibre of the wood
With figures intricate and Damascene—
The very labyrinth of the poet's mood!

In this charred cavern, where the kindling wood
Throbs with the potent alchemy of fire
Think what celestial emanations wed,
What airy 'bodiments of soul's desire—

Divine creations, spun of flame and smoke,
And wreathing heavenward in the calm of night;
Finer than e'er were written in a book;—
Only the spirit can pursue their flight.

Farewell, thou antiquated pipe of Pan!
Fit symbol of the infancy of song,
Untutored as that wild and goat-like man,
Who fashioned thee with patience rude and long.

Henceforth the poet strills upon no reed,
When meditation's subtle mood is ripe;
But spiritual numbers sweetly lead
His fancies, as he breathes upon—his pipe.
—Overland Monthly.

A SMART YOUNG WOMAN.

Yes, sir, I've been in the show business, one way and another, nearly thirty years, and I've had my ups and downs.

Made any money?

Well, sir, it's a business, which either makes or loses big. I've made two or three fortunes, and lost about as much as I made. I've got a moderate provision for the time when I get too old to travel about in this way. I reckon that's as much as most of 'em come out with, and I ought to be pretty well satisfied.

But I tell you, time has been when I did not know where the next meal would come from, and half a dozen or a dozen players to be provided for as well as myself. I remember one of the bluest times I ever struck was at Albury—ha! ha! I can laugh now to think of that girl's sharpness, but it was no matter for laughing at that time.

I was starring it through the country with a specialty troupe—musical acts, "phunny phellows," ventriloquists, tricksters, and minstrels, with a small comedy thrown in.

Mam'selle Susine Allonette was with us (she was Sue Allen off the stage) as leading lady, and also in several daring tight-rope and trapeze acts.

Sue was a sharp little midget and used to give us some spice off her tongue when she got riled a bit.

But she helped me out of a bad fix grandly, the time I speak of, and I felt like giving her a little liberty.

We had been having a fortnight of bad weather before we struck the town I alluded to, and of course had played to very poor houses.

I hadn't been able to pay my company's salaries for three weeks, hadn't a shilling to send home to my wife, and things looked pretty bad, I tell you.

When we got to the town, I had hardly money enough to pay the boys who distributed my bills, and not a penny for the newspapers.

I had about made up my mind to sell my watch (the only thing of value I had left), pay off the men and girls as far as I could, and disband the company.

We came on at night from the last town, and I resolved to see what the weather was in the morning before I decided what to do.

When I got up I saw the streets covered with mud and a sharp, cold wind blowing.

It would be an awful night and we would get no house at all.

My heart sunk like lead, and I wished I hadn't sent the bills out.

We should have to play that night, but it would be the last time.

I thought I would speak to my leading lady, so I went to Sue Allen's room and rapped.

She opened the door, and I found her mending the suit she wore in her trapeze acts—we were too poor to have new costumes just then.

"Sue," said I, "I've come to bring bad news."

"Well, what is it?" said she.

"We've got to break up," I said, with a sigh.

"Now I don't see that!" returned Sue, fixing her sharp eyes on me. "What is the reason?"

"Why, we've made nothing for a month, Sue. I can't pay any of you, and I know you need your money."

"Well, this is a fair-sized town," says Sue, calmly.

"Yes, but look what wretched weather! We won't have half a house tonight, and I can't even put a puff into the papers to coax people out. It's no use, Sue, we'll have to give up!"

"Not if I know it!" says Sue, striking an attitude. "Can't you get up a sensation that will draw?"

"I've tried to think of something, and I can't," I answered. "There isn't a dodge that can be gone through with without money, and that I have not got."

"Well, I've been trying to think, too," says Miss Sue, coolly as before. "And I think we will have a crowded house to-night."

"Who's going to fill it?" I asked.

"I am," returned Miss Sue, demurely. I gave a low whistle of incredulity.

"O, I mean it," said Sue.

There was an air about the girl which struck me.

"Mr. Lane," said she, as I looked silently at her, "I want my salary, and I don't want this company to go down. If you'll let me do as I please, and ask no questions, I'll fill that hall full tonight and we'll all get our money."

"Then do as you please!" I groaned.

"Anything to help us, just now!"

"You give me full liberty, and no questions?" asked Sue.

"Yes! Go ahead!"

"All right. I'm going out for a walk in ten minutes. Make some of the men walk in the direction I do, but order them on no account to come near or interrupt me. Will you?"

"Yes, I will, Sue. Where are you going?"

"Never mind that. Isn't there a railway bridge near here?"

"Yes. We came past it."

"I thought so. What time does the next train from Melbourne arrive?"

I looked at my watch.

"In just half an hour," said I.

"Then I've no time to lose," cried Sue. "There, be off, so I can go."

"Look here, what are you going to do first?" I asked, anxiously.

"Nothing that will hurt me, I assure you," answered Sue, laughing. "And you promised to ask no questions. You stay here, and if you hear of anything extraordinary, why then come. Order the men to do as I told you, but they must not try to stop me. I can take care of myself, and they shall share the reward."

I began to catch a dim idea of what Sue intended. I said:

"Sue, you shall not run into danger."

"Be off, I tell you," commanded Sue. "I'll be in no danger. Do go or I'll miss that train."

Well, I submitted to go out, and told two of the men that when Sue walked out they must go, too, and keep her in sight, but on no account disturb her.

They promised, and I went out as quickly as I could. I knew that whatever Sue meant to do was connected with the railway, and I intended to see what she did without her knowledge.

I took a circuit round, and posted myself where I could see all that passed without being seen.

After a while I saw a little figure come tripping down the railway as if for a walk, and I knew it was our Sue, even before I could recognize her dress.

She came walking along and deliberately began to cross the railway bridge by stepping on the ties.

I glanced at my watch—it was just traintime—and even then I heard the rumble of the oncoming train.

I began to tremble and feel cold, but Sue walked calmly on.

If I had not known her skill on the trapeze bar I should have rushed out after her.

But if she could trust herself I could trust her, so I waited.

Presently the engine-driver saw her and whistled "down brakes."

But Sue walked on as though she heard nothing.

The engine-driver blew a fearful shriek and did his best to slacken speed, but he could not stop in time.

And when the train was close to her Sue seemed to discover her danger, threw up her arms with a wild cry—and disappeared from view.

By the time the train had passed over the bridge and stopped a crowd had collected.

I was there and my two men, and they were crying like babies, as they met me, saying, "O, Mr. Lane, Sue's killed! Poor Sue's killed!"

"Maybe not," I tried to answer, white as death myself.

"O, she is! The train went right over her as she fell!" sobbed one of them.

I feared it was indeed true.

But when we rushed down under the bridge, followed by the crowd, there was our pluckly little Sue, clinging to the trestlework under the bridge, a bit pale, but not even a shred of her dress torn.

We got her out quickly, and such a time as there was on that bank I never saw!

And as for our company—well, you never saw such antics anywhere!

I didn't know whether to cry over the darling little minx or to scold her roundly.

Of course the story flew like wildfire, and the streets were crowded with people trying to get a glimpse of the brave little actress before we got back to the hotel.

In the afternoon we put reserved seats on sale at two or three places where they had not been before, and by dark every seat was sold.

Sue's ruse was a success.

That hall was crowded half an hour before the curtain rose, and when Sue came on the stage the applause was deafening.

After the show was over we had enough to pay our bills, nearly all the back salaries, and make Sue a present of £10 for saving us.

Our company did not disband, but was in luck for the rest of the season.

SKIN & SCALP

Cleansed, Purified and Beautified by the Cuticura Remedies.

For cleansing the Skin and Scalp of Disfiguring Humors, for allaying Itching, Burning and Inflammation, for curing the first symptoms of Eczema, Psoriasis, Milk Crust, Scaly Head, Scrofula, and other inherited Skin and Blood Diseases, CUTICURA, the great Skin Cure, and CUTICURA SOAP, an exquisite Skin Beautifier, externally, and CUTICURA RESOLVENT, the new Blood Purifier, internally, are infallible.

A COMPLETE CURE.

I have suffered all my life with skin diseases of different kinds and have never found permanent relief, until, by the advice of a lady friend, I used your remedies, CUTICURA REMEDIES. I gave them a thorough trial, using six bottles of the CUTICURA RESOLVENT, two boxes of CUTICURA and seven cakes of CUTICURA SOAP, and the result was just what I had been told it would be—a complete cure. BELLE WADE, Richmond, Va. References, G. W. Latimer, Druggist, Richmond, Va.

SALT RHEUM CURED.

I was troubled with Salt Rheum for a number of years, so that the skin entirely came off one of my hands from the finger tips to the wrist. I tried remedies and doctors' prescriptions to no purpose until I commenced taking CUTICURA REMEDIES, and now I am entirely cured.

GRUBS, Pimples, Skin Blemishes, and Baby Humors, cured by CUTICURA SOAP.

Catarrh to Consumption.

Catarrh in its destructive force stands next to and undoubtedly leads on to consumption. It is therefore singular that those afflicted with this fearful disease should not make it the object of their lives to rid themselves of it. Deceptive remedies concocted by ignorant pretenders to medical knowledge have weakened the confidence of the great majority of sufferers in all advertised remedies. They become resigned to a life of misery rather than torture themselves with doubtful experiments.

But this will never do. Catarrh must be met at every stage and be combated with all our might. In many cases the disease has assumed dangerous symptoms. The bones and cartilage of the nose, the organs of hearing, of seeing and of tasting are affected so as to be useless, the uvula so elongated, the throat so inflamed and irritated as to produce a constant and distress-ing cough.

SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE meets every phase of Catarrh, from a simple head cold to the most loathsome and destructive stages. It is local and constitutional. Instant in relieving, permanent in curing, safe, economical and never-failing.

Each package contains one bottle of the RADICAL CURE, one box CATARRHAL SOLVENT, and an IMPROVED INHALER, with treatise; price, $1.

Who's Afraid?

Not Canada, nor her uncle John Bull. Not if neither one knows it. The fact is that the Canadians and the authorities at Ottawa know full well what the people of this country long since ascertained,—that the administration of the United States government is in the hands of the democrats; that the democrats are in the hands of Randall; that the tariff interests of the men who permit Randall to remain in Congress, prevent appropriations for means of defence of our coast cities and of offence by our navy. In fine, the legislative department may enact laws, but the executive department will be very civil to Canada and her offending people. While the administration is planning to have all work on naval vessels hereafter done at the New York station, and to abandon the two New England navy yards in order that the patronage may be worked to save New York for the next democratic candidate for the presidency, there is little prospect, with Randall running the party just as his interests dictate, in the matter of appropriations, that even if we threatened to whip our frontier friends for their treatment of our fishermen, the party would allow us the money, men or munitions of war for the purpose. It would go on the record as "opposed to the war," a position it occupied just a quarter of a century ago.

The Biggest Strike Yet.

New York is an afflicted city. In addition to the McGlynn controversy and the alarming spread of smallpox, the Knights of Labor on Jan. 26th prohibited the handling of coal anywhere within the city limits, thus stopping almost wholly the coaling of steamships, the supplying of private customers, and the landing of coal for industrial establishments.

The longshoremen and coal handlers in Brooklyn knocked off work on Thursday morning, the 27th, and it is estimated that 40,000 to 50,000 persons were idle Thursday afternoon in consequence of the great strike.

The Fishery Dispute.

The senate resolution empowering the president to give the Canadians "reciprocity" in restrictions on fishing vessels, excites astonishment, wrath and renewed attention to the question, in England and the Dominion. Some of the Canadian papers say the retaliatory measures authorized would be more injurious to the United States than to Canada. The great London papers insist that neither England nor Canada shall be "coerced" by the United States—which is all right; the United States only seek to prevent being "coerced" by Canada.

A London despatch of Jan. 26th says: "Mr. Gourley, M. P. for Sunderland, will at the coming session move in the house of commons to appoint a select committee to inquire into the fisheries conventions between Great Britain and the United States, to ascertain how far they may be amended or abolished."

Hon. M. H. Phelan, United States consul-general at Halifax, N. S., does not believe the Canadian authorities will act so harshly again as they did last season, and is of the opinion that orders will be issued to commanders of cruisers to give more freedom to American fishermen. He is partly led to this belief in view of the decided front presented by Congress, which he considers will have the effect of showing Canada that the United States do not intend to be further trifled with. While nobody expects a warlike conflict, the public generally are now giving more serious attention to the attitude of the United States Congress on the fisheries question.

Do You Have Dreams?

Boston, Jan. 28th.—People who have dreams will all be interested in an illustrated glimpse into dreamland, which will be given in the next Boston Sunday Globe.

The Sunday Globe, like the Daily Globe, is still steadily gaining in circulation in every direction.

Next Sunday, Charles Howard Montague, journalist, author, and mind reader, will have a story in the Sunday Globe entitled "The Point of a Needle." It is a remarkable and thrilling story.

Mr. James W. Clarke will have an amusing illustrated sketch entitled "Some Humors of Hypnotics" in the next Sunday Globe. It will be a rich number.

President Cleveland to Arbitrate.

Secretary Bayard has transmitted to the senate correspondence between our government and the governments of Costa Rica and Nicaragua, showing that the claims of Costa Rica to certain territory claimed by Nicaragua, and to share in the responsibilities and benefits of the proposed Nicaraguan canal, are to be submitted to the president of the United States for arbitration, by agreement of the parties.

Assistant Engineer F. C. Bieg has been detached from the Fish Hawk, and placed on waiting orders.

Cadet Engineer Robert B. Higgins has been detached from the Atlanta and ordered to the Fish Hawk.

Some time ago Mrs. Braham, otherwise known as Lillian Russell, the actress, ran away with Edward Solomon, the composer, the fugitives eloping from Boston and going to England, where they were married. Mr. Braham sued for a divorce and of course got it, and then Solomon and the divorced woman were married. No sooner was the marriage made public than Solomon was arrested for bigamy, at the instance of Lily Gray, his first wife, but this suit was abandoned after a time, and Mrs. Solomon—the real Mrs. Solomon, nee Gray—sued for a divorce on the ground of her husband's immoral relations with Lillian Russell, and the London court on Jan. 26th granted her a decree, awarding her the custody of her minor child. Solomon and Miss Russell will have to get married once more before their reputations will be fully repaired.

A SWINDLER does not refer possible purchasers to his victims. The Athlophoros Co. gladly refers sufferers from rheumatism, neuralgia, sciatica, nervous or sick headache, kidney and liver complaints to those who have been cured of these diseases by Athlophoros, and will furnish names and addresses of many such persons to those desiring them. Athlophoros is the only remedy for these diseases that can stand such a test.

Hinsdale, N. H., May 18, 1886.

Of all medicines that claim to cure rheumatism there is only one that will or can do it and that one is Athlophoros. I have for years been troubled with muscular rheumatism, at times so severe as to keep me in bed for 14 or 15 weeks at a time, taking all kinds of medicine, none of which would give me more than temporary relief. The last time I was down I commenced to use Athlophoros; the first bottle got me out of bed in quick order. I was then able to get around on crutches, a second bottle I am happy to say laid away the crutches, and I shall never need them again, for in case I should ever be troubled again with rheumatism I can get a cure in Athlophoros. NORMAN HOWE.

Amesbury, Mass., March 3, 1886.

After suffering with inflammatory rheumatism for six years, and having tried everything with no result, I was one day induced to try Athlophoros; it was a last resort; in three hours after the first dose there was such a change for the better, that my friends were surprised; in all I took two bottles, and to-day I am hale and hearty, no sign of rheumatism about me. With such a simple and effective cure, the day must soon come when that dread disease will be a thing of the past.

MUNICIPAL AFFAIRS.

In Common Council, Thursday evening, Jan. 27th, President Crowley in the chair. Three members absent.

Records of the last meeting were read and approved.

The committee appointed to visit the city farm, etc., reported progress, and were granted further time.

Adjourned for one week.

G. A. R.

At a special meeting of Storer Post, G. A. R., on Thursday evening, Jan. 27th, an invitation was received and accepted from Perkins Woman's Relief Corps of Seabrook, to be present at the second anniversary of their corps, Wednesday evening, Feb. 9th. A committee consisting of the officers of the post was appointed to canvass the post and see how many members will go, and to make all suitable arrangements.

A communication was received from Frank E. Rollins, commander of Moses N. Collins Post, Exeter, accepting an invitation for that post to visit Storer Post on the evening of their regular meeting, Feb. 16th.

ACCIDENTS.

Edw. Richardson of Kittery, engineer at the Portsmouth machine shop, met with a mishap which it was feared might prove serious, on Thursday forenoon, Jan. 27th. He was lifting heavily in the machine shop on a crowbar, when the bar suddenly lost its hold, and in the quick wrench which resulted Mr. Richardson felt something give way internally, not far from the pit of the stomach, causing him intense pain. Dr. Potter was called, and after rendering what temporary assistance was possible, advised his being taken home, which was done, two of the workmen accompanying him in a hack. Mr. Richardson is about sixty years of age, and has a family.

Mr. Roswell W. Staples of this city, switchman for the Boston & Maine railroad, fell in the hatchway of the schooner Annie F. Conlon, last Thursday afternoon about five o'clock, and broke one of his ribs.

As Capt. John G. Moses was coming down Vaughan street, Thursday evening, when near Hanover street he was struck by the mail-carrier's team, which was moving in the same direction, and knocked down; and as might be expected, he fell very heavily. It is said the driver of the mail carriage was endeavoring to avoid striking another man when the accident happened.

NOT DROWNED.

There arrived in this city on Wednesday evening, Jan. 26th, by the train over the Concord & Portsmouth railroad, Mr. Romeo Doucette of Lewiston, Me., and his wife, Mrs. Etta Doucette, a quite handsome young woman of about twenty-one years, and dressed in excellent taste. The woman left Lewiston on the previous Saturday unknown to her husband, and a large number of people were cutting ice and dragging the river all day Sunday to find her body, supposing her to have been drowned. Her husband found her at Young's hotel, New Boston, to which place she went from Manchester; she was alone, and said she had been alone from the time she started out, which is believed by her husband. She refused to give any reason for her strange conduct, and laughed heartily when told about the people working all day Sunday to find her in the river. The reunited pair took the nine o'clock Pullman train for the eastward, the husband seeming delighted at having found his wife, and the latter seeming quite contented to accompany him home.

THE MASONIC BALL.

The tickets for the grand Masonic ball are now out, and may be had of members of the committee. The supper will be served in the banquet hall in Congress block. The arrangements by the committee are well nigh completed, and the indications are that this event will be the ball of the seasou.

DOVER NAVIGATION CO.

The annual meeting of the Dover Navigation company was held in Dover on Tuesday evening, Jan. 25th, the president, Thos. B. Garland, in the chair. The treasurer, B. Frank Nealley, read his report of the vessels for the past year, which was accepted and placed on file. The following officers were elected for the ensuing year:

President—Thomas B. Garland;

Secretary and Treasury—B. Frank Neally;

Directors—Charles H. Trickey, B. Frank Neally, John J. Hanson, J. Frank Seavey, Thomas B. Garland, John Holland;

Auditors—John T. W. Ham, George H. Clapp.

The thermometer indicated from two to ten degrees below zero in different parts of the city, at sunrise Thursday morning last.

At the annual meeting of the. Avery Lactate Co., held in this city on Wednesday, Jan. 26th, Messrs. Charles Van Brunt, Thomas S. Nowell, John A. Brown and Frederic A. Claflin were chosen directors.

Do not forget that Prof. Boyd's singing school in the vestry of the Methodist church commences this (Friday) evening at 7:30 o'clock. For terms, etc., see advertisement.

The case Newmarket National bank vs. Lafayette Hall, involving some $10,000, was decided by the court at Exeter on the 25th inst. in favor of the bank. It has been before the court for eight or ten years.

In the supreme court on Thursday, equity case Towle vs. Perry was heard. Case Pickering vs. Denchrist was tried before E. C. Eastman as referee.

Foster's Daily Democrat can in future be found at George W. Ham's periodical store, on Daniel street.

Captain Russell of the lost schooner Freddie L. Porter, before reported, writes to the owners as follows from Tampa, Fla., Jan. 23d: "When about 150 miles from Tortugas a strong north-northwest gale was encountered, causing the vessel to strain very badly, and also to leak. The pumps sucked with three feet of water in the hold, owing probably to cargo of guano becoming soaked and clogging them. Abandoned the vessel at 4:15 o'clock P. M., Jan. 20th. At that time the vessel had six feet of water in her hold, and was fast settling. The crew took to the boat, saving nothing but their personal effects, and landed on the beach at nine o'clock the same night, arriving at Tampa Jan. 22d."

The schooner Lettie Wells, Bunker master, from New York for Calais, Me., with 9000 bushels of corn, went ashore on Monday, Jan. 24th, at noon, on Mosquito island, about fifteen miles from Rockland, and with her cargo became a total loss. The crew escaped with their lives, but saved none of their effects. The Lettie Wells registered about 182 tons, and was owned in Calais, where she was built in 1868; she has been a frequent visitant to this port for many years past.

In the supreme judicial court of Maine for York county, at Saco this week, on Monday was commenced the trial of the case State vs. Stillman G. Thompson, in which the defendant, a farmer who belongs in Kennebunk, was charged with writing to Miss Etta Waterhouse, a school teacher of the same town, abscene and insulting letters, and with writing on the blackboard and other places in the schoolroom, and on the outside of the schoolhouse and on fences in the vicinity, similar vile stuff coupled with the young lady's name. This trial aroused great interest, and the evidence and proceedings of the court were reported as fully as was consistent with decency by the papers, the Biddeford Journal having an especially full account; and Tuesday morning, at the coming in of the court, one of the counsel for the prisoner, B. F. Hamilton, Esq., moved that the paper named be convicted of contempt of court for publishing the report. It took the court but a moment to deny this request, and the paper that evening made merry at the lawyer's expense as follows: "Lawyer Ben. Hamilton undertook a bigger job than he was aware of this morning when he tried to have the Journal convicted of contempt of court. The freedom of the press is a great thing, Brother Hamilton, and the Journal will continue to publish all the news—court news included—for only fifty cents per month delivered by carrier. Now is the time to subscribe."

PERSONAL.

We received a call on Thursday from Mr. Charles A. Richmond, travelling correspondent of Foster's Democrat of Dover, who was in the city on business connected with the paper.

Charles Van Brunt, Esq., of Boston, president of the Avery Lactate Co., is the son of Commodore G. J. Van Brunt, who was stationed at the Portsmouth navy yard as commander in 1853.

Many of the young people of Portsmouth will be interested in the announcement made in another place in this paper, that Mr. William H. Bryant of Biddeford, Me., formerly of this city, and son of Mr. Orville D. Bryant, for many years overseer in the Kearsarge mills, has become the proud father of a boy.

Mrs. Daniel Collins of New Haven, Conn., arrived in this city this week on a somewhat extended visit to her parents, B. Whitcomb, Esq., and wife.

Miss Lizzie Littlefield, for a long time assistant forewoman at the Portsmouth shoe factory, has resigned that position, and returns to the home of her parents in Kennebunk, Me.

Two Dover business men go to Eliot twice a week to see their best girls. As they come home at the wee small hours of the morn they don't have to pay any return fare at Eliot bridge.—Democrat.

Rheumatism

It is an established fact that Hood's Sarsaparilla has proven an invaluable remedy in many severe cases of rheumatism, effecting remarkable cures by its powerful action in correcting the acidity of the blood, which is the cause of the disease, and purifying and enriching the vital fluid.

It is certainly fair to assume that what Hood's Sarsaparilla has done for others it will do for you. Therefore, if you suffer the pains and aches of rheumatism, give this potent remedy a fair trial.

A Positive Cure.

"I was troubled very much with rheumatism in my hips, ankles, and wrists. I could hardly walk, and was confined to my bed a good deal of the time. Being recommended to try Hood's Sarsaparilla, I took four bottles and am perfectly well. I cheerfully recommend Hood's Sarsaparilla as one of the best blood purifiers in the world." W. F. WOOD, Bloomington, Ill.

For Twenty Years

I have been afflicted with rheumatism. Before 1883 I found no relief, but grew worse. I then began taking Hood's Sarsaparilla, and it did me more good than all the other medicine I ever had." H. T. BALCOM, Shirley, Mass.

"I suffered from what the doctors called muscular rheumatism. I took Hood's Sarsaparilla and am entirely cured." J. Y. A. PROUDFOOT, letter carrier, Chicago, Ill.

We shall be glad to send, free of charge, to all who may desire, a book containing many additional statements of cures by

Insurance Notice.

THE OLD INSURANCE AGENCY,

AT THE OLD STAND,

No. 13 Pleasant Street,

PORTSMOUTH, N. H.

To my Old Customers and Friends. Are you insured? When your home or other property is being consumed by a raging fire, a good insurance policy is a great comfort. The subscriber, with his experience of fifteen years, is now prepared to place your Insurance in the Insurance Companies of New Hampshire, and in Companies organized in other States. No one can place your Insurance better or safer!

NOTE.—Mr. Ilsley, my late copartner, still states in his published card, that he purchased of me all my right to the "Fire Insurance Business of our late firm." I have heretofore denied this statement. He never offered to buy of me the business or goodwill of the firm, and I never offered or even thought of selling out my business. I hired our old office, and advertised to carry on the business in all its branches, weeks before a final settlement. Now, if he has a bill of sale, bond or any agreement whereby I conveyed to him any rights to the goodwill of the old firm or any rights to do a Fire Insurance Business in New Hampshire with old or new customers, let him prosecute me for a breach of contract, or cease publishing or repeating his false statement. I am ready to meet this issue in any court of justice. I make this statement in justice to my customers and friends and to vindicate my own integrity.

LOVE AND PHILOSOPHY.

I.

'Twas at the Concord sages' school,
We met one summer's day;
I guessed—and used no logic rule—
I guessed what she would say.
"'Tis very warm"—this with a sigh—
"The sun thus shines from Thence,"
She said, and pointed to the sky,
"Is rolling toward the Whence."

II.

I told her that it must be so,
At least it seemed so there;
For there was much I did not know
Of the Whatness of the Where.
About the only thing I knew,
When she was standing near,
Was that the sky was much more blue
In the Nowness of the Here.

III.

She smiled, and said perhaps 'twas well,
Those pretty themes to touch;
And then the whole earth turned around,
For my heart was full of woe.
"Unto the Cessedness of my End,"
I said, "I now shall go,"
She murmured, "Don't you comprehend
The Yeaness of my No?"

The Rapidity of Progress Toward Health,

Even when a good remedy for disease is selected, depends in some measure upon the manner in which it is taken. Irregular, interrupted doses can afford no fair test of the efficacy of any medicine, however salutary. Taken in proper doses at prescribed intervals, a reliable curative will effect the object of its use. Among remedies which, systematically and persistently used, accomplish thorough and lasting cures, and prevents the recurrence of periodical disease, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters ranks specially high. In cases of dyspepsia, debility, rheumatism, fever and ague, liver complaint, inactivity of the kidneys and bladder, constipation, and other organic maladies, it is a tried remedy, to which the medical brotherhood have lent their professional sanction, and which, as a tonic, alterative and household specific for disorders of the stomach, liver and bowels, has an unbounded popularity.

NOTHING ON EARTH WILL MAKE HENS LAY LIKE SHERIDAN'S CONDITION POWDER

THE FARMER'S POULTRY RAISING GUIDE

The above is the title of a new and valuable book on poultry raising for profit. This book answers in advance every possible question in respect to keeping and caring for poultry, and gives in the plainest possible manner all needed instructions to enable beginners or old hands to carry on the business successfully, and make money. If you desire to know how to make hens lay the year round; how to fatten market poultry quickly; how to dress and ship poultry and sell eggs to obtain the highest prices; how to build inexpensive hen houses and yards; how to discover, prevent and cure all diseases of poultry; how to select and obtain choice breeds, and how men and women of long experience in the business make money, then send at once for a copy of THE FARMERS' POULTRY RAISING GUIDE, published by I. S. Johnson & Co., 22 Custom House St., Boston, Mass. Price 25 cents. This book is profusely illustrated with engravings of model poultry houses and runs, also many of the best breeds of hens, ducks, turkeys and geese. This work presents a matter of supreme importance to everybody, but especially to women, children and invalids, for there is probably no way by which a small but constant cash income can be secured with so little effort as by keeping and caring for hens. From now until next March the price of eggs will advance higher and higher each month. Do not, therefore, delay, but send at once and get a copy of this valuable book. During the season of high prices the hens should be kept busy. For 60 cents in stamps Johnson & Co. will send postpaid a copy of THE FARMERS' POULTRY RAISING GUIDE and two 25-ct. packs of Sheridan's Powder to make hens lay, or they will send a 2 1-4 pound tin can of Powder at regular rate ($1.20) and a copy of the GUIDE free.

"Onion Bill."

There is something decidedly unique in the civilization of Idaho. In the classic town known as Beef Gap a gentleman commonly called "Onion Bill" was recently elected marshal. On assuming the responsibilities of his position he issued a circular from which we cull a few choice items:

"On and after this date there will be in this town—

No more compelling people to drink when they don't feel like it.

No more shooting of plug hats.

No more drinking of whiskey out of bottles when the bars are open.

No more noisy devilitry.

Any man riding or driving a horse into a public bar will be shot.

Any man raking down the pot at poker without the cards to back it up will be shot dead.

It is the determination of the new administration to usher in an era of reform, and all good citizens will array themselves on the side of the law. All others will be turned over to the coroner."

The comparative ethics which the chief insists upon are striking. The man who drives a horse into a barroom will simply be shot; but the wretch who rakes down the pot under unfair circumstances will not only be shot, but shot dead. Beef Gap has found a master at last.

Mrs. Joseph Heap, the wife of Constable Heap of this city, was troubled with rheumatism for five years and could not use her arms. Four doses of the Athlophoros cured her. D. R. Smith, druggist, 135 South Main street, Fall River, Mass.

Ex-Treasurer Hollingsworth, of Knox county, Ind., who last May ran away after stealing $80,000 of the county funds, walked into court at Vincennes, Ind., Jan. 26th, and gave himself up. He said he wanted to see his little children, was tired of being a fugitive, and would rather be in shed than again go through what he had endured since decamping.

Good and Reliable.

A good and reliable family medicine is Sulphur Bitters. Every spring for six years I have been troubled with boils. Since I began using Sulphur Bitters, I have not had a single one. You can rely on Sulphur Bitters every time.—Editor Weekly Times.

Murdered.

The body of Julius Baer was found by freighters five miles west of here Tuesday morning, in a terribly mangled condition. His head and face were smashed, so as to be hardly recognized, and numerous wounds were found on his body. Mr. Baer was agent for the great blood medicine, Sulphur Bitters. Robbery was undoubtedly the motive, as he was well known to have a large sum of money on his person. As we go to press there is no clew to the perpetrators.—Colorado Press.

March 2, 1885.

Dear Sir;—I feel it a pleasurable duty to extol your medicine to the very highest. I have been a sufferer from the dreadful disease dyspepsia from childhood, and very often after eating have vomited up the greater part of my victuals. About 3 months ago I was induced to try a bottle of your invigorator, which at once gave me relief, and I have not had a vomiting spell since. I feel like a new man, and am perfectly well. I have tried many medicines, but none had the least effect until I took your Invigorator. Hoping you may go on in your great work for suffering humanity, I am Truly yours,

A WOMAN'S CHOICE.

"Lady Clare Vere de Vere,
Of me you shall not win renown;
You thought to break a country heart
For pastime, ere you went to town."

Quoted Stephen Bellair, slowly and meaningly, lying full length on the grass and gazing up into Elinor Thrales' lovely, beguiling eyes, blue as violets, and set in as fair a face as one could wish to see.

A little haughty flush warmed her smooth cheeks. Why was it this man defied her power—held his heart so safely within his own possession when others were ready to fling themselves down at her feet?

He belonged only to the wealthy class of farmers, proudly owned he would not be anything else but a farmer, and spent at least nine months out of every twelve on his farm. But he was a superb-looking fellow, long limbed and broad shouldered, with dark brown eyes, and hair and mustache of that warm color neither red, gold, nor brown, but an odd mixture of all three.

He was bronzed, too, and his well-shaped, muscular hands bore evidence of outdoor life, of farm life.

They had met at this lakeside resort, and Miss Thrale had thought to add him to her list of victims before she returned to town to give her youth and beauty for old Velasco's diamonds and brown-stone palace.

But in the countryman she met her match. Neither her beauty, grace, nor the art of a finished coquette could subjugate him. He vexed and thwarted her, and every day his independence, his proud manliness, took fresh hold on her.

Old Valasco held aloof, waiting patiently, serenely confident of his ultimate success. Love in a farm-house, he it ever so handsome and well appointed, would not suit a woman of the world and one who loved the gay ways of the world like Elinor Thrale.

She was destined to be a leader in society, to set the fashions, and, in short, to be his wife, wear his jewels, ride in his carriage, and rule his house.

And so, not having the fire and passion of youth, he droned along through the days and weeks of the glorious summer, while Stephen Bellair walked and talked with Miss Thrale, varied by moonlight sails on the lake, or long drives along the beach road.

To-day she sat on a rustic bench clad in some soft, light stuff, a cool, lovely picture under the old trees, and he lay on the grass at her feet, looking up into her violet eyes, and the color in her face came and went strangely.

Velasco came out on the hotel veranda, saw them out there, and strolled across the grass toward them—a little, withered, insignificant-looking old man, with yellow skin and shifty black eyes set rather close together.

"I'll offer them my new team to take a drive. Hang the fellow! He might break his neck for aught I would care, so she returned unharmed."

"Excuse me for breaking in upon your little tete-a-tete, but I have a favor to ask of you this afternoon," he said, rubbing his hands together and smiling quite genially.

"A favor, Mr. Velasco?" said Elinor in her softest, sweetest tones.

And Stephen set his teeth sharply together, and from his brown eyes leaped a strange, lightning flash of jealous rage. No, he could not stoop to be jealous of that old man; then what emotion caused it?

"Yes, a favor, Miss Thrale. I have ordered a new team from the city. Will you and Mr.—ah—Bellair do me the honor to take the first drive?"

"With pleasure; that is, if Mr. Bellair is willing to forego the comfort of lying any longer on the grass," looking laughingly down at him."

And he met her glance straightly, unflinchingly.

"It is my pleasure to serve you, Miss Thrale. I had thought to ask you to drive with me this evening, and if you wish to test this untried team, I am at your service."

"Thank you!"

"And I thank you," said Velasco, softly. "I particularly desire your opinion."

And Elinor had the grace to blush.

Half an hour later they were rolling swiftly down the beach road, behind two showy, fiery-tempered bays, in a new and costly carriage. Elinor leaned indolently back on the silken cushions, with a white parasol interposed between her fairness and the light of the shining sun.

Stephen kept a firm hand on the lines until a sudden whim to drive took possession of Miss Thrale.

"Give me the ribbons, Mr. Bellair."

"I am afraid you cannot manage them, Miss Thrale."

She laughed in soft scorn.

"You do not know me. Driving is one of my many accomplishments."

He gave the lines reluctantly to her.

"Be careful; they are not trustworthy. Let them get the bit between their teeth and we may be found lying in some roadside ditch with——"

"Broken necks? How can you think of such unpleasant things?" with a half shudder.

But for the second time in her life she discovered that if she could not be conquered neither could she conquer.

Half a dozen sheep stood huddled by the roadside, a harmless sight enough, but one at which Mr. Velasco's horses chose to take fright. A fierce plunge, a snort from dilating nostrils, and they were off like the wind.

A faint cry broke from Elinor's lips, and the fast-flying trees swam dizzily before her eyes; but she felt a strong hand take the lines from her limp grasp; she heard a firm, quiet voice say:

"Hush! be quiet; sit still, and you shall be saved!"

"Do not think of me, but save yourself. It was my fault. I deserve it!"

she cried, with blanched face and quivering lips.

And he turned, and brown eyes and violet eyes met in a long look, and into his came such passion, such tenderness, such love! Then, even in the face of death, she felt a thrill of triumph quiver through her. She had conquered.

"And what would life be worth to me without you?" in deep tones shaken with fierce emotion.

Not two hours ago he had quoted Tennyson's lines to her, calmly, coolly; now he was ready to pour out his soul to her; but now he faced death, and death must wring the truth from every heart. He leaned toward her, with eloquently entreating eyes.

"May I, just once for my love's sake? It may be death before us."

And over her face spread a crimson glow, but her proud lips were raised to meet his, and then she burst into tears.

"O, Stephen, forgive me."

It was not death, though it came near to it, and Mr. Velasco's bays were reeking with sweat and trembling in every limb when they were at last stopped by a party of farm hands who were returning from work. If you think those two young people returned engaged, and with the day set, you are mistaken. They were going back to the world again, and, though conscious they could not go back just the same, Elinor at least strove to remember the claims society had upon her. She dried her eyes, she leaned back cold and silent, dreading a proposal now as much as she had once desired it. Then vanity prompted her; now she could not understand the tumult of her heart.

But she need not have dreaded further words from Stephen then. His face wore a more pre-occupied look, and when they arrived at the hotel he allowed her to go, only asking the favor of a brief interview some time during the evening.

She knew full well what that meant, and went up to her room and locked the door against all intruders, but whatever battles she fought, never had she looked lovelier than she did that evening, when she came down, dressed in delicate creamy lace, a bunch of cream-white roses at her breast. Not a touch of color about her, if we except her sunny golden hair, her violet eyes, and the warm hue of her velvet-soft lips.

Stephen Bellair saw her as she came across the hall, saw the ugly little millionaire meet her at the parlor door, and turned on his heel. Why need he go through the form of a proposal? Could there be any doubt about her answer?

Nevertheless, later on he presented himself before her. It was a lovely night; there were idlers on the promenade. Would she——

She rose and went with him. Velasco followed, not too closely, but with dogged determination, a dull fire gathering in his eyes. What did she mean slighting him for that fellow?

"I will not be trifled with. I will make her decide between us to-night. I'll have my triumph over him to pay him back for his presumption," and they had just turned into a deserted walk when they came face to face with him.

"Excuse me, Miss Thrale, but did you not promise me an answer to a very important question this evening?"

She regarded him haughtily.

"I do not remember such a promise."

"Still I must ask you to decide now, at once. I have been patient; I have not interfered with your pleasures this summer; but now you must decide between me and this young man."

She dropped Stephen's arm, and retired a pace or two from them.

"Yes," said Stephen, gravely, "choose between us. I love you. I will not offer you anything else, for that alone must influence you. Come to me and I will be the happiest man on earth," his eyes afire.

"And I not only offer you love, but wealth, power, position—everything to make life desirable. No wish shall be left ungratified; the world will be at your feet. Think of it," said old Velasco.

She did think of it, and a few weeks before she would hardly have hesitated over her acceptance, but now she looked on life differently.

The crust of worldly selfishness had melted from around her heart.

She looked at the two men in the silvery moonlight—one past his youth, with the marks of a reckless life on his withered face; the other, young and noble, a prince among the people—her prince, her lover.

Her bosom heaved; she stretched out her arms to him; the world and its tempting glories forgotten.

"O, Stephen, you are my choice!"

And the next moment she was on Stephen's heart, and Stephen's kisses were falling on her brow, eyes, and lips.

And Velasco stumbled away, upset, bewildered. He had been so confident of her, so sure he had read her aright. It was enough to daze him to find his judgment so utterly at fault.

"But why do you choose me, Elinor, my queen?" said Stephen at length.

And she looked at him with tender, violet eyes—with soft, burning blushes and trembling lips.

"Because I love you!"

It was a marriage that caused a nine-days' wonder among Miss Thrale's friends; but, as some one remarked:

"When it comes to love you cannot safely decide who will be a woman's choice."

The Prussian State railways have for some time past employed women as guards at crossings. The work consists chiefly of the closing and opening of the bars and the lighting and sweeping of crossings, and the women in most cases are either the wives or widows of guards. Their pay is from 12 to 20 cents per day.

SKIN & SCALP

Cleansed, Purified and Beautified by the Cuticura Remedies.

For cleansing the Skin and Scalp of Disfiguring Humors, for allaying Itching, Burning and Inflammation, for curing the first symptoms of Eczema, Psoriasis, Milk Crust, Scaly Head, Scrofula, and other inherited Skin and Blood Diseases, CUTICURA, the great Skin Cure, and CUTICURA SOAP, the Exquisite Skin Beautifier, externally, and CUTICURA RESOLVENT, the new Blood Purifier, internally, are infallible.

A COMPLETE CURE.

I have suffered all my life with skin diseases of different kinds and have never found permanent relief, until, by the advice of a lady friend, I used your valuable CUTICURA REMEDIES. I gave them a thorough trial, using six bottles of the CUTICURA RESOLVENT, two boxes of CUTICURA and seven cakes of CUTICURA SOAP, and the result was just what I had been told it would be—a complete cure. BELLE WADE, Richmond, Va. Reference, G. W. Latimer, Druggist, Richmond, Va.

SALT RHEUM CURED.

I was troubled with Salt Rheum for a number of years, so that the skin entirely came off one of my hands from the finger tips to the wrist. I tried remedies and doctors' prescriptions to no purpose until I commenced taking CUTICURA REMEDIES, and now I am entirely cured.

E. T. PARKER, 379 Northampton St., Boston.

DRUGGISTS ENDORSE THEM.

Have sold a quantity of your Cuticura Remedies. One of my customers, Mrs. Henry Klotz, who had better on her hands to such an extent as to cause the skin to peel off, and for eight years suffered greatly, was completely cured by the use of your medicines. C. N. NYE, Druggist, Canton, Ohio.

ITCHING, SCALY, PIMPLY.

For the last year I have had a species of itching, scaly and pimply humors on my face to which I have applied a great many methods of treatment without success, and which was speedily and entirely cured by CUTICURA.

MRS. ISAAC PHELPS, Ravenna, O.

NO MEDICINE LIKE THEM.

We have sold your CUTICURA REMEDIES for the last six years, and do not hesitate to say ourselves give better satisfaction. C. F. ATHERTON, Druggist, Albany, N. Y.

CUTICURA REMEDIES are sold everywhere. Price: CUTICURA, 50 cents; RESOLVENT, $1.00; SOAP, 25 cents. Prepared by the POTTER DRUG AND CHEMICAL CO., Boston, Mass. Send for "How to Cure Skin Diseases."

GRUBS, Pimples, Skin Blemishes, and Baby Humors, cured by CUTICURA SOAP.

Catarrh to Consumption.

Catarrh in its destructive force stands next to and undoubtedly leads on to consumption. It is therefore regrettable that those afflicted with this fearful disease should not make it the object of their lives to rid themselves of it. Deceptive remedies succeeded by ignorant pretenders to medical knowledge have weakened the confidence of the great majority of sufferers in all advertised remedies. They become resigned to a life of misery rather than torture themselves with doubtful experiments.

But this will never do. Catarrh must be met at every stage and be combated with all our might. In many cases the disease has assumed dangerous symptoms. The bones and cartilage of the nose, the organs of hearing, of seeling and of tasting are affected; to be deafness, the uvula so elongated, the throat so inflamed and irritated as to produce a constant and distressing cough.

SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE meets every phase of Catarrh, from a simple head cold to the most loathsome and destructive stages. It is local and constitutional. Instant in relieving, permanent in curing, safe, economical and never-failing.

Each package contains one bottle of the RADICAL CURE, one Box CATARRHAL SOLVENT, and an IMPROVED INHALER, with treatise; price, $1.

POTTER DRUG & CHEMICAL CO., BOSTON.

KIDNEY PAINS

And that weary, lifeless, all-gone sensation ever present with those of inflamed Kidneys, Weak Back and Loins, Aching Hips and Sides, overworked or worn out by disease, debility or dissipation, are relieved in one minute and are speedily cured by the Cuticura Anti-Pain Plaster, a new, original, elegant and infallible antidote to pain and inflammation. SULPHUR BITTERS

The Best and Purest Medicine EVER MADE.

It will drive the Humor from your system, and make your skin clear and smooth. Those Pimples and Blotches which mar your beauty are caused by impure blood, and can be removed in a short time, if you are wise and use the great bloodpurifier, SULPHUR BITTERS. Why suffer with Boils? Why care with Salt Rheum? Why groan with Rheumatism? Why let your blood become foul, and your nerves are all shaking? Why let Dyspepsia make life a burden? Why let Kidney Disease, which comes from a disordered liver, fasten its fangs upon you? Worth, of Paris, has decided in favor of hoops, but they come in use slowly. In this country everybody has decided that Dr Bull's Cough Syrup is the best remedy for coughs and colds, and it's coming fast into general use.

The committee investigating the case against Michael Cregan, who is charged by Allen Thorndike Rice, the republican nominee for Congress, with having sold him out in the interest of Gen. Spinola, the democratic nominee, during the last congressional contest in New York, by a vote of three to two adjudged Cregan guilty of the charge.

Captain Mitchell, of the bark Antoine Sala, New York and Havana trade, came home in May, entirely helpless with rheumatism. He went to the mountains, but receiving no benefit, at his wife's request began to take Hood's Sarsaparilla. He immediately began to improve; in two months his rheumatism was all gone, and he sailed in command of his vessel a well man. Hood's Sarsaparilla will help you. Sold by all druggists.

The boot manufacturers of Worcester, Spencer and North Brookfield, Mass., have posted the following notice in their factories: "Notice — Recognizing the fact that justice can only be obtained by according to both employer and employe the right of individual contract for his or her labor, this factory will hereafter be open only to such operatives as will agree to deal individually with the firm or its accredited representative."

Skyrockets exploded at one time as a finale to the fireworks display in Washington, March 4th. This is on par with the methods of some advertisers; one rocket a day in each paper, fired at the public in the right position, gives them to understand that G. O. Taylor Pure Rye or Old Bourbon can be relied upon for purity and be obtained from leading druggists or grocers. See that Chester H. Graves & Sons' firm name is over each cork and on each label.

An Excellent Appointment.

The selection of Hon. Daniel Barnard for the office of attorney general, by the governor and council, is one which commends itself to everyone in the state.

Mr. Barnard is widely known as a lawyer of ability and experience in his profession, and abundantly able to properly discharge the duties of the office of attorney general.

He is a member-elect of the legislature. The acceptance of the office to which he has been appointed will deprive the state of the services of a valuable man in the house of representatives. His inherent good sense, his practical knowledge and his readiness to ascertain the needs of those who seek to have legislative enactments, public or private, have in times past been of great service to him in the general court, and on this account it is unfortunate that he should not be able under the constitution to hold the office to which he has been appointed, and fill at the same time the position to which he has been elected.

He has been frequently mentioned as the probable speaker of the house at the approaching session. He was president of the senate in 1866.

A Dangling Murderer.

At Baltimore, Md., Jan. 26th, a trunk in the office of the Adams Express Co. was broken open in consequence of its emitting an offensive odor, and the mutilated remains of an apparently young man found therein, the head, one arm and both legs being missing. The trunk was sent from New York.

On the 27th, in New York, Edward Younger of No. 22 Ridge street was arrested for murder, the body in the trunk having been identified as that of August Baltz, who lived with Younger, and mysteriously disappeared Jan. 21st. The apartments he occupied are covered with blood and give every evidence of the crime. Younger's son, seventeen years old, tells the story of a quarel about some money, and says that his father implored him to say nothing about it.

The passage by the senate of the Fishery Bill shows Mr. Blaine what a splendid opportunity for twisting the tail of the British Lion was lost to him by the adverse issue of the 1884 incident.—New York World.

If Blaine had been president for the last year and a half, nobody believes there would have been any occasion for the passage of the Fishery Bill.—Dover Democrat.

Maine Light Houses.

Navigation on the coast of Maine is protected by fifty-four light houses; one fog-signal station; 444 spar buoys; forty-eight iron buoys; ninety-two beacons; whole number of aids to navigation, 660. On the two coasts of the United States the whole number is 6409.

There have been twenty applications for every light house in Maine, since Cleveland was inaugurated. After Gen. Leavitt had been appointed collector of Eastport, he, not knowing the law, came to Portland, where is the headquarters of the Maine light house service, with a pocketfull of applications for light house positions, which he proposed to have fixed at once; but he had the cool head said news to his clients that the enemy could not be dislodged.

Seventy-eight keepers and assistants are employed in the Maine light-houses. There has not been a removal since 1881. The old keeper at Dice's Head, Castine, has been in the service since 1861. Others with nearly as long a term as he, might be mentioned. The average salary of the light-keeper is $600 a year. The highest is $820 a year. Seguin and Cape Elizabeth are the two best lights in Maine. The hardest place is on Half-Way rock in Casco bay. On the rock there is barely room enough to perch the light tower. A boat can make off or land to it only in calm weather. Three men are employed here, each spending alternately two weeks at the light and one ashore. Thus one of them is on the land all the time, watching his chance to carry a boat load of provisions to his mates. The light on Saddleback ledge in Penobscot bay is similarly located. There are men in abundance, desirous of taking such places. The light-keeper at Seguin has a nice farm on the island, where he keeps a cow and a yoke of oxen. Light-keepers are encouraged to farm and to fish, if they can, in order to keep up their spirits.

Once in three months, the light houses are inspected, and the men are paid their wages. The little steamer assigned for this duty on the coast of Maine has to travel 18,000 miles a year. A large steamer makes an annual trip from New York around to all the light houses, bringing oil, wicks and other supplies. Every buoy is visited as often as once in six months.

The light houses of Maine are in charge of Commander Oliver A. Batcheller, of the United States navy, at present. A naval officer is assigned to each of the fifteen districts for a three years' tour of duty as inspector. He spends about half his time on land and half afloat, and his position is considered so pleasant that it is sought by the best men in the navy.

It is a great holiday at a lonesome, wave-washed light, when the inspector's steamboat makes her quarterly visit.—Lewiston Journal.

Dartmouth college will permit Unitarian students who attend service in the church of their own denomination in the afternoon, to be absent from the regular Congregational service Sunday morning. This is a step forward in this conservative institution which we are glad to chronicle. Compulsory attendance at prayers or preaching cannot prove of any real good to students. Unitarian fathers who had stricken from their wills bequests to Dartmouth, can now make codicils restoring the gifts. Hereafter a broader view in religious matters will be the rule at Hanover.

Secretary Endicott, who has been making a visit in Salem, Mass., has returned to Washington to put on his war paint.

Charles Cooper, store clerk in the department of yards and docks at the New York navy yard, a son of Rear Admiral Cooper, has been asked to resign by Pay Director Stevenson, in order that a protege of Congressman Perry Belmont may have the place.

The Toronto Mail deems it unfortunate that a general election should be pending at a time when Canada is assailed by American legislators.

does not refer possible purchasers to his victims. The Athlophoros Co. gladly refers sufferers from rheumatism, neuralgia, sciatica, nervous or sick headache, kidney and liver complaints to those who have been cured of these diseases by Athlophoros, and will furnish names and addresses of many such persons to those desiring them. Athlophoros is the only remedy for these diseases that can stand such a test.

Hinsdale, N. H., May 18, 1886.

Of all medicines that claim to cure rheumatism there is only one that will or can do it and that one is Athlophoros. I have for years been troubled with muscular rheumatism, at times so severe as to keep me in bed for 14 or 15 weeks at a time, taking all kinds of medicine, none of which would give me more than temporary relief. The last time I was down I commenced to use Athlophoros; the first bottle got me out of bed in quick order. I was then able to get around on crutches, a second bottle I am happy to say laid away the crutches, and I shall never need them again, for in case I should ever be troubled again with rheumatism I can get a cure in Athlophoros. NORMAN HOWE.

Amesbury, Mass., March 3, 1886.

After suffering with inflammatory rheumatism for six years, and having tried everything with no result, I was one day induced to try Athlophoros; it was a last resort; in three hours after the first dose there was such a change for the better, that my friends were surprised; in all I took two bottles, and to-day I am hale and hearty, no sign of rheumatism about me. With such a simple and effective cure, the day must soon come when that dread disease will be a thing of the past.

J. F. MAHONEY.

Every druggist should keep Athlophoros and Athiophoros Pills, but where they cannot be bought of the druggist the Athlophoros Co., 112 Wall St., New York, will send either (carriage paid) on receipt of regular price, which is $1.00 per bottle for Athlophoros and 50c. for Pills.

For liver and kidney diseases, dyspepsia, indigestion, weakness, nervous debility, diseases of women, constipation, headache, impure blood, &c., Athlophoros Pills are unequaled. ❦

DEATH OF COMMODORE JOHNSON.

Commodore Philip C. Johnson, U. S. N., commanding the Portsmouth navy yard, died at the yard on Friday morning, Jan. 28th, at six o'clock, of Bright's disease of the kidneys, in the 59th year of his age.

At the time of his death Commodore Johnson headed the list in his grade, and would shortly have been promoted to be a rear admiral. He was born in Maine, and entered the naval academy from that state in 1846. He served in the Mexican war, and took part in the bombardments of Vera Cruz and Tuspan. He was promoted to be passed midshipman in 1852, and to lieutenant in 1855. From 1861 to '63 he commanded the Tennessee, of the Western Gulf squadron, and was present at the bombardment and capture of Forts St. Philip and Jackson, below New Orleans. He was commissioned lieutenant commander in 1862, commander in 1867, and captain in 1874. June 30th, 1884, he was promoted to commodore, and ordered to command the training squadron; and on October 15th of the same year he was ordered to the command of this navy yard, where his life ended.

Funeral services will be conducted at the commandants' quarter at the navy yard Sunday afternoon at two o'clock, by Rev. H. E. Hovey. Interment will be at Washington, D. C.

AT MUSIC HALL TO-NIGHT.

This evening, at Music hall, the great spectacular extravaganza "The Devil's Auction" will be presented, with all the ingenious mechanical effects and gorgeous scenery and dresses employed in its presentation in the large cities. The Washington Chronicle calls it "the king of spectacles;" the Brooklyn Eagle says it is "the best spectacular ever produced in Brooklyn;" the San Francisco Chronicle notes "that everything was given as trumpeted in the advance notices;" and the Pittsburg Gazette says "the only drawback, so as to claim the attendance of the gentler sex, is the title; it sounds bad, and creates a false impression about what is really a performance that does not offend the most fastidious." The advertisement can be found in another column, and reserved-seat tickets at Goodrich's.

KNIGHTS OF PYTHIAS BALL.

At the urgent request of some of our citizens the management of the Knights of Pythias ball have at last consented to place on sale a limited number of gallery tickets, so that those who do not wish to dance can have the privilege of hearing the grand concert given by Eastman's celebrated orchestra of Manchester at eight o'clock next Monday evening.

SOLDIERS' AND SAILORS' MONUMENT.

It is announced that there will be a meeting of all those interested in the proposed soldiers' and sailors' monument at the common council room next Monday evening at 7:30 o'clock. We hope and trust that at this meeting such action will be taken as will enable us to place before our readers Tuesday morning the assurance of its speedy erection and exact location.

MARITIME NOTES.

The fishing schooner Carthage, Andrew Nelson master, sailed from Gloucester for Georges bank Dec. 1st, and not having since been heard from is supposed to have been lost with all hands, eleven in number. At least three of the crew leave wives and children.

The schooner Annie F. Conlon, Seaward master, sailed from this port for Baltimore on Friday, the 28th inst., with 1500 barrels of apples shipped by C. H. Hayes.

A despatch of Friday, Jan. 28th, from Eastport, Me., says: "The winter school of herring has struck in on the American shore. About twenty-five English boats and vessels are fishing on this shore. Meanwhile the cruiser Middleton is cruising between here and St. Andrews, ready to seize American fishermen if they venture over the dead line."

A "BAD HARBOR."

The schooner Thomas B. Garland, owned on this river, still remains at the wharf in East Boston where she has been for weeks with a cargo of coal on board which cannot be delivered an account of the ice in Boston harbor; and yet the Boston Record, in its advocacy of the defeat of the project of the real estate syndicate which seeks to make a good thing out of the sale of the Boston navy yard for railroad purposes, speaks of the "bad and dangerous harbor" of Portsmouth. There is one danger in our harbor, namely: If a man falls overboard near the docks of the navy yard, he will go down ten or twelve fathoms before reaching bottom, while in Boston he would fall but a few feet before striking a bed of sewage.

If the railway companies which wish the Boston navy yard's water front will come to Portsmouth and take our navy yard, they will find many advantages over the Boston locality. One is, plenty of deep water at all stages of tide, and no ice. Another is that the steamers for Europe could be at sea in ten minutes after leaving the wharves, and several miles nearer Europe than from Boston. Again, they could enter the harbor, and leave it, deeply laden, at any stage of tide, however low it might be.

The navy yard territory at Boston is worth more to the business interests of Boston than it ever could be to the government. In the mode of administering affairs in navy yards by the democrats, a navy yard to-day in its "here a little and there a little" patronage cannot compare in advantages to the benefits of a railway terminal with an average receipt and shipment of merchandise.

ANNUAL ENCAMPMENT, G. A. R.

The annual encampment of the G. A. R. in the department of this state, and the convention of the Woman's Relief Corps, will be held in Manchester Feb. 1st and 2d. It is expected that the number of delegates who will attend will be nearly 400. The encampment will open on Tuesday at four P. M. In the evening the National Commander, Gen. Fairchild of Wisconsin, will be given a reception. Music will be furnished by the War Veterans' Drum Corps, G. A. R. Male Quartette and Rossini Ladies' Quartette, and there will also be literary and other exercises. Wednesday will be devoted to business in both conventions. The heads of the two departments, Commander Farr of Littleton and President Foster of Milford are expecting the attendance of Past National Presidents Sarah E. Fuller and Florence E. Barker, and the National Treasurer Mrs. Elizabeth Turner. Gen. Fairchild will be the guest of Major James F. Briggs. The work of the order will be exemplified by Louis Bell Post of Manchester.

In the suit of Albert E. Pickering against Lewis L. DeRochement, heard before the supreme court this week, the referee found for the plaintiff. The defendant had owed the plaintiff a debt, but set up that he had a discharge in bankruptcy since the debt accrued. The plaintiff replied that DeRochement made a new promise, after he went into bankruptcy, to pay the debt. This Mr. DeRochement denied. The referee found for Pickering, possibly on the ground that DeRochement had, since his bankruptcy, furnished Pickering with pasturage for which Pickering had not paid, although there were other transactions between them which had been settled, and that the inference was that the pasturage might have been in part payment of the debt revived by the new promise. Mr. Frink for Pickering; Mr. Page for DeRochement.

Eastern railroad stock is firm in the market at $125. Holders have faith in ultimate consolidation with the Boston & Maine, or at least in prospective dividends under the lease to that road.

Mr. John Griffey of this city was on Jan. 20th placed on the retired list of the United States marine corps, having completed thirty years of faithful service as an enlisted man. He was born in Annapolis, Md., but enlisted from this city, and has had his residence here throughout his long term of service.

At the state sanitary convention in Manchester, this week, Col. T. E. O. Marvin, president of the New Hampshire Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, read a paper on "Milk from diseased cows," and Dr. J. J. Berry of this city read one on "How can the mortality from consumption be reduced?"

Hon. Frank Jones, who was sent to Florida by the papers about the middle of this week, went to Boston on Friday morning, intending to return in the evening of the same day.

Messrs. Challis & Eastman, (Frank H. Challis and Herbert W. Eastman,) having bought the presses, good will and material of the Manchester Weekly Budget, will continue its publication, and propose to make it "a live and newsy independent paper, devoted to news of a local, state, industrial and general character, stories, farm and fireside reading; and no efforts will be spared to make it a clean and popular paper for family reading."

Dover is to have a splendid winter carnival, Feb. 18th and 19th. There will be toboggan processions, fireworks, balls, and other attractions.

Three Peculiarities

Hood's Sarsaparilla, the great blood purifier and regulating medicine, is characterized by three peculiarities, namely:

1st: The combination of the various remedial agents used.

2d: The proportion in which the roots, herbs, barks, etc., are mixed.

3d: The process by which the active medicinal properties are secured.

The result is a medicine of unusual strength and curative power, which effects cures heretofore unequalled. These peculiarities belong exclusively to Hood's Sarsaparilla, and are

Unknown to Others

Hood's Sarsaparilla is prepared with the greatest skill and care, by pharmacists of education and long experience. Hence it is a medicine worthy of entire confidence. If you suffer from scrofula, salt rheum, or any disease of the blood, dyspepsia, biliousness, sick headache, or kidney and liver complaints, catarrh or rheumatism, do not fail to try

Hood's Sarsaparilla

"I recommend Hood's Sarsaparilla to all my friends as the best blood purifier on earth." WM. GAYE, druggist, Hamilton, O.

"Hood's Sarsaparilla has cured me of scrofulous humor, and done more than any of my friends could for me." C. A. ARNOLD, Arnold, Me.

A book containing many additional statements of cures will be sent to all who desire.

Insurance Notice.

THE OLD INSURANCE AGENCY,

AT THE OLD STAND,

No. 13 Pleasant Street,

PORTSMOUTH, N. H.

To my Old Customers and Friends. Are you insured? When your home or other property is being consumed by a raging fire, a good insurance policy is a great comfort. The subscriber, with his experience of fifteen years, is now prepared to place your Insurance in the Insurance Companies of New Hampshire, and in Companies organized in other States. No one can place your Insurance better or safer!

NOTE.—Mr. Ilsley, my late copartner, still states in his published card, that he purchased of me all my right to the "Fire Insurance Business of our late firm." I have heretofore denied this statement. He never offered to buy of me the business or goodwill of the firm, and I never offered or even thought of selling out my business. I hired our old office, and advertised to carry on the business in all its branches, weeks before a final settlement. Now, if he has a bill of sale, bond or any agreement whereby I conveyed to him any rights to the goodwill of the old firm or any rights to do a Fire Insurance Business in New Hampshire with old or new customers, let him prosecute me for a breach of contract, or cease publishing or repeating his false statement. I am ready to meet this issue in any court of justice. I make this statement in justice to my customers and friends and to vindicate my own integrity.

The police at Wilkesbarre, Pa., have discovered a regularly-organized gang of robbers, the oldest of whom is eleven and the youngest five years of age. Six of them were arrested. About as many more made their escape, but they will soon be apprehended. Their thieving operations were conducted on a large and systematic scale. They have robbed at least forty merchants, and their pilferings foot up about $5000 as far as known. This is believed to be the youngest organized band of outlaws in the world. Many of the boys belong to respectable families.

Mrs. Hudson and her pretty seventeen-year-old daughter, well known in Boston and New York as notorious swindlers and confidence women, have raked in $10,000 or more from clergymen, merchants and others in Montreal. The two adventurers did a little blackmailing, among their other enterprises.

The Effects of Mental Exhaustion.

Many diseases, especially those of the nervous system, are the products of daily renewed mental exhaustion. Business avocations often involve an amount of mental wear and tear very prejudicial to physical health, and the professions, if arduously pursued, are no less destructive to brain and nerve tissue. It is one of the most important attributes of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, that it compensates for this undue loss of tissue, and that it imparts new energy to the brain and nerves. The rapidity with which it renews weakened mental energy and physical vitality is remarkable, and shows that its invigorating properties are of the highest order. Besides increasing vital stamina, and counteracting the effects of mental exhaustion, this potential medicine cures and prevents fever and ague, rheumatism, chronic dyspepsia, and constipation, kidney and uterine weakness, and other complaints. Physicians also commend it as a medicated stimulant and remedy.

Joshua Speer has been appointed postmaster at West Braintree, Vt., to succeed Maria Stern. One of the charges against Miss Stern was that she did not like to have people spit upon the floor of the postoffice, which was a primal right against which the villagers protested.

NOTHING ON EARTH WILL MAKE HENS LAY LIKE SHERIDAN'S CONDITION POWDER

THE FARMER'S POULTRY RAISING GUIDE

The above is the title of a new and valuable book on poultry raising for profit. This book answers in advance every possible question in respect to keeping and caring for poultry, and gives in the plainest possible manner all needed instructions to enable beginners or old hands to carry on the business successfully, and make money. If you desire to know how to make hens lay the year round; how to fatten market poultry quickly; how to dress and ship poultry and sell eggs to obtain the highest prices; how to build inexpensive hen houses and yards; how to discover, prevent and cure all diseases of poultry; how to select and obtain choice breeds, and how men and women of long experience in the business make money, then send at once for a copy of THE FARMERS' POULTRY RAISING GUIDE, published by I. S. Johnson & Co., 22 Custom House St., Boston, Mass. Price 25 cents. This book is profusely illustrated with engravings of model poultry houses and runs, also many of the best breeds of hens, ducks, turkeys and geese. This work presents a matter of supreme importance to everybody, but especially to women, children and invalids, for there is probably no way by which a small but constant cash income can be secured with so little effort as by keeping and caring for hens. From now until next March the price of eggs will advance higher and higher each month. Do not, therefore, delay, but send at once and get a copy of this valuable book. During the season of high prices the hens should be kept busy. For 60 cents in stamps Johnson & Co. will send postpaid a copy of THE FARMERS' POULTRY RAISING GUIDE and two 25-ct. packs of Sheridan's Powder to make hens lay, or they will send a 2 1-2 pound tin can of Powder at regular rate ($1.20) and a copy of the GUIDE free.

The Carnival Number which is being issued this week by the Montreal Witness, will, we believe, command an unprecedented sale, as it is published at the extremely low price of fifteen cents, or two copies for twenty-five cents—all free by post. It is to contain twenty-four pages, literally crowded with excellent colored pictures and engravings of the principal scenes of the Carnival, correctly as well as beautifully executed. The idea of sending two copies at such a reduction is a capital one; everybody can afford to buy one copy to keep, and at least one other to send to friends at a distance.

The Knights of Labor at Farmington, through their local board, have ordered out all Knights of Labor workmen in Coburn's shoe factory until the trouble between the firm and the lasters' protective union is settled. The firm will shut down for the winter, and many persons will be thrown out of much needed employment.

Naval Intelligence.

Rear Admiral E. Y. McCauley was placed on the retired list Jan. 25th. This promotes Commodore L. A. Kimberly to be rear admiral; and with the death of Commodore Johnson, promotes Capts. Wm. P. McCann and James H. Gillis to be commodores, Comdrs. G. C. Wilkes and James O. Kane to be captains, Lieut. Comdrs. Felix McCurdy and John McGowan, Jr., to be commanders, Lieuts. J. N. Hemphill and A. B. H. Lillie to be lieutenant commanders, and makes two promotions in each of the lower grades.

The Army and Navy Register says: "Chief Constructor Wilson has sent to the house committee on naval affairs a very beautiful model of the 1700-ton gunboat which has not yet been named, and which is to be built by the Messrs. Cramp of Philadelphia. It is, perhaps, the most perfect model that has been turned out at the navy department, and gives an admirable idea of the vessel. There seems to be really a prospect now that the construction of an additional number of vessels may be authorized at the present session. Two bills have been introduced for this purpose during the past week—one by the chairman of the naval committee and one by Mr. Thomas of Illinois. Mr. Thomas' bill proposes a larger number of vessels than that of the chairman. The principle of Mr. Thomas' bill is the laying down of two vessels of the type of the Newark, and five of the type of the 1700-ton gunboat. The naval committee will hold a meeting soon to consider these measures."

The Effects of Mental Exhaustion.

Many diseases, especially those of the nervous system, are the products of daily renewed mental exhausion. Business avocations often involve an amount of mental wear and tear very prejudicial to physical health, and the professions, if arduously pursued, are no less destructive to brain and nerve tissue. It is one of the most important attributes of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, that it compensates for this undue loss of tissue, and that it imparts new energy to the brain and nerves. The rapidity with which it renews weakeded mental energy and physical vitality is remarkable, and shows that its invigorating properties are of the highest order. Besides increasing vital stamina, and counteracting the effects of mental exhaustion, this potential medicine cures and prevents fever and ague, rheumatism, chronic dyspepsia, and constipation, kidney and uterine weakness, and other complaints. Physicians also commend it as a medicated stimulant and remedy.

A Chicago lady, while recenly riding in a Colorado stage coach, was precipitated down a precipice 400 feet, landing in a snowdrift at the bottom, and the only injury she received was from a shovel while the men were digging her out of the snow. At a meeting of the directors of the Boston & Hingham Steamboat Co., held last Friday, Elisha Thayer was chosen president, and W. B. Dustan was reelected treasurer. Col. Elbridge G. Peirce of this city continues as superintendent, his management of last season's work, which was the largest on record, having been very satisfactory.

Murdered.

The body of Julius Baer was found by freighters five miles west of here Tuesday morning, in a terribly mangled condition. His head and face were smashed, so as to be hardly recognized, and numerous wounds were found on his body. Mr. Baer was agent for the great blood medicine, Sulphur Bitters. Robbery was undoubtedly the motive, as he was well known to have a large sum of money on his person. As we go to press there is no clew to the perpetrators.—Colorado Press.

Appropriations for the Navy.

The naval appropriation bill, as completed last week by the house committee on naval affairs, appropriates $23,067,042, while the estimates were $20,639,756, and the appropriation for the current year $16,242,538. The increase of the appropriation as compared with the estimates is occasioned by the transfer to this bill of items heretofore included in that section of the sundry civil bill devoted to "public works," covering the navy yards and docks. An appropriation is also made on account of "ordnance and armor" sufficient in amount to supply all of the vessels now building, with the object of enabling the secretary of the navy to make more advantageous terms through contracts in bulk. These items amount to $2,128,362 and $2,500,000 respectively. So far as concerns the ordinary running expenses of the navy, the appropriations are less in amount than for many years past. The principal items of appropriation in the bill are as follows:

Pay of navy, $7,212,000; navigation, $107,500; ordnance, $260,642; equipment and recruiting, $649,125; yards and docks, $233,130; public works (navy yards and docks), $1,732,364; naval asylum, $63,147; medicine and surgery, $177,500, including an item of $50,000 for a sanitarium at Widow's Island, Me.; provisions and clothing, $1,281,000; construction and repair, $922,007; steam engineering, $692,700; naval academy, $203,630; marine corps, $872,935;; armament for the new vessels, $2,128,362; armor for the same, $2,500,000; armor for the vessels authorized by the act of 1886, $4,000,000; pneumatic gun carriage, $25,000.

Blew It Up.

There lives, near Rockland, Penn., an investigative old gentleman, named Alex. Staggs. Mr. Staggs is more than investigative; he is experimental. Recently, a friend, upon meeting the old man, asked concerning his health.

"First rate," Mr. Staggs replied. "That is, with exception of a corn that is giving me a great deal of trouble."

"Why don't you take it out?"

"Can't. I have tried corn doctors and faith, but nothing does it any good."

"I'll tell you how to get rid of it. Some time ago I had a corn that wouldn't let me sleep. It would haul me out of bed at all times of the night and hobble me around the room. But I got rid of it."

"How?" old Alex. eagerly asked.

"With gunpowder. You see, I shaved off the top of the corn, took some biscuit dough and built a wall around the corn, like the fortification thrown up by a crawfish, filled up the cavity with powder, and touched it off. Well, sir, the corn came out by the roots, and I have never had any trouble with it since."

"Didn't it hurt?" the old man asked.

"Didn't feel it."

That night the old man studied over the matter, and as he was too experimental to allow such an opportunity to pass, he took off his shoe and prepared his corn.

"What are you doing?" a member of the family asked, when he began to put the dough around the corn.

"Going to blow this corn over into the next county. Hand me the powder horn."

He couldn't see very well, especially as he depended on the fire-light, and did not notice that he was pouring powder between his toes. At last, having filled the cavity, he took up a coal of fire with the tongs and carefully touched off the magazine. Several members of the family noticed the old gentleman turning a summersault in a cloud of smoke, and wondered somewhat at his activity, but when he failed to exhibit any signs of liveliness immediately after the performance, they suspected that the old gentleman had been rash in attempting such gymnastics. By great effort he can now, after a lapse of several weeks, put his foot to the floor, and he hopes, being naturally of a cheerful disposition, that by March he will be able to take his gun and hunt for the man who advised him to blow up his corn. The adviser, Colonel Hinsley, was at one time, we understand, the overseer of an Arkansaw plantation, but was compelled to leave the state in consequence of having advised a young and credulous circuit-rider to load his shotgun with coal oil instead of powder.

The gun fired on time, but a stream of fire that streamed out of the tube rendered the circuit-rider's position uncomfortable.—Arkansaw Traveler.

The Etiquette of Tact.

There is no aphorism that commands more respect than this: "The truth is not to be spoken at all times." Plain-spoken people are always dreaded by their friends. They excoriate, with unskillful scalpel. It is a rule with them to smooth pussy's fur the wrong way, on the principle that it is a healthy function. But the cat never appreciates it.

A few days ago a grand-looking old gentleman with white hair but fine, strong, physique gave up his seat in the street-car to a lady. Whereupon a young miss jumps up and with great eagerness exclaims:

"Take my seat; please do. I never like to see an old person stand." Doubtless the motive was good, but the manner was most offensive, drawing as it did a sharp and obtrusive line between youth and age and calling attention to the infirmities that all are sensitive to, saying nothing of the implied rebuke to the lady who accepted the old gentleman's seat.

A similar incident witnessed by the writer was met with a brusque response. An elderly lady was standing in the car, when a young lady arose and said:

"I am younger than you; I will stand."

"Suit yourself," answered the lady who was so suddenly brought into prominence, and she remained standing.

Again, a gentleman who was walking behind a lady on the sidewalk thought he perceived that some part of her drapery was displaced; he touched her on the shoulder:

"You are losing your overskirt, madam," he said hurriedly.

"Well, sir," said madam, "is that any of your business?"

Two young ladies who were confidential friends resolved with each other to point out their mutual faults with a view to improving. They were seated cozily chatting when one said to the other:

"There is one thing, Clara, love, I have often noticed in you, and that is a habit of interrupting people when——"

"I interrupt, Laura, dear? Why, you must be mistaken. I have always considered it the rudest thing in the world. Now you have a habit of contradicting that is very disagreeable."

"I don't cross my feet, if I do," said Laura, tartly.

"I don't chew gum," retorted Clara.

"You are not very polite, miss!"

"Quite as much so as you."

"I think you're real mean!"

"I think you're horrid!" (Tears.)

"You needn't ever speak to me again." (Sobs.)

"Don't you recognize me till I do!"

And the two friends parted in hysterical enmity. Sometimes the truth is indeed an overrated virtue, but her handmaiden tact is one of the social graces. —Detroit Free Press.

A CHILD'S SKIN.

Ears and Scalp Covered with Eczematous Scabs and Sores Cured by Cuticura.

MY little son, aged eight years, has been afflicted with Eczema of the scalp, and at times a great portion of the body, ever since he was two years old. It began in his ears, and extended to his scalp, which became covered with scales and sore, and from which a sticky fluid poured out, causing intense itching and distress, and leaving his hair matted and lifeless. Underneath these scales the skin was raw, like a piece of beefsteak. Gradually the hair came out and was destroyed, until but a small patch was left at the back of the head. My friends in Peabody know how my little boy has suffered. At night he would scratch his head until his pillow was covered with blood. I used to tie his hands behind him, and in many ways tried to prevent his scratching; but it was no use, he would scratch. I took him to the hospital and to the best physicians in Peabody without success. About this time, some friends, who had been cured by the CUTICURA REMEDIES, prevailed upon me to try them. I began to use them on the 15th of January last. In seven months every particle of the disease was removed. Not a spot or scab remains on his scalp to tell the story of his suffering. His hair has returned, and is thick and strong, and his scalp as sweet and clean as any child's in the world. I cannot say enough to express my gratitude for this wonderful cure by the CUTICURA REMEDIES, and wish all similarly affected to know that my statement is true and without even exaggeration. CHARLES McKAY, Oct. 6, 1885. Peabody, Mass.

I have seen Mr. McKay's boy when badly affected with the Eczema. He was a pitiful sight to look at. I know that he has tried our best physicians, and did all a father could do for a suffering child, but availed nothing. I know that the statements he has made you as regards the curing of his boy by your CUTICURA REMEDIES are true in every particular. WILLIAM J. McCARTHY, 53 Foster St., Peabody, Mass.

I do not know of any instance in which the Cuticura Remedies have failed to produce satisfactory results. I believe I have sold more of them than of any other skin remedies I have ever handled during the thirty-three years of my experience as a druggist. A. D. TRYON, Batavia, N. Y.

Sold everywhere. Price: CUTICURA, 50 cents; CUTICURA SOAP, 25 cents; CUTICURA RESOLVENT, $1.00. Prepared by POTTER DRUG AND CHEMICAL CO., Boston.

A Word About Catarrh.

"It is the mucous membrane, that wonderful semi-fluid envelope surrounding the delicate tissues of the air and food passages, that Catarrh makes its stronghold. Once established, it eats into the very vitals, and renders life but a long-drawn breath of misery and disease, stifling the sense of hearing, transmuting the power of speech, destroying the faculty of smell, tainting the breath, and killing the refined pleasures of taste. Insidiously, by creeping on from a simple cold in the head, it assaults the membranous lining and envelops the bones, eating through the delicate cone-and cuisine inflammation, sloughing and death. Nothing short of total eradication will secure health to the patient, and all alleviatives are simply procrastinated, sufferings, leading to a fatal termination. SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE, by Inhalation and by Internal administration, has never failed; even when the disease has made rightful inroads on delicate constitutions, healing smell and taste have been recovered, and the disease thoroughly driven out."

SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE consists of one bottle of the RADICAL CURE, one box CATARRHAL SOLVENT, and one IMPROVED INHALER, neatly wrapped in one package, with full directions; price, $1.00.

AUGUSTA, MAINE.

"I have one on the hip," cried rheumatism seizing his victim and tossing him on a suffering bed. "Not so," he cried, "not so! Wait, my ancient foe, just five minutes, until the boy brings a bottle of Salvation Oil, then we'll see who wins the day."

In the court at Saco, Jan. 28th, Wm. S. Mathews was admitted to practice law in the courts of Maine. He read law in the office of Copeland & Edgerly at Great Falls.

Catarrh

Is a very prevalent and exceedingly disagreeable disease, liable, if neglected, to develop into serious consumption. Being a constitutional disease, it requires a constitutional remedy like Hood's Sarsaparilla, which, acting through the blood, reaches every part of the system, effecting a radical and permanent cure of catarrh in even its most severe forms. Made only by C. I. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass.

In the Maine legislature, Jan. 28th, a bill was introduced to authorize the Boston & Maine railroad to purchase the road, property and franchises of the Eastern Railroad Co., and of the other railroad corporations whose property is leased or operated by either of the said companies.

Rich Blood

Insures good health. G. O. Taylor Old Bourbon or G. O. Taylor Pure Rye will not only enrich the vital fluid, but, taken with moderation, aids digestion, wards off disease, and is conducive to longevity. Chester H. Graves & Sons bottle it, and druggists and grocers sell it generally.

OUR NEW YORK FASHION LETTER.

EVENING COSTUMES—GORGEOUS BROCADES —MAMMOTH PLAIDS—LIBERTY OR DEATH—TOILET ARTICLES.

Net is very much used in evening costumes as a substitute for tulle, since there is a girlishness in the latter from which even New York matrons shrink. Net comes in as a change from an eternal repetition of velvet, brocade, plush, satin or silk; combined with these heavier fabrics it brings relief, and young matrons particularly are fond of it for skirts to be worn with velvet bodices. Spangled by silver or beads it glitters prettily, or with touches of chenille can be illumined by passementerie of beads or silver, while beaded tulle joins in fellowship the bright array. Evening brocades are so very large that one stands aghast until habituated to them. Huge flowers and leaves extending a foot and upwards in length, and wrought in striking contrast to the body of the fabric, while as the latest novelty come broad chevron wearings, first introduced in woollen goods and now given a first position. Fabrics of the brocaded kinds just mentioned, however, requiring careful handling. A little of them goes a great way, and they serve only as offsets to plain material. Somewhat

LESS DRESSY FABRICS

Are in large plaids or stripes of plush or velvet set on silken foundation, and with all the unique contrastings possible. They would be extremely "loud" but for artistic blendings of hue, and these must needs be deftly toned, where very large blocks of plush with inch-long pile are sandwiched between stripes of the same material two inches wide. Frise loops are introduced apparently to render these goods yet more pronounced, and the alternations of color though refined are very bold, as for example where a rich shade of blue is relieved by gold with attendant touches of reddish brown. These goods are akin to the enormous brocades mentioned previously, and require the same dextrous handling, extremely fine white cashmere being imported expressly as an offset for them, and desirable as a change from richer goods.

LIBERTY OR DEATH.

Since in full dress every possible variety is attainable, there never was a wider range nor greater liberty; and while on the question of liberty, that of necks can hardly be passed by in silence. The subject is in truth a live one, and spectacular effects in opera boxes are thought to exceed frequently what obtains upon the stage. Here indeed is special opportunity for stout matrons, and in many instances they seize upon it. No motherly note of warning arrests the dressmaker's scissors; its downward course is rather approved of; and given such an example from the head of the family, one cannot wonder that younger members do the same, though perhaps less successfully. Triumphantly the dames of uncertain age sit without shawls or sleeves, while baldheaded beaux cluster around them, and astonished juniors wonder what we are coming to.

TOILET ARTICLES.

A watch is not always a watch, since simulated ones are receptacles wherein repose a very small powder puff, a tiny case for eyebrow pencillings, apparatus for coloring the cheeks, and a minute circular looking-glass set within.——Ebony is the most stylish material employed for the mounting of brushes and hand glasses; an ebony puff box being also the latest idea.——Domestic women appreciate the healing and beautifying properties of Pears' soap quite as much as society ladies, who study each article of the toilet. The latter class use the scented varieties of this world-renowned soap, while the former find the unscented equally efficacious and cheap enough to come within their means. For the delicate skins of infants it is perfection.——Manicure sets shown at leading druggists run from thirty-five to one hundred dollars. A greater or less number of the finest implements for beautifying the nails—scissors, file, ointment, powder, polisher, brushes, etc., repose in boxes of handsome make, and taken altogether form curious subjects of speculation.

LUCY CARTER.

Friday night was a very dark one, and the darkness was emphasized a few minutes past nine o'clock by the sudden disappearance of the electric lights. After the stores were closed the only light on Market square was an oil lantern, placed on the drinking fountain in the middle of the square to enable drivers of teams to guide clear of the structure. The cause of the cessation of the electric lights was the blowing out of a steam packing at the engine house, which necessitated letting the steam go down to remedy—a trivial but most annoying mishap. They were showing as brilliantly as ever, Saturday night.

In another column can be found the card of Dr. F. J. Bonney and E. C. Blaisdell, D. M. D., whose dental chambers at No. 1 1-2 Market street (Pythian block) are fitted with every modern appliance for rendering dental work less appalling to the patient, and who guarantee that their charges are as low as is consistent with the furnishing of the very best materials and the highest professional skill. They ask persons requiring the services of a dentist, and not previously their patients, to give them but one trial, being satisfied that no further recommendation than the perfection of their work will be required.

There were very few teams in town from the surrounding country on Saturday, and business was dull in consequence. A few persons came in on wheels, but runners were in use by most of the visitors. The warm rain which fell gently at intervals during Friday night, and more liberally Saturday afternoon and early evening, ate away the snow and ice rapidly, and made havoc with the sleighing.

How remarkably effective the electric street lights are on a dark night was unknown to many persons in this city until Friday night of last week, when they were surprised by the inky darkness which followed the extinction of the lights, in streets that during the first few hours of the evening were as brilliantly lighted as need be.

North Berwick—Isabel Mansfield of Dover, N. H., to Sarah J. H. Staples of North Berwick, real estate in North Berwick for $500.

WHY IS IT

That rheumatism and neuralgia are so prevalent? This question has not been satisfactorily answered, but it is certain that these diseases are not only the most painful but among the most common, and some member of nearly every family in the land is the victim of one of these dread tormentors. Ladies seem to be peculiarly liable to neuralgic attacks, which, in the form of neuralgic headache, pain in the back, or nervous pains are of constant occurrence. Not until the discovery of Athlophoros had any remedy been found for either rheumatism, neuralgia or nervous headache, and they were generally conceded to be incurable, but Athlophoros has been proved to be not only a certain cure for these diseases, in all their varied forms, but a safe remedy. If, in the use of Athlophoros, the bowels are kept freely open, its success is certain, and to aid this, Athlophoros Pills are recommended, which, while providing the necessary cathartic, will be found to be a valuable aid to the action of the medicine. Athlophoros is no experiment, it has been tested and has proved its wonderful efficacy.

The Athlophoros Pills were originally prepared as a remedy for use in connection with Athlophoros, for rheumatism and neuralgia and kindred complaints. Used in connection with that remedy, they are a certain cure for either of these very common and distressing diseases. They have also been found to be an invaluable remedy for any and all diseases arising from vitiated blood or general debility. They are especially valuable for nervous debility, blood poisoning, dyspepsia, distress after eating, headache, constipation, loss of appetite, and all stomach or liver troubles. For diseases of women they are invaluable. These pills are perfectly harmless and may be safely used by adults or children.

Testimonials of those who have been cured will be sent free on application.

Every druggist should keep Athlophoros and Athlophoros Pills, but where they cannot be bought of the druggist, the Athlophoros Co., 112 Wall St., New York, will send either (carriage paid) on receipt of regular price, which is $1.00 per bottle for Athlophoros and 50c. for Pills.

MUNICIPAL AFFAIRS.

At a called meeting of the city councils on Saturday evening, Jan. 29th, to take action in regard to attending the funeral of Commodore P. C. Johnson on Sunday, it was voted that Mayor Eldredge, Aldermen Locke, Sinclair and Billings, President Crowley of the common council, City Clerk Goodrich, and Councilmen Young, Casey and Carroll, represent the city government at the obsequies.

SUNDAY SERVICES.

The dull weather and bad walking Sunday somewhat interfered with the attendance at the churches. Rev. Mr. Hainer's pulpit on Court street was supplied in the afternoon by Rev. Mr. Gooding of the Unitarian church. At the North church, Rev. Mr. McGinley preached in the evening to young men, from the subject, "The dangerous places in life," and at the Middle street Baptist church the subject of Rev. Dr. Alden's lecture was "Giving away your heart."

"Universalism and Reason" was the subject in the Pleasant street church yesterday, the text being Isa. 1:18, "Come now, let us reason together, saith the Lord;" also, Job. 13:3.

The ordinary observer regarding the different churches in this city, is very apt to hold a vague idea that they are buildings in each of which stands a man, with his followers, who is pitted against all the rest, some more than others, upon opinions of an unknown future. This is incorrect. The unity of thought and the instinctive concession to reason which prevails in the minds of these men would startle the more denominational pews with suspicions of heresy. If your ministers are educated men you must rest content with the fact that their minds are not very far apart. They hold the imagined differences to keep up an interest among the unreasoning. If the clergymen in this city could all speak under well defined terms, there would be no disagreement with the articles which from week to week appear under this caption. True reason, working upon the same foundation, is the same in all minds. There is but one logic in Christion religion. Its foundation is God. Its object is humanity. Its salvation is the unifying of the human reason with God's reason. To do this there are different methods used. But no method is justified that misleads the weaker human reason. Christ never stepped outside the realm of reason nor of truth, yet upon this reason and truth he attained the highest spiritual life. The same God that made the human mind made Christianity, and in their purest expression they will unite, and become one. God asks you in every activity of your life to reason with the Highest. It is cowardice to refuse. It is faith to consent. Therefore on reason, and reason only, is built a true faith. Faith is the repose in God of the clearest reason. Man is to use his reason even to God himself. We shall find Him reasonable, if we are so ourselves.

IN A BAD FIX.

Capt. Mancil C. Goodrell, U. S. M. C., attached to the marine barracks at the Portsmouth navy yard, on Friday last notified City Marshal Norton that Sergeant Belden, who was returned to Lieut. Col. C. D. Hebb, commanding the marine guard at the yard, on Wednesday, Jan. 26th, by Asst. Marshals Hurley and Peverly, on a charge of embezzlement, has confessed to selling to the Market street tradesmen who is under a charge of purchasing stolen government goods to the value of $300, an additional lot of goods not yet accounted for, namely, eighty-five pairs of government shoes. The accused party was on Saturday turned over by the police magistrate to United States Marshal Barker, by whom he was taken before United States Commissioner Hackett, who held him in $1500 for his appearance at the United States court in this city on Saturday, April 2d. Bail was furnished.

FUNERAL SERVICES OF COMMODORE JOHNSON.

The funeral services of the late Commodore Philip C. Johnson, U. S. N., were held at the commodore's residence at the navy yard at 2:30 o'clock Sunday afternoon, and were conducted by Rev. Henry E. Hovey, rector of St. John's church. At the close of the services the casket was placed in a hearse, and escorted by the marine guard of the yard, the naval officers attached to the yard and resident in this city, and many of the civilians who were in attendance at the funeral, to the gate of the yard, where the marine guard saluted and the procession dismissed, the hearse continuing to the railroad station in this city, where the remains were placed in the train leaving for Boston at four o'clock, on their way to Washington, D. C., where the final interment will take place. The body was accompanied by Comdr. Wm. C. Wise and Lieut. Wm. H. Everett of the navy, and Mr. Eastman Johnson, brother of the deceased.

There were present at the funeral, besides the officers of the navy residing in this city, and their wives, Mayor Eldredge, City Clerk Goodrich, Aldermen Billings and Locke, President Crowley of the common council, Councilmen Young, Casey and Carroll, Hon. Frank Jones, Col. Wm. H. Hackett, T. Salter Tredick and wife, Robert C. Peirce and wife, Eastman Johnson of New York city, and others.

To-day at noon a salute of eleven minute guns will be fired at the navy yard; and at sundown the commodore's pennant will be mastheaded, after being displayed at half-mast all day, saluted, and then hauled down for the last time. This would have been done on the day of the funeral, had the services not been held on Sunday.

Capt. Robert F. Bradford of this city, captain of the yard, is now in command pending the appointment of a permanent commandant.

SOLDIERS' AND SAILORS' MONUMENT.

It is announced that there will be a meeting of all those interested in the proposed soldiers' and sailors' monument at the common council room this (Monday) evening at 7:30 o'clock. We advise every person wishing the erection of a memorial shaft in a desirable location, one that will be satisfactory to everybody, to be present; for from reliable information furnished us we are of the opinion that all who have been withholding their contributions until a site is obtained will after the meeting this evening have the desired opportunity to subscribe.

KNIGHTS OF PYTHIAS BALL.

The concert by Eastman's orchestra, of Manchester, G. H. Morey director, preceding the Knights of Pythias ball in Franklin hall this evening, will consist of the following selections: Overture, "Zampa," Herold; bolero, "Souvenir de Cadiz," Bosisio; trombone solo, (F. L. Blodgett,) "Harlow polka," Brooks; selection from "Erminie," Jakobowsky; piccolo solo, (C. F. Eastman,) "Tom Tit polka," Cox; "The Muddy Day," Braham. The concert will commence at eight o'clock sharp, and continue one hour. At the earnest request of many who wish to hear the musical treat but do not care to dance, a limited number of gallery tickets will be sold.

THE FIRE DEPARTMENT.

From the annual report of the chief engineer for the year 1886 it appears that there were during the year thirteen fires, the total loss being $11,670, which was covered by insurance. The chief engineer recommends the sale of unreliable leather hose, and the purchase of 1000 feet of jacket hose. Sagamore engine No. 1 has been repaired and painted, and the two extinguishers have been repainted and put in good order. Kearsarge steamer, No. 3, has been put in good condition, and all the apparatus of the department is in a satisfactory state.

PERSONAL.

Hon. Frank Jones and wife start for Florida to-day.

Capt. Jos. H. Thacher and wife start for Florida on Tuesday.

Mrs. David Kimball, whose age is eighty-four years, has had a shock of paralysis.

Rear Admiral Thomas T. Craven, U. S. N., retired, is spending the winter at the Rockingham house.

Mrs. Whiton-Stone has sent out cards for Wednesdays, in February, four to six, at her house on Broadway and N streets, City Point, South Boston.

Frank W. Hackett of this city is down as one of the speakers at the Harvard Alumni dinner in New York, February 21st. Mr. Hackett has recently, at his own expense, caused the early town records of Portsmouth to be copied and printed. The work is much appreciated by antiquarians and former residents.

Ladies will find at Ayers & Locke's the largest variety of imported trimmings—Hamburg and Swiss edgings and flouncings, colored and all-over embroideries, Torchon and Medicis laces, etc.,—ever displayed in this city, and at prices which cannot be excelled in New England—value for money.

An orphan boy, thirteen years old, named Walter Chase, hailing from Rochester, was in this city last week trying to ship on board the schooner Active. The captain required authoritative consent, and the boy of course could not furnish it. The police being informed by Capt. Frisbee of the matter took the boy in charge and telephoned to his aunt in Rochester, with whom he lives, who came down on the 4:50 P. M. train Friday and took the young runaway home.

The largest and most varied stock of leather and shoemakers' findings in the city, and the lowest prices, at the Old Telephone Exchange, rear of city building. The trade will find leather by the side or pound, taps or heels by the pair or dozen pairs, nails, brads, thread, wax, rubber heels and cement, Trumbull's blacking, etc., etc., in quantities to suit, and at prices not to be found elsewhere this side of Boston. Repairing of all kinds of leather and rubber footwear, with the best material and workmanship.

J. W. YOUNG.

La Brie's "Aphrodite Schottische" will be played at the Pythian ball at Franklin hall to-night.

100 Doses

One Dollar. Hood's Sarsaparilla is the only medicine of which this can be truly said; and it is an unanswerable argument as to the strength and positive economy of this great medicine. Hood's Sarsaparilla is made of roots, herbs, barks, etc., long and favorably known for their power in purifying the blood; and in combination, proportion, and process, Hood's Sarsaparilla is peculiar to itself.

"For economy and comfort we use Hood's Sarsaparilla." MRS. C. BREWSTER, Buffalo.

"Hood's Sarsaparilla takes less time and quantity to show its effect than any other preparation I ever heard of. I would not be without it in the house." MRS. C. A. M. HUBBARD, North Chili, N. Y. 100 Doses

One Dollar

Hood's Sarsaparilla cures scrofula, salt rheum, all humors, boils, pimples, general debility, dyspepsia, biliousness, sick headache, catarrh, rheumatism, kidney and liver complaints, and all affections caused by impure blood or low condition of the system. Try it.

"I was severely afflicted with scrofula, and for over a year had two running sores on my neck. I took five bottles of Hood's Sarsaparilla, and consider myself entirely cured." C. E. LOVEJOY, Lowell, Mass.

"Hood's Sarsaparilla did me an immense amount of good. My whole system has been built up and strengthened, my digestion improved, and my head relieved of the bad feeling. I consider it the best medicine I have ever used, and should not know how to do without it." MARY L. FERLE, Salem, Mass.

Insurance Notice.

THE OLD INSURANCE AGENCY,

AT THE OLD STAND,

No. 13 Pleasant Street,

PORTSMOUTH, N. H.

To my Old Customers and Friends. Are you insured? When your home or other property is being consumed by a raging fire, a good insurance policy is a great comfort. The subscriber, with his experience of fifteen years, is now prepared to place your Insurance in the Insurance Companies of New Hampshire, and in Companies organized in other States. No one can place your Insurance better or safer!

NOTE.—Mr. Ilsley, my late copartner, still states in his published card, that he purchased of me all my right to the "Fire Insurance Business of our late firm." I have heretofore denied this statement. He never offered to buy of me the business or goodwill of the firm, and I never offered or even thought of selling out my business. I hired our old office, and advertised to carry on the business in all its branches, weeks before a final settlement. Now, if he has a bill of sale, bond or any agreement whereby I conveyed to him any rights to the goodwill of the old firm or any rights to do a Fire Insurance Business in New Hampshire with old or new customers, let him prosecute me for a breach of contract, or cease publishing or repeating his false statement. I am ready to meet this issue in any court of justice. I make this statement in justice to my customers and friends and to vindicate my own integrity.

LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S VEGETABLE COMPOUND,

Is a Positive Cure

For ALL of those Painful Delicate Complaints and Complicated troubles and Weaknesses so common among our Wives, Mothers, and Daughters.

IT PERMEATES EVERY PARTS, EFFERVESCENT, DIGESTIVE AND LAXATIVE IN ITS EFFECT. IN LIQUID, PILL OR LOZENGE FORM, (6 FOR $1.) BEING OF THE LATTER NEAT BY MAIL. CURE FOR CONSTIPATION, OR REMEDY OF PRICE. MRS. PINKHAM'S "CONS TO HEALTH" ON EVERY PAPER.

THE CIRCULAR MAILED TO ANY LADY SENDING ADDRESS AND STAMP TO LYNN, MASS. Mention this Paper.

Lydia E. Pinkham

Ladies' Weaknesses.

Mr. T. H. Gafford of Church Hill, Md., is so thankful for the restoration of his wife to complete health, that he is willing to certify to the fact and manner of her cure. To Mrs. Lydia E. Pinkham: This is to certify to the grand effects of your vegetable Compound upon my wife, who was suffering from a terrible disease which seemed to baffle the skill of the best medical men. She was in a most languid, depressed, nervous condition. We finally concluded to try your Vegetable Compound and to our great surprise the half of one bottle had not been taken before there seemed to be a thorough change in her whole condition, and now to-day she is in good health and entirely relieved from all former depressed feelings.

T. H. GAFFORD and wife.

PHYSICAL SALVATION.

"Blessed Art Thou above all Others."

Some of the expressions of gratitude for the physical regeneration wrought by Mrs. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound are like the rejoicings of converts after a religious revival. It brings Salvation to the body. A lady in Franklin Parish, La., writes: "I tried one bottle of your Compound for Prolapsus Uteri and Leucorrhea. I never had anything in my life that did me as much good. I was hardly able to walk about without difficulty. I could not step upon anything without pain. When I thinks how much good that one bottle did me, I feel as if I could fall on my knees to you and say: Blessed art thou above all others, for thou art one of the greatest benefactors that woman ever had."

Mrs. Lincoln's Appointee.

"I was one of the Sangamon Committee," said a venerable Republican statesman the other day, "who favored the re-election of President Lincoln, when there was a debatable question. I remember that one of the points they made against Lincoln was that he had appointed 'an ignoramus' Commissioner of Agriculture. That gentleman's name, you may remember, was Isaac Newton, and I think he was from Philadelphia. The gravemess of the charge brought against him was that he could not spell. The opposition had gotton hold in some way of one of his note books, in which, among other ludicrous mistakes, was the word 'sugar' spelled 'shooggur.' Armed with this note book a committee of Senators waited on President Lincoln and demanded the removal of Newton. Whether he was removed or not they were going to spring the Newtonian spelling on the world at the first convenient opportunity. But they thought it only fair to give the President a chance to remove him first. So up to the White House they went. When they came here, I asked the Chairman, a distinguished New England Senator, what had occurred. 'Well, sir,' said he, 'Lincoln is no better than Newton. Would you believe it when, I showed him that wretched spelling of the word sugar he said: "Well, I'm not sure but what that's right. Sugar spells soogar—shooggur spells just what it says and what we all want it is. But whether that's right or wrong, gentlemen, is neither here nor there. I didn't appoint Newton, and therefore I can't remove him. Mrs. Lincoln appointed him. She has the sole power of removal in his case. You may go to her if you please, and if she removes him, remove him it shall be; but as long as he continues to send her fresh butter and vegetables and strawberries out of season, I don't think she will remove him.'"—Washington Letter to Philadelphia Record.

A lad in South Boston having handed his teacher a note, reading, "Licking don't do this boy no good; talk to him," provoked an inquiry that led to the discovery that he had himself written the note.

Mr. JOHN W. FURBUSH,

An Army Veteran,

OF WAKEFIELD,

who has probably suffered more than any man or woman in America to-day. Taken sick while in the Army, he has endured untold agonies since. Describing his first symptoms he said, "My head ached and my appetite was poor. I felt a fullness at the pit of the stomach, and a foul taste in my mouth, while my skin was sometimes hot and sometimes cold. I next felt pains in my back and around the lower portion of my body, and noticed a peculiar odor and color in the water I passed, which was scanty at one time and free at others. Sometimes it pained me to void it, and again it was almost impossible to do so at all. Finally I began to pass clear blood accompanied with the greatest strain and agony."

No less than 20 eminent physicians attended Mr. Furbush at various times, but not one of them could help him. He was near death's door. And yet he says: "I am alive and well to-day, wholly through the wonderful power of Hunt's Remedy, which took me from the verge of the grave."

This Great Remedy absolutely cures all Kidney, Liver and Urinary Diseases.

SURE CURE FOR
DYSPEPSIA, LIVER AND KIDNEY COMPLAINTS, HEADACHE, WIND IN THE STOMACH OR PAINS IN THE BOWELS, INDIGESTION.

DR. HAM, March 2, 1886.

Dear Sir;—I feel it a pleasurable duty to extol your medicine to the very highest. I have been a sufferer from the dreadful disease dyspepsia from childhood, and very often after eating have vomited up the greater part of my meals. About 3 months ago I was induced to try a bottle of your invigorator, which at once gave me relief, and I have not had a vomiting spell since. I feel like a new man, and am perfectly well. I have tried many medicines, but none had the least effect until I tried your invigorator. Hoping you may go on in your great work for suffering humanity, I am Truly yours,

Littell's Living Age.

IN 1887 THE LIVING AGE enters upon its forty-fourth year, having met with continuous commendation and success.

A WEEKLY MAGAZINE. It gives fifty-two numbers of sixty-four pages each, or more than double-column octavo pages of reading-matter yearly. It presents in an inexpensive form, considering its great amount of matter, with freshness, owing to its weekly issue, and with a completeness nowhere else attempted,

Three and a Quarter Thousand

The best Essays, Reviews, Criticisms, Serial and Short Stories, Sketches of Travel and Discovery, Poetry, Scientific, Biographical, Historical, and Political Information, from the entire body of Foreign Periodical Literature, and from the pens of the

FOREMOST LIVING WRITERS.

The ablest and most cultivated intellects, in every department of Literature, Science, Period, and Art, are represented in the Periodical Literature of Europe, and especially of Great Britain.

The Living Age, forming four large volumes a year, furnishes, from the great and generally inaccessible mass of this literature, the only complete, and, while within the reach of all, in satisfactory in the COMPLETENESS with which it embraces whatever is of immediate interest, or of solid, permanent value.

It is therefore indispensable to every one who wishes to keep pace with the events or intellectual progress of the time, or to cultivate in himself or his family general intelligence and literary taste.

Opinions.

"To have THE LIVING AGE is to hold the keys of the entire world of thought, of scientific investigation, psychological research, critical note, and poetical and romantic grace. It has been so bright, so comprehensive, so diversified in interest, as it is to-day."—Boston Traveller.

"It is one of the publications that intelligent people regard as practically indispensable. From its pages one learns what the world is thinking about. . . . It is an education in itself, as well as an entertainment."—Hartford Courant.

"It contains nearly all the good literature of the time. . . . There is nothing noteworthy in science, art, literature, biography, philosophy, or religion, that cannot be found in it. . . . It is a library in itself."—The Churchman, New York.

Club-Prices for the best Home and Foreign Literature.

"Possessed of THE LIVING AGE and one or other of our vivacious American monthlies, a subscriber will find himself in command of the whole situation."—Phila. Rev. Bulletin.

For $10.50, THE LIVING AGE and any one of the American $4 Monthlies (or Harper's Weekly or Bazar) will be sent for a year, postpaid; or, for $9.50, THE LIVING AGE and the St. Nicholas.

Address, LITTELL & CO., Boston.

A Sensible Back-Down.

A Washington despatch of Jan. 28th is as follows:

Last August the revenue cutter Corwin seized three British schooners engaged in the capture of seals in Alaskan waters. The United States court at Sitka confirmed the seizure, and the vessels were confiscated. The court decided that, under the treaty ceding Alaska to the United States, the Russian and American governments controlled jointly the waters of Behring's straits, and that one-half of the waters west from the Alaskan coast was a part of the jurisdiction of this country. Secretary Bayard to-day advised Minister Phelps at London that this government will not claim the jurisdiction, and that ample indemnity will be made to the owners of the condemned vessels. The secretary, however, claims that he will be able in return to obtain from the British and all other governments stipulations securing absolute protection in the future to the seal fisheries of Alaska.

Is is gratifying to find that if Sec. Bayard has not got backbone enough to use the means within his power for the protection of our fishermen from the unjust harassing of the Canadian government, he yet has decision enough to recede from an untenable position. How our government could refuse to accede to Canada's claim of exclusive jurisdiction over waters five or ten miles from the provincial coasts, and at the same time claim exclusive jurisdiction over waters a hundred miles or more from our coast, is not easy to reconcile with common sense and fair dealing.

Dissatisfied Knights.

The operative tailors in Boston, including machine operators, basters, pressers, and all others engaged in the manufacture of ready-made clothing, have decided to leave the Knights of Labor. There are about 4000 in all engaged at the business in the various branches, and it is stated by some of them that nearly 3000 were members of the knights in four or five assemblies. It is also reported that dissatisfaction exists among the marble-cutters of the city, and that they are considering the propriety of leaving the Knights of Labor.

My wife who has suffered with acute attacks of neuralgia in the head used Athlophoros, and its success was wonderful. After taking two doses the pain left her and she has not had an attack since. -John Auger, 129 Howe St., New Haven, Ct.

Two boys seventeen years old have been arrested in Boston for belonging to an organized gang of horse thieves. One of them is brother of an imprisoned burglar, and the other is his cousin.

Good and Reliable.

A good and reliable family medicine is Sulphur Bitters. Every spring for six years I have been troubled with boils. Since I began using Sulphur Bitters, I have not had a single one. You can rely on Sulphur Bitters every time.—Editor Weekly Times.

Catharine Donovan, aged sixty-five years, filthy of person and ragged of dress, was treated in a Boston hospital last week for a scalp wound. She had a bank book showing $7100 of deposits, and $269 in cash, concealed among the rags. Nothing is known of the old harridan.

Do not rot or injure your clothes by using washing powders or compounds, but use Beach's Washing Soap. Will not injure the finest fabrics.

BEACH SOAP Co., Dover, N. H.

The crew of six men of the schooner Charles Graham, which went to pieces on a shoal in a Nova Scotia bay in a hurricane and snow storm on Monday night of last week, and were all supposed to have perished, arrived at their homes in Halifax on Friday, the captain having been the only person lost. When the schooner went to pieces, all hands excepting the captain clung to the foremast, and were drifted upon a rock where they remained thirty-eight hours without food or drink, and with their clothing frozen stiff. They were not badly frost-bitten, and will all recover.

Catarrh is a constitutional disease. Hood's Sarsaparilla is a constitutional remedy. It cures catarrh. Give it a trial.

Carpenter H. Rigby is ordered to special duty at Washington, D. C., under Commander R. D. Evans.

"I was troubled with an eruption on my face, which was a source of constant annoyance when I wished to appear in company. After using ten bottles of Ayer's Sarsaparilla, the humor entirely disappeared."—Mary M. Wood, 40 Adams street, Lowell, Mass.

Acting Carpenter Osgood H. Hilton is ordered to special duty at San Francisco, Cal., under Naval Constructor Fernald.

Scott's Emulsion of Pure Cod Liver Oil, with Hypophosphites, is prepared in a perfectly agreeable form, at the same time increasing the remedial Potency of both of these specifics. It is acknowledged by leading physicians to be marvellous in its curative powers in consumption, scrofula, chronic coughs and wasting diseases. Take no other.

Carpenter K. M. A. Mahoney is detached from special duty at Chester, Pa., and ordered to special duty at Philadelphia.

The Effects of Mental Exhaustion.

Many diseases, especially those of the nervous system, are the products of daily renewed mental exhaustion. Business avocations often involve an amount of mental wear and tear very prejudicial to physical health, and the professions, if arduously pursued, are no less destructive to brain and nerve tissue. It is one of the most important attributes of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, that it compensates for this undue loss of tissue, and that it imparts new energy to the brain and nerves. The rapidity with which it renews weakened mental energy and physical vitality is remarkable, and shows that its invigorating properties are of the highest order. Besides increasing vital stamina, and counteracting the effects of mental exhaustion, this potential medicine cures and prevents fever and ague, rheumatism, chronic dyspepsia, and constipation, kidney and uterine weakness, and other complaints. Physicians also commend it as a medicated stimulant and remedy.

Murdered.

The body of Julius Baer was found by freighters five miles west of here Tuesday morning, in a terribly mangled condition. His head and face were smashed, so as to be hardly recognized, and numerous wounds were found on his body. Mr. Baer was agent for the great blood medicine, Sulphur Bitters. Robbery was undoubtedly the motive, as he was well known to have a large sum of money on his person. As we go to press there is no clew to the perpetrators.—Colorado Press.

Evidence of the value of Allcock's Porous Plasters comes in the following letter from Charles Yeager, of Company A, 11th U. S. Infantry, stationed at Fort Sully, Dakota: I have been using Allcock's Porous Plasters for the last ten years, and feel quite lost if I have not half a dozen in my possession. In this section of the country we have at times very severe cold. When the thermometer is below zero, I find that an Allcock's Porous Plaster on the pit of my stomach is invaluable. They appear not only to warm the body, but to invigorate digestion. At times I have been greatly troubled with a lame back. Two Allcock's Porous Plasters placed upon the spine invariably cure me in two or three days. Sometimes I have had a severe cough and very bad cold. An Allcock's Porous Plaster placed around the throat and on the chest, and one between the shoulder blades, have invariably afforded me immediate relief and a quick cure.

Although Attorney General Garland while a member of the senate took the ground that the inter-state commerce bill was unconstitutional, it is said that he has determined, upon a closer analysis of its provisions, that it does not conflict with the provisions of that American bulwark. If this proves to be the case it is thought the president will sign it in spite of the pressure which is being brought to bear upon him to send it back without his approval.

A Lost Mine Found.

Some of our readers are familiar with a tradition that the Jesuit fathers who once conducted the San Buenaventura, Santa Barbara, San Yuez, La Purissima, and San Fernando missions once successfully worked a mine located probably in what is now Ventura county. Tradition has it that the mine was worked near the beginning of the present century, after which it was covered with earth and all trace of its existence destroyed as far as possible, from which time its location has been a mystery to all but the few who worked it and were familiar with its history.

An old Indian whom the writer knew, and who died a few years ago in Santa Barbara county, aged, according to the baptismal record of Santa Barbara mission, 105 years, claimed to know where the rich mine was located, but he fully believed that he would be struck dead should he reveal it. He said that he and other friendly Indians who knew of it when the mouth was covered up and the mine abandoned, if we mistake not on account of hostile tribes, had taken a solemn oath never to let anyone know the place where it was located, and that they had been assured that treachery on their part would result in sure and sudden death. He, and we believe all others who professed to know anything about its existence, were unanimous in saying it was on the side of a mountain, and that it was a tunnel. But those who professed to know anything concerning its location have passed away, and by many it had become to be regarded as mere tradition; and as much time, money, and labor had been expended in searching for it many had come to believe its existence was mythical.

But about three weeks ago a professional prospector, a gentleman thoroughly conversant with the mines of Arizona, New Mexico, and Colorado, tracing the Calico ledge into this county, accidently came upon an old tunnel penetrating the side of a mountain, which he believes to be the lost Jesuit mine. He roughly estimates the length to be three hundred or four hundred feet, with the sides "coylied" in various directions. This gentleman and his partner were attracted to the spot by seeing cottonwood trees growing on the side of a mountain, and after reaching the spot they found them growing in the mouth of a tunnel.

Their appearance indicated that cottonwood limbs had been placed on end at the mouth of the tunnel and covered with earth, the dampness from within having caused them to grow. But the earth caved in, and washed by the rains of probably sixty or seventy winters, exposed the tunnel which had been so effectually concealed.

Near by were found the remains of old smelting works, and a silver brick weighing about one pound, which the prospector exhibited to us yesterday, was picked up. This prospector, who is an unusually intelligent man, first traced the Calico ledge into Arizona, then returning he traced it into Ventura county, and believes that he has found a ledge of mineral far more valuable than the Waterman or any other mine yet discovered in San Bernardino county. The specimens exhibited to us indicate rich ore, some of them carrying free gold, and if more developed may be a source of immense revenue to this county. The ledge is an extensive one and can easily be worked.—Ventura (Cal.) Free Press.

Had Met the Baron.

I think lying is older than gambling. The primordial protoplasmal globule lied, I believe. In old Olympus the gods lied like pirates, and if you read mythology you'll find that Jupiter had to lie to Juno nearly every night. And she caught him out nearly every time. Juno was a rustler. I don't believe lying ever reached such absolute perfection as in a man who came on the overland with a friend of mine lately. He could not be beaten on any proposition. They got talking about gold mines, and the Californian thought he knew a good deal about that subject. The stranger was a mine-owner.

"You should see my Peruvian mine," said the traveler. "That's the place where they have gold. "I've seen specimens—specimens that ran up into the hundreds of thousands."

"Well," said the Californian! "I have myself a specimen of pure virgin gold."

"My dear boy, I've had a hundred specimens that beat virgin gold."

"Say!" said the Californian, "in your travels did you ever hear of a man named Baron Munchausen?"

"Oh, yes. He owns the next claim to me."—San Francisco Chronicle.

Philadelphia boasts the recent acquisition of the second Chinawoman who ever put foot in Quakerdom. A reporter found her at the family washtub, and interviewed her: "Have you been in this country long? I heard you had just arrived." "How you hear?" "I am from a newspaper." "Oh, me know plenty leporters in Chicago—me live there." Then Mrs. Chik became somewhat coy. "How old think I am?" looking shyly from out of the washtub. "About twenty-five." She looked fifty. "Melican man know I'm forty. Got children in China—won't let boy come over; country's too wild. Going to 'dopt little Melican girl from folks. Must have black eye and hair—makee her Chinese." Mrs. Chik is the wife of a Chinese merchant, and is an enormous woman, with a stately bang, which, at the time of the visit, was bound with a red band and a pigtail which hung down her back. Mrs. Chik said, among other things, that last week she gave a supper to the American wives of four Chinamen in this city. Probably she meant it as a move to get into society.

A CHILD'S SKIN.

Ears and Scalp Covered with Eczematous Scabs and Sores Cured by Cuticura.

MY little son, aged eight years, has been afflicted with Eczema of the scalp, and at times a great portion of the body, ever since he was two years old. It began in his ears, and extended to his scalp, which became covered with scabs and sore, and from which a sticky fluid poured out, causing intense itching and distress, and leaving his hair matted and lifeless. Underneath these scabs the skin was raw, like a piece of beefsteak. Gradually the hair came out and was destroyed, until but a small patch was left at the back of the head. My friends in Peabody know how my little boy has suffered. At night he would scratch his head until his pillow was covered with blood. I used to tie his hands behind him, and in many ways tried to prevent his scratching; but it was no use, he would scratch. I took him to the hospital and to the best physicians in Peabody without success. About this time, some friends, who had been cured by the CUTICURA REMEDIES, prevailed upon me to try them. I began to use them on the 15th of January last. In seven months every particle of the disease was removed. Not a spot or scab remains on his scalp to tell the story of his suffering. His hair has returned, and is thick and strong, and his scalp as sweet and clean as any child's in the world. I cannot say enough to express my gratitude for this wonderful cure by the CUTICURA REMEDIES, and wish all similarly afflicted to know that my statement is true and without exaggeration. CHARLES MCKAY,

Oct. 6, 1885. Peabody, Mass.

I have seen Mr. McKay's boy when badly affected with the Eczema. He was a pitiful sight to look at. I know that he has tried our best physicians, and did all a father could do for a suffering child, but availed nothing. I know that the statements he has made you as regards the curing of his boy by your CUTICURA REMEDIES are true in every particular.

WILLIAM J. MCCARTHY,
33 Foster St., Peabody, Mass.

A Word About Catarrh.

"It is the mucous membrane, that wonderful semi-fluid envelope surrounding the delicate tissues of the air and food passages, that Catarrh makes its stronghold. Once established, it eats into the very vitals, and renders life but a long-drawn breath of misery and disease, dulling the sense of hearing, trammelling the power of speech, destroying the faculty of smell, tainting the breath, and killing the refined pleasures of taste. Insidiously, by creeping on from a simple cold in the head, it assaults the membraneous lining and envelops the bones, eating through the delicate coats and causing inflammation, sloughing and death. Nothing short of total eradication will secure health to the patient, and all alleviatives are simply procrastinated, sufferings, leading to a fatal termination. SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE, by Inhalation and by Internal administration, has never failed; even when the disease has made frightful inroads on delicate constitutions, hearing, smell and taste have been recovered, and the disease thoroughly driven out."

SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE consists of one bottle of the RADICAL CURE, one box CATARRHAL SOLVENT, and one IMPROVED INHALER, neatly wrapped in one package, with full directions; price, $1.00.

AUGUSTA, MAINE.

Great things have ever hinged on trifles. The first family difficulty on record was caused by an apple core; the last we heard of was the negligence of a father to keep up the supply of Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup when all hands had a cold.

It is stated that Gen. Aaron F. Stevens of Nashua, now in Florida, will return in April and enter the field as a candidate for United States senator.

Catarrh

Is a very prevalent and exceedingly disagreeable disease, liable, if neglected, to develop into serious consumption. Being a constitutional disease, it requires a constitutional remedy like Hood's Sarsaparilla, which, acting through the blood, reaches every part of the system, effecting a radical and permanent cure of catarrh in even its most severe forms. Made only by C. I. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass.

The Canadian Elections.

A private letter from a liberal member of the Canadian parliament to a friend in Washington says the prospects for the defeat of Sir John Macdonald in the coming elections are exceedingly bright. He adds that if the government is overturned the tone of Canadian sentiment toward the United States will certainly undergo a marked change for the better. The Canadians while still holding to the justice of their course, he adds, realize fully the meaning of strained relations with their southern neighbor, and that with new men in control of the machinery of government there will be more willingness to yield several points rather than precipitate the hostile feelings which have lately been so plainly shown in Congress.

MATTERS IN YORK.

YORK, ME., Jan. 29th.

MARRIED in York, Dec. 25th, 1886, at the Methodist Episcopal parsonage, by Rev. J. Albert Corey, Mr. Benjamin Lucas and Miss Martha O. Fisher, all of York.

The bride has very wealthy relatives in Massachusetts and Iowa, and on the occasion of her wedding was made the recipient of many rich and costly presents, of which the following is a partial list:

From Mrs. Joseph Fisher, West Dedham, Mass., half-dozen solid silver teaspoons; Mr. J. L. Fisher, Jr., and wife, duplex lamp; Miss Lizzie Fisher, elegant imported vase; Mrs. Edwin Moulton, Forest Hill, half-dozen silver forks, table linen, and glassware; Mr. George O. Moulton and wife, silver butter-knife and choice glass pitcher; Edward Moulton, half-dozen silver knives; Mr. Durell and family, Dorchester, half-dozen silver forks, half dozen teaspoons, two dessert spoons. The father of the bride, Mr. Addison Fisher of Iowa, sent a box well filled with useful and ornamental articles; also a casket with a plain exterior, but which on being opened was found to be lined with rich crimson satin, and to be filled with nice costly jewelry, silk handkerchiefs, etc.

Many other presents, too numerous to mention, were received from these and other friends; and still there are more to follow, word having been received that gifts are on their way from England. That prosperity may attend the newly married couple by the sea, is the wish of their very many friends in this community. S.

YORK CORNER, ME., Jan. 31st.

Putnam's Express Co. lost a horse last Monday; cause unknown. They were fortunate in the fact that it was the least valuable one they had.

A. A. Thompson also lost a horse the same day, caused, as he says in his claim against the town, by damage from defective highway—unbroken roads. He places his damages at sixty dollars. The town will probably refuse to pay, as they think the death occured at too long a period after the damage is alleged to have been done. P.

President Cleveland has sent to Congress the sword of the late Capt. Samuel Chester Reid, who commanded the United States private armed brig-of-war Gen. Armstrong at the battle of Fayal, Azores, in September, 1814. This action has well been called the "Thermopylæ of the Ocean," for no naval battle in ancient or modern history is comparable with that of the Gen. Armstrong at Fayal, either as to the unequal forces engaged, the unyielding and inflexible bravery of her officers and crew, nor as to the grand results which followed in the defeat of the British expedition against Louisiana. The sword was presented by Col. S. C. Reid, son of Capt. Reid, and will be placed in the National Museum.

At Hopkinton, Mass., serious trouble in the shoe business is feared. There are four large factories, capable of turning out 2000 cases a day. The lasters, treers and finishers have submitted price lists for the coming year, demanding an increase; the manufacturers say there is no money (for them) in the business even at present prices; and it is likely the shops will close, or else be run as free shops, in which the employers will have something to do with fixing the rate of wages.

Lieut. Peter Campbell, U. S. A., attending the school of application at Fort Leavenworth, Kansas, committed suicide last week by shooting himself in the head. The cause assigned for the deed was that he had failed to attend to some of his official duties, and he had been ordered to appear before a court martial.

All the members of the common council of Newport, R. I., resigned last week and asked the legislature to authorize the mayor to accept the resignations. This ends a deadlock which has existed since Jan. 3d.

By the great floods in southern Queensland, Australia, fifty-eight persons were drowned and much damage was done to property.

Mr. Frye interrupted a debate in the senate one day last week to read the associated press dispatch from Eastport with regard to the Dominion cruiser Middleton that was watching to capture any American vessels that might venture to cross the line, while at the same time many provincial vessels were fishing close in on the American shore.

It will not be long now before strawberries will be coaxed into premature appearances at elaborate banquets.

At Saco, Jan. 28th, the jury in the case State vs. Stillman G. Thompson of Kennebunk, charged with criminel libel against Etta Waterhouse of the same town, returned a verdict of guilty on all three counts of the indictment. The case goes to the law term on exceptions, and Thompson recognized in $1000 to prosecute the exceptions.

Cobb's Complexion Soap heals chapped hands, and is the choicest of all soaps for the toilet and bath. For sale by David Kimball & Co., F. B. Coleman, Wm. D. Grace and A. P. Preston.

For eight dollars a good all-wool overcoat, not heavy, serviceable the year round, at No. 6 Market street. J. W. Moses.

There was good skating on the marsh inside the marginal road, at the head of the south pond, Monday, the overflow of water having frozen there quite smoothly. There was very fair skating on the pond itself, in some places; and between the two ridges of snow on each side of the boulevard, dumped there by the city teams when hauled off the streets, there was a bed of hard and smooth though somewhat uneven ice throughout the length of the road.

WHY IS IT

That rheumatism and neuralgia are so prevalent? This question has not been satisfactorily answered, but it is certain that these diseases are not only the most painful but among the most common, and some member of nearly every family in the land is the victim of one of these dread tormentors. Ladies seem to be peculiarly liable to neuralgic attacks, which, in the form of neuralgic headache, pain in the back, or nervous pains are of constant occurrence. Not until the discovery of Athlophoros had any remedy been found for either rheumatism, neuralgia or nervous headache, and they were generally conceded to be incurable, but Athlophoros has been proved to be not only a certain cure for these diseases, in all their varied forms, but a safe remedy. If, in the use of Athlophoros, the bowels are kept freely open, its success is certain, and to aid this, Athlophoros Pills are recommended, which, while providing the necessary cathartic, will be found to be a valuable aid to the action of the medicine. Athlophoros is no experiment, it has been tested and has proved its wonderful efficacy.

The Athlophoros Pills were originally prepared as a remedy for use in connection with Athlophoros, for rheumatism and neuralgia and kindred complaints. Used in connection with that remedy, they are a certain cure for either of these very common and distressing diseases. They have also been found to be an invaluable remedy for any and all diseases arising from vitiated blood or general debility. They are especially valuable for nervous debility, blood poisoning, dyspepsia, distress after eating, headache, constipation, loss of appetite, and all stomach or liver troubles. For diseases of women they are invaluable. These pills are perfectly harmless and may be safely used by adults or children.

Testimonials of those who have been cured will be sent free on application.

Every druggist should keep Athlophoros and Athlophoros Pills, but where they cannot be bought of the druggist, the Athlophoros Co., 112 Wall St., New York, will send either (carriage paid) on receipt of regular price, which is $1.00 per bottle for Athlophoros and 50c. for Pills.

SOLDIERS' AND SAILORS' MONUMENT.

In response to the call of the mayor a meeting of those interested in the erection of a soldiers' and sailors' monument in this city was held at the city rooms, Monday evening, Jan. 31st. The treasurer's report showed that there had been paid into the fund $2,821.32, and $885 subscribed but not yet collected. The treasurer further reported that an additional sum of $1,000 would undoubtedly be subscribed as soon as the location was definitely decided. Mayor Eldredge then announced to the meeting that the heirs of Heman Eldredge, consisting of Mrs. Heman Eldredge, H. F. Eldredge, and himself, would donate to the city the Goodwin lot, on Islington street, providing the sum already raised shall be increased to $5,000, the monument be erected therein, and the lot kept for a public park. This generous offer was received with great applause, and the following resolution was unanimously adopted:

At a called meeting of the Soldiers' and Sailors' Monument Committee, the chairman, Hon. Marcellus Eldredge, having on behalf of the Eldredge heirs, consisting of Mrs. Heman Eldredge, Hon. M. Eldredge, and H. F. Eldredge, Esq., tendered the gift of the Goodwin lot on Islington street, with the sole conditions of the raising of the amount to $5,000 by the citizens and the acceptance of the lot by the city, it is hereby

Resolved, That we acknowledge with heartfelt thanks the munificence of the gift, as well as the unselfish motives governing it.

A committee consisting of Messrs. D. J. Vaughan, C. M. Gignoux, J. W. Parsons, John Albee and E. P. Kimball was appointed to present on the behalf of the donors, this gift to the city government, and ask its acceptance.

After remarks from various gentlemen expressing high appreciation of the generosity and public spirit shown by this very liberal offer, the meeting adjourned to the call of the chair.

There can be no doubt that the city government will vote unanimously to accept this donation in the spirit in which it is given. No more appropriate place can be found than the lot owned by our beloved War Governor, and apposite the mansion in which he so long resided, for the erection of the monument, and the generosity of the chief magistrate and his mother and brother has placed it within the power of the committee to provide a memorial shaft that will always be a pride and ornament, and a public park that will adorn and beautify our city.

KNIGHTS OF PYTHIAS BALL.

Before the concert commenced, at eight o'clock, the galleries were packed with spectators, and the seats around the hall and the space beneath the main gallery were filled. The music for the grand march, which was led by Mr. George H. Sanderson and Miss Alice M. Perkins, and was participated in by eighty-three couples, struck up at 9:15, and from that time until after midnight the floor was occupied by a happy throng quite as large as could conveniently find dancing room.

MAN LOST.

The fishing schooner Northern Eagle, of Gloucester, Mass., Capt. Aleck McCloud, came into this port Monday afternoon with her flag at half-mast, having lost one of her crew, named Michael MacDougall. The schooner was fishing in Ipswich bay, and at four o'clock last Friday afternoon MacDougall left the vessel to set his trawls, and has not since been seen or heard from. There was a strong breeze from the southwest when he started, and considerable sea, but nothing to endanger a skilled fisherman in a good dory; and he met with no accident while setting his trawls, as they were found set all right Saturday morning. The night was clear, so he should have had no difficulty in seeing the schooner, and her crew are wholly at a loss to account for his disappearance. The wind was blowing almost directly toward the Isles of Shoals from the schooner at the time he was lost, and it was thought possible that if he was blown away that he might have effected a landing on the islands. The missing man was a native of Medway, Cape Breton, and aged about twenty-five years.

TRUANCY TO BE STOPPED.

Mr. Morss, superintendent of schools, proposes to put a stop to truancy or the unwarranted absence of pupils from school, and to that end has issued the following card:

DIRECTIONS TO TEACHERS.

A box for the reception of "Truant Cards" has been placed outside the door of the superintendent's office. The officers will open the box at 10 A. M. and 2:30 P. M., and investigate all absences reported.

Suspicious absences should be reported at once on a "Truant Card," and the card deposited in the box before 10 A. M. or 2:30 P. M.

Do not send pupils to inquire for absentees. If there is a suspicion that the absence is unwarranted, send a "Truant Card" to the box.

Be sure that the cards are deposited in the Truant Box and not in the Letter Box. C. H. MORSS.

The knowledge that any case of suspicious absence will be at once investigated by the truant officer, will undoubtedly do much toward stopping truancy. The superintendent and city marshal will have the approval and support of all reputable citizens in the endeavor to break up the reprehensible practice.

MARITIME NOTES.

The fishing schooner Grace Choate, of this port, went on Bass rock, on the Pelree's island side of the narrows, about four o'clock Sunday afternoon, and though the aid of steam was promptly invoked and several lines were parted, she remained hard and fast until six o'clock Monday morning, when having shifted her ballast she came off with the assistance of the steamer James Sampson, and apparently without other damage than the loss of a piece of her shoe.

England is to send several vessels of war to aid the Dominion cruisers in driving the American fishermen from Canadian shores, and protecting British fishermen while fishing against law in American waters. Our navy department will send—let us consider for a moment—it will send its official compliments, and offer the use of the dry dock at our navy yard in case any of her majesty's cruisers, going too near our coast, should scrape off their copper and need to be docked for examination or repair. There is nothing that this administration is bellicose about, save and except the offices.

The Dominion customs department has decided to release the American fishing schooners Jeannette and Maggie Mitchell, which were seized by the cruiser Middleton at St. Andrew's, N. B., on the payment by the schooners of fines of $50 and $100 respectively.

THE POLICE RECORD.

The annual report of the city marshal for the year 1886, as submitted to the board of mayor and aldermen, gives the total number of arrests during the year as 842; lodgers at police station, 788, a falling off of over twenty per cent from the number of the previous year; amount of fines and costs collected, $459.79; amount for dog licenses, $119; total collections, $578.79. There were committed to the county farm at Brentwood during the year 127 persons; to Portsmouth jail, fifty-seven; to insane asylum at Concord, two, at Brentwood, one; to state industrial school at Manchester, three; to Portsmouth city farm, two.

The committee of the city government appointed to investigate the condition of the city farm buildings, will make their official visit to that institution one day this week.

"Our Irish Visitors," a laughable absurdity, will be presented in Music hall on the evening of Thursday, Feb. 3d, by Messrs. Murray and Murphy, under the management of J. M. Hill. See adv't.

We regret to learn that the wife of Lieut. Comdr. Asa Walker, U. S. N., of this city, is dangerously ill at Annapolis, Md. Many of our citizens will remember Mrs. Walker as Miss Lucy Brooks, daughter of the late Deacon John Brooks of this city.

York lodge, Daughters of Rebekah, of Kittery, have received and accepted an invitation to visit the Daughters of Rebekah lodge in this city, Feb. 15th.

Rear Admiral Edward Y. McCauley was on Tuesday, Jan. 25th, placed on the retired list of the navy, this retirement promoting Commodore Lewis A. Kimberly to be a rear admiral. Commodore Philip C. Johnson, who died at the Portsmouth navy yard Jan. 28th, was first on the list of commodores at the time of his death, and but for his demise would have been promoted to rear admiral by Rear Adm. McCauley's retirement. Commodore Johnson was a member of the Naval Relief association, and Mrs. Johnson will receive therefrom a benefit of $4000.

A correspondent at South Berwick, Me., writes a Biddeford paper as follows: "Dr. E. C. Blaisdell has opened an office for the practice of dentistry in Portsmouth, but will continue his business here for the present. Since he has been here he has built up a large practice, and has gained the good will and esteem of all with whom he has come in contact, and has become deservedly popular. It will be regretted by many should a permament removal be decided upon."

Work on the railroad bridge across York river has commenced under the superintendence of Reuben B. Morgan, of Concordville, York; piles are being placed in position and driven by steam at the rate of about forty per day. It is reported that Levi Briard of Kittery will have charge of the pile driving for the bridge across York harbor.

The city book is in the hands of the printer.

At the meeting of the New England Historic Genealogical society on Wednesday afternoon, Rev. Andrew P. Peabody, D. D., of Cambridge, will read a paper on Dr. Manasseh Cutler.

Insurance Notice.
THE OLD INSURANCE AGENCY,
AT THE OLD STAND,
No. 13 Pleasant Street,
PORTSMOUTH, N. H.
To my Old Customers and Friends. Are you insured? When your home or other property is being consumed by a raging fire, a good insurance policy is a great comfort. The subscriber, with his experience of fifteen years, is now prepared to place your Insurance in the Insurance Companies of New Hampshire, and in Companies organized in other States. No one can place your Insurance better or safer!
NOTE.—Mr. Ilsley, my late copartner, still states in his published card, that he purchased of me all my right to the "Fire Insurance Business of our late firm." I have heretofore denied this statement. He never offered to buy of me the business or goodwill of the firm, and I never offered or even thought of selling out my business. I hired our old office, and advertised to carry on the business in all its branches, weeks before a final settlement. Now, if he has a bill of sale, bond or any agreement whereby I conveyed to him any rights to the goodwill of the old firm or any rights to do a Fire Insurance Business in New Hampshire with old or new customers, let him prosecute me for a breach of contract, or cease publishing or repeating his false statement. I am ready to meet this issue in any court of justice. I make this statement in justice to my customers and friends and to vindicate my own integrity.

LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S VEGETABLE COMPOUND.

Is a Positive Cure

For ALL of those Painful Delicate Complaints and Complicated troubles and Weaknesses so common among our Wives, Mothers, and Daughters.

PLEASANT TO THE TASTE, EFFECACIOUS, TRANSMITTE AND LASTING IN ITS EFFECT. IN LIQUID, PILL OR LOZENGE FORM, $1 FOR $5.) REMEDY SENT BY MAIL; CURE FROM OBSERVATION, ON RECEIPT OF PRICE. MRS. PINKHAM'S "GUIDE TO HEALTH" AND CONFIDENTIAL CIRCULAR MAILED TO LADY INQUIRERS, ADDRESS AND STAMP TO LYNN, MASS. Mention this Paper.

Lydia E. Pinkham

Ladies' Weaknesses.

Mr. T. H. Gafford of Church Hill, Md., is so thankful for the restoration of his wife to complete health, that he is willing to certify to the fact and manner of her cure. To Mrs. Lydia E. Pinkham: This is to certify to the grand effects of your Vegetable Compound. My wife was suffering from a terrible disease which seemed to baffle the skill of the best medical men. She was in a poor languid, depressed, nervous condition. We finally concluded to try your Vegetable Compound and to our great surprise the half of one bottle had not been taken before there seemed to be a thorough change to her whole condition, and now to-day she is in good health and entirely relieved from all former depressed feelings.

T. H. GAFFORD and wife.

PHYSICAL SALVATION.

"Blessed Art Thou above all Others."

Some of the expressions of gratitude for the physical regeneration wrought by Mrs. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound read like the rejoicings of converts after a religious revival. It brings Salvation to the body. A lady in Franklin Parish, La., writes: "I tried one bottle of your Compound for Prolapsus Uteri and Leucorrhea. I never had anything in my life that did me as much good. I was hardly able to walk about without difficulty. I could not step upon anything without pain. When I think how much good that one bottle did me, I feel as if I could fall on my knees to you and say: Blessed art thou above all others, for thou art one of the greatest benefactors that woman ever had."

Sayings of Old Women.

If on going out of the house you forget something you must under no circumstances turn back if you can possibly avoid it. If you do you must at any rate sit down, a moment before going out again.

If the first person you meet is an old woman, it is a sign of a coming misfortune; while, on the contrary, a funeral procession denotes good fortune.

Pigs to your left bring you luck, to your right the opposite; to avert which, grasp something made of steel and the spell will be broken.

If on setting out on a journey you meet a sow with pigs your enterprise will be sure to be successful.

To meet two magpies portends marriage; three, a successful journey; four unexpected good news.

To see one magpie and then one is unlucky; to kill one of these birds is irreirevable misfortune. It is unlucky to kill a swallow.

If your left hand itches you will take in money; if your right, you will pay it out.

A ringing in the right ear means that someone is speaking well of you; in your left, you may be sure that evil tongues are busy with you.

If your right eye itches you will see some beautiful sight; if the left, you will have cause to shed tears.

If your nose itches you will hear some news or—will fall into the mire.—Philadelphia News.

Justice Gray of the Supreme Court is the largest man that walks Pennsylvania avenue. He has to stoop for most doorways. He is a tremendous worker, never tired, but rather retired. He is a stout, rosy, happy bachelor. That he is the last makes him rather difficult with young girls. It burts him to have to say, "How d'ye do, how d'ye do, little girls?" to young persons. He is, however, very popular, and his matrimonial fate is an object of interest. He denies that he is engaged to be married.

Thomas D. Noyes of this city, a graduate of the high school, class of '86, has this week entered Bryant & Stratton's commercial college at Boston. There are now three members of the class of '86 studying in that institution, Arthur Rand and Everett Trefethen having entered it some time ago.

James R. Yeaton has bought the strip of marsh land between his greenhouse on Richards avenue and the westerly end of the marginal road, and John J. Pickering has bought the open lot on the other side of the avenue, down to the old Dennett house. Charles E. Walker is reported as having bought the Aaron Hill place on State street.

Daniel Donovan, alias "Cobbler," a Biddeford rumseller against whom three indictments were pending, attempted to escape from Saco jail on the night of Sunday, Jan. 30th. His arm is so small that he was able to reach through the grates and pick the lock on the cell door. Then with saws, evidently furnished by some one who visited him on Sunday, he sawed off two inch bars at a window, and was about to escape when he was captured by Jailer Fenderson. He was taken to the county jail at Alfred on Monday, Jan. 31st. Donovan is a notorious criminal. He once served a sentence in the Massachusetts state prison, but ate hard soap, was taken seriously sick, and was pardoned by Governor Butler "to save his life."

George Pillsbury and Hector Scott, two young fellows aged about eighteen years, ran away from their homes in Sanford, Me., the first of last week, to enlist in the navy, as before starting they told their confidential friends. They had been reading the "dime novel" of the period, and this probably induced them to leave comfortable homes.

The Effects of Mental Exhaustion.

Many diseases, especially those of the nervous system, are the products of daily renewed mental exhaustion. Business avocations often involve an amount of mental wear and tear very prejudicial to physical health, and the professions, if arduously pursued, are no less destructive to brain and nerve tissue. It is one of the most important attributes of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, that it compensates for this undue loss of tissue, and that it imparts new energy to the brain and nerves. The rapidity with which it renews wakened mental energy and physical vitality is remarkable, and shows that its invigorating properties are of the highest order. Besides increasing vital stamina, and counteracting the effects of mental exhaustion, this potential medicine cures and prevents fever and ague, rheumatism, chronic dyspepsia, and constipation, kidney and uterine weakness, and other complaints. Physicians also commend it as a medicated stimulant and remedy.

When the schooner Grace Choate went ashore on Peirce's island, last Sunday afternoon, the little steamer Pinafore, Capt. Oscar Laighton, was just astern of her, coming in from the Shoals, and at once went to the schooner's assistance, pulling on her repeatedly, and snapping the schooner's ropes as fast as they could be passed out. Had the vessel had a stout enough rope handy the little boat would probably have pulled her off at once.

Murdered.

The body of Julius Baer was found by freighters five miles west of here Tuesday morning, in a terribly mangled condition. His head and face were smashed, so as to be hardly recognized, and numerous wounds were found on his body. Mr. Baer was agent for the great blood medicine, Sulphur Bitters. Robbery was undoubtedly the motive, as he was well known to have a large sum of money on his person. As we go to press there is no clew to the perpetrators.—Colorado Press.

The strike among the coal handlers and the longshoremen, and fears as to the effects of the interstate commerce bill should it become a law, are the two factors of the greatest importance in the trade situation to-day. Each of these exerts an unsettling influence, and although they have resulted in no general diminution in the volume of transactions they have caused a much more cautious spirit, which is everywhere manifested. Even in the iron and steel industries a more conservative feeling is reported, and there is wanting that extreme buoyancy which formerly characterized them. While confidence in the future in most lines of trade is brighter than it was a year ago, the inclination to go slowly for the time being is everywhere shown.

WIT AND HUMOR.

The young man who persuades himself that two people can live as cheaply as one can always find a girl to help him try the experiment.—Philadelphia Call.

There is a great deal of truth in the well-worn quotation, "Man wants but little here below," after all. It is woman who wants everything in this world.—Lowell Citizen.

Passenger (to street-car conductor)—How is the fight between you and the management coming on? Conductor (looking cautiously about)—We are getting all the "knock-downs."—N. Y. Sun.

Dobson erected a danger signal. "You are fixing it, I suppose," remarked Thompson, "so that he who runs may read." "On the contrary," replied Dobson, "I am fixing it so that he who reads may run."—Pittsburg Dispatch.

Young woman (at Central Park menagerie)—And what is the name of that old-looking bird, papa? Papa—That is a stork, my dear. Young woman (surprised)—Are you sure? I had always supposed that storks had but one leg.—N. Y. Sun.

"Our people desire extempore sermons, and yet you persist in using notes." Famishing pastor—"My dear brother, as I never have any notes in my pocketbook to use, you should not object to my using them in the pulpit."—Philadelphia Call.

Our small boy—4 next month—striking a distressing attitude, with his hand on his abdomen, thus explains to papa what were his sensations when mamma found it necessary to rebuke him very sharply: "It made the feel-badly come all up fru my tummic!"—Babyhood.

It is said that the favorite amusement of the Czar of all the Russias is to lie at full length for hours in front of an open fire. We suspect, however, that he does this not so much for the fun as in order to detect any Nihilist who might take it into his head to come down the chimney after the royal nibs.—Lowell Citizen.

Miss Ingenue—How is it one never sees any but the most desirable young men attentive to your daughters? Mrs. Worldly—You see, my dear, in the beginning I engage the young men in a game of cribbage, where the cards are dealt one at a time. If they deal five and then stop that settles them. They play poker.—Puck.

Little Mabel, 5 years old, is not so young but that she has picked up some knowledge of the ways of the world. She said to her mother the other day, after a fit of deep musing: "Say, mamma, who was papa before he married us, anyway?" "Who was papa? Why, he was the same man that he is now." "Yes; but what was he to you? Was he just a man that you mashed?"—Boston Record.

Fond and partial mamma—"Why are all those men crowding about that Hopkins girl, Mamie? I can't imagine what they see in her. She isn't rich, she isn't pretty; she can't do anything but recite, and she does that badly. I wonder Mrs. Smith asked her here." Experienced daughter—"You don't understand, mamma. They're a committee. Mrs. Smith detailed them—to keep her talking."—Puck.

A burglar who was doing a neat job on a safe was horrified, on looking up, to see a man standing quietly beside him. He was about to retire, when the gentleman said: "Go ahead. I am interested in that job." "Why?" asked the astonished burglar. "Because I have forgotten the combination, and no living person knew it but myself. If you can get that safe open I'll make it worth your while."—Burlington Free Press.

The Providence Journal tells of a hard-up type-setter who tried hard to go up to the composing room to see a friend. He was refused permission, and so sent up this note: "Friend——; Please send me down a V. Yours, Sam ——." Very soon an answer came. There was a small package and a note reading: "Sam——: You didn't say what kind of a 'V' you want so I send you an agate lower case, that being the most numerous in my collection."

Unreasonable Old Man (to bruised and maimed son)—"There you are, with one eye gouged out, both ears gone, a dislocated shoulder blade, broken arm, and fractured leg, with whisky enough in you to start a liquor store, and all for a college game of football. It's outrageous, disgraceful!" Bruised and Maimed Son (reproachfully—"Father, you seem to forget that you were a young gentleman yourself once."—N. Y. Sun.

A singularly cruel sport called "goat" is affected by the Afghan cavalry, according to a correspondent with the Afghan Boundary commission, who writes: "It consists of one man seizing a goat and riding off with it, followed by all the rest, who try to get hold of the unfortunate animal, and tear off as big a piece as they can. This continues until the goat is torn to pieces, and the man who has obtained the largest portion wins the game. The game is played for a certain stated time and the man who has the goat at the moment time is called is the winner. The way the men playing use their whips on each other and on their own and their adversaries' horses is a caution. The game, as usually played, must be a very cruel one, as the goat is seized while alive, but at Shadian the poor beast was killed beforehand—a much more merciful proceeding. The man who carries the goat has a bad time of it, and it is not an easy matter to hold on the saddle by putting the hind legs under one thigh and going off at a gallop, with the carcass banging the flanks of his horse."

A CHILD'S SKIN.

Ears and Scalp Covered with Eczematous Scabs and Sores Cured by Cuticura.

MY little son, aged eight years, has been afflicted with Eczema of the scalp, and at times a great portion of the body, ever since he was two years old. It began in his ears, and extended to his scalp, which became covered with scabs and sores, and from which a sticky fluid poured out, causing intense itching and distress, and leaving his hair matted and I believe. Underneath these scabs the skin was raw, like a piece of beefsteak. Gradually the hair came out and was destroyed, until but a small patch was left at the back of the head. My friends in Peabody know how my little boy has suffered. At night he would scratch his head until his pillow was covered with blood. I used to tie his hands behind him, and in many ways tried to prevent his scratching; but it was no use, he would scratch. I took him to the hospital and to the best physicians in Peabody without success. About this time, some friends, who had been cured by the CUTICURA REMEDIES, prevailed upon me to try them. I began to use them on the 15th of January last. In seven months every particle of the disease was removed. Not a spot or scab remains on his scalp to tell the story of his suffering. His hair has returned, and is thick and strong, and his scalp as sweet and clean as any child's in the world. I cannot say enough to express my great gratitude for this wonderful cure by the CUTICURA REMEDIES, and wish all similarly afflicted to know that my statement is true and without exaggeration. CHARLES McKAY,
Oct. 6, 1885. Peabody, Mass.

I have seen Mr. McKay's boy when badly affected with the Eczema. He was a pitiful sight to look at. I know that he has tried our best physicians, and did all a father could do for a suffering child, but availed nothing. I know that the statements he has made you as regards the curing of his boy by your CUTICURA REMEDIES are true in every particular.
WILLIAM J. McCARTHY,
53 Foster St., Peabody, Mass.

I do not know of any instance in which the Cuticura Remedies have failed to produce satisfactory results. I believe I have sold more of them than of any other skin remedies I have ever handled during the thirty-three years of my experience as a druggist.
A. D. TRYON, Batavia, N. Y.

A Word About Catarrh.

"It is the mucous membrane, that wonderful semi-fluid envelope surrounding the delicate tissues of the air and food passages, that Catarrh makes its stronghold. Once established, it eats into the very vitals, and renders life but a long-drawn breath of misery and disease, quelling the sense of hearing, trammelling the power of speech, destroying the faculty of smell, tainting the breath, and killing the refiner pleasures of taste. Insidiously, by creeping on from a simple cold in the head, it assaults the membranous lining and envelops the bones, eating through the delicate coats and causing inflammation, sloughing and death. Nothing short of total eradication will secure health to the patient, and all alleviatives are simply procrastinated sufferings, leading to a fatal termination. SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE, by Inhalation and by Internal administration, has never failed; even when the disease has made frightful inroads on delicate constitutions, hearing, smell and taste have been recovered, and the disease thoroughly driven out."

SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE consists of one bottle of the RADICAL CURE, one box CATARRHAL SOLVENT, and one IMPROVED INHALER, neatly wrapped in one package, with full directions; price, $1.00.

AUGUSTA, MAINE.

Great things have ever hinged on trifles. The first family difficulty on record was caused by an apple core; the last we heard of was the negligence of a father to keep up the supply of Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup when all hands had a cold.

Lola M. Dow of Manchester, the sixteen-year-old girl who was reported to have run off to join the Ella Hill burlesque company, has been found working in a factory in Maine.

Catarrh

Is a very prevalent and exceedingly disagreeable disease, liable, if neglected, to develop into serious consumption. Being a constitutional disease, it requires a constitutional remedy like Hood's Sarsaparilla, which, acting through the blood, reaches every part of the system, effecting a radical and permanent cure of catarrh in even its most severe forms. Made only by C. I. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass.

Grand Army of the Republic.

The 19th annual encampment of the New Hampshire Department, Grand Army of the Republic, commenced at Manchester on Tuesday, Feb. 1st. At four o'clock P. M. the encampment was opened in form at Mechanics' hall; the roll call, reception of reports, appointment of committees, etc., consumed the time till six o'clock, when adjournment was taken for supper, and for a grand reception to Commander-in-Chief Lucius Fairchild. The reception, which was under the management of the president and two vice presidents of the Woman's Relief Corps of this department, was a most brilliant affair.

To-day (Wednesday) the election of officers will take place. The Woman's Relief Corps, Department of New Hampshire, is holding its annual session in Manchester at the same time.

A Queer Incident.

At three o'clock last Friday morning burglars broke into the office of S. G. Hillyas & Co. at Pennsburg, Pa., and secured a safe weighing 1,200 pounds, in which was a large sum of money and papers valued at over $50,000. They loaded it upon a truck on a railroad and started south. Nearing McLean's station the whistle of a fast freight approaching them on the same track was heard. Not having time to unload, the burglars deserted the truck and ran off. The night was very dark and the engineer did not see the obstruction, which the engine struck with great force. The truck was shattered and the safe thrown into a ditch. No serious damage was done to the train. The safe was returned to the owners.

Train Robbers Caught.

Two detectives, accompanied by four men and bloodhounds started a short time ago in pursuit of a gang of train robbers who have been operating in New Mexico for the past six months. News reached Albuquerque on Sunday, Jan. 30th, that the robbers had been overtaken, and that a desperate encounter at close range ensued. The robbers were tracked into Hell's Canyon, and when they discovered that they were surrounded they made a determined defence, but the detectives and their party were the victors. During the fight one of the robbers was fatally wounded. Two others were captured, but the fourth made his escape. Lynching is expected.

A Devilish Outrage.

An explosion took place Monday on board the Old Dominion steamer Guyandotte when the boat was off Long Branch, N. J., on her way from New York to Norfolk, Va., doing damage estimated at $2,000, and wounding two of the steamer's men. It was an infernal machine in a valise that did the mischief. The great strike of longshoremen commenced in a boycott of the Old Dominion line, and this piece of murderous villainy was no doubt an outgrowth of it.

The Episcopal Church.

The 86th annual report of the Protestant Episcopal church for the diocese of New Hampshire shows that the fund for the support of the Episcopate has reached $39,358, an increase of $3,813. The statistical table shows confirmations, 215; communicants, 2,417; increase, 171; Sunday school officers and teachers, 179; decrease, 4; scholars, 1231; decrease, 36.

MARITIME NOTES.

Michael MacDougall, the man lost from the schooner Northern Eagle last Friday night in Ipswich bay, and whom it was hoped had effected a landing at the Shoals or been picked up by some other vessel, has not been heard from. The steamer Pioafore was in from the Shoals on Monday, and reported that he had not appeared there; and a telephone message from Gloucester on Tuesday morning stated that none of the vessels arriving at that port had seen anything of him.

Two thousand boxes of fish have this season been shipped from Commercial wharf to the metropolitan markets—well up to 500 tons. Of this number E. Newton & Co. shipped 1,300 boxes, and Edw. Jameson 700. Add to this total the amounts shipped by other dealers, and it would show that the fishing industry of this port is important enough to deserve encouragement.

Quite a large school of seals were playing about in the waters of the harbor on Monday, off Rollins' wharf.

The schooner Franklin S. Schenck, Capt. Jameson, which has been engaged in fishing out of this port this winter, and was the victor in the recent battle of Ipswich bay, has been on the ways at Gloucester for repairs—her need of repairs, however, having arisen in the ordinary course, and not in any degree been caused by her participation in the naval conflict. She was expected to arrive back at this port on Tuesday, the 1st inst., or Wednesday.

The schooner Mary E. Smith, of Newburyport, on Monday morning last at three o'clock got foul of an unknown fishing schooner at anchor off the Dow farm, Rye, and had her mainsail badly torn. For a short time it looked as though a serious accident must result from the collision, and the Mary E. Smith was well pleased to get out of it with no other harm than a torn sail.

The receipts of fish at this port for a week, up to Monday night, were very light, the trawlers doing but little, and the gill-netters absolutely nothing. The only day when anything worth mentioning came in was on Monday, when fares were landed as follows: Schooner Northern Eagle, 6,000 lbs.; Mary E. Smith, 1,500; Lady Thorn, 1,000; Grace Choate, 5,000; Georgia Hagan, 1,700; Alabama, 500; Flora Temple, 1,000; Hattie N. Reed, 2,500; Helen F. Tredick, 600; Clyde, 600; and several other still smaller lots. A number of the Gloucester net fishermen, discouraged by their long-continued lack of success, have gone to Gloucester to haul up, or to fit out for trawl fishing. The Northern Eagle, which was the first vessel to fit out for net fishing on this coast, and which during the first winter or two of her experience with nets thought nothing of bringing in fares of twenty or thirty thousand pounds two or three times a week, is one of those which has abandoned nets for trawls; she started in with nets this winter, fishing out of this port, but had such poor luck that she went across to Gloucester and changed her gear; and the trip on which she lost a man in Ipswich bay, as previously reported, was the first one made by her this season as a trawler.

The first annual concert and ball of Local Assembly 4921, Knights of Labor, of Salmon Falls, will be held next Friday evening in Newichawanick hall, South Berwick, Me.

WHY IS IT

That rheumatism and neuralgia are so prevalent? This question has not been satisfactorily answered, but it is certain that these diseases are not only the most painful but among the most common, and some member of nearly every family in the land is the victim of one of these dread tormentors. Ladies seem to be peculiarly liable to neuralgic attacks, which, in the form of neuralgic headache, pain in the back, or nervous pains are of constant occurrence. Not until the discovery of Athlophoros had any remedy been found for either rheumatism, neuralgia or nervous headache, and they were generally conceded to be incurable, but Athlophoros has been proved to be not only a certain cure for these diseases, in all their varied forms, but a safe remedy. If, in the use of Athlophoros, the bowels are kept freely open, its success is certain, and to aid this, Athlophoros Pills are recommended, which, while providing the necessary cathartic, will be found to be a valuable aid to the action of the medicine. Athlophoros is no experiment, it has been tested and has proved its wonderful efficacy.

The Athlophoros Pills were originally prepared as a remedy for use in connection with Athlophoros, for rheumatism and neuralgia and kindred complaints. Used in connection with that remedy, they are a certain cure for either of these very common and distressing diseases. They have also been found to be an invaluable remedy for any and all diseases arising from vitiated blood or general debility. They are especially valuable for nervous debility, blood poisoning, dyspepsia, distress after eating, headache, constipation, loss of appetite, and all stomach or liver troubles. For diseases of women they are invaluable. These pills are perfectly harmless and may be safely used by adults or children.

Testimonials of those who have been cured will be sent free on application.

Every druggist should keep Athlophoros and Athlophoros Pills, but where they cannot be bought of the druggist, the Athlophoros Co., 112 Wall St., New York, will send either (carriage paid) on receipt of regular price, which is $1.00 per bottle for Athlophoros and 50c. for Pills.

BOARD OF INSTRUCTION.

The regular monthly meeting of the Board of Instruction was held Tuesday evening, the 1st inst., with Charles E. Batchelder as chairman, and Supt. Morss secretary. Present besides those named, Messrs. Goodrich, Page, George, Pender, Cotton, Gooding and Garrett.

Bills for fuel, etc., were approved and ordered paid.

The Holt system of teaching music was adopted by the board, and the superintendent was directed to purchase nine music charts. The adoption and purchase of music readers was referred to the committee on text books, to report.

On motion of Mr. Cotton, it was voted to ask the city councils for the sum of $21,000 for the expenses of the board during the year 1887. The amount expended in 1886 was $20,265.83.

The resignation of Miss Helen C. Pender as teacher of the 6th division of the Cabo street school was accepted, and it was voted that Miss Alice Marston be appointed as substitute to fill the vacancy.

A lengthy report was made by the superintendent, with many valuable recommendations, including suggestions regarding the establishment of a training school, the mode of heating and ventilating the schoolhouses, and the need of more school accommodations. The report was accepted, and it was voted to transmit it to the board of aldermen, with a request that it be printed in the city report.

GUARD WELL YOUR GIFT.

I am glad to hear that measures are proposed to keep the Goodwin field as an open lot. Now let the donors guard the gift. Open lots are valuable as breathing places for a town. Old people well remember when the court house was in the centre of a grassy lot, neatly fenced. Now look at it. A large engine house was put upon it; then a stable, a shed, stone-crusher, piles of stone and cord wood—not a blade of grass, not an inch of fence remains, but an unmitigated nuisance outrages eyes, ears and nose from January to December.

Let the donors guard the Goodwin field from such a fate.

Every public lot has been perverted. There is a ward room in the North burying ground; a store, formerly an engine house, in the Pleasant street cemetery; an engine house in the yard of the State street schoolhouse; one in the yard of the Cabot street schoolhouse; and one in the yard of the Hanover street schoolhouse. I do not know a public lot that has not been misused, where it has been possible to do so. Some vandals who become aldermen in coming years will seize upon the Goodwin lot, if they are not prevented now. B.

COMMODORE JOHNSON'S BURIAL.

The remains of Commodore P. C. Johnson, who died at the navy yard opposite this city last Friday morning, arrived in Washington at four o'clock Monday afternoon, and were interred with military honors at Glenwood cemetery. The funeral took place immediately upon the arrival of the body. The honorary pall bearers were Capt. Montgomery Sicard, Chief Engineer Charles H. Loring, Commodore Wm. P. McCann, Medical Director John M. Browne, Capt. R. W. Meade, Capt. Rush R. Wallace, Pay Director Richard Washington, and Capt. N. H. Farquhar. The body bearers were eight seamen from the Washington navy yard, with leggings and cutlasses. The remains were escorted to their resting place by a battalion of the marine corps, accompanied by the full marine band. The funeral arrangements were in charge of Commander B. H. McCalla.

SCHOOL REPORT--JANUARY.

The following is the report of the schools of the city, excepting the high school, for the month of January: Whole number of pupils enrolled, 1,244—males 681, females 563; average number of pupils, 1,158; average daily attendance, 1,039; average daily absence, 119; percentage of attendance daily, 89; number of tardinesses, 741; number of dismissals, 181; number of pupils not absent, tardy or dismissed, 321; number of cases of corporal punishment, 49.

"OUR IRISH VISITORS."

A mirthful, rollicking, side-splitting piece is "Our Irish Visitors," brought out under the management of J. M. Hill at the Third Avenue theatre, and fitting exponents of such a boisterous, though none the less amusing, hodge-podge are found in the Messrs. Murray and Murphy, who share the starring honors of the production. They both possess the undeniable quality of humor, but in each does that fun-making characteristic take a different direction, so that one, as it were, proves a foil for the other. An audience of goodly proportions laughed itself hoarse at their queer antics and oft-times lively and pointed sallies of wit. The supporting company was generally more than acceptable. A notice of this laughter-provoking entertainment would not be complete without mention of Miss Katie Foley, who played with excellent discretion and unmistakable signs of ability the soubrette part, originally taken last year by Miss Lole Fuller.—New York Journal.

"Our Irish Visitors" will receive at Music hall on Thursday evening, Feb. 3d; cards procurable at Goodrich's—for a consideration. See advertisement.

PERSONAL.

Edward E. Holmes and wife of Kansas City, Mo., are in this city, as guests of Willis G. Myers.

Adolph Nelson, formerly of this city but for a number of years past a clerk in the New York custom house, has been promoted from the $1,400 to the $1,600 grade.

MUSIC HALL, SATURDAY NIGHT.

The announcement that William Redmund and Mrs. Thomas Barry are to appear at Music hall on Saturday evening next will cause a large number of those who admire the romantic drama and appreciate artistic acting to call at Goodrich's, where tickets are now to be procured. The play they will present is entitled "Rene, the Huguenot captain," and portrays the trials and tribulations of a handsome young Huguenot, a follower of the unfortunate "Harry of Navarre" so well known to students of French history. The piece opens in a French inn, where are collected a number of French soldiers, who have just returned from war against the Huguenots. A band of gypsies are present, and they endeavor by singing and dancing to draw a few coins from the crowd of idlers. One gypsy girl in particular has attracted by her beauty the attention of the young and dissolute Duke D'Armenville, who endeavors to abduct her, but is foiled by Rene de Pardillan, the Hugenot captain, who has entered Paris in disguise in search of a young lady whom he has met and fallen madly in love with. This interruption brings about a duel, in which the duke is left for dead. After some difficulties, Rene contrives, by the aid of the gypsy girl he has befriended, to escape, and the curtain descends on the first act at this point. The following acts describe his flight; his concealment from his pursuers by the mother of the young duke, before she is aware of the fate that has overtaken her son; his meeting with his amorata; his arrest, imprisonment, escape, and final vindication and reward. The play deals with a love story, which never fails to attract, and is produced in the style which has made the reputation of the above stars and placed them in the leading rank of the romantic school of the present day. The comedy element of this piece is a large factor; it runs through the entire play, and adds greatly to its success.

The Woman's Temperance League will hold a parlor meeting at Mrs. Jos. Pettigrew's this (Wendesday) afternoon at three o'clock.

The time for holding the singing school at the Methodist vestry under the direction of Prof. Boyd, has been changed from Friday to Thursday evening, to better accommodate the large number who wish to attend. Twelve more lessons will be given.

Mrs. Ruth Walker, daughter of the late Deacon Joshua Brooks of this city, and wife of Lieut. Comdr. Asa Walker, U. S. N., died at Annapolis, Md., Jan. 31st.

It is understood that Miss Emma E. Young, who was elected a teacher in the public schools last July, but has been out ever since on account of sickness, will return March 1st.

The festival to be given at the Rye town hall on Thursday evening, Feb. 3d, by the Rye Beach Improvement Co., is to be a grand affair. The leading men in town have the matter in charge, and will spare no pains to have it first-class. Portsmouth talent is to assist, and we hear that a large number of our citizens are going down.

The Goodwin field, given by the Eldredge heirs as a site for the soldiers' and sailors' monument, contains a little over an acre of land.

Hon. John S. Treat's marble works, after enjoying their annual holiday shutdown, started up again on Tuesday morning.

A gang of men on Monday commenced to clear away the ground at the Jones brewery from which several wooden buildings were recently removed, preparatory to the putting in of the foundations for a new brewery.

A Washington correspondent says many complaints from Boston against the proposed transfer of the navy yard there to the equipment bureau, have reached the navy department. Secretary Whitney says that those who object are giving a great deal of unnecessary trouble, and their opposition to the transfer is due to the fact that they mistake the purpose of the department. The yard will remain in all respects a navy yard. There will be a commandant, and the usual number of officers representing the various departments, none of which are to be removed. The business of the yard will be diminished in no respect, while it will be substantially increased in the equipment department. None of the machinery or tools are to be removed to New York.

A Great Victory

A Terrible Case of Scrofula Cured by

Hood's Sarsaparilla

"In the winter of 1879 I was attacked with Scrofula in one of the most aggravating forms. At one time I had no less than thirteen large abscesses over and around my neck and throat, continually exuding an offensive mass of bloody matter disgusting to behold, and almost intolerable to endure. It is impossible to fully describe my sufferings, as the case was complicated with Chronic Catarrh. After three years of misery, having been treated by three physicians, I was worse than ever. Finally, on the recommendation of W. J. Huntley, druggist, of Lockport, I was induced to try Hood's Sarsaparilla. And now, after having taken twelve bottles, within the last twelve months, the scrofulous eruptions have entirely ceased, and the abscesses have all disappeared, except the unsightly scars, which are daily becoming smaller by degrees, and beautifully less. I do not know what it may have done for others, but I do know that in my case, Hood's Sarsaparilla has proved an effective specific indeed. As an evidence of my gratitude I send these facts unsolicited, and I am ready to verify the authenticity of this cure, by personal correspondence with any one who doubts it." CHARLES A. ROBERTS, East Wilson, N. Y.

This statement is confirmed by W. J. Huntley, druggist, of Lockport, N. Y., who calls the cure a great victory for Hood's Sarsaparilla. Send for book giving statements of many cures.

Insurance Notice.

THE OLD INSURANCE AGENCY,

AT THE OLD STAND,

No. 13 Pleasant Street,

PORTSMOUTH, N. H.

To my Old Customers and Friends. Are you insured? When your home or other property is being consumed by a raging fire, a good insurance policy is a great comfort. The subscriber, with his experience of fifteen years, is now prepared to place your Insurance in the Insurance Companies of New Hampshire, and in Companies organized in other States. No one can place your Insurance better or safer!

NOTE.—Mr. Ilsley, my late copartner, still states in his published card, that he purchased of me all my right to the "Fire Insurance Business of our late firm." I have heretofore denied this statement. He never offered to buy of me the business or goodwill of the firm, and I never offered or even thought of selling out my business. I hired our old office, and advertised to carry on the business in all its branches, weeks before a final settlement. Now, if he has a bill of sale, bond or any agreement whereby I conveyed to him any rights to the goodwill of the old firm or any rights to do a Fire Insurance Business in New Hampshire with old or new customers, let him prosecute me for a breach of contract, or cease publishing or repeating his false statement. I am ready to meet this issue in any court of justice. I make this statement in justice to my customers and friends and to vindicate my own integrity.

LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S VEGETABLE COMPOUND,

Is a Positive Cure

For ALL of those Painful Delicate Diseases and Complicated troubles and Weaknesses so common among our Wives, Mothers, and Daughters.

IT PLEASANT TO THE TASTE, REFRESHING, INSIDE AND LASTING IN ITS EFFECT. IN LIQUID, PILL OR LOZENGE FORM, FOR $1.) EITHER OF THE LATTER SENT BY MAIL. FOR CURE, FOR CONSTIPATION, INDIGESTION AND LASTING IN ITS EFFECT. MRS. PINKHAM'S "GUIDE TO HEALTH" AND CONFIDENTIAL CIRCULAR SENDS TO ANY LADY SENDING ADDRESS AND STAMP TO LYNN, MASS. Mention this Paper.

Lydia E. Pinkham

Ladies' Weaknesses.

Mr. T. H. Gafford of Church Hill, Md., is so thankful for the restoration of his wife to complete health, that he is willing to certify to the fact and manner of her cure. To Mrs. Lydia E. Pinkham: This is to certify to the great efficacy of your Vegetable Compound. My wife was suffering from a terrible disease which seemed to baffle the skill of the physicians. She was in a poor languid, depressed, nervous condition. We finally concluded to try your Vegetable Compound and to our great surprise the first half of one bottle had not been taken before there seemed to be a thorough change in her whole condition, and now to-day she is in good health and is entirely relieved from all former depressed feelings.

T. H. GAFFORD and wife.

PHYSICAL SALVATION.

"Blessed Art Thou above all Others."

Some of the expressions of gratitude for the physical regeneration wrought by Mrs. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound read like the rejoicings of converts after a religious revival. It brings salvation to the body. A lady in Franklin Parish, La., writes: "I tried one bottle of your Compound for Prolapsus Uteri and Leucorrhea. I never had anything in my life that did me as much good. I was hardly able to walk about without difficulty. I could not step upon anything without pain. When I think how much good that one bottle did me, I feel as if I could fall on my knees to you and say: Blessed art thou above all others, for thou art one of the greatest benefactors that woman ever had."

A New Light in the Scientific World.

A scientist in Shelby County wants to reach the world of hearers by hiring an Indianapolis hall. In a written statement of his wishes he says he "sent with my nabor" a request for the rent rates of "tombelson hawl at pur night for to hold a Lecture in upon the Rising and Setting of the Sun and upon the rotundity of the earth." He wants the "locat prize or if you will furnish the hawll and take a sertin pur cent of what would be toke in on the occasion answer which plan you like. If there is any gentlemen that wants to take the opposite side on this subject let them write to me at Boggstown. I am called in all directions to lecture on the rotundill of the earth. Write to me soon and oblige yours truly with respect from a sciantist. Direct your letter to Boggstown, Shelby County."—Indianapolis Journal.

The testimony in a $5,000 breach-of-promise suit of Miss Jennie Davenport, of Bloomingdale, N. J., against Louis Ryerson throws considerable light on the art of kissing by telegraph. Jennie, who was employed as a companion to Ryerson's mother, occupied the room immediately above the young man, and the two constructed a telegraph line, a cord answering for the short circuit. A tiny bell was attached to each end. The tingling of the bell was used to represent a kiss, and when they bade each other good night the bells rattled for hours at a time. The fair plaintiff said, as she enthusiastically described their schemes to outwit the old people: "Louis insisted on telegraphing our kisses every night, and oh! but didn't he want a lot of them!"

The Norwich (Conn.) Bulletin says "Cannon ball and bomb-shell relics of the war of 1812 have become scarce, and are much sought for by antiquarians, and yet probably, there are a great many of them to be had in the marshes around the village 'if a feller only knew where to dig.' It is stated that the year after the attack by Commodore Hardy, in 1814, several tons were collected and sold to an old iron-monger who came here in a vessel.

Littell's Living Age.

IN 1887 THE LIVING AGE enters upon its forty-fourth year, having met with continuous commendation and success.

A WEEKLY MAGAZINE, it gives fifty-two numbers of sixty-four pages each, or more than

Three and a Quarter Thousand

double-column octavo pages of reading-matter yearly. It presents in an inexpensive form, considering its great amount of matter, with freshness, owing to its weekly issue, and with a completeness nowhere else attempted,

The best Essays, Reviews, Criticisms, Serial and Short Stories, Sketches of Travel and Discovery, Poetry, Scientific, Biographical, Historical, and Political Information, from the entire body of Foreign Periodical Literature, and from the pens of the

FOREMOST LIVING WRITERS.

The ablest and most cultivated intellects, in every department of Theology, Science, Politics, and Art, find expression in the Periodical Literature of Europe, and especially of Great Britain.

The Living Age, forming four large volumes a year, furnishes, from the great and generally inaccessible mass of this literature, the only compilation that, while within the reach of all, is satisfactory in the COMPLETENESS with which it embraces whatever is of immediate interest, or of solid, permanent value.

It is therefore indispensable to every one who wishes to keep pace with the events or intellectual progress of the time, or to cultivate in himself or his family general intelligence and literary taste.

Opinions.

"To have THE LIVING AGE is to hold the keys of the entire world of thought, of scientific investigation, psychological research, critical note, or poetry and romance. It has never been so bright, so comprehensive, so diversified in interest, as it is to-day."—Boston Traveller.

"It is one of the publications that intelligent people regard as practically indispensable. From its pages one learns what the world is thinking about. . . . It is an education in itself as well as an entertainment."—Hartford Courant.

"It contains nearly all the good literature of the time. . . . There is no live controversy in science, art, literature, biography, philosophy, or religion, that cannot be found in it. . . . It is a library in itself."—The Churchman, New York.

"Nearly the whole world of authors and writers appear in it in their best moods. . . . The reader is kept well abreast of the current thought of the age."—Boston Journal.

"Foremost of the eclectic periodicals."—N. Y. World.

"It enables its readers to keep fully abreast of the best thought and literature of civilization."—Christian Advocate, Pittsburg.

"It has become indispensable."—New York Observer.

"It keeps well up its reputation for being the best periodical in the world."—Morning Star, Wilmington, N. C.

Published WEEKLY at $8.00 a year, free of postage.

"It may be truthfully and cordially said that it never offers a dry or valueless page."—New York Tribune.

Club-Prices for the best Home and Foreign Literature.

"Possessed of THE LIVING AGE and one or other of our very excellent American monthlies, a subscriber will find himself in command of the whole situation."—Phila. Eve. Bulletin.

For $10.50, THE LIVING AGE and any one of the American $4 Monthlies (or Harper's Weekly or Bazar) will be sent for a year, postpaid; or, for $9.50, THE LIVING AGE and the St. Nicholas.

Address, LITTELL & CO., Boston.

Mr. JOHN W. FURBUSH,

An Army Veteran,

OF WAKEFIELD,

who has probably suffered more than any man or woman in America to-day. Taken sick while in the Army, he has endured untold agonies since. Describing his first symptoms he said: "My head ached and my appetite was poor. I felt a faintness at the pit of the stomach, and a bad taste in my mouth, while my skin was sometimes hot and sometimes cold. I next felt pains in my back and around the lower portion of my body, and noticed a peculiar odor and color in the water I passed, which was scanty at one time and free at others. Sometimes it pained me to void it, and again it was almost impossible to do so at all. Finally I began to pass clear blood accompanied with the greatest pain and agony."

No less than 20 eminent physicians attended Mr. Furbush at various times, but not one of them could help him. He was near death's door. And yet he says: "I am alive and well to-day, wholly through the wonderful power of Hunt's Remedy, which took me from the verge of the grave."

This Great Remedy absolutely cures all Kidney, Liver and Urinary Diseases.

Let No Man Sneer at a Want of a Fortune.

The great increase of business throughout the entire Union is shown by the largely augmented monthly schemes of Distribution presented by The Louisiana State Lottery at New Orleans, drawn at noon on the second Tuesday of each month. On Tuesday, Feb. 8th, over $622,00 will be scattered among ticket-holders at $10 each, and fractional tenths at $1 each. In June and December the Capital Prize will be $300,000, and on other occasions $150,000. But full information can be had on application to M. A. Dauphin, New Orleans, La. Let no one complain of a want of a fortune who has never tried.

ADVICE TO MOTHERS.

Are you disturbed at night and broken of your rest by a sick child suffering and crying with pain of cutting teeth? If so, send at once and get a bottle of Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup for Children Teething. Its value is incalculable. It will relieve the poor little sufferer immediately. Depend upon it, mothers, there is no mistake about it. It cures dysentery and diarrhœa, regulates the stomach and bowels, cures wind colic, softens the gums, reduces inflammation, and gives tone and energy to the whole system. Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup for Children Teething is pleasant to the taste, and is the prescription of one of the oldest and best female nurses and physicians in the United States, and is for sale by all druggists throughout the world. Price 25 cents a bottle. mon,wed,sat,o

An Ocean Horror.

The British ship Kapunda, Capt. Masson, which left London on Dec. 11th for Freemantle, western Australia, with emigrants, came into collision near the coast of Brazil with the barque Ada Melmore, and both vessels sank in a few moments, the Kapunda losing nearly 300 of the persons on board, the remainder having arrived at Bahia. The Kapunda was an iron ship of 1084 tons. There were 304 lives lost altogether by the collision.

An order was issued in December by Secretary Whitney to the effect that on and after the 1st of February the Charlestown navy yard should be used as a permanent general manufacturing yard for articles of equipment. In view of possibilities growing out of the fishery complications the time for taking effect of this order has been postponed to the 1st of June. A good deal of significance is attached to this postponement in naval circles.

Geo. Augustus Sala in the Tropics.

George Augustus Sala, the well known English writer, on his last Australian trip wrote as follows to the London Daily Telegraph: "I especially have a pleasant remembrance of the ship's doctor—a very experienced maritime medico indeed, who tended me most kindly during a horrible spell of bronchitis and spasmodic asthma, provoked by the sea fog which had swooped down on us just after we left San Francisco. But the doctor's prescriptions and the increasing warmth of the temperature as we neared the tropics, and, in particular, a couple of Allcock's Porous Plasters clapped on—one on the chest and another between the shoulder blades—soon set me right."

Murdered.

The body of Julius Baer was found by freighters five miles west of here Tuesday morning, in a terribly mangled condition. His head and face were smashed, so as to be hardly recognized, and numerous wounds were found on his body. Mr. Baer was agent for the great blood medicine, Sulphur Bitters. Robbery was undoubtedly the motive, as he was well known to have a large sum of money on his person. As we go to press there is no clew to the perpetrators.—Colorado Press.

The Effects of Mental Exhaustion.

Many diseases, especially those of the nervous system, are the products of daily renewed mental exhaustion. Business avocations often involve an amount of mental wear and tear very prejudicial to physical health, and the professions, if arduously pursued, are no less destructive to brain and nerve tissue. It is one of the most important attributes of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, that it compensates for this undue loss of tissue, and that it imparts new energy to the brain and nerves. The rapidity with which it renews weakened mental energy and physical vitality is remarkable, and shows that its invigorating properties are of the highest order. Besides increasing vital stamina, and counteracting the effects of mental exhaustion, this potential medicine cures and prevents fever and ague, rheumatism, chronic dyspepsia, and constipation, kidney and uterine weakness, and other complaints. Physicians also commend it as a medicated stimulant and remedy.

The depths of wickedness to which even a Quaker child can sink make one readily believe in the doctrine of total depravity. Two little Quakers quarrelled, and after saying words at each other, one of them in a tremendous burst of rage, with clenched fists and blazing eyes, shouted: "Thee's you." The other boy looked at him in horrified silence. Then he solemnly said: "I shall go and tell mother that thee swored."—New York Sun.

A sea captain tells a New York reporter that sailors have less superstition than any other class that he has met. He says he finds more superstition in his milkman than in his sailors.

A man in London has published a pamphlet entitled "Twenty Doctors." In it he tells how from 1868 to 1885 he was a cripple from rheumatic gout. A CHILD'S SKIN.

Ears and Scalp Covered with Eczematous Scabs and Sores Cured by Cuticura.

MY little son, aged eight years, has been afflicted with Eczema of the scalp, and at times a great portion of the body, ever since he was two years old. It began in his ears, and extended to his scalp, which became covered with scabs and sore, and from which a sticky fluid poured out, causing intense itching and distress, and leaving his hair matted and lifeless. Underneath these scabs the skin was raw, like a piece of beefsteak. Gradually the hair came out and was destroyed, until but a small patch was left at the back of the head. My friends in Peabody know how my little boy has suffered. At night he would scratch his head until his pillow was covered with blood. I used to tie his hands behind him, and in many ways tried to prevent his scratching; but it was no use, he would scratch. I took him to the hospital and to the best physicians in Peabody without success. About this time, some friends, who had been cured by the CUTICURA REMEDIES, prevailed upon me to try them. I began to use them on the 15th of January last. In seven months every particle of the disease was removed. Not a spot or scab remains on his scalp to tell the story of his suffering. His hair has returned, and is thick and strong, and his scalp as sweet and clean as any child's in the world. I cannot say enough to express my gratitude for this wonderful cure by the CUTICURA REMEDIES, and wish all similarly afflicted to know that my statement is true and without exaggeration. CHARLES McKAY,
Oct. 6, 1885. Peabody, Mass.

I have seen Mr. McKay's boy when badly affected with the Eczema. He was a pitiful sight to look at. I know that he has tried our best physicians, and did all a father could do for a suffering child, but availed nothing. I know that the statements he has made you as regards the curing of his boy by your CUTICURA REMEDIES are true in every particular.
WILLIAM J. MCCARTHY,
33 Foster St., Peabody, Mass.

A Word About Catarrh.

"It is the mucous membrane, that wonderful semi-fluid envelope surrounding the delicate tissues of the air and food passages, that Catarrh makes its stronghold. Once established, it eats into the very vitals, and renders life but a long-drawn breath of misery and disease, quelling the sense of hearing, transmuting the power of speech, destroying the faculty of smell, tainting the breath, and killing the refined pleasures of taste. Insidiously, by creeping on from a simple cold in the head, it assaults the membranous lining and envelops the bone, eating through the delicate coats and causing inflammation, sloughing and death. Nothing short of total eradication will secure health to the patient, and all alleviatives are simply procrastinated sufferings, leading to a fatal termination. SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE, by Inhalation and by Internal administration, has never failed; even when the disease has made frightful inroads on delicate constitutions, hearing, smell and taste have been recovered, and the disease thoroughly driven out."

SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE consists of one bottle of the RADICAL CURE, one box CATARRHAL SOLVENT, and one IMPROVED INHALER, neatly wrapped in one package, with full directions; price, $1.00.

Heavy thunder storms occurred in some of the western and southwestern states on the 1st inst. At Alton, Ill., a man was killed by lightning while eating dinner.

Catarrh

Is a very prevalent and exceedingly disagreeable disease, liable, if neglected, to develop into serious consumption. Being a constitutional disease, it requires a constitutional remedy like Hood's Sarsaparilla, which, acting through the blood, reaches every part of the system, effecting a radical and permanent cure of catarrh in even its most severe forms. Made only by C. I. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass.

There was a great blizzard in Montana, Feb. 1st and 2d. Two coaches are reported missing, and also a relief party which went out to search for one of them.

Rich Blood

Insures good health. G. O. Taylor Old Bourbon or G. O. Taylor Pure Rye will not only enrich the vital fluid, but, taken with moderation, aids digestion, wards off disease, and is conductive to longevity. Chester H. Graves & Sons bottle it, and druggists and grocers sell it generally.

For sale by the bottle or case by John Leighton.

Grand Army of the Republic.

The 19th annual encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic, Department of New Hampshire, at Manchester, came to a close on Wednesday, Feb. 2d. Department officers were elected as follows:

Department commander, Otis C. Wyatt of Tilton; senior vice commander, Ai B. Thompson of Concord; junior vice commander, Fred H. Foss of Dover; medical director, Dr. Hadley B. Fowler of Bristol; chaplain, Rev. J. K. Ewer of Concord; council of administration, John Kinney of Greenville, Warren Noyes of Gorham, R. T. Leavitt, Jr., of Pittsfield, Miner G. Frye of Derry, Allen P. Messer of Claremont. Thomas Cogswell of Gilmanton was unanimously elected delegate at large to the national encampment. The newly-elected officers were installed in the afternoon, and shortly after, the work of the session having been completed, the encampment was brought to a close and the delegates departed to their homes.

The New Hampshire Department, G. A. R., contains eighty-eight posts, three of which, however, are not active, giving a total membership of 4792. The encampment is entitled to 654 voting delegates, which are made up as follows: Department officers, fifteen; past department officers, ten; post commanders, eighty-five; representatives, 187; past post commanders, 357; total, 654.

The department was organized May 1st, 1868, and has had members in the grand council of administration as follows: 1868, D. J. Vaughan; 1869, G. T. Carter; 1870, D. J. Vaughan; 1871, James E. Larkin; 1872, S. G. Griffin; 1873, 1874, William P. Moses; 1875, Aaron F. Stevens; 1876, 1877, Levi L. Aldrich; 1878, 1879, 1880, John C. Linehan; 1881, 1882, J. N. Patterson; 1883, W. H. D. Cochrane; 1884, Daniel B. Newhall; 1885, Alfred E. Emery; 1886, James Minot. The list of department commanders up to the present time is as follows:

1868—William R. Patten, Manchester.
1869—Daniel J. Vaughan, Portsmouth.
1870—James E. Larkin, Concord.
1871—Augustus H. Bixby, Frances.
1872—William H. Trickey, Dover.
1873-74—Timothy W. Challis, Manchester.
1875—Alvin S. Eaton, Nashua.
1876-77-78—Charles J. Richards, Great Falls.
1879-80—George Bowers, Nashua.
1881-82—Martin A. Haynes, Lake Village.
1883-84—John C. Linehan, Penacook.
1885—Marcus M. Collis, Portsmouth.
1886—George Farr, Littleton.

The department encampment has been twice held in this city, in 1868 and 1882; and the command has twice come to Portsmouth.

The Woman's Relief Corps, Department of New Hampshire, whose annual meeting was held in Manchester at the same time as the G. A. R.'s, was organized in 1883, Mrs. Mary E. Lull of Milford being the first president. Mrs. Lull was succeeded by Mrs. Mattie B. Moulton of Laconia in 1884, by Mrs. Adaline P. Kent of Portsmouth in 1885, she by the present president, Mrs. Celia F. P. Foster of Milford, in 1886.

At the second day's session of the corps, the officers of last year were re-elected, as follows:

Department president, Mrs. Celia F. P. Foster of Milford; senior vice president, Mrs. O. C. Moore, Nashua; junior vice president, Mrs. Laura A. Kidder, Manchester; treasurer, Mrs. Annie M. Hinds, Milford; secretary, Miss Charlotte S. Robbins, Milford; mustering and installing officer, Mrs. Adaline P. Kent, Portsmouth; chaplain, Mrs. Mary A. Pratt, Concord; inspector, Mrs. Addie S. Hughes, Ashland; executive board, Mrs. Julia A. Gamsby, Colebrook; Mrs. Maria A. Kendrick, Meredith Village; Mrs. Angeline Tilton, Franklin Falls; Mrs. Sarah W. Green, Hampton; Mrs. Sarah A. Osgood, Amherst.

The department treasurer, Mrs. Annie M. Hinds of Milford, reported the receipts for 1886 to have been $1,300.48; and the expenditures $1,031.03. All bills of the department have been paid up to Jan. 1, 1886, and the department is free from debt.

During the meeting the work of the ritual was exemplified under the direction of Mrs. Addie S. Hughes of Ashland, who had a picked corps of assistants. The candidate initiated was Mrs. Marion H. Smyth, wife of Ex-Governor Frederick Smyth.

"But Let That Pass."

President Adams asserts that the Union Pacific railroad will issue no free passes after the interstate commerce bill goes into effect. If this is a threat aimed at members of Congress, it is an ill-advised utterance. But then Mr. Adams has prophesied other results for the Union Pacific which have not come to pass. The U. P. will behave about as its competitors do, in this matter of passes. The first recipients of complimentary transportation will probably be the representatives who talk of the repeal of obnoxious laws, and voting everything which the U. P. administration desires. The announcement, however, in some respects will be of service, as enabling the officials to deny passes that cannot be put where they will do any good!

The Largest in Boston.

BOSTON, February 2d.—The bold and official announcement made this morning that the Boston Daily Globe has a larger circulation than any other Boston newspaper, created a sensation. The January average of 111,350 is larger than the circulation of any other Boston daily paper. The Boston Daily Globe has long led in circulation, and has over 20,000 more than any other Boston Sunday newspaper.

The Globe will occupy its new building in about six weeks.

A Straw.

Considerable excitement has been caused among British navy pensioners now residing in Canada, both seamen and marines, by the receipt of a circular from the British admiralty calling upon all pensioners under fifty-five years of age to hold themselves in readiness for active service. The circular also requests an immediate answer as to age, whether the pensioner is a long service one or is invalided, whether a gunner or torpedo artificer, and to state the nearest ship-of-war or station where he could attend for examination.

"The Count's Mystery."

BOSTON, February 2d.—The new story entitled "The Count's Mystery," which will be begun in the Boston Daily Globe on Saturday of this week, February 5th, is by the author of "A Dead Man's Millions." This story has had an enormous sale in France, and is being looked for eagerly by story readers in New England.

Prof. Emmons will have to pay between two and three thousand dollars, counsel fees and costs incurred by Mrs. Emmons in her defence in the court at Washington in the recent investigation of her mental condition. Such a wife is indeed a luxury.

For Gout, Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Sciatica, bathe the parts affected freely with Perry Davis' PAIN KILLER taking also a teaspoonful in sugar and water 3 times a day, and you'll get relief at once and a Cure after faithful use of this remedy. MARINE CHRONICLE.

PORT OF PORTSMOUTH.

Ship Grandee, Ellis, for New York sld from Cagliari Jan 5th.

WHY IS IT

That rheumatism and neuralgia are so prevalent? This question has not been satisfactorily answered, but it is certain that these diseases are not only the most painful but among the most common, and some member of nearly every family in the land is the victim of one of these dread tormentors. Ladies seem to be peculiarly liable to neuralgic attacks, which, in the form of neuralgic headache, pain in the back, or nervous pains are of constant occurrence. Not until the discovery of Athlophoros had any remedy been found for either rheumatism, neuralgia or nervous headache, and they were generally conceded to be incurable, but Athlophoros has been proven to be not only a certain cure for these diseases, in all their varied forms, but a safe remedy. If, in the use of Athlophoros, the bowels are kept freely open, its success is certain, and to aid this, Athlophoros Pills are recommended, which, while providing the necessary cathartic, will be found to be a valuable aid to the action of the medicine. Athlophoros is no experiment, it has been tested and has proved its wonderful efficacy.

The Athlophoros Pills were originally prepared as a remedy for use in connection with Athlophoros, for rheumatism and neuralgia and kindred complaints. Used in connection with this remedy, they are a certain cure for either of these very common and distressing diseases. They have also been found to be an invaluable remedy for any and all diseases arising from vitiated blood or general debility. They are especially valuable for nervous debility, blood poisoning, dyspepsia, distress after eating, headache, constipation, loss of appetite, and all stomach or liver troubles. For diseases of women they are invaluable. These pills are perfectly harmless and may be safely used by adults or children.

Testimonials of those who have been cured will be sent free on application.

Every druggist should keep Athlophoros and Athlophoros Pills, but where they cannot be bought of the druggist, the Athlophoros Co., 112 Wall St., New York, will send either (carriage paid) on receipt of regular price, which is $1.00 per bottle for Athlophoros and 50c. for Pills.

"OUR IRISH VISITORS."

This evening, at Music hall, "Our Irish Visitors"—Messrs. Murray and Murphy, and their supporting company—will appear. The New York Clipper says the piece "has been polished up in many ways, and is now fuller than ever with bright things. The fun went fast and furious, and the plaudits of the audience were hearty and frequent. The specialties secured marked attention." The New York Times says the play "is capitally suited to elicit the hearty laughter of popular audiences. It is, of course, quite beyond description or analysis." The New York Dramatic News says it is "an uproariously funny entertainment." Tickets can be had at Goodrich's. See advertisement.

LET'S HEAR FROM YOU, BRETHREN.

We have for weeks been attentively, but as yet futilely, listening for the thunderous outburst of indignation against the city government which the citizens confidently expect from our democratic contemporaries, the Times and the Manchester Union, on account of the proposed increase of the policemen's pay from $1.75 to $2 per day, though there is one more officer now employed than when the corrupt and extravagant republicans, who cared nothing for the sufferings of the tax-payers, were running the municipal machine, and two more than the republicans employed during the last year of their ascendency. We have listened so long to no effect that "hope deferred," etc., has set in, and we now notify our democratic brethren of the quill that they must sound their horns pretty quick if they wish the sounding to do any good, as the bill to raise the pay of the increased police force is likely otherwise to soon become an ordinance of the city.

It should not be a very hard job for our democratic brethren to get up a magnificent and most effective howl in this respect; all they need to do is to look up some of their old articles on police matters, published when the republicans were in power, and by substituting "democrat" for "republican" wherever the latter word appears, the articles will be made as good as new. Our brother of the Union will not have to go even so far back as that. Let him rehash the statements made by him in his correspondence immediately after his party secured complete control of the city, to the effect that one of the democratic reforms to be inaugurated was a radical reduction in the number of policemen employed, and a very material reduction in the pay of those retained—let him rehash those statements and charge with them upon the board of mayor and aldermen, and paralysis must result.

Something must be done. If four policemen at a dollar each per day were an ample force under republican rule, a similar force should be enough under a democratic reform administration. And our democratic contemporaries, who are adepts at the business, must do the howling; we can't. This paper always advocated the employment of all the officers needed, and that they should be paid with sufficient liberality to enable the procuring of the best men; and the change of administration has not changed our sentiments,—though it seems to have effected a decided change of heart in our democratic reform brethren.

HAMPTON JOTTINGS.

HAMPTON, Jan. 31st.

The fox hunters of Exeter were out in full force last Thursday and Friday in this vicinity; we understand several foxes were captured, two of the men losing their dogs.

The lumber business is quite dull compared with the past few years, but little having been hauled to either of the mills; at the steam mill owned by Mr. James W. Berry few logs are seen compared with last year.

On Wednesday last the remains of the youngest daughter of Mr. Warren Dow and wife were brought from Boston for burial, consumption having taken from this family one of earth's fairest flowers. Deep sympathy is felt for the afflicted family. The parents are natives of this town; Mr. Dow was formerly postmaster here, also proprietor of a popular boarding house; for the past few years they have resided in Boston.

A young man at the west end experiencing a family jar during the recent cold weather, sought shelter in his sister's barn, and came near freezing. Whether a warm room and breakfast awaited his exit we have not learned; think it doubtful.

The Congregational society have no settled minister as yet, but report says they intend giving a call to another Rev. Mr. Fay; if so, it will be the third minister of that name within a period of thirty-four years.

At one dwelling in this town the birds called chickadees have been fed for nine years in succession, upon beef tallow put in the blind-staples on the window sills. These winter songsters are quite cheerful, and they sit and sing for several minutes at a time, very thankful for their food.

AFFAIRS IN KITTERY.

KITTERY, ME., Feb. 1st.

Through the best of nursing and attentions of kind friends, together with the aid of a most skillfull physician, "Richard is himself again."

A large gang of men are still employed at the Dennett farm, cutting and hauling logs preparatory for the steam mill; several teams are engaged, and as fast as the logs are cut they are drawn to the spot where the mill is to be set up. Another force of men are at work with teams drawing the cord-wood to the old brick-yard wharf, from which it will be shipped to Mathes' brick-yard in Eliot, he having bought all the cord-wood on the lot.

Quarterly conference will be held at the 1st Methodist church on Sunday, Feb. 6th. Presiding Elder W. S. Jones will be present.

Mr. Edward E. Shapleigh has commenced the study of medicine with Dr. M. F. Wentworth; his good scholarship and present excellent instruction have opened for him a clear road to success.

We understand that a history of Kittery Point will soon be issued. We suppose it will contain a record of all the leading events from the time Capt. John Smith discovered Pocahontas point to the present time,—and trust it will give a full and authentic account of the new railroad scheme.

Mr. William A. Fernald and wife are visiting relatives and friends in Washington, D. C.

A prosperous singing school is being taught in the schoolhouse of disirict No. 2, North Kittery, by Dennis M. Shapleigh, Esq. The school is composed of about forty scholars, and meets Tuesday and Saturday evenings.

Mrs. James D. Plaisted of North Kittery has a German canary that has a remarkably strong, clear and rich voice, and sings at night as well as by day.

SUB ROSA.

DEATH OF LIEUT. COMDR. GARDNER.

Lieut. Comdr. Thomas M. Gardner, U. S. N., on the retired list, died at Nantucket, Mass., Jan. 28th, at the age of sixty-six years. He was a native of Nantucket, and in early life entered the whaling service, rising by steady gradation from green hand to the command of a vessel. On the breaking out of the rebellion he entered the national volunteer service as acting master, June 13th, 1861; during the war he took part in many engagements, always with credit to himself, and was several times promoted for gallant and meritorious service.

March 12th, 1868, he was transferred to the regular service as master, and in December of the same year was commissioned a lieutenant. He was attached to the Idaho, storeship of the Asiatic squadron, 1869-71; was ordered to the Portsmouth navy yard in 1873, and commanded the tug Speedwell, at this yard, in 1874, '75 and '76; from 1877 to '79 he commanded the ironclad Montauk, of the North Atlantic squadron; and in the latter part of 1879 went to Callao, Peru, to take command of the storeship Onward, where he remained until he was ordered home for retirement some four or five years ago.

Lieut. Comdr. Gardner was a thorough seaman, a courteous gentleman and a most agreeable associate, and the announcement of his demise will cause a feeling of regret to all of the many who knew him when he was on duty at this naval station.

The arrival of Frank Jones at Washington en route for Florida was signalized by the president sending to the senate the nominations of postmasters at Littleton and Claremont.

Mr. Frank Hones of St. Paul, Minnesota, formerly of this city, is spending a short time here.

Harlow's orchestra will furnish the music for the Sons of Veterans' ball to be given Feb. 17th.

Eastman's orchestra of Manchester has prepared a special programme for the concert which is to precede the Masonic ball in this city on the evening of Feb. 21st.

The order detaching Chief Engineer David B. Macomb from duty at the Charlestown navy yard has been revoked, and he will remain until June.

The Whale's-back fog-horn was sounding its warning all through Wednesday night, and was heard with unusual distinctness in this city.

Wednesday, the 2d inst., was Candlemas day. The old adage says that "As far as the sun shines in" on that day "so far shall the snow blow in;" by this rule the snow will not blow in very far during the rest of this winter, as the sun did not shine at all yesterday.

George F. Farley, a merchant of Boston, dropped dead on Tuesday morning of this week. He was formerly a partner with the late Joseph S. Simes, son of the late Ex-Mayor Simes of Portsmouth.

Among the bills introduced this week in the Maine legislature is one authorizing the extension of the York Harbor & Beach railroad from its terminus in the town of York to a junction with the Boston & Maine road near Cate's corner, or "The Elms," as it is now called, in Wells. The bill also authorizes an increase of the capital stock to $500,000.

If reports are true the American Express Co., after March 1st, will control the express business on the Boston & Maine railroad. There are seventy-seven local express companies on the main lines and branches, all of which will have to pay tribute to the American Co. instead of to the railroad authorities direct, for tickets, freight, etc. What bearing this will have upon the convenience of the public, experience will have to tell.

Celia Fernald of Kittery, a young niece of Capt. John P. Fernald, formerly master of ship Columbia, but now engaged in raising fruit at Oleander, in Fresno county, California, recently made the journey from Portsmouth to Oleander, going by way of New Orleans and the Southern Pacific railroad. She left Portsmouth on the 11th of January, and arrived at her destination on the 19th.

The total amount of death claims paid by the Mutual Life Ins. Co. of New York during the week ending Jan. 28th was $252,865.80; total endowments paid for same period, $59,074.43.

Insurance Notice.
THE OLD INSURANCE AGENCY,
AT THE OLD STAND,
No. 13 Pleasant Street,
PORTSMOUTH, N. H.
To my Old Customers and Friends. Are you insured? When your home or other property is being consumed by a raging fire, a good insurance policy is a great comfort. The subscriber, with his experience of fifteen years, is now prepared to place your Insurance in the Insurance Companies of New Hampshire, and in Companies organized in other States. No one can place your Insurance better or safer!
NOTE.—Mr. Ilsley, my late copartner, still states in his published card, that he purchased of me all my right to the "Fire Insurance Business of our late firm." I have heretofore denied this statement. He never offered to buy of me the business or goodwill of the firm, and I never offered or even thought of selling out my business. I hired our old office, and advertised to carry on the business in all its branches, weeks before a final settlement. Now, if he has a bill of sale, bond or any agreement whereby I conveyed to him any rights to the goodwill of the old firm or any rights to do a Fire Insurance Business in New Hampshire with old or new customers, let him prosecute me for a breach of contract, or cease publishing or repeating his false statement. I am ready to meet this issue in any court of justice. I make this statement in justice to my customers and friends and to vindicate my own integrity.

Yours for Health

20 Years Record.

LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S VEGETABLE COMPOUND,

Is a Positive Cure

For ALL of those Painful Delicate Complaints and Complicated troubles and Weaknesses so common among our Wives, Mothers, and Daughters.

IT PLEASANT TO THE TASTE, EFFICACIOUS, MEDICINAL AND LASTING IN ITS EFFECT, IN LIQUID, PILL OR LOZENGE FORM, IS FOR $1. EITHER OF THE LATTER SENT BY MAIL.

Lydia E. Pinkham

MRS. PINKHAM'S "GUIDE TO HEALTH" AND CONTINENTAL CIRCULAR MAILED TO ANY LADY SENDING ADDRESS AND STAMP TO LYNN, MASS. Mention this Paper.

Ladies' Weaknesses.

Mr. T. H. Gafford of Church Hill, Md., is so thankful for the restoration of his wife to complete health, that he is willing to certify to the fact and manner of her cure. To Mrs. Lydia E. Pinkham: This is to certify to the grand effects of your Vegetable Compound. My wife was suffering from a terrible disease which seemed to baffle the skill of the best medical men. She was in a most languid, depressed, nervous condition. We finally concluded to try your Vegetable Compound and to our great surprise the half of one bottle had not been taken before there was evidence of a decided change in her whole condition, and now to-day she is in good health and entirely relieved from all former distressing feelings.

T. H. GAFFORD and wife.

PHYSICAL SALVATION.

"Blessed Art Thou above all Others."

Some of the expressions of gratitude for the physical regeneration wrought by Mrs. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound read like the rejoicings of converts after a religious revival. It brings Salvation to the body. A lady in Franklin Parish, La., writes: "I received the bottle of your Compound for Prolapsus Uteri and Leucorrhœa. I never had anything in my life that did me as much good. I was hardly able to walk about without difficulty. I could not stop upon anything without pain. When I think how much good that one bottle did me, I feel as if I could fall on my knees to you and say: Blessed art thou above all others, for thou art one of the greatest benefactors that woman ever had."

NO. 18 CONGRESS STREET

A Peculiarity of New York Clubs.

An unknown man can get into any club if proposed by a popular member, but men of notoriety and fame are hackballed with pitiless severity. George Gould, though a genial, unassuming, and well-mannered man, would be scalped alive in clubdom if he gave the voters a chance, because he's his father's son. He was prevailed upon to put up his name at the exclusive St. Nicholas, to which club he was eligible, but he withdrew it, wisely, just before election day.

If the truth were known about certain club elections what a splitting of lifelong friendships there would be.—The Argonaut.

An apparatus designed to discourage the giving of false alarms of fire has been invented by a citizen of Louisville, Ky. The appliance is a pair of magnetic nippers, which grasp by the wrist the man who turns in the alarm and holds him until the arrival of the fire department. The man who turns in the alarm can be released only by the firemen, who are supplied with keys which turn off the current, when the magnet relaxes its grip.

A Philadelphia proprietor of a large establishment employs a woman as head bookkeeper. On being asked recently if the reason was because she would work cheaper than a man, he replied: "No; we pay her as much as we would a man, and she is much more reliable and her work is much better done. When it comes 11 o'clock she does not go out to get a drink as some bookkeepers have to do; she never comes to the office worn out by an all-night's spree and jumbles up the business of the day. This is why I prefer a lady."

John E. Owens, the actor, sympathized with the South during the War, but was one of the first men in Baltimore to be drafted for service in the Union army. He was appearing in Washington when a telegram notified him of this fact. His part that night was an old man's. Turning to the audience on the opening of the act following when he received the notice, he drew his coat tightly around him and got off the pun: "There's a draft around here, but it ain't from the right side."

DR. HAM, March 2, 1886.

Dear Sir;—I feel it a pleasurable duty to extol your medicine to the very highest. I have been a sufferer from the effects of dyspepsia from childhood, and very often after eating have vomited up the greater part of my victuals. About 3 months ago I was induced to try a bottle of your invigorator, which at once gave me relief, and I have not had a vomiting spell since. I feel like a new man, and am perfectly well. I have tried many medicines, but none had the least effect until I took your invigorator. Hoping you may go on in your great work for suffering humanity, I am Truly yours,

Littell's Living Age.

IN 1887 THE LIVING AGE enters upon its forty-fourth year, having met with continuous commendation and success.

A WEEKLY MAGAZINE, it gives fifty-two numbers of sixty-four pages each, or more than

Three and a Quarter Thousand

double-column octavo pages of reading-matter yearly. It presents in an inexpensive form, considering its great amount of matter, with freshness, owing to its weekly issue, and with a completeness nowhere else attempted,

The best Essays, Reviews, Criticisms, Serial and Short Stories, Sketches of Travel and Discovery, Poetry, Scientific, Biographical, Historical, and Political Information, from the entire body of Foreign Periodical Literature, and from the pens of the

FOREMOST LIVING WRITERS.

The ablest and most cultivated intellects, in every department of Literature, Science, Politics, and Art, find expression in the Periodical Literature of Europe, and especially of Great Britain.

The Living Age, forming four large volumes a year, furnishes, from the great and generally inaccessible mass of this literature, the only compilation that, while within the reach of all, is satisfactory in the COMPLETENESS with which it embraces whatever is of immediate interest, or of solid, permanent value.

It is therefore indispensable to every one who wishes to keep pace with the events or intellectual progress of the time, or to cultivate in himself or his family general intelligence and literary taste.

Opinions.

"To have THE LIVING AGE is to hold the keys of the entire world of thought, of scientific investigation, psychological research, critical note, of poetry and romance. It has never been so bright, so comprehensive, so directified in interest, as it is to-day."—Boston Traveller.

"It is one of the publications that intelligent people regard as practically indispensable. From its pages one learns what the world is thinking about. It is an education in itself as well as an entertainment."—Hartford Courant.

"It contains nearly all the good literature of the time. There is nothing noteworthy in science, art, literature, biography, philosophy, or religion, that cannot be found in it. It is a library in itself."—The Churchman, New York.

"Nearly the whole world of authors and writers appear in it to tell their best thoughts. The reader is kept well abreast of the current thought of the age."—Boston Journal.

"Foremost of the eclectic periodicals."—N. Y. World.

"It furnishes a complete compilation of an indispensable literature."—Chicago Evening Journal.

"It enables its readers to keep fully abreast of the best thought and literature of civilization."—Christian Advocate, Pittsburgh.

"It has become indispensable."—New York Observer.

"It keeps well up its reputation for being the best periodical in the world."—Morning Star, Wilmington, N. C.

Published WEEKLY at $8.00 a year, free of postage.

"It may be truthfully and cordially said that it never offers a dry or valueless page."—New York Tribune.

Club-Prices for the best Home and Foreign Literature.

["Possessed of THE LIVING AGE and one or other of our vivacious American monthlies, a subscriber will find himself in command of the whole situation."—Phila. Eve. Bulletin.]

For $10.50, THE LIVING AGE and any one of the American $4 Monthlies (or Harper's Weekly or Bazar) will be sent for a year, post-paid; or, for $9.50, THE LIVING AGE and the St. Nicholas.

Mr. JOHN W. FURBUSH,

An Army Veteran,

OF WAKEFIELD,

who has probably suffered more than any man or woman in America to-day. Taken sick while in the Army, he has endured untold agonies, since. Description at first symptoms he said. "My head ached and my appetite was poor. I felt a faintness at the pit of the stomach, and a bad taste in my mouth, while my skin was sometimes hot and sometimes cold. I next felt pains in my back and around the lower portion of my body, and noticed a peculiar odor and color in the water I passed, which was scanty at one time and free at others. Sometimes it pained me to void it, and again it was almost impossible to do so at all. Finally I began to pass clear blood accompanied with the greatest strain and agony."

No less than 20 eminent physicians attended Mr. Furbush at various times, but not one of them could help him. He was near death's door. And yet he says: "I am alive and well to-day, wholly through the wonderful power of Hunt's Remedy, which took me from the verge of the grave."

This Great Remedy absolutely cures all Kidney, Liver and Urinary Diseases.

Dr. Wm. Perry of Exeter, who died recently at the age of ninety-eight, was said to be the last survivor of the party which made the experimental trip with Fulton on his first steamboat, but it is now alleged that one of the party is still alive, Col. George L. Perkins of Norwich, Conn., who, at ninety-eight, is the active and efficient treasurer of the Norwich & Worcester railroad. Col. Perkins walked most of the distance from Norwich to Poughkeepsie in his eagerness to see the wonderful invention, and he made the passage to New York on the boat. The Clermont, ("Katharine of Clermont," according to Dr. Perry,) he says, was as much like a balloon as like a modern steamer.

"We are selling the Athlophoros and have sold a good deal of it. I use the article occasionally, as required," reports A. S. Blackman, a New Haven, Conn., druggist, regarding his dealings in Athlophoros.

The estate of the late Charles Francis Adams is appraised at $1,026,000.

The Nottingham Hosiery company's factories at Loughboro, England, have been burned. Loss $300,000.

"I was troubled with an eruption on my face, which was a source of constant annoyance when I wished to appear in company. After using ten bottles of Ayer's Sarsaparilla, the humor entirely disappeared."—Mary M. Wood, 40 Adams street, Lowell, Mass.

At New Haven, Conn., every one of the stevedores of the New Haven Steamboat company, who struck on Friday, Jan. 28th, in sympathy with their New York brethren, have applied for reinstatement. The company as yet has taken no steps in the matter. The new gang of men will be kept at work for the present at least.

Good and Reliable.

The New Hampshire Orphans' Home.

The New Hampshire Orphans' Home, established in Franklin in 1871, has received and maintained nearly five hundred destitute children, until suitable permanent homes could be secured for them through its agency. No state aid has ever been furnished, and aside from an annual income of about $700 from invested funds, together with the products of the farm, and a little aid from some of the counties, it has no means of support save the voluntary contributions of its friends. For the past few years it has maintained, on an average, thirty children, and it has accommodations for more; but it cannot add to its present number unless increased contributions come into its treasury. The work is entirely unsectarian, and appeals alike to all denominations. Much has been given in the past by the people of the state to this home, and the father of the fatherless has so greatly blessed, that its benefactors may well claim the promise, "Inasmuch as ye have done it unto one of the least of these, ye have done it unto Me." Contributions may be sent to either Mrs. I. N. Blodgett, Mrs. W. F. Daniels, or Mrs. R. G. Burleigh, Franklin, N. H.

The Effects of Mental Exhaustion.

Many diseases, especially those of the nervous system, are the products of daily renewed mental exhaustion. Business avocations often involve an amount of mental wear and tear very prejudicial to physical health, and the professions, if arduously pursued, are no less destructive to brain and nerve tissue. It is one of the most important attributes of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, that it compensates for this undue loss of tissue, and that it imparts new energy to the brain and nerves. The rapidity with which it renews weakened mental energy and physical vitality is remarkable, and shows that its invigorating properties are of the highest order. Besides increasing vital stamina, and counteracting the effects of mental exhaustion, this potential medicine cures and prevents fever and ague, rheumatism, chronic dyspepsia, and constipation, kidney and uterine weakness, and other complaints. Physicians also commend it as a medicated stimulant and remedy.

An Incident of the Siege of Paris.

I recollect one morning having hurried to the baker's at the last moment, weak, ravenous, down in the mouth, and shuddering with the cold, relates Mr. John Augustus O'Shea, the war correspondent. The etiquette was "first come, first served." I had to station myself at the tail-end of the queue, and there was a very long queue at that door, longer than I had ever seen outside the Comedie Francaise.

We were two and two. Beside me was a woman of the people, some 30 years old—buxom, red-cheeked, with a bright gray eye, brawny arms, and a rich voice that positively laughed when she spoke. She wore a small white cap over her black braids, carefully arranged so as to bring into relief a pair of massive yellow earrings.

We were a rueful company, but that woman of the people kept us alive with her sallies. She put soul into us. As each newcomer arrived and took a place in the rear she broke out into merry banter. * * * In front of her was an elderly, dapper, thin man, with short hair of iron-gray, and sharp, saturnine countenance, who looked at her occasionally as she joked, when his sharp, saturnine countenance seemed to broaden and brighten.

His turn came at last. He received his puny allowance of the so-called bread, and then the door of the bakery was slammed to, and the word passed that the stock was exhausted—there was no more loaves that day! The cheerful woman of the people grew white, reeled, and fell to the pavement, as she murmured, "Mes pauvres enfants!"

She, who had been encouraging us all, had left three starving children at home, and had missed even one ration of food by a single forerunner. We rubbed her palms. One kindly female pressed a vial of sal volatile to her nostrils. A drop of brandy was fetched from the nearest marchand du vin, and by degrees she recovered. As soon as she was able to stand the man of the sharp, saturnine countenance quietly slipped his ration of bread into her pocket.

"Look what that little nincompoop has done!" said a burly rascal in broadcloth, who had obtained a ration immediately before him. "Why, she only made believe; she's an impostor."

"Rachel could not act disappointment like that," said I; "that is nature."

"Look what I have done? Yes. I have done what a man should do; and I say to you what I shall do when this siege is over. I shall shoot you like a pigeon—no not like a pigeon, they carry our letters—I shall never shoot one again, but I shall shoot you like a bloated rat."

It was he of the sharp, saturnine countenance who spoke.

"You! you walking anatomy; and who, in the name of St. Denis, may you be?" said the big fellow, in a blustering tone.

"I am ——," and he mentioned the name of a celebrated duelist.

The portly individual ran away much more quickly than one might have anticipated from his want of condition; but he did not escape before he had been tripped up and his ration had been annexed for the benefit of the woman of the people.—English Magazine.

Type-Setting by Machinery.

The first book printed from type set by the new type-machine owned by parties in this city has just made its appearance in the market. The company was organized a year or more ago, but has been a year getting ready to manufacture the machines in considerable quantities. They had first to make the tools with which to make the machines. Now that this is done they can begin to turn them out by the hundred. One lot of over a hundred machines is now being made. They will cost somewhere from $300 to $500 apiece, but will enable one man to do the work of ten men in type-setting. They work like a typewriter, only that they can be worked at a higher rate of speed. The operators on the machines now being used can produce type at the rate of sixty words a minute, and with increased experience they expect to get a considerable higher rate. This means, the friends of the machines say, that from three to six men will be able to set up the type for the ordinary daily paper. The machine casts the type a line at a time, and when the paper is printed the types are melted down and the metal used again the next day. There has been in the past twenty years a wonderful increase in the facilities for producing newspapers with great rapidity in every department except type-setting. In this department the old systems have continued to prevail until now, but if this machine does what is claimed for it, it will prove a wonderful time-saver in this particular and enable the publisher to lay the news smoking hot before his readers within a few moments after the actual occurrence which it describes.—Washington Cor. Chicago Journal.

The United States Express Company, taking warning from the late robbery from an Adams Express Company car, has placed on its cars new fire and burglar-proof safes, which are bolted to the car. The express messengers do not carry the keys or have the combination to these safes, and they cannot be opened by them or any one else on the train. They are only opened at leading stations by the station agent, who gets on the train for that purpose, and locks them again safely before the train leaves the station. By this arrangement all collusion between dishonest messengers and express robbers is prevented, and the safes cannot be forced open without consuming longer time than would be necessary to successfully carry out the deed.

A CHILD'S SKIN.

Ears and Scalp Covered with Eczematous Scabs and Sores Cured by Cuticura.

MY little son, aged eight years, has been afflicted with Eczema of the scalp, and at times a great portion of the body, ever since he was two years old. It began in his ears, and extended to his scalp, which became covered with scales and sore, and from which a sticky fluid poured out, causing intense itching and distress, and leaving his hair matted and lifeless. Underneath these scabs the skin was raw, like a piece of beefsteak. Gradually the hair came out and was re-treyed, until but a small patch was left at the back of the head. My friends in Peabody know how my little boy has suffered. At night he would scratch his head until his pillow was covered with blood. I used to tie his hands behind him, and in many ways tried to prevent his scratching; but it was no use, he would scratch. I took him to the hospital and to the best physicians in Peabody without success. About this time, some friends, who had been cured by the CUTICURA REMEDIES, prevailed upon me to try them. I began to use them on the 12th of January last. In seven months every particle of the disease was removed. Not a spot or scab remains on his scalp to tell the story of his suffering. His hair has returned, and is thick and strong, and his scalp is sweet and clean as any child's in the world. I cannot say enough to express my gratitude for this wonderful cure by the CUTICURA REMEDIES, and wish all similarly affected to know that my statement is true and without exaggeration. CHARLES McKAY,
Oct. 6, 1885. Peabody, Mass.

I have seen Mr. McKay's boy when badly affected with the Eczema. He was a pitiful sight to look at. I know that he has tried our best physicians, and did all a father could do for a suffering child, but availed nothing. I know that the statements he has made you as regards the curing of his boy by your CUTICURA REMEDIES are true in every particular.
WILLIAM J. MCCARTHY,
32 Foster St., Peabody, Mass.

A Word About Catarrh.

"It is the mucous membrane, that wonderful semi-fluid envelope surrounding the delicate tissues of the air and food passages, that Catarrh makes its stronghold. Once established, it eats into the very vitals, and renders life but a long-drawn death of misery and disease, quelling the sense of hearing, transmuting the power of speech, destroying the faculty of smell, tainting the breath, and killing the refined pleasures of taste. Insidiously, by creeping on from a simple cold in the head, it assaults the membranous lining and envelops the bones, eating through the delicate cells causing inflammation, ulceration and death. Nothing short of total eradication will secure health to the patient, and all alleviatives are simply palliatives, and suffering, leading to a fatal termination. SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE, by Inhalation and by Internal administration, has never failed; even when the disease has made rightful inroads on delicate constitutions, hearing, smell and taste have been recovered, and the disease thoroughly driven out.

SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE consists of one bottle of the RADICAL CURE, one box CATARRHAL SOLVENT, and one IMPROVED INHALER, neatly wrapped in one package, with full directions; price, $1.00.

Catarrh

Is a very prevalent and exceedingly disagreeable disease, liable, if neglected, to develop into serious consumption. Being a constitutional disease, it requires a constitutional remedy like Hood's Sarsaparilla, which, acting through the blood, reaches every part of the system, effecting a radical and permanent cure of catarrh in even its most severe forms. Made only by C. I. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass.

A "Plan of Campaign" in New York.

It is gravely announced that the leaders of the great strike in New York propose to put into operation their "plan of campaign." That is, orders will be issued to all members of the Knights of Labor and other organizations which can be controlled by District Assembly Forty-nine, which is conducting the strike, to refuse to pay any rent to the landlords, but to pay the rent money into a fund which will go the support of the strikers. This plan has been discussed in all seriousness by the strikers, and it is asserted by some of them that it will be put into operation very soon. When asked what would be done with the evicted people, one of them replied: "You can't evict a whole city."

Married by Proxy.

Miss Nina Van Zandt has become Mrs. August Spies, or at least thinks she has, by a ceremony which seems to be satisfactory to her and her silly parents, the ceremony being nothing less than a marriage by proxy, Henry W. Spies, a brother of the condemned assassin, personating the latter. Justice Englehardt of Jefferson, a small town near Chicago, drew up a proxy which he considers invulnerable, and this was taken to the county jail and signed by Spies in the presence of his sister Gretchen, his sister-in-law and a third woman. By the document Spies gave his brother full authority to represent him at the ceremony. Then the whole party, including Nina, her parents, and Henry and Cris Spies, brothers of August, went before Justice Englehardt, and he performed the ceremony. Henry Spies answered to the name of August Vincent Theodore Spies, and under this name was married to Miss Van Zandt.

EXPRESS CONSOLIDATION.

The Boston Post of the 2d inst. had the following in regard to the new deal in express matters on the Boston & Maine railroad:

On Monday last the seventy-seven local express companies connecting with the Boston & Maine railroad were notified that on and after March 1st they would be obliged to pay their freight bills to, and purchase tickets of, the American Express company, instead of transacting this business directly with the railroad officials, as heretofore. When the American Express company secured control of the Eastern Express franchise several years ago, it followed this transaction by absorbing many of the small express lines running to principal points. Other routes have started up since then, and now there are, as stated above, seventy-seven companies doing business over the Boston & Maine railroad. Many of them, notably those running to manufacturing places—Lynn, Salem, Beverly, Peabody and Marblehead—not only transact an express business proper, but handle immense quantities of heavy freight. Every night these companies load cars enough to make a complete freight train, and pay large sums of money to the railroad people. It has taken years to establish these large routes, and the managers naturally object to becoming, as it were, virtually under the control of the American company. "This radical proceeding," said one of the parties concerned last evening, "has aroused a feeling of intense opposition, not only from the local express lines, but also among the business men as well at all the prominent points points of landing. In these sections the scheme is denounced as a continuation of the freezing-out process initiated by the American Express company, and will, if successful, give the American company a complete monopoly of the express business over the entire line."

The Post goes on to say that a committee of the expressmen on the 1st inst. waited on General Manager Furber of the Boston & Maine road, who declined to discuss the matter, and referred them to Mr. James Eggleston, general manager of the American Express Co., and that the latter informed them that "the American Express company had the entire local express system completely in its grasp—in the hollow of its hand, as it were—and could, at its pleasure, limit and control their business, or, if so disposed, had the power to absorb the whole traffic of the Boston & Maine road." Mr. Eggleston further stated that "a circular to the local express companies was in preparation at the American Express office. It would be issued within a few days, and would dictate to the former the terms which the American Express company would grant." On the committee reporting to the meeting of expressmen, the agents unanimously voted to take immediate steps to organize the whole power of the local express companies to oppose to the utmost legal extremity the scheme contemplated by the American Express company and the Boston & Maine railroad, and for this purpose it was decided to call a general meeting of the agents of the local companies at once. A gentleman closely interested speaks of the matter as follows:

This move on the part of the American company to absorb at one fell swoop these seventy-seven smaller lines will excite a bitter and unyielding antagonism, and will not be permitted so long as there is any legal method to prevent its accomplishment. The public sentiment in Lynn, Salem, Newburyport, Haverhill, Lawrence, Dover, Portsmouth and Gloucester is overwhelmingly in sympathy with the local companies. In Dover the merchants will voluntarily petition the legislature of New Hampshire in their favor, and in Lawrence and Haverhill the business men and bankers have notified the local lines of their determination to sustain them by all means in their power. In these places no measure ever excited a more intense and uniform sentiment of public dissatisfaction. The local lines apparently have no resource except through the action of the legislature or an injunction by the supreme court; but they can command considerable influence, have many powerful friends and some money, and these, with the support of a strong public sympathy, will make their absorption by the American company a matter of doubt and perhaps of impossibility."

PUT IT OUT.

A correspondent writes to ask what is the use of the city keeping up an oil lamp at the corner of Gates and Water streets, about half-way between two not-widely-separated electric lights—one at Liberty bridge and the other on top of Meetinghouse hill. He says the electric lights would do well enough without the other; but now, when he goes home at midnight or later, after a protracted and important meeting of the lodge, he is frequently so bewildered by the yellow dullness of that old oil lamp that he has very hard work to find his house, and much harder work to explain, to the satisfaction of the lady who lets him in when he does find it, where he has been and what he has been doing,—as of course he cannot shield himself from her censure by divulging the secrets of the order. He hopes that if reasons of economy are not sufficient to cause the city fathers to discontinue that lamp, they will consider his tribulations, as they know how it is themselves, and act accordingly.

WHY IS IT

That rheumatism and neuralgia are so prevalent? This question has not been satisfactorily answered, but it is certain that these diseases are not only the most painful but among the most common, and some member of nearly every family in the land is the victim of one of these dread tormentors. Ladies seem to be peculiarly liable to neuralgic attacks, which, in the form of neuralgic headache, pain in the back, or nervous pains are of constant occurrence. Not until the discovery of Athlophoros had any remedy been found for either rheumatism, neuralgia or nervous headache, and they were generally conceded to be incurable, but Athlophoros has been proven to be not only a certain cure for these diseases, in all their varied forms, but a safe remedy. If, in the use of Athlophoros, the bowels are kept freely open, its success is certain, and to aid this, Athlophoros Pills are recommended, which, while providing the necessary cathartic, will be found to be a valuable aid to the action of the medicine. Athlophoros is no experiment, it has been tested and has proved its wonderful efficacy.

The Athlophoros Pills were originally prepared as a remedy for use in connection with Athlophoros, for rheumatism and neuralgia and kindred complaints. Used in connection with that remedy, they are a certain cure for either of these very common and distressing diseases. They have also been found to be an invaluable remedy for any and all diseases arising from vitiated blood or general debility. They are especially valuable for nervous debility, blood poisoning, dyspepsia, distress after eating, headache, constipation, loss of appetite, and all stomach or liver troubles. For diseases of women they are invaluable. These pills are perfectly harmless and may be safely used by adults or children.

Testimonials of those who have been cured will be sent free on application.

Every druggist should keep Athlophoros and Athlophoros Pills, but where they cannot be bought of the druggist, the Athlophoros Co., 112 Wall St., New York, will send either (carriage paid) on receipt of regular price, which is $1.00 per bottle for Athlophoros and 50c. for Pills.

MUNICIPAL AFFAIRS.

In Board of Mayor and Aldermen, Thursday evening, Feb. 3d, Mayor Eldredge in the chair:

Absent, Aldermen Sinclair and Russell.

Petition of L. K. Lydston for an electric light on Hanover street, near the carriage factory, was referred to the committee on streets, to report.

Petition of Alfred D. Moses and others for an oil lamp at the foot of Whidden street, was granted.

Committee on bills on their second reading asked further time on bills in relation to dogs, and to increase the pay of the police; granted.

Bills amounting to $2608.44 were ordered to be paid.

Ordered that the lamplighters report to the city clerk on the 1st day of each month the number of lamps lighted, and the time of lighting, each day of the preceding month.

Reports of chief engineer, superintendent of fire alarm, and superintendent of schools, were received, and ordered to be printed.

A communication from the board of instruction, asking the appropriation of $21,000 in addition to the other income, for the support of schools during the current year, was received and placed on file.

Message was received from the common council that they were ready to meet the aldermen in convention, for the transaction of business. In convention, Mayor Eldredge read the following statement of the financial condition of the city:

To the City Councils of the City of Portsmouth:

Gentlemen—As the publication of the annual report of the city receipts and expenditures is necessarily delayed by the large amount of labor required in its preparation, I have deemed it advisable, at this time, to give you as concise a statement as possible of the finances of the city as they existed at the end of the year just closed.

You will of course bear in mind the fact that since the first day of January we are supposed to be expending the taxes and income of the year 1887, though these taxes will not be assessed until April and no part of them collected until July.

At the date of my last address to you the new sewer along the north millpond was not fully completed and I was unable to give you the exact cost of building it. All the bills have, however, since been paid, and the total cost was $37,282.52.

The proceeds of the sale of a part of the city farm and the bonds issued for the sewer amounted to $41,495.79, leaving a balance of $4,213.27. From this balance there was expended in repairing damages caused by the washout at the north millbridge $832.76, leaving unexpended $3,380.51.

With the exception of the loan of $18,000—made for the purpose of building the sewer—the debt of the city has not been increased and no money has been hired; while the funds of the city on deposit have earned interest amounting to $560.94.

The cash received from all sources during the year ending December 31st, 1886, amounted to $175,454.25; the expenses paid were $151,775 06; leaving a balance of cash on hand of $23,679.19, deposited as follows: Globe National bank, Boston, $2,151.00; National Hide & Leather bank, Boston, $901.94; New Hampshire National bank of this city, $19,561.59; city treasurer's safe, $1,064.66.

In addition to this cash on hand, the city had at the date named—

Taxes of 1874 due	$231.19
" " 1884 "	$280.88
" " 1885 "	$316.41
" " 1886 "	$3,820.43
Total,	$12,802.82.

The greater part of which will doubtless eventually be collected.

I need not call your attention to the fact that some of the expenses of the year have been such as to add to the cash value of the property of the city, as for instance: Amount paid for gravel pits, $1,200.00; amount paid for new hose and carriage, $1,207.50; amount paid for stone crusher, $1,017.58; while Newcastle avenue, Sagamore road and Creek road, have been widened and greatly improved, all at considerable expense, but all adding to the permanent welfare and beauty of the city.

In addition to other unusual expenses the north millbridge, south millbridge and Liberty bridge, have been newly planked, and two new landings have been built, while $412.38 was expended in trimming trees, a work made necessary by the "ice storm" of last winter.

I desire to thank you and the several committees, under whose direction the city's money has been expended, for having conducted its affairs so successfully, that we are able to enter upon the new year in such a prosperous condition as the figures above indicate, and I trust at its close the financial condition of our city will be equally as satisfactory as it now is, without any increase in the rate of taxation.

On the rising of the convention, the board of mayor and aldermen adjourned to the call of the mayor.

In Common Council, President Crowley in the chair:

Absent, Councilmen Fraser and Chas. E. Grover.

Notice was received from the upper board, of concurrence in the amendment to the bill fixing the salary of the city solicitor.

The committee appointed to visit the city farm made a report, and were discharged, with a vote of thanks.

Adjourned by yea and nay vote.

MUSIC HALL, SATURDAY NIGHT.

To-morrow evening, at Music hall, the Romantic Drama Co., supporting William Redmund and Mrs. Thomas Barry, will present the four-act drama "Rene, the Huguenot captain," adapted from the French. The piece differs from the ordinary emotional—or lachrymose—drama in that it has a lively vein of humor running all through it, and which is sufficiently pronounced not to be dispelled by the more sombre features that occur at various points in the play. The costuming is elegant, and pronounced by the critics to be correct, having been designed in Paris. The stars, Mrs. Barry and Mr. Redmund, are too well known to our theatre-goers to need any commendation, and the support is pronounced by the press to be strong and effective. A large and appreciative audience may be expected to assemble in Music hall tomorrow night. Tickets on sale at Goodrich's.

PERSONAL.

William A. Heard, Esq., national bank examiner, has been in town this week upon official business.

Lieut. Wm. H. Everett, U. S. N., returned from Washington on Wednesday evening, the 2d inst.

Medical Inspector John H. Clark, U. S. N., returned on Wednesday evening, the 2d inst., from Amherst, whither he had been to attend the funeral of his father's brother, Rev. William Clark, who died recently at an advanced age, and for many years was known throughout the state for his labors in the cause of foreign missions.

Mr. John N. Whittem of Boston, formerly of this city, arrived in town the first of this week on a visit of a few days to his former home.

"Zozo, the Magic Queen," a brilliant spectacular play, will be at Music hall on Wednesday and Thursday evenings of next week.

The committee on fire department have changed the time of testing the fire alarm to the first Monday of each month, instead of the first day as formerly.

The day policemen now have plenty of occupation in hunting up absent school children. They are obliged to investigate anywhere from six to a dozen cases of truancy for teachers in the various schools, each day.

A naval court martial will probably be ordered to convene at this navy yard shortly.

The Times answers our appeal to that paper (and the Manchester Union) for an outburst of reform indignation at the proposal to pay the police decent wages, quite satisfactorily—says it never opposed the raising of the officers' pay by the republicans, as it never had occasion to, and that it is now and always has been of the same opinion as the Chronicle regarding the matter—that all the men needed should be employed, and that they should be properly paid for their services. That's all right. Now will our brother of the Union say something?

It is announced that arsenic has been found in the body of the late Oliver Sleeper of Cambridge, Mass., one of the alleged victims of Mrs. Robinson of Somerville, the central figure in the syndicate of Massachusetts poisoners whose exploits have created so great an interest within a year past. This is the Mr. Sleeper, formerly of Rye, whose bequest of eight or ten thousand dollars to the town of Rye for a public library, and failing its acceptance by the town, to one of the churches there, is now being fought about in the courts of this state, each of the parties named maintaining that they are entitled to it, and that the other claimants have no standing in law or equity.

In the habeas corpus case of John B. Dominique of Great Falls, N. H., heard at Saco before the supreme judicial court of Maine, in which Dominique claimed that he was illegally under arrest, having been seized in New Hampshire on a civil process by York county officials, the judge refused to order his release, and he was remanded to Alfred jail. It did not appear that the York county deputy sheriff voluntarily surrendered his authority over his prisoner by coming into New Hampshire with him, but came over at the prisoner's special request to enable him to procure bonds, and on the prisoner's positive promise to return with him if the sureties were not forthcoming. We are told that Dominique himself stated on the stand under oath at Saco that he did thus agree and did thus intend, until he was otherwise advised. He acted in bad faith, and was ordered back to jail on the ground that he belonged to the sheriff, who had the right to take him wherever he could be found. The people of Berwick have decided to present a gold medal to Deputy Sheriff Hurd, and silver medals to the two constables who aided him in capturing Dominique the second time—so it is said.

After searching a number of days to discover a leak in the gaspipes in the vicinity of the junction of Vaughan and Deer streets, the Gas Co.'s workmen on Thursday forenoon found it on Vaughan street, near Treat's marble shop.

A French girl named Minnie Demorest, fifteen years old, was struck by a train on the Boston & Maine railroad bridge at Haverhill, Mass., Feb. 1st, and fatally injured. She lived only a few minutes.

Intelligence from Lesser Slave lake, Manitoba, announces that the Indians there are dying from starvation and pestilence. Over 150 died last month from measles, and as the fisheries have failed, and the rabbits and lynx deserted the country, they have no means of subsistence.

Insurance Notice.
THE OLD INSURANCE AGENCY,
AT THE OLD STAND,
No. 13 Pleasant Street,
PORTSMOUTH, N. H.
To my Old Customers and Friends. Are you insured? When your home or other property is being consumed by a raging fire, a good insurance policy is a great comfort. The subscriber, with his experience of fifteen years, is now prepared to place your Insurance in the Insurance Companies of New Hampshire, and in Companies organized in other States. No one can place your Insurance better or safer!
NOTE.—Mr. Ilsley, my late copartner, still states in his published card, that he purchased of me all my right to the "Fire Insurance Business of our late firm." I have heretofore denied this statement. He never offered to buy of me the business or goodwill of the firm, and I never offered or even thought of selling out my business. I hired our old office, and advertised to carry on the business in all its branches, weeks before a final settlement. Now, if he has a bill of sale, bond or any agreement whereby I conveyed to him any rights to the goodwill of the old firm or any rights to do a Fire Insurance Business in New Hampshire with old or new customers, let him prosecute me for a breach of contract, or cease publishing or repeating his false statement. I am ready to meet this issue in any court of justice. I make this statement in justice to my customers and friends and to vindicate my own integrity.

LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S VEGETABLE COMPOUND.

Is a Positive Cure

For ALL of those Painful Delicate Complaints and Complicated troubles and Weaknesses so common among our Wives, Mothers, and Daughters.

☞ PRESENT TO THE TASTE, EFFICACIOUS, PERMANENT AND LASTING IN ITS EFFECT, IN THE LIQUID FORM, ($1 PER BOTTLE) EITHER OF THE LATTER CURES FROM OBSERVATION, ON RECEIPT OF PRICE. MRS. PINKHAM'S "GUIDE TO HEALTH" AND CONTINENTAL CIRCULAR MAILED TO ANY LADY SENDING ADDRESS AND STAMP TO LYNN, MASS. Mention this Paper.

Lydia E. Pinkham

Ladies' Weaknesses.

Mr. T. H. Gafford of Church Hill, Md., is so thankful for the restoration of his wife to complete health, that he is willing to certify to the fact and manner of her cure. To Mrs. Lydia E. Pinkham: "This is to certify to the efficacy of your Vegetable Compound. My wife was suffering from a terrible disease which seemed to baffle the skill of the best medical men. She was in a poor languid, depressed, nervous condition. We finally concluded to try your Vegetable Compound and to our great surprise the 1st of one bottle had not been taken before there seemed to be a thorough change to her whole condition, and now to-day she is in good health and entirely relieved from all former depressed feelings.

T. H. GAFFORD and wife.

PHYSICAL SALVATION.

"Blessed Art Thou above all Others."

Some of the expressions of gratitude for the physical regeneration wrought by Mrs. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound read like the revelings of converts after a religious revival. It brings Sabbath to the weary. A lady in Franklin Parish, La., writes: "I tried one bottle of your Compound for Prolapsus Uteri and Leucorrhea. I never had anything in my life that did me as much good. I was hardly able to walk about without difficulty. I could not step upon anything without pain. When I think how much good that one bottle did me, I feel as if I could fall on my knees to you and say, 'Blessed art thou above all others, for thou art one of the greatest benefactors that woman ever had.'"

Great Forests of Great Firs.

"Among the myriads of natural curiosities and wonders that confront the visitor to the coast of the North Pacific Ocean," said a gentleman recently returned from a trip to that region, "nothing impressed me so deeply as the gigantic forests of Puget Sound. That arm of the Pacific is 200 miles in length, with a shore so irregular, and indented so plentifully with bays and deep harbors that its measurement is over 1,800 miles in extent. Along this whole shore line, and extending thence on both sides, miles and miles farther than the eye can see, is one vast, almost unbroken area of forest trees the like of which I never saw. A few saw-mills have been erected along the sound, and although for several years they have ripped 500,000,000 feet of lumber from these forests annually, the spaces made by what seem like tremendous inroads on the timber appear like little garden patches.

The manufacturing and marketing of that amount of lumber every year is a business of immense proportions, but its existence, I find, is entirely unknown to the trade in the east. The markets for this product of these mills in the depths of the Washington Territory wilderness is South America, Australia, Central America, and the Pacific Ocean islands. This great belt of virgin timber covers 30,000,000 acres, an area equal to that of the states of Massachusetts, Connecticut, Vermont, and New Hampshire. The forests are of fir, cedar, maple, and other valuable woods. The firs comprise two-thirds of the timber. An official estimate places the amount of timber on this belt at 500,000,000,000 feet—enough to last the mills now there for more than 1,000 years. The fir trees grow to the enormous height of 250 feet, and I have seen piles of boards cut from them, not one board in which was less than 100 feet long and six wide, without a knot from one end to the other.

A S. Louis clergyman devised a pretty present for a bride whose marriage service he read the other day. He wrote out the words of the ceremony in a pretty little volume in which the marriage certificate was bound, with the autographs of the bridemaids, the best man and the ushers.

Littell's Living Age.

IN 1887 THE LIVING AGE enters upon its forty-fourth year, having met with continuous commendation and success.

A WEEKLY MAGAZINE, it gives fifty-two numbers of sixty-four pages each, or more than

Three and a Quarter Thousand

double-column octavo pages of reading-matter yearly. It presents in an inexpensive form, considering the great amount of matter, with freshness, owing to its weekly issue, and with a completeness nowhere else attempted,

The best Essays, Reviews, Criticisms, Serial and Short Stories, Sketches of Travel and Discovery, Poetry, Scientific, Biographical, Historical, and Political Information, from the entire body of Foreign Periodical Literature, and from the pens of the

FOREMOST LIVING WRITERS.

The ablest and most cultivated intellects, in every department of Literature, Science, Politics, and Art, find a freedom in the Periodical Literature of Europe, and especially of Great Britain.

The Living Age, forming four large volumes a year, furnishes, from the great and generally inaccessible mass of this literature, the only compilation that, while within the reach of all, is satisfactory in the COMPLETENESS with which it embraces whatever is of immediate interest, or of solid, permanent value.

It is therefore indispensable to every one who wishes to keep pace with the events or intellectual progress of the time, or to cultivate in himself or his family general intelligence and literary taste.

Mr. JOHN W. FURBUSH,

An Army Veteran,

OF WAKEFIELD,

who has probably suffered more than any man or woman in America to-day. Taken sick while in the Army, he has endured untold agonies since. Describing his first symptoms he said: "My head ached and my appetite was poor. I felt a faintness at the pit of the stomach, and a bad taste in my mouth, while my skin was sometimes hot and sometimes cold. I next felt pains in my back and around the edge of my pelvic bone, and had a peculiar odor and color in the water I passed, which was scanty at one time and free at others. Sometimes it pained me to void it, and again it was almost impossible to do so at all. Finally I began to pass clear blood accompanied with the most acute strain and agony."

No less than 20 eminent physicians attended Mr. Furbush at various times, but not one of them could help him. He was near death's door. And yet he says: "I am alive and well to-day, wholly through the wonderful power of Hunt's Remedy, which took me from the verge of the grave."

This Great Remedy absolutely cures all Kidney, Liver and Urinary Diseases.

For Sale by all Dealers.

William Hazen and William Roberts, seamen on the steamer Arizona, which arrived at New York Feb. 2d, were killed Jan. 25th by a heavy wave that struck the vessel. Last Monday seven more of the sailors were injured by another wave, and four of them are dangerously ill on board from the effects.

"I was troubled with an eruption on my face, which was a source of constant annoyance when I wished to appear in company. After using ten bottles of Ayer's Sarsaparilla, the humor entirely disappeared."—Mary M. Wood, 40 Adams street, Lowell, Mass.

There is a project to have a through line from Kansas City, Mo., to Liverpool, Eng., by way of New Orleans, which will enable beef packers to put their goods in Liverpool twenty or twenty-five per cent cheaper than by way of New York.

Good and Reliable.

A good and reliable family medicine is Sulphur Bitters. Every spring for six years I have been troubled with boils. Since I began using Sulphur Bitters, I have not had a single one. You can rely on Sulphur Bitters every time.—Editor Weekly Times.

Cyrus Chapin, the Boston cattle dealer whose remains were recently found on Talcott mountain in Connecticut, is believed to have been murdered by Charles W. Cobleigh of Baldwinville, Mass., the wife murderer, who is now in a Massachusetts insane asylum. Mrs. Cobleigh before her death told the police she believed her husband had murdered Chapin, who had $2,000 with him when he disappeared in December, 1885, while only a few cents were found with his remains.

A Sad Wreck.

The friends of Dr. Augustus Rosenthal, who is old, blind and poor, and of impaired mind, have applied for his admission to the poorhouse at Dedham, Mass. He was once one of the most noted homeopathic physicians in Massachusetts; was one of the foremost advocates of the founding of the Massachusetts Homeopathic hospital, and was quite wealthy. Most of his property, it is said, was spent in charity. His sight failed fifteen years ago, and with its loss and the consequent loss of his practice, his mind became affected.

Philip Scheidwiler, a tinsmith aged seventy-eight years, and his wife, aged twenty-four, were found dead in their house at Breslau, L. I., Feb. 3d. They had been dead several days, and were murdered by unknown robbers.

Murdered.

The body of Julius Baer was found by freighters five miles west of here Tuesday morning, in a terribly mangled condition. His head and face were smashed, so as to be hardly recognized, and numerous wounds were found on his body. Mr. Baer was agent for the great blood medicine, Sulphur Bitters. Robbery was undoubtedly the motive, as he was well known to have a large sum of money on his person. As we go to press there is no clew to the perpetrators.—Colorado Press.

"Prof." John De Leon, the New York "astrologer" who was convicted of inducing young girls to go to Panama for immoral purposes under the pretext of finding employment for them, was on the 3d inst. sentenced to fifteen years' imprisonment at hard labor at Sing Sing. This is the maximum punishment of the law. He was convicted of kidnapping Mrs. Sarah Bowes, who was fortunately rescued while enroute to Panama.

Trouble Ahead.

When the appetite fails, and sleep grows restless and unrefreshing, there is trouble ahead. The digestive organs, when healthy, crave food, the nervous system, when vigorous and tranquil, gives its possessor no uneasiness at night. A tonic, to be effective, should not be a mere appetizer, nor are the nerves to be strengthened and soothed by the unaided action of a sedative or a narcotic. What is required is a medicine which invigorates the stomach, and promotes assimilation of food by the system, by which means the nervous system, as well as other parts of the physical organism, are strengthened. These are the effects of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, a medicine whose reputation is founded in public confidence, and which physicians commend for its tonic, anti-bilious and other properties. It is used with the best results in fever and ague, rheumatism, kidney and uterine weakness, and other maladies.

Worked-Out Silver Mines.

"Out of the hole in the old Bonanza mine in the Comstock lode from which $120,000,000 in ore was taken, was packed a foot of timber for every dollar taken out," said Howard Storrs, an old Colorado miner. "The timber cost $2,400,000, and some strange phenomena have been produced in the dark and distant caverns by the changes it has undergone. The timbers were laid in loosely, probably two thirds of the space of the pits or chambers being occupied by them, the thousands of cracks and openings necessary in the corduroy as the timber packing is called, making up the other third. The top earth, or roof of the caverns, has fallen by degrees upon the corduroy, and, filling all the crevices, has compressed the pile into one solid mass. The position of these abandoned levels may be easily discerned on the surface, as the crust of the earth has yielded and sunk into the space formerly filled by the roof of the caverns. By this great pressure on the timbers below, sticks twelve inches through have been crushed to almost half their original dimensions.

"Standing near some of these surface depressions the visitor will notice a strong smell of burning wood in the air, but will be surprised to see no wood anywhere in the vicinity. The smell comes from the depths of those timber-choked cavities where millions of treasure were once stored. The wood has decayed, and from it strong gases have generated. These gases frequently explode, and are often heard in other levels where miners are at work. The explosion sets fire to the wood, and the cavern becomes a smouldering and smoking furnace, the life of which will not be spent for years. The smoke works its way out upward through the porous surface of the chamber, but seems to become invisible on contact with the air, retaining and distributing, however, its strong odor. One of these smouldering subterranean fires covers a worked-out space of 1,300 feet long and 100 wide. If by any chance a draught of fresh air should reach it, the resulting burst of flame would be indescribably terrible.

"The gas generated by these decaying timbers is of the most deadly character, and the greatest care must be taken to confine it within its limits and supply the working levels with the most perfect ventilation. Air-tight bulkheads sixty feet thick cut off the deadly chambers from the rest of the levels. Three powerful currents are constantly kept in circulation in the Comstock mines. One of these which is carried down the Ophir shaft and up the Consolidated Virginia shaft, goes down to the 3,100-foot level, and takes down 20,000 feet of air every minute. The 2,000-foot level, reached by the Union shaft, carries 12,000 feet a minute which goes out up the old Sierra Nevada shaft. Sixteen thousand feet of air is taken down to the bottom of the 2,900-foot level and up the Bonner shaft every minute. When these currents of air go down into the levels they are pure and dry, but in making the passage reach a temperature of 100° and more. Besides keeping the levels free from the noxious gases, these currents, in becoming heated, absorb so much of the moisture of the mines that they issue from the upcast shafts in steam, and carry out of the mines nearly 20,000 gallons of water a day."

A Heart-Broken Monkey.

In the monkey's cage at one of the public resorts in this city is a very large and somewhat prehensile monkey. Some time ago he contracted a skin disease, the ravages of which have sadly disfigured his countenance. As it caused him little or no pain, he paid little attention to it. The younger monkeys in the cage have guyed him occasionally, but he was in blissful ignorance of the cause of their jibes. For the last few days there have been several broken bits of looking-glass in the cage, with which the younger monkeys have been amusing themselves. The old monkey at last had his curiosity aroused, and he slipped down, took a piece of the glass away from a smaller monkey, and then climbed onto a perch in order to investigate with becoming dignity. First he critically examined the back of the glass with a very knowing look on his disfigured face. Then he turned it over. The moment he saw the reflection of his own countenance he came near falling off backward from the perch, while an expression of horror overspread his face. For a moment he was stunned. Then he pulled his chin whiskers meditatively and screwed up enough courage to look in the glass again. It confirmed all his worst suspicions. With a howl, he threw the glass from him and went raving about the cage. All the little monkeys were horror-stricken and kept out of the old man's way. After awhile he got another piece of glass, inspected his disfigured countenance, and vainly tried to rub away the white spots. Failing in this, he gave up in despair and again took to raving. He has refused to eat since he made the discovery, and will allow no one to look him in the face. His heart seems broken.—Chicago News.

"Canada Bill," said a confidence man the other day, "was the greatest monte man and crossroader that we ever had in this country. He died at Scranton, Pa., and I remember his funeral very well. We went out to the graveyard with the body, and just as the coffin was being lowered into the grave one of the party broke out: 'I'll bet a hundred to fifty he's not in the box!' and there wasn't a man to take it. 'For,' said another, 'I've known him to get out of as tight places as that.' 'Bill' was known from one end of the country to the other."

A CHILD'S SKIN.

Ears and Scalp Covered with Eczematous Scabs and Sores Cured by Cuticura.

MY little son, aged eight years, has been afflicted with Eczema of the scalp, and at times a great portion of the body, ever since he was two years old. It began in his ears, and extended to his scalp, which became covered with scabs and sores, and from which a sticky fluid poured out, causing intense itching and distress, and leaving his hair matted and filthy. Underneath these scabs the skin was raw, like a piece of beefsteak. Gradually the hair came out and was destroyed, until but a small patch was left at the back of the head. My friends in Peabody know how my little boy has suffered. At night he would scratch his head until his pillow was covered with blood. I used to tie his hands behind him, and in many ways tried to prevent his scratching; but it was no use, he would scratch. I took him to the hospital and to the best physicians in Peabody without success. About this time, some friends, who had been cured by the CUTICURA REMEDIES, prevailed upon me to try them. I began to use them on the 15th of January last. In seven months every particle of the disease was removed. Not a spot or scab remains on his scalp to tell the story of his suffering. His hair has returned, and is thick and strong, and his scalp as sweet and clean as any child in the world. I cannot say enough to express my gratitude for this wonderful cure by the CUTICURA REMEDIES, and wish all similarly afflicted to know that my statement is true and without exaggeration. CHARLES McKAY,
Oct. 6, 1885. Peabody, Mass.

I have seen Mr. McKay's boy when badly affected with the Eczema. He was a pitiful sight to look at. I know that he has tried our best physicians, and did all a father could do for a suffering child, but availed nothing. I know that the statements he has made you as regards the curing of his boy by your CUTICURA REMEDIES are true in every particular.
WILLIAM J. McCARTHY,
33 Foster St., Peabody, Mass.

A Word About Catarrh.

"It is the mucous membrane, that wonderful semi-fluid envelope surrounding the delicate tissues of the air and food passages, that Catarrh makes its stronghold. Once established, it eats into the very vitals, and renders life but a long-drawn death of misery and disease, dulling the sense of hearing, trammelling the power of speech, destroying the faculty of smell, tainting the breath, and killing the refined pleasures of taste. Insidiously, by creeping on from a simple cold in the head, it assaults the membranous lining and envelops the bones—eating through the delicate coats and causing inflammation, sloughing and death. Nothing short of total eradication will secure health to the patient, and all alleviatives are simply procrastinated, sufferings, leading to a fatal termination. SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE, by Inhalation and by Internal administration, has never failed; even when the disease has made rightful inroads on delicate constitutions, hearing, smell and taste have been recovered, and the disease thoroughly driven out."

SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE consists of one bottle of the RADICAL CURE, one box CATARRHAL SOLVENT, and one IMPROVED INHALER, neatly wrapped in one package, with full directions; price, $1.00.

Catarrh

Is a very prevalent and exceedingly disagreeable disease, liable, if neglected, to develop into serious consumption. Being a constitutional disease, it requires a constitutional remedy like Hood's Sarsaparilla, which, acting through the blood, reaches every part of the system, effecting a radical and permanent cure of catarrh in even its most severe forms. Made only by C. I. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass.

The American Board Criticised.

At the annual meeting of the Franklin street Congregational church at Manchester, Wednesday evening, Feb. 2d, Judge David Cross offered and Ex-Governor Smyth and Judge I. W. Smith seconded resolutions condemning the course taken by the prudential committee of the American Board of Foreign Missions in the Hume matter. The resolutions were preceded by addresses eulogistic of Prof. W. J. Tucker of Andover, a former pastor of the church, and they passed unanimously.

They Will "Harass the Yankees."

A despatch from Eastport, Me., says that the Canadian minister of fisheries and marine, Mr. Foster, is making a tour among the islands of Charlotte, speaking at the principal settlements in the interest of the liberal-conservative party. On the afternoon of the 2d inst. he spoke at Welchpool, Campobello. The hall was fairly filled, and the people applauded the speaker heartily whenever he alluded to the fishery question. He roundly abused Senator Frye, and stated that "American fishermen were never denied the privilege of buying provisions in Canadian ports if they were in actual distress and would telegraph to Ottawa for a permit." He acknowledged that the Canadian officials had searched their laws and treaties for some authority to drive American fishermen from their harbors, but failing to find anything, had concluded to enforce their customs laws in every particular and thus harass the Yankees till they came to terms. He stated that the Canadian government was backed by Great Britain in the position it had taken, and that the fleet of cruisers would be enlarged this coming season.

MARITIME NOTES.

The fish receipts at this port on Wednesday and Thursday of this week were as follows: Schooner Annie Sanborn, 10,000 lbs.; Blue Jay, 1900; John W. Caswell, 1200; Frank Foster, 5000; Lady Thorne, 1000; Abby A. Snow, 2000; Light Wing, 3000; Mary E. Smith, 500; Northern Eagle, 2000; Mary Amanda, 1500; W. H. Cross, 36,000; Hattie N. Reed, 3,000; Agnes E. Downs, 4200; Anna H. Mason, 3000; Storm King, 3500; Eliza, 7000; A. C. Newhall, 2400. Prices ranged from $3.50 to $4 per hundred pounds.

Mr. Charles S. Drowne, who owns the wreck of the schooner Flying Dart at Rye beach, has taken out her masts, and they were hauled to this city on the 2d inst. Her bones are likely to remain where they are until the sea washes them away.

Another fight of fishing schooners in Ipswich bay is reported as having taken place the first of this week, one of the vessels fishing out of this port catching a Rockport vessel at the former's trawls, and managing to bit her a good thump, doing some damage.

The fare of 36,800 pounds of fish brought into this port this week by the schooner William H. Cross, Hodgdon master, is said to be the largest fare of fresh fish ever landed here, and to have brought the largest amount ever paid for a single fare—$1324.50. It was the product of two days' fishing in Ipswich bay, and she was fortunate not only in making a great take, but in striking unusually high prices, from $3.50 to $4 per hundred pounds.

WHY IS IT

That rheumatism and neuralgia are so prevalent? This question has not been satisfactorily answered, but it is certain that these diseases are not only the most painful but among the most common, and some member of nearly every family in the land is the victim of one of these dread tormentors. Ladies seem to be peculiarly liable to neuralgic attacks, which, in the form of neuralgic headache, pain in the back, or nervous pains are of constant occurrence. Not until the discovery of Athlophoros had any remedy been found for either rheumatism, neuralgia or nervous headache, and they were generally conceded to be incurable, but Athlophoros has been proved to be not only a certain cure for these diseases, in all their varied forms, but a safe remedy. If, in the use of Athlophoros, the bowels are kept freely open, its success is certain, and to aid this, Athlophoros Pills are recommended, which, while providing the necessary cathartic, will be found to be a valuable aid to the action of the medicine. Athlophoros is no experiment, it has been tested and has proved its wonderful efficacy.

The Athlophoros Pills were originally prepared as a remedy for use in connection with Athlophoros, for rheumatism and neuralgia and kindred complaints. Used in connection with that remedy, they are a certain cure for either of these very common and distressing diseases. They have also been found to be an invaluable remedy for any and all diseases arising from vitiated blood or general debility. They are especially valuable for nervous debility, blood poisoning, dyspepsia, distress after eating, headache, constipation, loss of appetite, and all stomach or liver troubles. For diseases of women they are invaluable. These pills are perfectly harmless and may be safely used by adults or children.

Testimonials of those who have been cured will be sent free on application.

Every druggist should keep Athlophoros and Athlophoros Pills, but where they cannot be bought of the druggist, the Athlophoros Co., 112 Wall St., New York, will send either (carriage paid) on receipt of regular price, which is $1.00 per bottle for Athlophoros and 50c. for Pills.

Messrs. Raymond & Whitcomb's Second Tour through Mexico.

The excursions through Mexico, projected by Messrs. Raymond & Whitcomb are equally as successful as their popular California tours. They surround their tourists with every possible comfort and luxury, and by the use of a special train service, dining-car and other arrangements providing special facilities for travel and convlea, sight-seeing, they render the trip as easy and delightful as it could be made in our own country. They are also enabled to make halts in places off the beaten tract. The second and last party of the present season will leave Boston on Monday, March 7th, and be absent forty-seven days. The outward journey will be via New Orleans and over the popular "Sunset Route," and the homeward one, from El Paso over the interesting Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe Line. Throughout Mexico the new and elegant train of cars built for Messrs. Raymond & Whitcomb's patrons by the Pullman company, and comprising three magnificent sleepers, with a splendid dining-car, will be in use. Descriptive circulars of this excursion, and also of the California trips in February, March, April and May, may be obtained of W. Raymond, 296 Washington street, opposite School street, Boston, Mass.

Collector Leavitt of Eastport, Me., last week ruled that a duty of one-half cent per pound must be paid on frozen herring brought in by English boats. This is about what the fishermen get for them; and on the day the ruling was announced, some 75,000 were taken into Eastport, and rather than pay the duty the Canadian fishermen took them back.

Trouble Ahead.

When the appetite fails, and sleep grows restless and unrefreshing, there is trouble ahead. The digestive organs, when healthy, crave food, the nervous system, when vigorous and tranquil, gives its possessor no uneasiness at night. A tonic, to be effective, should not be a mere appetizer, nor are the nerves to be strengthened and soothed by the unaided action of a sedative or a narcotic. What is required is a medicine which invigorates the stomach, and promotes assimilation of food by the system, by which means the nervous system as well as other parts of the physical organism, are strengthened. These are the effects of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, a medicine whose reputation is founded in public confidence, and which physicians commend for its tonic, anti-bilious and other properties. It is used with the best results in fever and ague, rheumatism, kidney and uterine weakness, and other maladies.

Celebrated Diamonds.

The largest diamond known is that of the "Rajah of Mattan" in Borneo. It was found on the island about twenty years ago, and weighs 367 carats; it is a pear shaped stone, with a small hole or crevice at its short end.

"Great Mogul"—The diamond known under this name has received an amount of attention beyond any other. Under the name of the "Kohinoor" (mountain of light) it played an important part in the exhibition of 1851. The history of this stone dates back to 56 B. C.; but there is nothing known with certainty about it until the beginning of the fourteenth century. After the annexation of the Punjab by the English government it came into the possession of the queen of England on June 3, 1850. Its weight then was 186 1-16 carats, of an irregular egg-like shape, and valued at $700,000. It was then reduced to 106 1-16 carats, and made into a regular cut brilliant.

The "Orloff," or Amsterdam diamond, weighs 195 3-4 carats, and is set in the top of the Russian imperial scepter. It is of pure water, but not cut to advantage. It was bought by Catherine II. in the year 1775 of Shafras, in Amsterdam, for $450,000, giving him at the same time a title and a pension of $20,000 for life.

The diamond well known under the name of the "Shah" was given to the emperor of Russia by Prince Cosroes, younger brother of the Abbe Mirza, when he was in St. Petersburg. It weighs only 75 carats, but is perfectly pure, without a flaw or cloud, and it is interesting inasmuch as it is only partly cut, many of its natural surfaces being preserved. The cut facets contain Persian inscriptions, and there is a little groove around the top of it to which a cord was fastened, in order that it might be worn about the neck.

One of the most perfect brilliants is the celebrated Pitt, or Regent, which is among the French crown jewels. It weighs 135 3-4 carats. It once ornamented the sword of Napoleon I. Before it was cut it weighed 410 carats.

The Florentine diamond, among the crown jewels of the emperor of Austria, weighs 139 1-2 carats. It is of pure water, of beautiful color, and, notwithstanding its color is somewhat of a citron tint, it is valued at $525,000.

The Sancy diamond weighs 53 1-2 carats, and came from India about the fifteenth century. It was sold by Napoleon to the emperor of Russia for $375,000.

The Star of the South is the largest diamond found in Brazil, and weighs 254 carats. It is a brilliant of the purest water.

The Pasha of Egypt is cut on eight sides, weighs 40 carats, and cost $140,000.

The Pigott diamond, brought from India by Lord Pigott, weighs 82 1-4 carats. In 1801 it was sold in a lottery for $150,000.

The Nassac, formerly in the possession of the East India company, weighed 89 3-4 carats; but since Lord Westminster had it cut anew it weighs only 78 5-8 carats. Its value is about $150,000.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

A Congressman's Experience.

Congressman Stahlnecker, of Yonkers, relates this story at his own expense: "I had accepted an invitation to speak at Dover Plains, in Dutchess county, during the campaign just ended. As I drove up from the station I noticed at every dead wall and board fence in the place was plastered with three-sheet posters announcing the fact that I would deliver a speech in the town that night. My name, too, stood out on the poster in letters a foot high. 'This is fame,' was my mental comment. 'I have been so well advertised here that my name has become a household word.'

"I stepped into the hotel with a jaunty air. One of the flaming posters met my eye. I looked at it significantly, then at the clerk, and then carefully registered. I naturally expected the clerk would give me a cordial greeting and call half the servants in the house to wait on me. But he didn't. He glanced at the signature in a stolid fashion, and then, throwing a key down before me, told the porter to carry the luggage to room No. 90. I felt hurt at the fellow's indifference, and when I inquired if there was a fire in room 90, I put the question as frigidly as the occasion demanded.

"'Thunder and Mars!' was his indignant reply, 'do you drummers want the earth? Here, Jim, take his luggage to the sample-room and dump a ton of coal in the grate,' and as I left the room, completely crushed at the unexpectedness of my reception, he was still declaiming against the gall of 'them cussed commercial travelers.'"—Washington Cor. N. Y. Herald.

Chloral an Uncertain Remedy.

In a discussion before the Cincinnati Academy of Medicine of the use of chloral as a remedy, the experience of the profession seemed to be that the article was uncertain and treacherous. Some persons are more affected by a dose of four grains than others are by a dose of twenty grains; cases were reported where 200 grains a day had been given, and one case, on the authority of Dr. Beck of the Baden army, where 430 grains were given in three and one-half hours, the patient sleeping for thirty hours and recovering. It is also admitted that chloral cannot successfully be administered hypodermically. There were also some cases brought to notice where death was caused by the administration of ten or twenty grain doses, and other cases in which dangerous symptoms resulted from a single five-grain dose.

Ladies' Weaknesses.

Mr. T. H. Gafford of Church Hill, Md., is so thankful for the restoration of his wife to complete health, that he has written a letter to the fact and manner of her cure. To Mrs. Lydia E. Pinkham: This is to certify to the grand effects of your Vegetable Compound. My wife was suffering from a terrible disease which seemed to baffle the skill of the best medical men. She was in a poor languid, debilitated condition. My wife read your Compound and to our great surprise the half of one bottle had not been taken before there seemed to be a thorough change in her whole condition, and now to-day she is in good health and entirely relieved from all former complaints and weaknesses.

T. H. GAFFORD and wife.

PHYSICAL SALVATION.

"Blessed Art Thou above all Others."

Some of the expressions of gratitude for the physical regeneration wrought by Mrs. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and the kindred feelings of converts after a religious revival. It brings Salvation to the body. A lady in Franklin Parish, La., writes: "I tried one bottle of your Compound for Prolapsus Uteri and Leucorrhea. I never had anything in my life that did me as much good. I was hardly able to walk about without difficulty. I could not step upon anything without pain. When I think how much good that one bottle did me, I feel as if I could fall on my knees to you and say: Blessed art thou above all others, for thou art one of the greatest benefactors that woman ever had."

Girls Who Make a Noise With Their Feet.

Next to a low, sweet voice in woman I most admire a light foot-fall. That elastic tread which won't bend a dancer's head, with a movement suggestive of a cross between a swan and a snow flake, is the kind referred to, but oh, how rarely seen! For some reason or other Boston girls thump down on their heels in a way that makes the very sidewalk tremble. As a general thing there is so much noise in the streets the rattle of their "wooden shoes" cannot be heard, and you only know what is happening by a slight seismic convulsion which might be mistaken for a baby earthquake. But when these pounders come late to a concert you realize the immense advantage cherubim has over seraphim. The audience is breathless with listening to the most perfect singing; the number will be finished in a moment, yet in spite of that, or the disturbance she must scream, down stamps the late-comer to a seat as near the stage as possible. To add to the discord, her boots squeak, and she hits a register that sends forth a most brutal noise; then she crowds into a slip and makes two people rise to let her pass. Unless you are a very little lower than the angels you wish the witches would fly away with her! Boston girls are inveterate matinee patrons, but I sometimes wish there were no matinees for them to go to, or else there could be a derrick to hoist them into their seats and prevent this invariable disturbance. —Boston Herald.

One of Maine's many cranks is Elias Gove, of Lewiston, who thinks that he is the Savior. He is over sixty years of age, and has long white hair and beard, wears a long coat or cape of bright red, a tall white hat with a broad white band and flowing ends, white trousers and moccasins. He also carries a white mitten and a very gorgeous horse blanket for cold weather. He makes an occasional dime by selling his photograph, on the back of which is this inscription: "Elias Gove, Emanuel the Prince of Peace, Jesus Christ, who baptized himself with the aid of the Holy Ghost, and is the son of Dorothy Jane Gove, who translated his spirit from God."

Littell's Living Age.

IN ISSUE THE LIVING AGE enters upon its forty-fourth year, having met with continuous commendation and success.

A WEEKLY MAGAZINE, it gives fifty-two numbers of sixty-four pages each, or more than

Three and a Quarter Thousand

double-column octavo pages of reading-matter yearly. It presents in an inexpensive form, considering its great amount of matter, with freshness, owing to its weekly issue, and with a completeness nowhere else attempted,

The best Essays, Reviews, Criticisms, Serial and Short Stories, Sketches of Travel and Discovery, Poetry, Scientific, Biographical, Historical, and Political Information, from the entire body of Foreign Periodical Literature, and from the pens of the

FOREMOST LIVING WRITERS.

The ablest and most cultivated intellects, in every department of Literature, Science, Politics, and Art, find expression in the Periodical Literature of Europe, and especially of Great Britain.

The Living Age, forming four large volumes a year, furnishes, from the great and generally inaccessible mass of this literature, the only compilation that, within the reach of all, is satisfactory in the COMPLETENESS with which it embraces whatever is of immediate interest, or of solid, permanent value.

It is therefore indispensable to every one who wishes to keep pace with the events or intellectual progress of the time, or to cultivate in himself or his family general intelligence and literary taste.

Opinions.

"To have THE LIVING AGE is to hold the keys of the entire world of thought, of scientific investigation, psychological research, critical note, of poetry and romance. It has never been so bright, so comprehensive, so diversified in interest, as it is to-day."—Boston Traveller.

"It is one of the publications that intelligent people regard as practically indispensable. From its pages one learns what the world is thinking about. It is an education in itself as well as an entertainment."—Hartford Courant.

"It contains nearly all the good literature of the time. There is no thing noteworthy in science, art, literature, biography, philosophy, or religion, that cannot be found in it. . . It is a library in itself."—The Churchman, New York.

"Nearly the whole world of authors and writers appear in it in their best moods. . . The reader is kept well abreast of the current thought of the age."—Boston Journal.

"Foremost of the eclectic periodicals."—N. Y. World.

"It furnishes a complete compilation of an indispensable literature."—Chicago Evening Journal.

"It enables its readers to keep fully abreast of the best thought and literature of civilization."—Christian Advocate, Pittsburgh.

"It has become indispensable."—New York Observer.

"It keeps well up its reputation for being the best periodical in the world."—Morning Star, Wilmington, N. C.

Published WEEKLY at $8.00 a year, free of postage.

"It may be truthfully and cordially said that it never offers a dry or valueless page."—New York Tribune.

Club-Prices for the best Home and Foreign Literature.

Mr. JOHN W. FURBUSH,

An Army Veteran,

OF WAKEFIELD,

who has probably suffered more than any man or woman in America to-day. Taken sick while in the Army, he has contracted chronic agonies since. Describing his first symptoms he said. "My head ached and my appetite was poor. I felt a faintness at the pit of the stomach, and a bad taste in my mouth, while my skin was sometimes hot and sometimes cold. I next felt pains in my back and soreness in the region of my loins, and noticed a peculiar odor and color in the water I passed, which was scanty at one time and free at others. Sometimes it pained me to void it, and again it was almost impossible to do so at all. Finally I began to pass clear blood accompanied with the severest strain and agony."

Na less than 240 eminent physicians attended Mr. Furbush at various times, but not one of them could help him. He was near death's door. And yet he says: "I am alive and well to-day, wholly through the wonderful virtues of Hunt's Remedy, which took me from the verge of the grave."

This Great Remedy absolutely cures all Kidney, Liver and Urinary Diseases.

"I was troubled with an eruption on my face, which was a source of constant annoyance when I wished to appear in company. After using ten bottles of Ayer's Sarsaparilla, the humor entirely disappeared."—Mary M. Wood, 40 Adams street, Lowell, Mass.

It is now stated that the parents of Nina Van Zandt were not present at her proxy-marriage escapade, only persons related to Spies being there; and that Mrs. Van Zandt calls the whole business silly and absurd. "Mrs. Spies," as the girl calls herself, is announced as intending to write the "Memoirs of August and Nina," to be published right away. How many more anarchist outrages does that young woman think a long-suffering public will bear.

Cure of Kidney Disease.

Northeast, Erie county, Pa., Nov. 25th, 1885.—I first used Allcock's Porous Plasters for a severe cold in my chest, some three years ago, and the relief was so prompt and decided that I concluded to further test them for a kidney trouble which I had had for many years; during this time my back ached almost constantly. I had to pass water very frequently, always feeling that the bladder did not expel all its contents. I had always to get up in the night several times for this purpose, and there was always a reddish sediment that sank to the bottom. I had great pain under the shoulder blades; upon rising in the morning I was always tired and unrefreshed; my bowels during this time were first very loose, then constipated. I bought a dozen of Allcock's Porous Plasters, put two low down on my back, two higher up, and one over my bladder and lower part of the stomach. In four weeks I felt better than in years before. The pain in my back completely passed away, and the other troubles were relieved.

FRANK STRETINGER.

The Vermontville, Mich., Echo says: "Detroit's city council has voted to abandon standard time, and return to sun time. Many other cities and villages have done the same thing, and it is probable the present legislature will repeal the law making it legal. There is evidently too wide a difference in Michigan between standard and sun time for the former to become practical and popular with the masses."

DEATH OF ALBERT LAIGHTON.

The information that Albert Laighton had passed away at noon on Sunday was heard by the many of our citizens who had known him or of him for many years, with mingled feelings of sorrow and thankfulness—sorrow that a life of quiet usefulness had ended, thankfulness that a long and weary struggle with a fatal and painful disease was over.

Albert Laighton was born in this city in 1829, and was educated in the common schools, after leaving which he entered as clerk the dry goods store on Market street kept by his brothers, George, William J. and Edward J. Laighton, with whom he remained some years. Later he conducted a similar business for himself, which he gave up about the time the war of secession commenced, and took a clerkship at the navy yard. On leaving the yard he entered the Rockingham national bank as teller, a position which he retained until within a recent period, when ill health compelled his resignation. He was twice married, the first time to Miss Helen Mar Goodrich, daughter of the late Jeremiah D. Goodrich, Sr.; by this wife he had no children. He married the second time Miss Florence Goodrich, daughter of Hon. Moses H. Goodrich, who with two young daughters survives, they having lost their only son some time since.

He was a true poet, and has a prominent place in the front rank of the poets of New Hampshire. In 1859 he published a volume of his poems; and another edition, enlarged and dedicated to his cousin, Mrs. Celia Thaxter, was issued from the press of John Wilson & Son, Cambridge, Mass., in 1878. The volume contains about fifty pieces, which indicate well the character of the writer, expressing as they do in smooth and graceful verse the deepest reverence for the pure and good, love of nature, loyalty to country and the place of his nativity, and sympathy with every phase of human sorrow and suffering. The ode of welcome to the Sons and Daughters of Portsmouth on the occasion of the reunion on July 4th, 1873, was written by him; also one of the best Memorial hymns we know of, and the best short poem on Farragut. Our favorite pieces of his production are "Found Dead," "To My Soul," "The Missing Ships," "My Native River," and "Joe."

As a boy at school Albert Laighton was quite and unobtrusive, though always pleasant and cheerful; as a man he was the same, and we doubt if he ever said an unjustly harsh or unkind thing to or of any one in his life; and he probably leaves no enemy behind, now that he has passed from the sphere in which his poetical writings have given so much pleasure to so many persons. His last illness, during which his sufferings were severe and often excruciating, was borne with Christian fortitude and patience; and whatever future influence his life and his works may have will be for good.

"ZOZO, THE MAGIC QUEEN."

"Zozo" is drawing crowded houses and well deserves it, for it is a spectacular play quite out of the usual style, introducing new ideas, novel features and grand effects. The strong company gives excellent satisfaction. The ladies of the company are young and attractive, and played as though they enjoyed it. The scenery continues to be greatly admired by large crowds.—Boston Herald.

At Music hall Wednesday and Thursday evenings. Tickets on sale at Goodrich's.

THEY WILL FIGHT.

At a meeting of the local expressmen doing business over the Boston & Maine railroad, called to assemble at the Quincy house, Boston, last Friday afternoon, to take such action as was deemed necessary "to protect themselves and their business from the encroachments of the American Express company," fifty-one of the sixty-two were present, and a permanent organization was formed with the following officers:

President, L. J. Presson of Gloucester; secretary, Howard L. Jackson of Boston; treasurer, John W. Tapley of Lynn; executive committee, John S. Hilton of Lynn, M. W. Pettengill of Danvers, W. W. Russell of Haverhill, T. T. Savory of Salem, Charles R. Fogg of Newburyport, and also the president and secretary.

The meeting gave the executive committee full powers to act, and it was stated that they intend, with the aid of Mr. Pillsbury, their attorney, to "get redress, if possible, through the state legislature." The sum of $1500 was raised, and more will be ready if needed. The meeting adjourned, subject to a call from the executive committee.

Later in the day one of the expressmen stated that the committee had called upon the officers of the Boston & Maine railroad, and learned that the negotiations with the American company were by no means complete. This gives them greater hope that they may be able to evade what they feel to be the beginning of a great misfortune. At the meeting a vote was passed which, in effect, levies a stated assessment on the companies, the amount to be used for defraying the necessary expenses of the campaign. The same gentleman, a veteran in the business, declared that at present where the American and local companies run to the same place the citizens favor the local company, and he believed that this popular favor would perhaps be of advantage in saving the smaller companies from absorption by the greater. At the meeting it was at first determined to include in the committee, representatives of some of the larger lines, but the gentlemen at first named declined on account of the fact that their residences were too far from Boston, which indicates that the committee and officers of the association intend to work actively, and that the work will be done in Boston.

THE REDMUND--BARRY ENTERTAINMENT.

A large and refined audience occupied Music hall Saturday evening, when "Rene, the Huguenot captain," was presented by the Redmund-Barry company. The play is one of the most pleasing of the "romantic" class, there being all through it a vein of comedy sufficiently pronounced to prevent the more serious element from becoming oppressively gloomy to the audience; and everything comes out satisfactorily at the end. Wm. Redmund as the dashing and impulsive Huguenot captain, and Mrs. Barry as the Duchess D'Armonville, the loving mother and high-minded if vengeful woman, were excellent; and Miss Clara Douglass as Gabrielle, niece of the duchess and lover of the Huguenot captain, deserves special mention for her meritorious presentation of the character. Mr. C. Lawrence Barry was very satisfactory as Ambrose Pare, an eminent physician, speaking his lines beautifully, and making all there was to be made of his part. Miss Amelia Watts, as Juanita, a gipsy, had not much to do except to look pretty,—at which she made a decided success,—but what she had to do was done well. The rest of the support was good, and the entertainment as a whole was what might have been expected from the reputation of the principal performers.

THE UNIVERSAL RELIGIOUS CONSCIOUSNESS.

The last sermon in the series of ten which was begun Dec. 5th was given in the Universalist church yesterday, the subject being "Universalism and the all-prevailing belief in God;" text, Rom. 10:10; "For with the heart man believeth unto righteousness."

There is no organ in a human being that was not created for a purpose. The structure, the plan, the position of that organ determine that purpose. Every material organ declares a definite function, not only for which it was made, but at the demand of which it grew into existence; e. g., the universal law that oxygen antidotes carbonic acid gas, is first; the lungs are second,—the operation of the law made them. A universal necessity creates all the organs of the body.

There is no faculty of mind that does not spring from the necessities of thought. There is no thought that does not spring from the experiences and exigencies of life. Thus the universe, the macro-cosm, work through man, the micro-cosm. The inner thing is born of the outer. There is no effect in body or mind that does not have its outer adequate cause and correlative. See the Darwinian laws of environment.

Man has a worshipful soul! It has been more or less active in every human being of every race, of every time, and of every religion. It is the universal religious consciousness. It is a pronounced and pre-eminent faculty. What is its outward cause and correlative? Evidently that which the highest development of this faculty indicates, viz., an intelligent, infinite, all-loving Omnipotence. This power like others was first, or the faculty would never have been evolved. This power is the actual existence that will never fall short of the highest demands of its child, man's religious consciousness. But man reasons without feeling. This faculty is delicate. It cannot grow without that full and large faith that fitly crowns the majesty of such reasoning. The soul of man must move toward the righteousness of God, hand in hand with that reason which we here have followed to his universal being and undivided sovereignty. To be potent these truths must be made a feeling.

PERSONAL.

Mr. Joshua B. Marston, who broke one of his thighs nineteen weeks ago last Saturday night, at a fire at the foundry of the Portsmouth Machine Works, has so far recovered that he was able to leave his bed on Sunday, and sit in an easy chair for a few hours. Pretty tough work, for a man who has led an active, industrious life always.

Mrs. Emily F. Chisholm and daughter, of Saco, Me., are in our city visiting relatives.

Mr. Howard L. Aiken of Brockton, Mass., formerly of Portsmouth, was in this city Saturday, and remained over Sunday.

Three Peculiarities

Hood's Sarsaparilla, the great blood purifier and regulating medicine, is characterized by three peculiarities, namely:

1st: The combination of the various remedial agents used.

2d: The proportion in which the roots, herbs, barks, etc., are mixed.

3d: The process by which the active medicinal properties are secured.

The result is a medicine of unusual strength and curative power, which effects cures heretofore unequalled. These peculiarities belong exclusively to Hood's Sarsaparilla, and are

Unknown to Others

Insurance Notice.

THE OLD INSURANCE AGENCY,

AT THE OLD STAND,

No. 13 Pleasant Street,

PORTSMOUTH, N. H.

To my Old Customers and Friends. Are you insured? When your home or other property is being consumed by a raging fire, a good insurance policy is a great comfort. The subscriber, with his experience of fifteen years, is now prepared to place your Insurance in the Insurance Companies of New Hampshire, and in Companies organized in other States. No one can place your Insurance better or safer!

NOTE.—Mr. Ilsley, my late copartner, still states in his published card, that he purchased of me all my right to the "Fire Insurance Business of our late firm." I have heretofore denied this statement. He never offered to buy of me the business or goodwill of the firm, and I never offered or even thought of selling out my business. I hired our old office, and advertised to carry on the business in all its branches, weeks before a final settlement. Now, if he has a bill of sale, bond or any agreement whereby I conveyed to him any rights to the goodwill of the old firm or any rights to do a Fire Insurance Business in New Hampshire with old or new customers, let him prosecute me for a breach of contract, or cease publishing or repeating his false statement. I am ready to meet this issue in any court of justice. I make this statement in justice to my customers and friends and to vindicate my own integrity.

The First Keen Twinge.

As the season advances, the pains and aches by which rheumatism makes itself known, are experienced after the exposure. It is not claimed that Hood's Sarsaparilla is a specific for rheumatism—we doubt if there is, or can be, such a remedy. Another Frightful Railroad Disaster.

The express train which left Boston for Montreal at seven o'clock Friday evening, met with a fearful accident about three o'clock Saturday morning, near Woodstock on the Vermont Central railroad. The train left Concord, N. H., on time, but was delayed about an hour and a half at White River Junction. When within about 200 yards of the Woodstock bridge over the White river, near the old Windsor station, and while running at high speed, a broken rail was struck; the engine and tender, combined baggage and express car, and combined mail and smoking car, kept the track, but two passenger coaches and two sleeping cars went off, and after running over the sleepers to the bridge went crashing down to the icy surface of the river, fifty or sixty feet below. As soon as possible the detached portion of the train was run back to the scene of the disaster, and a brakeman who had escaped by jumping from one of the passenger cars when it left the track, ran to the nearest house for help; but the work of rescuing the imprisoned and wounded passengers was soon interrupted by the flames, the wrecked cars having taken fire almost instantly on reaching the river. The rescuers, many of them being themselves suffering from terrible wounds and burns, were driven from their work by the fierce heat, and the shrieks and moans and entreaties of the hapless people in the cars were soon hushed. No water could be obtained to check the fire, the river being frozen over to a great thickness; the bridge, one of the Howe deck pattern, took fire, and was totally consumed. The passengers who escaped suffered greatly from the intense cold, until the arrival of a relief train from White River Junction with doctors, nurses and plenty of skilled workmen.

The number of lives lost by this awful disaster cannot yet be told with any certainty, but is supposed to be over fifty, and may reach seventy-five. Thirty-nine charred bodies were taken from the wreck on Saturday, most of them being unrecognizable but for articles found with them. Among the killed was Henry W. Tewksbury of West Rabdolph, Vt., formerly associate justice of the Manchester, N. H., police court. Euclide Chagnon of Manchester is also reported as one of the killed. H. P. Armington and A. J. Tuck, of Nashua, mail agents on the train, were not injured, the mail car not being derailed. Edward F. Dillon, pitcher of the Dartmouth base ball club, and nephew of Sidney Dillon, was killed; also Charles H. Hebard of Boston, Frank L. Wesson of Springfield, Mass., son of the great firearms manufacturer, Frank M. Pratt, secretary of the Y. M. C. A. of Springfield, a family named Bousciquet, of Attawaugan, Conn., consisting of a man, his wife, sister and two children, Joseph E. Jacques and Andrew A. Wheeler of Fitchburg, Mass., and many others.

He Is Sick—Of Being Ignored.

It is stated that Mr. Manning is too feeble in health to remain at the head of the treasury department at a salary of $8000 per year, but will resign to accept the presidency of a bank at $20,000 salary, where there will be "little to do and plenty to get," as Sergeant Buzfuz remarked.

The real fact in the case is that Mr. Manning feels more keenly than the other members of the cabinet the manner in which the president treats his advisers, as mere clerks to do his bidding. Manning did not want to be a member of the cabinet. He can do better elsewhere. But having made a sacrifice to oblige the Buffalo statesman, he would like now and then to be treated by him with proper consideration. Garland is snubbed continually, and others of the cabinet are far from that condition of confidential relation which has characterized the cabinet histories of former administrations.

Some New Plan Needed.

The frightful railroad disaster at Woodstock, Vt., again emphasizes the imperative need of some other agency than stoves for heating cars. That five or six accidents have happened in different parts of the country within as many weeks, each resulting in a great sacrifice of life that would have been spared but for fires resulting from stoves in the cars, should stimulate the public and their lawmakers to insist that the railroads invent and adopt some means of heating cars which shall leave to the passenger fortunate enough to escape destruction in the first crash of a railroad accident, some kind of a chance for a final escape with his life. The safety of the public is of more importance—to the public—than even a ten per cent dividend on railroad shares. There are vacant chairs and sore hearts to-day in many homes that would have been bright with thankfulness but for the burning of the Vermont Central wreck last Saturday morning.

Hon. Frank Jones called on the president on Friday of last week, and talked over the appointment of a New England member of the interstate commerce commission. Col. John H. George has desired the appointment, and is backed by Leopold Morse, Congressman Collins and Dist. Att'y Stearns of Massachusetts. Jones and Sulloway had no objection to George, though if a practical railroad man rather than a politician was (as the president hinted) the kind of man he would like to appoint, there was Gen. George Stark of Nashua, who was disengaged and who would not provoke the opposition of any railroad influence to his appointment. The president regards the selection of proper men for this commission as one of the most difficult subjects he has yet encountered.

A very handsome, straight stick seventy feet long, drawn by two yoke of oxen and a pair of horses, stopped a few minutes in front of the post-office, Saturday afternoon, and attracted considerable attention. It was cut on the farm of Mr. J. Langdon Whidden, on Lafayette road, and is destined to make a lower mast for the schooner Chilion.

The was not a vessel of any kind at the Concord railroad wharves on Saturday.

The Ladies' Relief Corps and Storer Post, G. A. R., will go to Seabrook tomorrow to attend a celebration of the Grand Army organization in that town.

The pleasant weather and good travelling on Saturday brought into the city very many teams from the neighboring towns on both sides of the river, and loads of wood and hay were quite numerous on the Parade. The livery stables must have done a good business, especially in the afternoon, judging from the number of sleighing parties to be seen on the streets.

ANOTHER SUDDEN DEATH.

Hardly a week passes without the mention by the newspapers of sudden deaths, and of late the alarming frequency of the statement that death was caused by rheumatism or neuralgia of the heart cannot fail to have been noticed. In all probability many deaths attributed to heart disease are caused by these terrible diseases, which are far more dangerous than is generally considered. Is there any positive cure? The best answer to such a question is given by those who have been cured by the use of Athlophoros.

Dover, N. H., March 23, 1886.

I have for years suffered with muscular rheumatism in back of my head, neck and arms; the pain was intense and seemed to grow steadily worse. I used two bottles of Athlophoros and it brought relief almost immediately. I believe Athlophoros to be a pure, honest medicine, and there is no question it will certainly cure rheumatism.

MRS. F. KENNEDY, Orchard Street.

Chicopee, Mass., May 23, 1886.

I have suffered for over five years with muscular rheumatism, being treated by several physicians, besides taking numberless remedies; the doctors could not cure me and the different medicines gave me no relief. There was one remedy I had not tried—Athlophoros. I bought three bottles of it, taking them according to directions. I commenced at night before retiring. The next morning, after a good night's rest, I was perfectly free from pain. My rheumatism went and has never returned. Athlophoros effected a cure in my obstinate case and I believe it will in that of any one suffering with rheumatism or neuralgia.

G. E. LEWIS.

Every druggist should keep Athlophoros and Athlophoros Pills, but where they cannot be bought of the druggist the Athlophoros Co., 112 Wall St., New York, will send either (carriage paid) on receipt of regular price, which is $1.00 per bottle for Athlophoros and 50c. for Pills.

For liver and kidney diseases, dyspepsia, indigestion, weakness, nervous debility, diseases of women, constipation, headache, impure blood, &c., Athlophoros Pills are unequaled. 2

MATTERS IN YORK

YORK CORNER, ME., Feb. 7th.

John L. Hatch, the painter, has been confined to the house for a week by lame back and side, but is now convalescent.

Rev. D. B. Sewall of the 1st Congregational church, and Rev. B. S. Maben of the 1st Christian church exchanged desks on Sunday last. Miss Haley, the revivalist preacher, is not expected here for several weeks yet, as she has other prior engagements.

There is considerable religious interest in and about the Agamenticus district under the assistance of Rev. J. A. Corey and others. Several conversions have been made, and more are under conviction.

The following, from the Biddeford Journal, is, we are sorry to say, only too true: "A much afflicted man is our estimable townsman, William P. Titcomb. His eldest daughter, Addie, twenty-seven years of age, injured her ankle about four years ago and has suffered constantly therefrom ever since; this in addition to her constant wasting away with consumption. His eldest son, J. Willard, a few years younger than his sister Addie, injured himself by lifting during the last summer and fall, so that for the past three months he has been very sick with an affection of the kidneys. Neither he nor his sister have any hopes of recovery. Mr. Titcomb has but one child remaining, Lizzie, a blithesome miss of fifteen."

Prof. Eastman, who has been sick recently, is now about again.

J. P. Norton is putting a new edging machine into his saw-mill, and will soon add a lath sawing machine; also a blowing machine to blow shavings from the planer to the river. Mr. Norton is doing more business than any other man in our town. Wish we had a dozen more of such public spirited men. The most of our monied men, here as elsewhere, hide their money "under a bushel."

The Boston Daily Globe is sold at York Corner postoffice; the people appreciate the convenience.

There will be a pound party at Elder Maben's on Tuesday evening, Feb. 8th. We hope they will give the Elder and his estimable lady a severe pounding. They deserve it.

The lecture of Henry W. Tewksbury on the "Battle of Gettysburg," advertised by the U. O. G. C. commandery, No. 191, to have taken place on Thursday evening, Feb. 3d, has been postponed, on account of the stormy weather, to a date not yet announced. New notice will be given, probably.

The Philosophy of Life.

The philosophy of Francis Bacon is the philosophy of life. "Despise no new accident in the body," said he, "but ask opinions of it; in sickness principally respect health, and in health action." There are many so-called slight affections which men think it brave not to notice. It is not bravery; it is folly. As Bacon says, "despise no new accident in the body." Brandreth's Pills will remove effectually and at once a thousand and one of the little ills of life that often, if neglected, take years to cure. Be sure to have with you always a box of Brandreth's Pills.

Trouble Ahead.

When the appetite fails, and sleep grows restless and unrefreshing, there is trouble ahead. The disgestive organs, when healthy, crave food, the nervous system, when vigorous and tranquil, gives its possessor no uneasiness at night. A tonic, to be effective, should not be a mere appetizer, nor are the nerves to be strengthened and soothed by the unaided action of a sedative or a narcotic. What is required is a medicine which invigorates the stomach, and promotes assimilation of food by the system, by which means the nervous system, as well as other parts of the physical organism, are strengthened. These are the effects of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, a medicine whose reputation is founded in public confidence, and which physicians commend for its tonic, anti-bilious and other properties. It is used with the best results in fever and ague, rheumatism, kidney and uterine weakness, and other maladies.

Two Very Wealthy Women.

The richest single and the richest married lady in the United States, says the New York Mail, reside in that city. The unwedded lady is Miss Catherine L. Wolfe and the wife is Mrs. William Astor. Miss Wolfe enjoys the income of between $18,000,000 and $20,000,000. The most of this money is settled on her for life only. Her income is estimated at $500,000 a year, and she has had many offers of marriage. Miss Wolfe has aristocratic features and a slight figure. Her hair is gray and she dresses superbly. Her diamonds are large and dazzling. She is a prominent figure in society, and she is loved and esteemed by all who know her. She spends her income where she thinks it will do the most good. Her almoner for years has been Bishop Potter, formerly rector of Grace Church. Indeed, Miss Wolfe herself has long been the main pillar of this patrician house of worship. She it was who spent $80,000 for its marble chantry, and who subscribed so liberally toward erecting its beautiful spire. When Bishop Potter called for $50,000 with which to build a church in Mulberry street not long ago Miss Wolfe was the first to respond. She sent him a check for $45,000. Miss Wolfe's father was a prominent merchant of this city. Although one of the most generous of men, he rapidly accumulated a fortune. This fortune was enlarged by his marriage. He wedded in succession two sisters of the late Peter Lorillard. Their dots were immense. Three great fortunes rolled into one were inherited by Miss Wolfe on the death of her father. An only sister had died some time before this event. Miss Wolfe lives in an elegant brownstone mansion fronting Madison square. It is a corner house, within a stone's throw of the residence of S. L. M. Barlow. She owns some of the finest paintings in America. A picture by Knaus is among them. It was painted for the Emperor of Russia. While the Czar was haggling about the price Miss Wolfe secured it and brought it to New York. Very few persons are admitted to her galleries. Some of her intimate friends are said to have sought admission in vain.

Mrs. William Astor, who is not in very good health, is the wife of a grandson of old John Jacob Astor and a son of William B. Astor. She is an offshoot of the ancient and noble house of Schermerhorn. Mrs. Astor is tall, distingue in bearing, and is a woman of graceful carriage. She has black hair, black eyes, and an olive complexion. She is a leader among the real leaders of fashionable life in New York. She has a very generous disposition. Her charity is possibly more practical than that of Miss Wolfe. The latter makes most of her donations to the church, although they are by no means confined to the religious community. Mrs. Astor, on the contrary, seeks individual cases of distress, and has made many a humble fireside cheerful and happy. She takes great interest in young people in her sphere of life, and gives them many dinners and receptions. She takes special pride in rising young men, and has frequently aided them at critical periods in their lives. No woman would be more missed in social circles. Mrs. Astor owns probably the finest collection of jewels in America. When attending the opera or private receptions she has frequently appeared in a blaze of diamonds. At an entertainment in Delmonico's last winter her throat was encircled with three strands of these jewels, each stone of great size. Triple strands of similar precious stones were wound around her white shoulders and her corsage sparkled like the buckler of Ptolemy Philadelphus. Living jewels sparkled in the raven hair and all the colors of the rainbow scintillated from her ringed fingers. She has frequently been seen at the opera wearing $50,000 worth of diamonds, but on this occasion she surpassed herself, the display being valued at more than $100,000. Mrs. Astor has three daughters and no son. One of her daughters is the wife of Roosevelt Roosevelt, a second is married to J. Coleman Crayton, and the third is Mrs. Orme Wilson.

Bringing John to Terms.

"Ned" Thorne, the well-known actor, who made a hit in the "Black Flag," is one of the practical jokers of the day. His sister is the wife of John Chamberlain, of Washington, the well-known club-house man and caterer. Thorne was there a few days ago and went to the Hotel Brunswick with two or three friends for lunch, when he discovered Chamberlain in an adjoining cafe, and remarked to his companions that he proposed to have some fun with him. Thorne called for a telegraph blank, on which he wrote as follows:

MRS. JOHN CHAMBERLAIN, WASHINGTON, D. C.: John at this moment is dining with a beautiful woman at the Hotel Brunswick. Shall I interfere?
NED THORNE.

On the back of the dispatch he wrote:
DEAR JOHN:—Unless we get a bottle for our table at once this dispatch will be filed for transmission. NED.

A waiter was sent with this dispatch to Mr. Chamberlain, who promptly caught on to the joker's work and said to the waiter: "Give those gentlemen out there anything they want, from a bottle to a basket, and charge it to me, but notify 'Ned' Thorne that I will have him arrested in the morning for blackmailing."—Philadelphia Press.

When an artist exhibits at the Paris Salon a portrait of a woman her name does not appear on the frame or in the catalogue. All that the public knows is that it is a picture of Mme. A. or Mlle. B. At our National Academy exhibitions her name is printed in full and enters into the newspaper discussions as to the artistic merits of the work.

KIDDER'S DIGESTYLIN

— FOR —

INDIGESTION & DYSPEPSIA

A POTENT REMEDY FOR

Indigestion, Acute and Atonic Dyspepsia, Chronic and Gastro-Intestinal Catarrh, Vomiting in Pregnancy, Cholera Infantum, and in convalescence from Acute Diseases.

Over 5,000 physicians have sent to us the most flattering opinions upon Digestylin as a remedy for all diseases arising from improper digestion.

For 30 years we have manufactured the Digestive Ferments expressly for PHYSICIANS' use, and for the past year DIGESTYLIN has been by them extensively prescribed, and to-day it stands without a rival as a digestive agent. It is not a secret remedy but a scientific preparation, the formula of which is plainly printed on each bottle. Its great DIGESTIVE POWER is created by a careful and proper treatment of the ferments in manufacture. It is very agreeable to the taste, and acceptable to the most delicate stomach. For the reliability of our statements we would respectfully refer to all Wholesale and Retail Druggists, and PHYSICIANS generally. Price $1.00. Sold by Druggists, or Stanley's Little Black Boys.

"When I went up the Congo and founded the station at Stanley Falls," said Henry M. Stanley, "I found in the hands of the Arabs 2,980 captives whom they had dragged into slavery. The poor wretches were suffering for food, and many of them were in a starving condition. Among them were many little boys. I selected eighteen of the poor little fellows and bought them of the Arabs for a handkerchief apiece. The handkerchiefs cost a penny and a half each in Manchester, and so I obtained the little negroes very cheaply. I took them because I wished to save them, and as they were almost certain to die of starvation the Arabs were willing to sell them at almost any price.

"The little fellows, who were from 10 to 12 years of age, were with me in my steamer when I went down the river again. I distributed them, two or three together, among the stations, directing the agents to instruct them, show them how to work, and to endeavor to grow up to make civilized young fellows of them. They all came from the Biyerre River, and as I did not know their language I could not communicate with them. Soon after I left for Europe.

"Last summer when Sir Francis de Winton returned from the Congo he brought one of these boys with him. The lad is a bright fellow about 16 years old, and he has been with him since he came to England. As he had learned the Swahili language I could readily converse with him, and he also speaks a good deal of English now. I was surprised to find him able to tell me a great deal about his tribe and about their legends. Having some leisure this summer I wrote out the interesting information and the bits of folk lore he was able to give me.

"By and by this boy will return to the Congo, and he will probably be sent back among his own people. Do you not think that penny and a half investment was a good thing for the Congo State? None of those eighteen little fellows could have survived had I left them in the hands of the Arabs. But we saved them to train them up as the friends and missionaries of the new order of things on the Congo."—N. Y. Sun.

Aromatic Invigorator.

SURE CURE FOR Dyspepsia, Liver and Kidney Complaints, Headache, Wind in the Stomach or Pains in the Bowels, Indigestion.

Dr. Ham, March 2, 1886.

Dear Sir:—I feel it a pleasurable duty to extol your medicine to the very highest. I have been a sufferer from the dreadful disease dyspepsia from childhood, and very often after eating have vomited up the greater part of my victuals. About 3 months ago I was induced to try a bottle of your invigorator, which at once gave me relief, and I have not had a vomiting spell since. I feel like a new man, and am perfectly well. I have tried many medicines, but none had the least effect until I took your Invigorator. Hoping you may go on in your great work for suffering humanity, I am Truly yours,

The Above Picture Represents

CAPTAIN S. GREENWOOD,

Master of the Steamship Kanawha.

About a year ago he observed a strange change in his feelings. He felt tired instead of vigorous; nervous instead of strong. His appetite became poor and his sleep broken. He tried to overcome these feelings, but they would not go. He then noticed pains and irritation in the water channels, and that the fluids passed were often thick and with a scum on top or a brick-dust sediment at the bottom. All these were the sure symptoms of that fearful disease, Cancer of the Bladder, which kills every victim. Cure seemed incurable, and they continued until the Captain was in a terrible condition. But he is the picture of health and vigor to-day, and he owes it entirely to that wonderful medicine, Hunt's Remedy. Capt Greenwood says: "I am so certain of the great value of Hunt's Remedy that I always carry a supply on shipboard for the use of my men, and I prescribe it whenever they are ailing. After curing me as it did, and restoring my wife, (whom the best physicians of New York said was dying of tumor,) to perfect health, I swear by it."

This Great Remedy absolutely cures all Kidney Liver and Urinary Diseases.

How It Was Done.

At Camden, N. J., Feb. 4th, evidence was introduced by the republicans before the assembly election committee to prove that the ballot box of Centre township was opened by the democrats, and enough votes changed from Haines to Turley to insure the election of the latter on a recount. William C. Chambley, a Philadelphia locksmith, testified that he was sent for on a dark, stormy night in November to come over to New Jersey and open a box. He was met at the ferry by a carriage, and with two men strangers to him drove off a good distance to a dwelling in the country. There he picked the three locks of a box which he recognized before the committee as the Centre township box. He then made keys to fit the locks, and gave them to the men. He was paid $10 for his work. The republicans claim that they can sustain Chambley's evidence by other testimony, and that they have discovered the details of the democratic conspiracy to change the result in the third district and thereby secure a democratic United States senator.

"ZOZO, THE MAGIC QUEEN."

The above spectacular melangé drew a large audience last evening. The play is a sailor's yarn, with the usual humorous improbabilities and exaggeration, and is presented in four acts. The scenery is the best ever seen in Buffalo, and, by the aid of strong calcium lights, is made to present a gorgeous spectacle. The loved and loving sovereign of the fairy realm, "Zozo," whose enchanted wand rules the flowery land and its pretty occupants, and her favorite and bearer of the talisman, are two charming ideal characters. The tableaux presented elicited the admiration of all, and the musical part of the performance is above the average. Quite a complicated transformation scene is set for the last act, which worked to perfection.—Buffalo Courier.

ELECTRICAL PHENOMENA.

SALEM, MASS., Feb. 5th.

Editors of the N. H. Gazette: I noticed in your paper there was a discussion some time ago in regard to electricity being generated by steam heat, but it was not satisfactorily accounted for. I have noticed the same thing, and on lighting the gas in the evening often receive a severe shock, and sparks will jump from the fingers; and it is the same also if one of the radiators is touched. Can any one explain why it should act so? ENQUIRER.

MARITIME NOTES.

The steamer Reading, from Philadelphia with 1,620 tons of coal, arrived at this port on Sunday, the 6th inst., and the schooner Elm City, with 964 tons, arrived on Monday from Newport News, —both to J. Albert Walker.

The fish arrivals on Sunday night and Monday were as follows: Little Kate, 500 lbs.; Comet, 1500; Amos Cutter, 2500; Farragut, 3000; Mary Amanda, 2500; Ida May, 2500; Agnes E Downs, 8000; Franklin S. Most of the catch was bought by E. Newton & Co. and Ed. Jameson, at $2.50 to $3.00 per hundred.

This evening at seven o'clock the Rockingham Mutual Relief Association will hold a meeting in Odd Fellows hall. A large attendence is desired.

The barometer in this city was at 30.83 inches on Friday, higher than it had been before for twelve years; but it beat its own record on Saturday morning, being up to 31.09 inches at ten o'clock. On Sunday at noon the mercury stood at 30.72 inches, and on Monday at noon at 30.63.

The Concord railroad will hereafter send checks for dividends due its stockholders who approve of receiving their dividends in that manner.

Ladies interested in the Chase Home for Children will give a St. Valentine's party in Congress hall on Monday evening of next week, St. Valentine's day, for the benefit of the home. Hot suppers will be served on call from six o'clock to eight; and from 8:30 to eleven o'clock there will be a social dance to the music of Harlow's orchestra. Home-made candies, cake and ice cream will be on sale through the evening. Admission twenty-five cents; supper extra.

Mr. Nathaniel Berry, the veteran fishmonger of Market street, while going down State street Monday afternoon was attacked by a dog, and had one hand badly bitten.

Owing to the fact that funds are rather scanty at the navy yard, work in the department of construction and repair will be suspended every stormy day during the present month.

Strawberry Bank Lodge, I. O. G. T., will give an entertainment and supper at their hall on Market street, Thursday evening, Feb. 10th; all invited; admission (including supper) fifteen cents.

A big bald-headed eagle was perched on the topmost branches of the loftiest tree on Peirce's Island, Monday afternoon.

We have previously expressed the opinion that the small Yankee urchin on his perilous (to himself and everybody else) "double-runner," would beat the clumsy and uncomfortable toboggan out of sight, on the glittering ice of a toboggan chute. This has not yet been tried, so far as we are aware, but a Biddeford paper says that "Rufus S. Merrill of Saco has built himself a toboggan with steel runners on the bottom and a sort of springboard seat, so that he has an easier seat than his neighbors on the old flatboards, and runs more than 200 feet farther than they can." This improved toboggan is but a kind of sled, evidently.

The ice now being cut from the Eldredge Brewing Co.'s pond is thirteen inches thick, and of good quality. Mr. Herbert W. Marden is bossing the work.

Would it not be well to publish a list of the subscribers to the Soldiers' and Sailors' Monument fund?

The tide-gates of the north millpond have been lashed open for several days, giving the water free ingress and egress. The water as it flows out, even when the pond is nearly empty, is perfectly clear and odorless, showing apparently that the big sewer is doing the work it was hoped it would do.

Kearsarge steam fire engine was taken on the Parade, Monday afternoon, for the regular monthly exercise, and while it was playing, some of the owners of fast horses amused themselves and the spectators by seeing how near they could make the animals go to the puffing and snorting machine. There was a good deal of dancing and some rapid moving in the other direction, on the part of some of the horses when they thought they had got near enough to the terrible thing. At a later hour Col. Sise engine, No. 2, was tested at the same place.

Mr. John K. Gilman, who died lately at his home in Nebraska City, Neb., was born in Bartlett, N. H., July 31st, 1829. When a young man he was engaged for some years as a civil engineer by the government in building the dry docks at the Portsmouth and Pensacola navy yards. He was a large owner of mining property in the Black Hills, and left a family.

Mr. Langdon M. Perkins had one of his ankles broken Monday evening by a cake of ice falling on it.

The monthly trial of the fire alarm apparatus took place Monday forenoon.

Mr. Henry W. Tewksbury of West Randolph, Vt., who was on the wrecked Vermont Central train at Woodstock on the morning of the 5th inst., and was at first reported killed, but who was dragged from the wreck with an arm and a leg broken, just in time to save him from being burned to death, was advertised to give a lecture on the battle of Gettysburg at York on the evening of the 3d inst., but owing to the unfavorable weather the engagement was cancelled, and Mr. Tewksbury was on his way to his home in Vermont when the disaster occurred.

The wife of Hon. John M. Hill, who died at Concord, N. H., Feb. 4th, before marriage was Miss Elizabeth Chase Lord of South Berwick, where her family was of the highest social prominence.

MAKE THE PARK LARGER.

Editors of Chronicle: As it seems to have been decided that the ground for the monument is to be a "public park," the selection could not have been better, particularly as it is accessible from both streets. It commemorates the character of one of our best and most liberal citizens; and the munificence of the Eldredge family, with the mayoralty of the present excellent incumbent, will be fitly and permanently associated with the place. We would congratulate all parties, especially the present owners of the land, as they will not only secure a beautiful prospect from their windows, but an increased value to their own homestead.

And now, while the subject is warm and glowing in the patriotic hearts of the citizens, another suggestion occurs to us: As this ground is a gift to the city, is there not money enough, and interest enough in the community, to make it more extensive and more beautiful, by the purchase of the two adjoining lots on the eastern side. This would include the whole slope towards the west, and make, by its undulations, a much-needed variety to the perfect level of the present location. It would be none too large to compete with the parks of neighboring cities, and every improvement would "tell," on this elevation which slopes on every side. On the highest point a pretty kiosk, or some other tasteful little structure, might be erected, adding much to the beauty of the surroundings; while winding gravel-walks would add to the apparent extent of the park.

Many of the sons of Portsmouth, who come in the summer to their well-remembered and beloved New England home, would, we doubt not, be glad to aid in purchasing the spot so near their old "coasting-ground" on Mason's hill, where they—as well as the writer—will remember the red noses, the fur caps, the blue and red mittens of those early days; with the grand and lofty tumblings, connected with them.

Portsmouth is now emphatically a Summer Resort, and a public Park has became a public necessity. Many a pilgrim from the hot cities will enjoy the cool and delightful retreat that is to be, and on the ground associated in the minds of many of them—especially the "coasters"—with the happiest memories of free and frolicking boyhood.

Insurance Notice.

THE OLD INSURANCE AGENCY,

AT THE OLD STAND,

No. 13 Pleasant Street,

PORTSMOUTH, N. H.

To my Old Customers and Friends. Are you insured? When your home or other property is being consumed by a raging fire, a good insurance policy is a great comfort. The subscriber, with his experience of fifteen years, is now prepared to place your Insurance in the Insurance Companies of New Hampshire, and in Companies organized in other States. No one can place your Insurance better or safer!

NOTE.—Mr. Ilsley, my late copartner, still states in his published card, that he purchased of me all my right to the "Fire Insurance Business of our late firm." I have heretofore denied this statement. He never offered to buy of me the business or goodwill of the firm, and I never offered or even thought of selling out my business. I hired our old office, and advertised to carry on the business in all its branches, weeks before a final settlement. Now, if he has a bill of sale, bond or any agreement whereby I conveyed to him any rights to the goodwill of the old firm or any rights to do a Fire Insurance Business in New Hampshire with old or new customers, let him prosecute me for a breach of contract, or cease publishing or repeating his false statement. I am ready to meet this issue in any court of justice. I make this statement in justice to my customers and friends and to vindicate my own integrity.

The First Keen Twinge.

As the season advances, the pains and aches by which rheumatism makes itself known, are experienced after the exposure. It is not claimed that Hood's Sarsaparilla is a specific for rheumatism—we doubt if there is, or can be, such a remedy. But the thousands benefited by Hood's Sarsaparilla, warrant us in urging others who suffer from rheumatism of take it before the first keen twinge.

The Railroad Horror.

The total number of persons who went down in the cars at Woodstock is estimated at eighty, with perhaps several children additional. Of these it is known that thirty-one were killed, and it is believed forty or over; thirty were more or less hurt, a considerable number fatally, and ten only escaped unhurt. A number who were rescued from the wreck alive have since died. The bodies are so nearly destroyed that a full list of the sufferers can probably never be made.

Henry W. Tewksbury, and E. Chagnon of Manchester, reported killed, are among the saved.

Looks Encouraging.

The senate on the 7th passed the bills appropriating $21,000,000 for modern ordnance and coast fortifications.

Might Have Answered During the Dark Ages.

Another circular has been issued in Salem, Mass., urging advertisers to withdraw their patronage from the Evening News of that city. It states that several firms whose names are given have promised not to use the columns of the News. The proprietors of the paper deny that there is anything in the claim, as some of the firms named never advertised, and others still continue to do so. The attempt is said to be made by the united labor organizations of the vicinity.

The attempt of labor organizations, or any other power, to muzzle the press of this country, can only result in failure and disaster. Such a scheme might have answered early in the middle ages, if they had had newspapers then, and it is practiced to a considerable extent by some of the European despotisms of today; but the American people are jealous of the freedom of the American press, and any attempt to interfere with it must be damaging to the cause in whose furtherance the attempt is made.

Naval Intelligence.

Lieut. Frank W. Nichols is ordered to the receiving ship New Hampshire, and Lieut. John C. Irvine to the Franklin.

Gunner John G. Foster is ordered to the naval magazine at Chelsea, Mass., and Gunner T. Bascom Watkins from the naval magazine to waiting orders.

Sailmaker Charles C. Freeman is ordered to the receiving ship Minnesota.

Boatswain Charles Miller is ordered to the New York navy yard, and Boatswain J. B. Aiken from the New York yard to equipment duty at the Boston navy yard.

Comdr. R. D. Evans, Lieut. Comdrs. S. W. Very and W. C. Cowles, and Lieut. J. H. C. Coffin, are ordered as inspectors of steel for the new cruisers.

Lieut. E. P. Wood is ordered to ordnance instruction at the Washington navy yard.

Ensign John E. Craven is ordered to the branch hydrographic office at New York.

Lieut. Gustavus C. Hanus is ordered from the coast survey to waiting orders.

The Windsor Hotel, New York.

A prominent western hotel-keeper, who was in New York last week, and who for the first time paid a visit of inspection to the Windsor hotel, thus speaks of it:

Messrs. Hawk & Wetherbee may certainly claim with entire justice that theirs is the finest hotel in America. I was shown throughout the entire establishment, inspecting without reserve every department; and there was absolute perfection everywhere. The kitchen and pantries and all the working departments below stairs are models of order and cleanliness, the skill and good judgment of Mr. Blakely, the steward and junior partner, being everywhere observable. The rotunda and other public rooms on the ground floor are certainly without their equals in the United States; and the parlors, corridors, and dining-room on the floor above are simply magnificent.

I was struck with the fact that each of the three proprietors appeared to be thoroughly conversant with all the details of the business, which fact, I naturally concluded, had much to do with the great success and splendid reputation which the Windsor enjoys.

HAMPTON JOTTINGS.

HAMPTON, Feb. 7th.

Last week the beautiful form of the youngest daughter of J. Warren Dow, Esq., of Boston, was brought here for burial. She was an interesting young lady, some eighteen years of age, a granddaughter of the late venerable Dea. Jesse Knowles. It was her special request to be carried to the home of her childhood, and that her funeral should be at the residence of her grand uncle, Dea. Joseph Dow. A circle of loving youth mates came down with the bereaved family. The casket was beautifully shrouded with flowers. Religious services were performed by Rev. Dr. DeLancey, Horace M. Lane, Esq., conducted the arrangements.

We are very glad to hear that Mrs. Samuel Drake is regaining health, though slowly, from protracted typhoid fever.

Dea. Morris Hobbs seems pleased that his daughter, Mrs. Mary Redman, has removed back home again. She has been a gentle and loving friend and helper in the households both of her father and husband, to the living and the dead.

The new Manufactory Building Co. has organized by legal charter, and has secured ample funds for the further erection of buildings. If the company would enlarge their plans, and add a grain and grist mill business, it would be a very great advantage to the community. We had hoped that this much-needed improvement would be added to the steam saw mill, and have often advised and advocated it.

The ice harvest, which is an important winter business here for summer hotel and boarding house consumption, as well as for private families, is nearly completed. It has been tedious and costly work this year, cleaning off the heavy snows from several ponds. The quality of that taken from the Lynn Milk Co.'s new pond is exceptionably good, and so clear, a gentleman told us, that he distinctly saw the boots of the workmen through two cakes eighteen inches thick each—or three feet of solid ice.

Rev. Mr. Ross of Boston preached in the Congregational church last Sabbath a very able and comprehensive sermon—a logical and philosophical analysis of the character of Jesus, demonstrating from the standpoint of the New Testament, that his character was a divine miracle, and not the product of the natural forces, of intellect, education, discipline or development. This was one of several learned and finished discources which he has delivered here the past two Sundays. The church would be happily fortunate to secure him for pastor. XX.

Land owners in Florida who have been holding for a large rise are much disturbed by the cold fact that the number of visitors to the land of orange groves is very much smaller this season than last year. There are more would-be sellers than purchasers this season.

Thursday a dog chased a fox into the yard of Nicholas Drew at the Bay-Side, and ran him around until the fox got so tired that he laid down near the house, (after the dog had gone.) Mr. Drew saw him, and raising the window, let him have the contents of a gun which he happened to have loaded, bringing him to the ground, so that another charge killed him. Mr. Drew is eighty-eight years of age next spring, and his success at fox hunting seems to be better than that of a good many of our younger sportsmen.—Newmarket Advertiser.

ANOTHER SUDDEN DEATH.

Hardly a week passes without the mention by the newspapers of sudden deaths, and of late the alarming frequency of the statement that death was caused by rheumatism or neuralgia of the heart cannot fail to have been noticed. In all probability many deaths attributed to heart disease are caused by these terrible diseases, which are far more dangerous than is generally considered. Is there any positive cure? The best answer to such a question is given by those who have been cured by the use of Athlophoros.

Dover, N. H., March 23, 1886.

I have for years suffered with muscular rheumatism in back of my head, neck and arms; the pain was intense and seemed to grow steadily worse. I used two bottles of Athlophoros and it brought relief almost immediately. I believe Athlophoros to be a pure, honest medicine, and there is no question it will certainly cure rheumatism.

MRS. F. KENNEDY, Orchard Street.

Chicopee, Mass., May 23, 1886.

I have suffered for over five years with muscular rheumatism, being treated by several physicians, besides taking numberless remedies; the doctors could not cure me and the different medicines gave me no relief. There was one remedy I had not tried—Athlophoros. I bought three bottles of it, taking them according to directions. I commenced at night before retiring. The next morning, after a good night's rest, I was perfectly free from pain. My rheumatism went and has never returned. Athlophoros effected a cure in my obstinate case and I believe it will in that of any one suffering with rheumatism or neuralgia.

G. E. LEWIS.

Every druggist should keep Athlophoros and Athlophoros Pills, but where they cannot be bought of the druggist the Athlophoros Co., 112 Wall St., New York, will send either (carriage paid) on receipt of regular price, which is $1.00 per bottle for Athlophoros and 50c. for Pills.

For liver and kidney diseases, dyspepsia, indigestion, weakness, nervous debility, diseases of women, constipation, headache, impure blood, &c., Athlophoros Pills are unequaled. 2

Experience vs. Inexperience.

It is a matter of regret that in introducing a Sarsaparilla, its proprietors are obliged to overcome a certain distrust by some people who have unfortunately bought worthless compounds mixed by persons ignorant of pharmacy. Messrs. C. I. Hood & Co. are reliable pharmacists of long experience, and they make no claims for Hood's Sarsaparilla which cannot be substantiated by the strongest proof. And we say to those who lack confidence, read the unsolicited testimonials in favor of Hood's Sarsaparilla, and then prove its merits by actual personal test. We are confident you will not be disappointed, but will find it a medicine of peculiar curative value, which can be implicitly relied upon.

Carrie I. Burbank of Great Falls, while going to work at the Great Falls cotton mills, Oct. 12th, 1884, fell over an unprotected embankment on the company's premises, and was severely injured. She gave notice that she would sue for $10,000. By agreement the matter was left to three referees, viz: Judge Smith and C. R. Meserve of Dover, and H. W. Moore of Great Falls. On the 7th inst. they rendered a verdict for the plaintiff for $2250.

Scott's Emulsion of Pure Cod Liver Oil, with Hypophosphites.

Challis Sargent, eighty-seven years of age, a resident of Tilton, was walking on the railroad track in that town on the 7th inst., when he was struck by the engine of a freight train and dragged 500 feet. His head was crushed beyond recognition, and both legs were torn off. No blame attaches to the engineer, as the train had just rounded a curve and the bell was ringing. The deceased, however, was very deaf. He leaves a widow and three children.

The Philosophy of Life.

The philosophy of Francis Bacon is the philosophy of life. "Despise no new accident in the body," said he, "but ask opinions of it; in sickness principally respect health, and in health, action." There are many so-called slight affections which men think it brave not to notice. It is not bravery; it is folly. As Bacon says, "despise no new accident in the body." Brandreth's Pills will remove effectually and at once a thousand and one of the little ills of life that often, if neglected, take years to cure. Be sure to have with you always a box of Brandreth's Pills.

The New Year Commenced With Luck.

They had invested in the 200th Monthly Grand Distribution of The Louisiana State Lottery, in which took place on Tuesday, the 11th instant, January 11th, 1887, under the sole supervision of Gen'ls G. T. Beauregard of La., and Jubal A. Early of Va. (as is usually the case), $535,000 was sent flying all over the world. Here is where some of it went. No. 91,930 drew first capital prize of $150,000, sold in tenths at $1 each, sent to M. A. Dauphin, New Orleans, La.—one went to Cornelius Bechmann, a well-known citizen of St. Louis, Mo.; one to Ben Klam, a popular clothing merchant of Messrs Klam Bros of Houston, Texas; one to F. J. Gilmore, paid through First Nat'l Bank of Los Angeles, Cal.; one to a depositor in the Canal Bank of New Orleans, La.; one to J. Cain, Norfolk, Va., paid through the Marine Bank there; one paid through the Anglo-Californian Bank, San Francisco, Cal.; one to John Campbell, North Muskegon, Mich.; one to Alva Elder, Princeton, Ind.; the other tenths went elsewhere. No. 35,744 drew the second capital prize of $50,000, also sold in tenths at $1 each. One went to C. F. Hill, of New Orleans, La.; one to William Whalen, a watchman at the Miss. & Tenn. R. R. Depot, Memphis, Tenn., paid through the Bank of Commerce there; one to Charles Mitchell of Pecan Point, Ark., paid through Bank of Commerce, Memphis, Tenn.; one to a depositor in the People's Bank of New Orleans, La.; the remaining successful names are withheld. No. 68,877 drew the third capital prize of $30,000, was sold to a party in San Jose, Costa Rica, C. A. Nos. 79,744 and 99,980 drew the fourth two capital prizes of $10,000 each, and were sold in tenths at $1 each, to parties in New York City, Washington, D. C., San Francisco, Sacramento City, and Santa Rosa, Cal.; Baltimore, Md., Grenola, Kan., Maryville, Mo., Memphis, Tenn., Savannah, Ga., Whiteville, N. C., Bentonville, Ark., Allentown, Pa., Fairfax, Va., etc., etc., and so the wheel revolved on. It will go around again on March 15th, and any one can obtain any information about it on an application to M. A. Dauphin, New Orleans, La. Why not catch at this chance for a fortune?

Trouble Ahead.

When the appetite fails, and sleep grows restless and unrefreshing, there is trouble ahead. The digestive organs, when healthy, crave food, the nervous system, when vigorous and tranquil, gives its possessor no uneasiness at night. A tonic, to be effective, should not be a mere appetizer, nor are the nerves to be strengthened and soothed by the unaided action of a sedative or a narcotic. What is required is a medicine which invigorates the stomach, and promotes assimilation of food by the system, by which means the nervous system, as well as other parts of the physical organism, are strengthened. These are the effects of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, a medicine whose reputation is founded in public confidence, and which physicians commend for its tonic, anti-bilious and other properties. It is used with the best results in fever and ague, rheumatism, kidney and uterine weakness, and other maladies.

GLORIOUS FUN.

The Major and His Party Try Coasting on a Catskill Hill.

The doctor arrived here yesterday, and witnessed the first snow-storm he had seen for years, having devoted his time to the improvement of cemeteries in the neighborhood of San Francisco. He went out with the major in the thick of it, and both came home blue with cold and enthusiasm, and after I had thawed out the doctor by propping him against the stove, the major suggested that we all go coasting in the morning. None of us had ever coasted on anything but a steamer, but the major said it was both easy and delightful, and as he had artfully suggested to four small boys that they would lend us their bob-sleds they would probably see fun, the materials were at hand. So we brewed a mighty tropical jorum; the doctor told us some of those simple little tales of California which makes us respect wanderers from the west, and we all retired in glorious spirits.

It took us half an hour to get the sleds to the top of the hill selected by the major. It was about 130 feet in perpendicular height, with a slope probably 650 in length, which ended in a plain. The major asked one of the boys if he had ever coasted down this hill, and the boy grinned and said: "Naw!" Another boy started to say something relevant to his opinion that he "guessed de fat feller'd git enough before he" —here the other boy nudged him and then they both whispered together and grinned behind Dick's back, and I had misgivings. Well, we got to the top of the hill at last. It was marked from top to bottom with drifts packed as smooth and solid as ice, and the bottom looked about a mile away, but the major laughed and said that the slope was barely sufficient to give us headway with a bob sled, but perhaps it was better to begin mild. Dick said the major could grease his runners if he wanted and coast down the side of a house, but he'd be hornswoggled if he himself was going to try any experiments with gravity and a bob-sled until he knew how it went with somebody else. He suggested that we send a boy down first, and if the boy didn't break his neck either the doctor or I could go next, and thus work gradually up to his own avoirdupois. But as the boys somehow didn't feel like coasting just at that time, and the major was so positive in his conviction that Dick was a tomfool, and the doctor said in his rash San Francisco way that a man had to die sooner or later anyhow, and he was as ready to go now as any time, Dick gritted his teeth and said he would follow the major. Then the major beamed with delight and said that although the hill was not steep enough to afford much chance for speed it was long and smooth, and perhaps it would be better if we all got in a line on the trow, each with a small boy behind to push, start at the word, and see who would get to the bottom first. This motion was unanimously carried, and the small boys promised their assistance with a joy which should have served as a warning, but didn't. We got the sleds in position, about ten feet apart, and then the major showed us how to steer with our feet by giving a kick to the right or left, and then said if at any time we wanted to stop all we had to do was to dig our heels in and put on brakes. This was all simple and pleasant, and so we mounted the bobs and took a firm grip and were ready. Then the major yelled "Go!" the small boys gave a vicious shove, and—we went.

I have never been shot out of a gun or dropped from a balloon, but I think now the sensation in either case would not be new to me. I remember the shove. I remember going down the first one hundred feet not much faster than the average limited express when it is a trifle behind time and trying to make up. But at this point the bob suddenly seemed to have waked from its lethargy and determined to beat all rifle-ball records or smash something in the attempt. My hat departed—I let it go, thankful my head wasn't blown off with it. I reached the bottom of the hill in one and one-eighth seconds later, shot over three hundred feet of the level in about as much more, and would have gone a mile or two further if a barbed-wire fence hadn't kindly inserted itself in the way. Of course my being slammed into the post and a few dozen spikes being slammed into me awakened emotions of more or less painful nature but I was alive.

Dick was still going. When Dick gets fairly started his inertia keeps him travelling till something breaks loose. He was merely a gray streak and a whizz down the hill, then he struck a bit of rolling country and made some astonishing but involuntary shoots through the air, tackled a little slope like a runaway engine, found a small drop of seven feet on the other side, at the bottom of which was a pool of water nicely iced, in which he came to rest with a complicated somersault and a bewildering flow of language. The major and the doctor lost the race. Half way down the hill the major thought he would guide right, and simultaneously the doctor thought he'd guide left, and as both guided at the same moment there was a brief juncture of the bobs, and the major sledded the remainder of the way on his nose, while the doctor fetched up against a tree with his head in a drift.

The doctor says he thinks it will be safe for us to get out of bed next week, and the major says next time we coast it will be better perhaps to begin nearer the bottom and work gradually up hill with our experience. Dick hasn't said much, but in the silent watches of last night I heard him grit his teeth.—Catskill Cor. New York Times.

A CHILD'S SKIN.

Ears and Scalp Covered with Eczematous Scabs and Sores Cured by Cuticura.

MY little son, aged eight years, has been afflicted with Eczema of the scalp, and at times a great portion of the body, ever since he was two years old. It began in his ears, and extended to his scalp, which became covered with scabs and sore, and from which a sickly fluid poured out, causing intense itching and distress, and leaving his hair matted and friless. Underneath these scabs the skin was raw, like a piece of beefsteak. Gradually the hair came out and was destroyed, until but a small patch was left at the back of the head. My friends in Peabody know how my little boy has suffered. At night he would scratch his head until his pillow was covered with blood. I used to tie his hands behind him, and in many ways tried to prevent his scratching; but it was no use, he would scratch. I took him to the hospital and to the best physicians in Peabody without success. About this time, some friends, who had been cured by the CUTICURA REMEDIES, prevailed upon me to try them. I began to use them on the 12th of January last. In seven months every particle of the disease was removed. Not a trace of a scab remains on his scalp to tell the story of his suffering. His hair has returned, and is thick and strong, and his scalp as sweet and clean as any child's in the world. I cannot say enough to express my gratitude for this wonderful cure by the CUTICURA REMEDIES, and wish all similarly afflicted to know that my statement is true and without exaggeration. CHARLES McKAY,

Oct. 6, 1886. Peabody, Mass.

I have seen Mr. McKay's boy when badly affected with the Eczema. He was a pitiful sight to look at. I know that he has tried our best physicians, and did all a father could do for a suffering child, but availed nothing. I know that the statements he has made you as regards the curing of his boy by your CUTICURA REMEDIES are true in every particular.

WILLIAM J. McCARTHY, 33 Foster St., Peabody, Mass.

I do not know of any instance in which the Cuticura Remedies have failed to prove entirely satisfactory results. I believe I have sold more of them than of any other skin remedies I have ever handled during the thirty-three years of my experience as a druggist.

A Word About Catarrh.

"It is the mucous membrane, that wonderful semi-fluid envelope surrounding the delicate tissues of the air and food passages, that Catarrh makes its stronghold. Once established, it eats into the very vitals, and renders life less a long-drawn battle with misery and disease, dulling the sense of hearing, transmitting the power of speech, destroying the faculty of smell, tainting the breath, and killing the refined pleasures of taste. Insidiously, by creeping on from a simple cold in the head, it assaults the membranous lining and envelops the bones, eating through the delicate cells and causing inflammation, blindness and death. Nothing short of total eradication will secure health to the patient, and all alleviatives are simply procrastinated, suffering leading to a fatal termination. SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE, by Inhalation and by Internal administration, has never failed; even when the disease has made rightful inroads on delicate constitutions, hearing, smell and taste have been recovered, and the disease thoroughly driven out.

SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE consists of one bottle of the RADICAL CURE, one box CATARRHAL SOLVENT, and one IMPROVED INHALER, neatly wrapped in one package, with full directions; price, $1.00.

Days of the Past.

Fair days of the past, you are flowing forever,
Bright streamlets of gold to the ocean of time;
The song of your beauty rings ever and ever,
As lost as the light of an unwritten rhyme.
You are lost as a joy that we may not recover,
The dreams that we cherished with love in the bud,
As the kiss of a maid on the lips of her lover,
So faded the beautiful days of the past.

The sound of a voice whose sweet music still lingers,
The touch of fair lips that have flown far away,
And the kisses that fell on the still waxen fingers
Of one who had crossed the white portals of day,
Steal softly as shadows, while spring winds
Their rest in a fairy-like valley of flowers;
As the sky of a May-time that brightereth, weepeth,
They come in the charm of their beauty to me.
God's years are unshadowed, His silence unbroken,
His love gilds the days that are following
And my weak faith still holds as a dream and a token,
Somewhere I shall meet the fair days of the past.

—Lucy McKeone Stapleton.

Among the negroes born as slaves in Connecticut only three or four now survive. One of them is Collins L. Fitch, of Watertown. Uncle Collins is now eighty-five years old, and, after raising a large family, is living on a small farm. The other night Matthew Elliott called upon him and said, "Uncle, I don't want to die in debt, so I have come to pay you the $1,000 which my family owes you." He laid down $1,000 and went away. Uncle Collins was born a slave in New Haven in 1801. His master bound him out to Matthew Elliott, of New Preston, for whom he labored faithfully till he was twenty-one, and even after, though the state had given him his freedom. Mr. Elliott was abundantly prospered, and left his son Matthew a goodly inheritance. It is this son who now shares his bounty with the decrepit slave. The people of the town, where Mr. Collins is held in high respect have tendered him their congratulations.

CAPTAIN S. GREENWOOD,

Master of the Steamship Kanawha.

About a year ago he observed a strange change in his feelings. He felt tired instead or vigorous; nervous instead of strong. His appetite became poor and his sleep broken. He tried to overcome these feelings, but they would not go. He then noticed pains and irritation in the water channels, and that the fluids passed were often thick and with a scum on top or a brick-dust sediment at the bottom. All these were the every symptoms of that fearful disease, Catarrh of the Bladder, which has always been considered incurable, and they continued until the Captain was in a terrible condition. But he is the picture of health and vigor to-day, and he owes it entirely to that wonderful medicine, Hunt's Remedy. Capt. Greenwood says: "I am so certain of the great value of Hunt's Remedy that I always carry a supply on shipboard for the use of my men, and I prescribe it whenever they are ailing. After curing me as it did, and restoring my wife, (whom the best physicians of New York said was dying of tumor,) to perfect health, I swear by it."

This Great Remedy absolutely cures all Kidney Liver and Urinary Diseases.

A CHILD'S SKIN.

Ears and Scalp Covered with Eczematous Scabs and Sores Cured by Cuticura.

MY little son, aged eight years, has been afflicted with Eczema of the scalp, and at times a great portion of the body, ever since he was two years old. It began in his ears, and extended to his scalp, which became covered with scabs and sore, and from which a sticky fluid poured out, causing intense itching and distress, and leaving his hair matted and felted. Underneath these scabs the skin was raw, like a piece of beefsteak. Gradually the hair came out and was entirely moved, until but a small patch was left at the back of the head. My friends in Peabody know how my little boy has suffered. At night he would scratch his head until his pillow was covered with blood. I used to tie his hands behind him, and in many ways tried to prevent his scratching; but it was no use, he would scratch. I took him to the hospital and to the best physicians in Peabody without success. About this time some friends, who had been cured by the CUTICURA RE EDIES, prevailed upon me to try Cuticura. I began to use them on the 15th of January last. In seven months every particle of the disease was removed. Not a spot or scab remains on his scalp to tell the story of his suffering. His hair has returned, and is thick and strong, and his scalp as sweet and clean as any child's in the world. I cannot say enough to express my great pride for this wonderful cure by the CUTICURA REMEDIES, and wish all similary affected to know that my statement is true and without exaggeration. CHARLES MCKAY,
Oct. 6, 1885. Peabody, Mass.

I have seen Mr. McKay's boy when badly affected with the Eczema. He was a pitiful sight to look at. I know that he has tried our best physicians, and did all a father could do for a suffering child, but availed nothing. I know that the statements he has made you as regards the curing of his boy by your CUTICURA REMEDIES are true in every particular.
WILLIAM J. MCCARTHY,
33 Foster St., Peabody, Mass.

A Word About Catarrh.

"It is the mucous membrane, that wonderful semi-fluid envelope surrounding the delicate tissues of the air and food passages, that Catarrh makes its stronghold. Once established, it eats into the very vitals, and renders life but a long, drawn out misery and disease, culling the sense of hearing, trammeling the power of speech, destroying the acuity of smell, tainting the breath, and killing the refined pleasures of taste. Insidiously, by creeping on from a simple cold in the head, it assaults the membranous lining and envelops the bones, eating through the delicate coat, and causing inflammation, sloughing and death. Nothing short of total eradication will secure health to the patient, and all advices are simply procrastinated, sufferings, leading to a fatal termination." SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE, by Inhalation and by Internal administration, has never failed; even when the disease has made rightful inroads on delicate constitutions, hearing, smell and taste have been recovered, and the disease thoroughly driven out."

SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE consists of one bottle of the RADICAL CURE, one bottle of INTERNAL SOLVENT, and one IMPROVED INHALER, neatly wrapped in one package, with full directions; price, $1.00.

WIND IN THE STOMACH OR PAINS IN THE BOWELS, INDIGESTION.

Dr. HAM, Dear Sir:—I feel it a pleasurable duty to extol your medicine to the very highest. I have been a sufferer from the dreadful disease dyspepsia from childhood, and very often after eating have vomited up the greater part of my victuals. About 3 months ago I was induced to try a bottle of your invigorator, which at once gave me relief, and I have not had a vomiting spell since. I feel like a new man, and am perfectly well. I have tried many medicines, but none had the least effect until I took your Invigorator. Hoping you may go on in your great work for suffering humanity, I am Truly yours,

THIS PAPER is on file in Philadelphia at the Newspaper Advertising Agency of Messrs. N. W. AYER & SON, our authorized agents.

Hon. John H. George gave the annual address before the Grafton and Coos Bar association at Plymouth. The colonel gloried in the history of the bar of New Hampshire, and deprecated the fact that wealthy distillers, standard oil dealers and the like had usurped the power in the democratic party, while the lawyers were obliged to seek political recognition at the hands of men whose money instead of whose brains give them position and influence. Just how these political parvenues obtain their money without brains the disappointed disciple of Pierce failed to inform the association. The colonel's address in the main was eloquent and patriotic. It has been printed at the Statesman office. A well-written, hearty tribute to the memory of William M. Barnard, the deceased son of Attorney General Barnard, by Frank N. Parsons of Franklin, was also read. Mr. Parsons, who is a very bright member of the Merrimack bar, was able from an intimate acquaintance with young Mr. Barnard to prepare a memorial address which in its great appreciation, delicately expressed sentiment and candid review of the character and attributes of a deceased college classmate and neighbor, has seldom been excelled. Col. George informs us that we have 352 lawyers in the state. The percentage to each inhabitant is smallest in Rockingham county, where there is one to every 1535 inhabitants. In Coos there is one to every 744 inhabitants. Strafford county has one more lawyer than Rockingham, though it has 13,500 less inhabitants.

Catarrh is a constitutional disease. Hood's Sarsaparilla is a peculiar remedy. It cures catarrh. Give it a trial.

The Fitchburg Railroad Co. took formal possession of the Troy & Greenfield railroad and Hoosac Tunnel, Feb. 1st, under the provisions of the recent sale by the state of Massachusetts.

Don't Do It,

Said my physician, who for six months had doctored me for dyspepsia without success, when I told him I was going to try Sulphur Bitters, they will only make you worse. I did try them, and now I am a well man and can eat anything. Sulphur Bitters are a great foe to doctors. —George Bastett, N. Y. C. & H. R. Railroad.

"ZOZO, THE MAGIC QUEEN."

This evening, in Music hall, the gorgeous spectacular drama "Zozo" will be presented, with the same elaborate scenery, splendid costumes and strong cast as in the large cities. The piece was presented in this city one evening a year or two ago, and gave such pleasure to the audience that nearly the entire house was sold for a second evening's performance, which however was given up for reasons beyond the company's control. The play will be repeated to-morrow night, and probably the company will have two full houses. Tickets at Goodrich's.

MARITIME NOTES.

The steamer James Sampson is doing a good deal of towing of fishing vessels this winter; the fishing skippers find Capt. Duncan very obliging, he being ready to accommodate them with a tow at any time of the day or night.

There were received from Boston on Monday by E. Newton & Co. fifty-five barrels, and by Edw. Jameson fifteen barrels, of Newfoundland herring, which are preferred by the fishermen to Grand Menan herring as bait, being richer in fat and spawn. The schooner Cottage arrived from Grand Menan on Monday with 85,000 herring, but could not sell on account of the market being supplied with Newfoundland bait, and would have sailed for Gloucester Tuesday morning had the weather been favorable.

The fare of 26,000 lbs. of fish brought in by the schooner Franklin S. Schenck on Monday was the largest landed at this port this winter by any vessel of the home fishing fleet, and has been exceeded but once by any schooner so far this season. Her crew shared about $50 a man for the trip.

The fishermen sailing out of this port this winter report the mental hallucination as to the ownership of fishing gear set in Ipswich bay to be more marked than ever before. It used to be said, in the days when the traffic between Europe and this country was largely carried on by the Black Ball, White Star and other lines of packet ships, that the Black Ball sailor's motto was "First up, best dressed"—implying that the first man out of his bunk would help himself to whatever clothing in sight he might fancy. Some such rule it seems obtains on the fishing grounds, where the first vessel arriving gets all the fish, unless the other fellow comes out too soon, and drives him away before the trawls are properly stripped. Occasionally a vessel of unusual enterprise will not merely strip but will carry off the gear of another craft, thereby saving the crew of the latter from the sin of swearing when they haul their trawls and find that they have been plundered.

The schooner Joseph Garland, at Gloucester on the 6th inst., reported that on Friday night, while fishing in Ipswich bay, George Doty, one of the crew, got astray in a dory while attending trawls, and has not been heard from. He belonged in St. Mary's bay, Nova Scotia, and was unmarried.

The three-masted schooner Howard Williams, from Boothbay for Savannah with a cargo of ice, was towed into Portland on the 6th inst. in distress, by steamtug Salem. The schooner put into Portland harbor Jan. 28th for shelter, and sailed thence for her destination on the 4th, but when off Boon island, in a heavy sea, was struck by a squall which split her foresail, jibs and staysail, carried away her foremast, foregaff and maintopmast, and did other damage. Saturday night, fifteen miles off Thatcher's island, she was spoken by the fishing schooner Oliver Eldredge, bound into Gloucester, and offered the fisherman $800 for a tow into port, which was declined. The tug went in search of her, and towed her to Portland as before related.

Congressman Reed, of the first district of Maine, on the 7th introduced in the house a bill providing for the confiscation of any foreign vessel found fishing within three marine miles of any of the ocean or lake coasts of the United States. This bill, if passed, will prevent the Canadian boats from fishing in Eastport harbor, while at the same time a Canadian cruiser lies just across the line in waiting to seize any Yankee fisherman whose skipper may try to buy a barrel of flour in a Canadian port to feed his hungry crew, after they have expended all their own provisions in feeding Canadian fishermen rescued from death by shipwreck.

TOPSY TURVY.

This light and easy-running opera, that called out an audience of over 2000 to the Old Resident's ninth entertainment, is a series of popular selections from modern operas, with topical songs connected by a somewhat pleasing story of domestic misunderstandings, mishaps and explanations.

Miss Alice Vars is the star of the company—a bright and versatile actress, a pleasing and talented singer, never offending the critical. Mr. F. E. Kendall, baritone, is likewise a clever actor and very acceptable vocalist who will have pronounced success if he chooses to follow the business so well begun. Mr. Harry G. Snow, the energetic manager of the troupe, has a fine tenor voice which he uses with pleasing effect. Miss Ames, contralto, and Mr. Melvin R. Day, humorist, added their acceptable performances to the general stock. Mr. Day is evidently capable of doing much better work than a comic gives him opportunity for. The large audience was attentive and enthusiastic, and departed smilingly, evidently none the worse for the light things they had enjoyed.—Lawrence American.

This entertainment will be presented at the Franklin theatre on Friday evening, Feb. 11th. Popular prices; see advertisement.

HIS SUN HAS SET.

Tuesday afternoon the last sad rites of veneration and love were offered to the memory of Albert Laighton. We have missed his genial, kindly presence, for the many months that he has languished on his bed of sickness. We shall greet him no more. But the example of his life, and the influence for all that is good and loyal and true in his writings, will always remain.

SUDDEN DEATH.

Mrs. Mary W. Moran, wife of Mr. John Moran, died very suddenly about five o'clock Monday afternoon, at her residence on Miller avenue. She had been as well as usual during the day, and had been out to take in the day's washing, and had cleaned up the premises in her house when found by her husband. The cause of her death is supposed to have been heart disease, with which she had been troubled for some time. At the time of her death she was alone in the house, Mr. Moran entering just in time to see her fall to the floor; her daughter Lizzie, who had been down town, arrived soon afterward. Mrs. Moran had lived with her husband over fifty years, and was the mother of ten children, nine sons and one daughter, all of whom are living.

Montgomery displays at his art store on Pleasant street, two very handsome oil paintings by Miss Call, of this city. One of them, "An Autumnal Scene," was much sought after in Boston, but the fair artist refused to part with it. They have been handsomely framed by Mr. E. Washington Brown, who is an artist in his line.

H. B. Brazell & Son offer a large assortment of valentines, comprising novelties in plush, satin, hand painted, fringed and plain. Give them a call.

The reports returned to Insurance Commissioner Pillsbury for 1886 show that the Granite State Fire Ins. Co. of this city took risks of $2,349,016 during the year, received $83,850.63 in premiums, and paid losses of $11,283.77.

Rev. James DeNormandie and wife were among the guests at the marriage of Miss Elizabeth Bradlee, daughter of Hon. Nathaniel J. Bradlee, of Boston, and Mr. Walter Childs, of Kansas City, on Monday.

Strawberry Bank Lodge, I. O. G. T., will give an entertainment at Rechabite hall on Market street, Thursday evening, Feb. 10th, at seven o'clock. After the entertainment, ice cream and cake will be served. Tickets to be had of the committee, or at F. E. H. Marden's 5 and 10 cent store. Admission to all, fifteen cents.

To Storer Post, and Relief Corps: Barges will leave G. A. R. hall, Daniel street, for Seabrook, to-night at five o'clock sharp. It is earnestly desired that all intending to go, will be prompt to the minute. Per order of Com.:

L. T. BURNHAM.

THE OLD INSURANCE AGENCY,

AT THE OLD STAND,

No. 13 Pleasant Street,

PORTSMOUTH, N. H.

To my Old Customers and Friends. Are you insured? When your home or other property is being consumed by a raging fire, a good insurance policy is a great comfort. The subscriber, with his experience of fifteen years, is now prepared to place your Insurance in the Insurance Companies of New Hampshire, and in Companies organized in other States. No one can place your Insurance better or safer!

NOTE.—Mr. Ilsley, my late copartner, still states in his published card, that he purchased of me all my right to the "Fire Insurance Business of our late firm." I have heretofore denied this statement. He never offered to buy of me the business or goodwill of the firm, and I never offered or even thought of selling out my business. I hired our old office, and advertised to carry on the business in all its branches, weeks before a final settlement. Now, if he has a bill of sale, bond or any agreement whereby I conveyed to him any rights to the goodwill of the old firm or any rights to do a Fire Insurance Business in New Hampshire with old or new customers, let him prosecute me for a breach of contract, or cease publishing or repeating his false statement. I am ready to meet this issue in any court of justice. I make this statement in justice to my customers and friends and to vindicate my own integrity.

THE MUTUAL LIFE INSUPANCE COMPANY OF NEW YORK.

We commend to the careful consideration of our readers the statement which is published in another column of the wonderful business of the Mutual Life Insurance Company of New York, for the year ending Dec. 31st, 1886. The annual exhibit of this immense corporation is at once a source of pride and satisfaction to the policy holders. A steady increase from year to year is shown, which although enormous in amount, yet, such is the wise conservatism of the management, the personal and persistent attention to every detail by the officers, that absolute safety is secured, and the assets annually exhibit a growth commensurate with, if not larger, than the increase in the volume of business.

This great corporation, with its vast and far-reaching machinery, requires for its executive a gentleman who combines with the best financial ability, familiarity with all the intricate details of life-insurance, a discriminating knowledge of men, and a comprehensive business education. Such an one is Mr. Richard A. McCurdy, the president. Under his administration the company has extended and developed until it has secured the approval of the world.

It is almost universally conceded that it is the duty of every man to effect an assurance policy on his life upon one of the many plans which life insurance companies furnish. This granted, and there are few who will dispute it, it only remains for the sagacious man to quickly decide that in the Mutual Life of New York he will find absolute certainty, low premiums, and wise, liberal, and beneficent measures. By insuring in this great company he is making an investment, reliable as government bonds and more satisfactory. Its dividends, as shown by the weekly payments, far surpass in results those of any other company, and it allowed to accumulate add greatly to the value of the original policy.

The Mutual Life of New York does all its business upon the wisest and soundest principles, and its methods are the result of years of careful study by men trained in the highest and broadest financial schools. The annual statements, as well as the weekly exhibits, are models of conciseness and show exactly the quality as well as the vast extent of the business transacted. We point with national pride to this great corporation as one of the institutions of the country, which by its unparalleled success has challenged the admiration of all men.

AFFAIRS IN KITTERY.

KITTERY, ME., Feb. 8th.

It is rumored that a petition has been handed in to the legislature, that text books hitherto required by law shall either be used by the pupils in preparing for their recitations, or wholly dispensed with. There is too much adroit dodging to evade the law, not intended or perhaps known by our law makers.

On Monday evening, the 7th, the people of the 1st Methodist parish of North Kittery gave their annual surprise party to the Misses Goodsoe. These good sisters have a large share of public sympathy, for their youngest brother, on whom they largely depended, died in the army; he was a member of the 27th Maine, Co. B. Since his death they have lived alone, and for two years past the elder sister has been partially paralyzed, and the younger sister must have sunk beneath her cares but for the aid and encouragement of their many friends.

Why not by way of enlightening emigrants tell us plainly what Champernoun and the Pepperells did for Kittery by the sea? and if this place has no history since the decease of these noted men, as we find that Sir William died in 1759, and Champernoun many years earlier,—and the town must have passed from that time to now through many vicissitudes, notably from 1775 to 1809. We judge that some cultivated people have lived in Kittery through all its changes, social, religious and political, since its first settlement. Finally, why should the names of Pepperell and Champernoun be mixed with the R. R., when Christian burial was given them so many years ago? If there is any reason for pointing our fine periods with those distinguished names, let us know, as we like to keep up with the times.

SUE ROSA.

A Washington correspondent in speaking of Mrs. Cleveland's third reception, which occurred last Saturday, has the following: "There are oftentimes visitors unknown to the policemen, who, if known, would not be hurried through with scant ceremony. To-day Mrs. Frank Jones, of New Hampshire, and a friend, were among the visitors unknown to the attendants. Mrs. Jones, who was a frequent visitor at the White House when Mrs. Hayes was the mistress, found herself passed through the Blue Room more quickly than she could possibly have anticipated. She sat down with her friend in the Green Room, where the portrait of Mrs. Hayes naturally recalled her former visits to the White House. Her acquaintance with Mrs. Hayes was a pleasant reminiscence, and Mrs. Jones expressed the hope of meeting Mrs. Cleveland in a way to personally know her. Like the majority of the strangers she had only a passing glimpse of the president's wife. 'Well, Mrs. Jones, if you knew Mrs. Cleveland half as well as Mr. Jones knows the president, you wouldn't be a stranger in the White House,' said a visitor abruptly on hearing how the wife of the New Hampshire democrat had been hurried on with the procession through the Blue Room."

The first result of the attempt to regulate the business of railroads by act of Congress, is a notice from General Manager Tucker of the Maine Central railroad, explaining that concessions from the rates on freight and the regular passenger fares, made heretofore for reasons satisfactory to the Maine Central company, must now be cancelled. This will be inconvenient for manufacturers and traders whose arrangements have been made with reference to contracts of this kind. Possibly the commissioners, when they are appointed, may rule that existing contracts may be fulfilled. But the first visible effect of the law is to increase the cost of transportation. Mr. Tucker says the Maine Central company will do all that legally can be done to protect and promote the interests of patrons of the road.

The Quarterly Conference of the Woman's Temperance Unions of Rockingham county will be held in the Free Baptist church at Newmarket this day, Feb. 9th, commencing at 10:30 o'clock and continuing through the day. The first hour will be spent in a devotional meeting, followed by short addresses and conference. At 12:30 o'clock, basket lunch. At 1:30, Bible reading, to be followed by an address by Mrs. Knox, Pres. W. C. T. U.; also a question box. All interested in temperance work are cordially invited to attend.

ANOTHER SUDDEN DEATH.

Hardly a week passes without the mention by the newspapers of sudden deaths, and of late the alarming frequency of the statement that death was caused by rheumatism or neuralgia of the heart cannot fail to have been noticed. In all probability many deaths attributed to heart disease are caused by these terrible diseases, which are far more dangerous than is generally considered. Is there any positive cure? The best answer to such a question is given by those who have been cured by the use of Athlophoros.

Dover, N. H., March 23, 1886.

I have for years suffered with muscular rheumatism in back of my head, neck and arms; the pain was intense and seemed to grow steadily worse. I used two bottles of Athlophoros and it brought relief almost immediately. I believe Athlophoros to be a pure, honest medicine, and there is no question it will certainly cure rheumatism.

MRS. F. KENNEDY, Orchard Street.

Chicopee, Mass., May 23, 1886.

I have suffered for over five years with muscular rheumatism, being treated by several physicians, besides taking numberless remedies; the doctors could not cure me and the different medicines gave me no relief. There was one remedy I had not tried—Athlophoros. I bought three bottles of it, taking them according to directions. I commenced at night before retiring. The next morning, after a good night's rest, I was perfectly free from pain. My rheumatism went and has never returned. Athlophoros effected a cure in my obstinate case and I believe it will in that of any one suffering with rheumatism or neuralgia.

G. E. LEWIS.

Every druggist should keep Athlophoros and Athlophoros Pills, but where they cannot be bought of the druggist the Athlophoros Co., 112 Wall St., New York, will send either (carriage paid) on receipt of regular price, which is $1.00 per bottle for Athlophoros and 50c. for Pills.

For liver and kidney diseases, dyspepsia, indigestion, weakness, nervous debility, diseases of women, constipation, headache, impure blood, &c., Athlophoros Pills are unequaled.

"ZOZO, THE MAGIC QUEEN."

This evening, in Music hall, the gorgeous spectacular drama "Zozo" will be presented, with the same elaborate scenery, splendid costumes and strong cast as in the large cities. The piece was presented in this city one evening a year or two ago, and gave such pleasure to the audience that nearly the entire house was sold for a second evening's performance, which however was given up for reasons beyond the company's control. The play will be repeated to-morrow night, and probably the company will have two full houses. Tickets at Goodrich's.

MARITIME NOTES.

The steamer James Sampson is doing a good deal of towing of fishing vessels this winter; the fishing skippers find Capt. Duncan very obliging, he being ready to accommodate them with a tow at any time of the day or night.

There were received from Boston on Monday by E. Newton & Co. fifty-five barrels, and by Edw. Jameson fifteen barrels, of Newfoundland herring, which are preferred by the fishermen to Grand Menan herring as bait, being richer in fat and spawn. The schooner Cottage arrived from Grand Menan on Monday with 85,000 herring, but could not sell on account of the market being supplied with Newfoundland bait, and would have sailed for Gloucester Tuesday morning had the weather been favorable.

The fare of 26,000 lbs. of fish brought in by the schooner Franklin S. Schenck on Monday was the largest landed at this port this winter by any vessel of the home fishing fleet, and has been exceeded but once by any schooner so far this season. Her crew shared about $60 a man for the trip.

The fishermen sailing out of this port this winter report the mental hallucination as to the ownership of fishing gear set in Ipswich bay to be more marked than ever before. It used to be said, in the days when the traffic between Europe and this country was largely carried on by the Black Ball, White Star and other lines of packet ships, that the Black Ball sailor's motto was "First up, best dressed" —implying that the first man out of his bunk would help himself to whatever clothing in sight he might fancy. Some such rule it seems obtains on the fishing grounds, where the first vessel arriving gets all the fish, unless the other fellow comes out too soon, and drives him away before the trawls are properly stripped. Occasionally a vessel of unusual enterprise will not merely strip but will carry off the gear of another craft, thereby saving the crew of the latter from the sin of swearing when they haul their trawls and find that they have been plundered.

The schooner Joseph Garland, at Gloucester on the 6th inst., reported that on Friday night, while fishing in Ipswich bay, George Doty, one of the crew, got astray in a dory while attending trawls, and has not been heard from. He belonged in St. Mary's bay, Nova Scotia, and was unmarried.

The three-masted schooner Howard Williams, from Boothbay for Savannah with a cargo of ice, was towed into Portland on the 6th inst. in distress, by steamtug Salem. The schooner put into Portland harbor Jan. 28th for shelter, and sailed thence for her destination on the 4th, but when off Boon island, in a heavy sea, was struck by a squall which split her foresail, jibs and staysail, carried away her foremast, foregaff and maintopmast, and did other damage. Saturday night, fifteen miles off Thatcher's island, she was spoken by the fishing schooner Oliver Eldredge, bound into Gloucester, and offered the fisherman $800 for a tow into port, which was declined. The tug went in search of her, and towed her to Portland as before related.

Congressman Reed, of the first district of Maine, on the 7th introduced in the house a bill providing for the confiscation of any foreign vessel found fishing within three marine miles of any of the ocean or lake coasts of the United States. This bill, if passed, will prevent the Canadian boats from fishing in Eastport harbor, while at the same time a Canadian cruiser lies just across the line in waiting to seize any Yankee fisherman whose skipper may try to buy a barrel of flour in a Canadian port to feed his hungry crew, after they have expended all their own provisions in feeding Canadian fishermen rescued from death by shipwreck.

TOPSY TURVY.

This light and easy-running opera, that called out an audience of over 2000 to the Old Resident's ninth entertainment, is a series of popular selections from modern operas, with topical songs connected by a somewhat pleasing story of domestic misunderstandings, mishaps and explanations.

Miss Alice Vars is the star of the company—a bright and versatile actress, a pleasing and talented singer, never offending the critical. Mr. F. E. Kendall, baritone, is likewise a clever actor and very acceptable vocalist who will have pronounced success if he chooses to follow the business so well begun. Hr. Harry G. Snow, the energetic manager of the troupe, has a fine tenor voice which he uses with pleasing effect. Miss Ames, contralto, and Mr. Melvin R. Day, humorist, added their acceptable performances to the general stock. Mr. Day is evidently capable of doing much better work than a comic gives him opportunity for. The large audiences was attentive and enthusiastic, and departed smilingly, evidently none the worse for the light things they had enjoyed.—Lawrence American.

This entertainment will be presented at the Franklin theatre on Friday evening, Feb. 11th. Popular prices; see advertisement.

HIS SUN HAS SET.

Tuesday afternoon the last sad rites of veneration and love were offered to the memory of Albert Laighton. We have missed his genial, kindly presence, for the many months that he has languished on his bed of sickness. We shall greet him no more. But the example of his life, and the influence for all that is good and loyal and true in his writings, will always remain.

SUDDEN DEATH.

Mrs. Mary W. Moran, wife of Mr. John Moran, died very suddenly about five o'clock Monday afternoon, at her residence on Miller avenue. She had been as well as usual during the day, and had been out to take in the day's washing, and had clothing and clothespins in her hand when found by her husband. The cause of her death is supposed to have been heart disease, with which she had been troubled for some time. At the time of her death she was alone in the house, Mr. Moran entering just in time to see her fall to the floor; her daughter Lizzie, who had been down town, arrived soon afterward. Mrs. Moran had lived with her husband over fifty years, and was the mother of two children, nine sons and one daughter, all of whom are living.

Montgomery displays at his art store on Pleasant street, two very handsome oil paintings by Miss Call, of this city. One of them, "An Autumnal Scene," was much sought after in Boston, but the fair artist refused to part with it. They have been handsomely framed by Mr. E. Washington Brown, who is an artist in his line.

H. B. Bennell & Son offer a large assortment of valentines, comprising novelties in plush, satin, hand painted, fringed and plain. Give them a call.

The reports returned to Insurance Commissioner Pillsbury for 1886 show that the Granite State Fire Ins. Co. of this city took risks of $7,549,016 during the year, received $83,850.65 in premiums, and paid losses of $11,285.77.

Rev. James DeNormandie and wife were among the guests at the marriage of Miss Elizabeth Bradlee, daughter of Hon. Nathaniel J. Bradlee, of Boston, and Mr. Walter Childs, of Kansas City, on Monday.

Strawberry Bank Lodge, I. O. G. T., will give an entertainment at Rechabite hall on Market street, Thursday evening, Feb. 10th, at seven o'clock. After the entertainment, ice cream and cake will be served. Tickets to be had of the committee, or at F. E. H. Marden's 5 and 10 cent store. Admission to all, fifteen cents.

To Storer Post, and Relief Corps: Barges will leave G. A. R. hall, Daniel street, for Seabrook, to-night at five o'clock sharp. It is earnestly desired that all intending to go, will be prompt to the minute. Per order of Com.:

L. T. BURNHAM.

"The interesting event will take place between the setting of the sun, and the incoming of the Pullman."

One Dollar. Hood's Sarsaparilla is the only medicine of which this can be truly said; and it is an unanswerable argument as to the strength and positive economy of this great medicine. Hood's Sarsaparilla is made of roots, herbs, barks, etc., long and favorably known for their power in purifying the blood; and in combination, proportion, and process, Hood's Sarsaparilla is peculiar to itself.

"For economy and comfort we use Hood's Sarsaparilla." MRS. C. BREWSTER, Buffalo.

"Hood's Sarsaparilla takes less time and quantity to show its effect than any other preparation I ever heard of. I would not be without it in the house." MRS. C. A. M. HUBBARD, North Chili, N. Y. 100 Doses

One Dollar

Hood's Sarsaparilla cures scrofula, salt rheum, all humors, boils, pimples, general debility, dyspepsia, biliousness, sick headache, catarrh, rheumatism, kidney and liver complaints, and all affections caused by impure blood or low condition of the system. Try it.

"I was severely afflicted with scrofula, and for over a year had two running sores on my neck. I took five bottles of Hood's Sarsaparilla, and consider myself entirely cured." C. E. LOVEJOY, Lowell, Mass.

"Hood's Sarsaparilla did me an immense amount of good. My whole system has been built up and strengthened, my digestion improved, and my head relieved of the bad feeling. I consider it the best medicine I have ever used, and should not know how to do without it." MARY L. PERLE, Salem, Mass.

Insurance Notice.

THE OLD INSURANCE AGENCY,

AT THE OLD STAND,

No. 13 Pleasant Street,

PORTSMOUTH, N. H.

To my Old Customers and Friends. Are you insured? When your home or other property is being consumed by a raging fire, a good insurance policy is a great comfort. The subscriber, with his experience of fifteen years, is now prepared to place your Insurance in the Insurance Companies of New Hampshire, and in Companies organized in other States. No one can place your Insurance better or safer!

NOTE.—Mr. Ilsley, my late copartner, still states in his published card, that he purchased of me all my right to the "Fire Insurance Business of our late firm." I have heretofore denied this statement. He never offered to buy of me the business or goodwill of the firm, and I never offered or even thought of selling out my business. I hired our old office, and advertised to carry on the business in all its branches, weeks before a final settlement. Now, if he has a bill of sale, bond or any agreement whereby I conveyed to him any rights to the goodwill of the old firm or any rights to do a Fire Insurance Business in New Hampshire with old or new customers, let him prosecute me for a breach of contract, or cease publishing or repeating his false statement. I am ready to meet this issue in any court of justice. I make this statement in justice to my customers and friends and to vindicate my own integrity.

Two for His Heels.

There's a charming young wife uptown who has just the sweetest little baby in the world. That's what she says, and if there is one being whom it is dangerous to contradict on the subject of her own baby it is a young wife. I have no hesitation in saying it is the most beautiful boy in the world. I have not seen it, but I can with perfect certainty accept the mother's statement. It is funny; but the only subject women ever agree about is the baby before them. You never heard a woman called upon by the mother to express an opinion of the child say anything except that it was lovely, and too cute for anything, and too sweet for words. A woman will tell her friend that her bonnet doesn't fit, that her photograph flatters her, that her new dress wants taking in the waist or letting out in the bustle, or something like that, but no woman will ever tell even her bitterest enemy that her baby is anything but absolute perfection. I think a baby's about the most incomplete and inartistic thing in life, but I have no business to speak. This young mother was painting this precious child into his little crib, and a gentleman watching the operation thought he'd be very witty.

"Do you know," he asked, "why they call that a crib?"

"No. Why?"

"Because it's one for his nob."

"And if you could see how he kicks you'd say we wanted two for his heels."—San Francisco Chronicle.

"Father," exclaimed the prodigal, sinking to the ground, "I have no right to look you in the face. I have disgraced your honorable name forever." "O, my son, my son!" sobbed the old man, "what have you done?" "While I was in London," continued the crying prodigal. "I——" "O, you have broken my heart, my son." "Nay, but hear me out. While in London I got drunk, lost all your money in a gambling-house, stole a watch, got into a street-fight, was sent to jail, and had to work my way home as a common sailor." "Is that all?" shrieked the delighted old man. "Come to my arms! Take this checkbook! O, my dear son! I feared the Queen had made you an English Lord!"—Burdette.

Dear Sir:—I feel it a pleasurable duty to extol your medicine to the very highest. I have been a sufferer from the dreadful disease dyspepsia from childhood, and very often after eating have vomited up the greater part of my victuals. About 3 months ago I was induced to try a bottle of your invigorator, which at once gave me relief, and I have not had a vomiting spell since. I feel like a new man, and am perfectly well. I have tried many medicines, but none had the least effect until I took your Invigorator. Hoping you may go on in your great work for suffering humanity, I am Truly yours,

Rear Admiral Chandler, commanding the Asiatic station, reports to the navy department, under date of Yokohama, January 7th, that the Palos was at Tientsin. The Monocacy was at Canton, and in about a month would visit Hong Kong to give liberty to the crew. The Essex was due at Hong Kong from Singapore about January 15th. The Omaha and Marion were at Yokohama. The fire brigade of the Marion was recently landed during the night and rendered valuable assistance at the burning of the Japan hotel in preventing the fire from spreading to adjoining property. By permission of the Japanese authorities, Admiral Chandler proposed the following week to land the battalions of the Marion and Omaha as a brigade to be exercised at the public drill ground of Yokohama in the various manœuvres of actual service in the field. The health of officers and men was excellent.

Secretary Bayard, who used to make himself conspicuous when a senator by denouncing republican use of public vessels, has himself made frequent trips on revenue cutters, and will doubtless continue to do so. His excessive virtue in this line was for use only when his party—and consequently himself—were not in office.

Don't Do It,

Said my physician, who for six months had doctored me for dyspepsia without success, when I told him I was going to try Sulphur Bitters, they will only make you worse. I did try them, and now I am a well man and can eat anything. Sulphur Bitters are a great foe to doctors.—George Bastett, N. Y. C. & H. R. Railroad.

Gen. Butler undertook to have his usual dry smoke in the supreme court room at Washington on the 7th inst., but the horrified marshal made such a rumpus that Ben threw away his cigar.

ADVICE TO MOTHERS.

Are you disturbed at night and broken of your rest by a sick child suffering and crying with pain of cutting teeth? If so, send at once and get a bottle of Mrs. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP FOR CHILDREN TEETHING. Its value is incalculable. It will relieve the poor little sufferer immediately. Depend upon it, mothers, there is no mistake about it. It cures dysentery and diarrhœa, regulates the stomach and bowels, cures wind colic, soften the gums, reduces inflammation, and gives tone and energy to the whole system. MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP FOR CHILDREN TEETHING is pleasant to the taste, and is the prescription of one of the oldest and best female nurses and physicians in the United States, and is for sale by all druggists throughout the world. Japanese Journalism.

Newspaper editors in Japan have to send first proofs of every edition to the Mikado's minister of state, who draws his blue pencil through anything that is objectionable. Every paper has a "jail editor." He is a dummy. The paper is often involved in suits, and when a process is sued out, the officer enters the sanctum and takes away with him the dummy editor, who answers all purposes and whose absence does not deprive the paper of any of its working force.

Cure of Bronchitis.

Mr. E. Carey, of Erie, Penn., writes as follows: I had bronchitis for over two years. My life was made utterly wretched by it. It was cough, cough, cough, until at times I thought I would choke to death. I tried every remedy, it seems to me—some outside, more inside. Now and then I would get slight relief, then back again it would come, worse than ever. Last winter I started using Allcock's Porous Plasters and kept them on; I felt better almost immediately, and have kept one on my chest almost ever since, using it as a chest protector. I cannot say too much for them for I am cured of that disease.

Trouble Ahead.

When the appetite fails, and sleep grows restless and unrefreshing, there is trouble ahead. The digestive organs, when healthy, crave food, the nervous system, when vigorous and tranquil, gives its possessor no uneasiness at night. A tonic, to be effective, should not be a mere appetizer, nor are the nerves to be strengthened and soothed by the unaided action of a sedative or a narcotic. What is required is a medicine which invigorates the stomach, and promotes assimilation of food by the system, by which means the nervous system, as well as other parts of the physical organism, are strengthened. These are the effects of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, a medicine whose reputation is founded in public confidence, and which physicians commend for its tonic, anti-bilious and other properties. It is used with the best results in fever and ague, rheumatism, kidney and uterine weakness, and other maladies.

THE OLIVE IN CALIFORNIA.

Success in Its Growth—Great Demand and Big Profit.

The Placer (Cal.) Republican says: There is not a single place in this county from which a failure in growing an olive tree has been reported after the tree is well started in orchard. Everywhere they do remarkably well. J. O. Loomis at Pino has a row that were set out in an old, hard roadway, and they have been cultivated but little, if any, and yet they are fine young trees. J. P. Whitney has twelve or fifteen that were planted some years ago as a curiosity, and they are all large, healthy trees. P. W. Butler has 200 that he planted four years ago and they are among the finest trees on his ranch. In no case are they troubled with any kind of pest. It does not seem as if it needed further proof that this is one of the best sections for producing olives. The only difficulty is propagating the young trees, but nurserymen furnish trees of the Picholine and Mission varieties for from $25 to $50 per 100, which is as cheap as many other kinds of fruit trees, and the Mission will be a good stock on which to graft other varieties, if any better ones should be brought from Europe. In any case the Mission produces as good olives, both for pickles and oil. The Mission oil now brings the highest price of any made in the State. Olive culture is sure to be a prominent and one of the most profitable industries in this part of California.

Joaquin Miller, the "Poet of the Sierras," thus expatiates upon the merits of the olive: "This hardy little tree, the olive, is always assigned the ugliest, and stoniest, and meanest bit of land to be found on the farm. And the olive takes kindly to any place you choose to put him. He takes root from the slip and grows right along, and in due time drops his little black and oily apples down in the tall grass in such abundance that you can sometimes see the oil spreading over the rocks and running down and enriching the soil in the hot sun.

"What a country this will be when the olive becomes established here as in Italy! At present it is not abundant, for the olive is a slower grower as compared with other things here, and so the planters have been slow to cultivate it. Yet I believe that now almost every ranch has more or less olive trees growing; for there is a great demand not only for the oil but also for the olive itself.

"It begins to look as if olive-oil may take the place of butter here after a while. Fancy a group of little children on a farmer's porch, with bread in hand, dipping it into a dish of olive-oil. The scene is so frequent here that I asked a woman not long ago why she did not give her children butter on their bread instead.

"She answered me that her children would not eat butter if they could get olive-oil to sop their bread in. And I think they are about right. I have found myself more than once preferring olive-oil to butter here. And the butter is of the best. But any one who has a taste for pickled olives, either natural or acquired, will find himself becoming very partial to the oil of olives.

"Yet never before did I find this taste for olive-oil so supreme. Even in Italy and Spain and Palestine, places where there is no butter fit to eat, I did not care for olive-oil. But this here is so superior to that of all other lands that, as I said before, I suspect it may drive out the use of butter to some extent. The people here eat their pickled olives with great relish. The plate of little purple olives is ever present on the table, and is soon emptied. This purple or black olive is a new invasion of the old custom. And just why anybody ever pickled the olive green I do not know. Certainly no one who ever ate a purple or ripe olive would ever eat a green one. Maybe the olive was put up green in Spain and Italy for better transportation. Be that as it may, I desire to call attention to the little purple California olive. This oily, luscious, and soft little pickle is a new delight for the epicure. And no one who ever tastes a ripe olive properly prepared will ever touch one of the tough, old-fashioned green ones from over the sea. This olive here is prepared for the table in the simplest way possible. They are gathered, thrown into a tub of water, where the few bad one's float off, and then they are simply packed in brine. That is all."

The force exerted by growing plants is very great. Fungi are composed of soft tissues, yet a growing mushroom has been known to lift a large stone. The rootlets of pines and cedars growing on the sides of rocky declivities penetrate narrow crevices in the rocks, and finally by their growth loosen huge masses and send them tumbling down the cliff. Years ago President Clarke of the Massachusetts Agricultural college, put a pumpkin into harness and demonstrated that it was capable of lifting thousands of pounds. In a cemetery in Hanover a seed germinated in a crevice beside a tombstone which contained twenty cubic feet. The seedling, now a small tree, has lifted the stone over five inches. Not the least wonderful of phenomena of this class is the force exerted by a radicle of the germinating plant. Durwin has demonstrated that it exerts a force which, in proportion to its size, is astonishing. This force the plantlet utilizes in sending its roots into the soil, and the strangest part of the strange phenomenon is that the little, soft radicle is capable of penetrating soil much harder than itself.

The constitutional amendment to extend school suffrage to women in Wisconsin was carried at the recent election by a majority of 4,548.

A CHILD'S SKIN.

Ears and Scalp Covered with Eczematous Scabs and Sores Cured by Cuticura.

MY little son, aged eight years, has been afflicted with Eczema of the scalp, and at times a great portion of the body, ever since he was two years old. It began in his ears, and extended to his scalp, which became covered with scabs and sores, and from which a sticky fluid poured out, causing intense itching and distress, and leaving his hair matted and lifeless. Underneath these scabs the skin was raw, like a piece of beefsteak. Gradually the hair came out and was destroyed, until but a small patch was left at the back of the head. My friends in Peabody know how my little boy has suffered. At night he would scratch his head until his pillow was covered with blood. I used to tie his hands behind him, and in many ways tried to prevent his scratching; but it was no use, he would scratch. I took him to the hospital and to the best physicians in Peabody without success. About this time, some friends, who had been cured by the CUTICURA REMEDIES, prevailed upon me to try them. I began to use them on the 15th of January last. In seven months every particle of the disease was removed. Not a spot or scab remains on his scalp to tell the story of his suffering. His hair has returned, and is thick and strong, and his scalp as sweet and clean as any child's in the world. I cannot say enough to express my gratitude for this wonderful cure by the CUTICURA REMEDIES, and will also gladly be of service to know that my statement is true and without exaggeration. CHARLES McKAY,

Oct. 6, 1885. Peabody, Mass.

I have seen Mr. McKay's boy when badly affected with the Eczema. He was a fearful sight to look at. I know that he has tried our best physicians, and did all a father could do for a suffering child, but availed nothing. I know that the statements he has made you as regards the curing of his boy by your CUTICURA REMEDIES are true in every particular.

A Word About Catarrh.

"It is the mucous membrane, that wonderful semi-fluid envelope surrounding the delicate tissues of the air and food passages, that Catarrh makes its stronghold. Once established, it eats into the very vitals, and renders life but a long-drawn breath of misery and disease, quelling the sense of hearing, hammering the power of speech, destroying the faculty of smell, tainting the breath, and killing the refined pleasures of taste. Insidiously, by creeping on from a simple cold in the head, it assaults the membranous lining and envelops the bones, eating through the delicate coats and causing inflammation, sloughing and death. Nothing short of total eradication will secure health to the patient, and all alleviatives are simply procrastinated, sufferings leading to a fatal termination. SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE, by Inhalation and by Internal administration, has never failed; even when the disease has made frightful inroads on delicate constitutions, hearing, smell and taste have been recovered, and the disease thoroughly driven out."

SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE consists of one bottle of the RADICAL CURE, one box CATARRHAL SOLVENT, and one IMPROVED INHALER, neatly wrapped in one package, with full directions; price, $1.00.

The First Keen Twinge.

As the season advances, the pains and aches by which rheumatism makes itself known, are experienced after the exposure. It is not claimed that Hood's Sarsaparilla is a specific for rheumatism—we doubt if there is, or can be, such a remedy. But the thousands benefited by Hood's Sarsaparilla, warrant us in urging others who suffer from rheumatism of take it before the first keen twinge.

We have received "The Season" for March, containing the newest Paris fashions and most elegant designs in fancy work, embroidery, etc. The Season is one of the best illustrated magazines for ladies published, devoted entirely to female attire and toilet, of which it treats in the minutest detail regarding economy, taste and style. The March number has three full-page colored fashion plates, beside the usual amount of other illustrations, and a large number of flat paper patterns and embroidery designs. The Great Strike Petering Out.

The great strike, so far as it involves the freight handlers and longshoremen of New York and vicinity, is wearing rapidly to its close. Precisely as was foreseen, the point has been reached when the demands of so many idle men for the means of subsistence is greater than the organizations can meet. At the lowest possible estimates it is believed that it costs $100,000 a day to feed the army of strikers. The first call for money has been made, and the end cannot be far off. The evidence of its approach is seen in the fact that more men were at work on the piers Tuesday, the 8th, than at any time since the strike began. Freight is being moved with greater dispatch; the new men have begun to learn their duties and acquire facility in the work; and the old men are sneaking back in constantly increasing numbers, not in general openly to their old employ, but in other and distant places where they will not be recognized by other strikers. The stampede once begun is sure to gain strength each day. Some of these strikers will secure places once more on piers where they are not known; but the greater number will find that they have forfeited steady employment at good wages by their inconsiderate action. After having lost at least $100,000 a day for two weeks in wages alone, they suddenly discover that they have not at all improved their condition, but on the contrary are forced to take up any odd job or fall back on charitable support. It would seem that men who have once gone through this bitter experience would learn a little something from it. But it is quite impossible to predict what those may hereafter do who have already shown themselves deficient in reasoning power.

The disastrous strike—especially disastrous to the workingmen who joined in it without the slighest show of reason—commenced in a very small way, the refusal of a few hundred coal handlers employed by a corporation to work longer at a certain rate of wages. Whether their complaints were just or not (it is very likely they were) need not be considered, as the matter is lost sight of in view of the subsequent events. The corporation remaining obdurate, certain irresponsible autocrats decided that all workingmen, if they had grievances or not, and regardless of their wishes or the needs of themselves and their families, should cease work, and thereby so disarrange the business movements of the country that public opinion would compel the offending corporation to yield as the only way out of the difficulty. To this end tens of thousands of workingmen who were steadily employed at satisfactory wages, who had no complains at all to make of their employers, and whose idleness could not possibly have the most remote influence in the settlement of the original dispute, were peremptorily "ordered out" by the "walking delegate," and having absolutely given all control over their individual conduct into the hands of an organization, they were compelled to obey the order, ruinous to themselves though its effects might prove to be. So, too, scores of liberal and just employers, against whom even the labor organizations could not say a word, have had their business injured and in some cases ruined by their men being ordered to quit work, for a cause in which they were not personally interested and on which their striking could have no effect. There could be but one ending of the strike thus conducted, and that end is evidently close at hand.

They Won't "Harass" the Frenchmen.

A despatch from St. John's, Newfoundland, to the New York World, says that news has just been received at St. John's that the British government has disallowed the bait act passed by the Newfoundland legisiature a year ago. The object of the bait law was to empower the colonial government to forbid the export or sale of bait to French or other foreign fishermen. The disallowance is supposed to be in deference to French interests. Much disappointment and indignation are felt in St. John's, especially as the Canadian act, having similar objects directed against American fishermen, received the imperial assent. The colony is powerless to prevent the export of bait to supply French bankers. So it appears that it is the United States only that is to be prohibited from buying bait—all other nations can buy all they want. But then France has got a navy, and we have not.

Twenty-Five Years in Business.

A hand book for the use of advertisers has been issued by Mr. T. C. Evans, which gives a valuable amount of information. It is also a souvenir of his quarter century in business. Some of the attractive things in it are the facsimile letters from many of Mr. Evans' customers, who, during these twenty-five years, have been placing much advertising through him. They include such leading houses as Oliver Ditson & Co., Houghton, Mifflin & Co., Mason & Hamlin, Estey Organ Co., Hook & Hastings, Eureka Silk Co., Magee Furnace Co., James Fyle & Sons, and others. These all testify to the satisfactory way in which their interests have been attended to, an expression of confidence in which the newspaper publishers could heartily join.

Lee & Shepard, Boston, have nearly ready for publication, Prof. A. P. Peabody's "Moral Philosophy," being the lectures delivered to his students in Harvard college, and adapted for a text-book. There are twelve essays in the series. I—Human Freedom; II—The Ground of Right; III—Utilitarianism and Expediency; IV—Conscience; V—Virtue and Virtues; VI—Principles, Rules and Habits; VII—Ethics of the Hebrew Scriptures; VIII—Christian Ethics; IX—Moral Beauty; X—Hedonism; XI—The Ethics of the Stoic school; XII—The Influence of Christian Ethics on Roman Law. The erudition and experience of Dr. Peabody have given him the ability to treat these great themes with rare clearness of expression, so that his meaning should be plain to every intelligent reader. This volume of Dr. Peabody's lectures will be 12 mo., and contain 332 pages.

Several members of the bar in this city and Exeter have signed a recommendation to the president to appoint Col. John H. George of Concord as one of the commissioners under the interstate commerce law. Col. George has had an experience of twenty years as counsel for the Boston & Lowell railroad, and before that was an officer for several years in the Concord railroad corporation.

At Mattawan, N. J., on the 8th, a number of the Pennsylvania Coal Co.'s old hands offered to resume work on the dock, but the shipping agent of the company ordered them to leave, as he had all the men he wanted, and they were doing good work.

Thousands Joining The Procession.

BOSTON, February 9.—The fact that after nine years' hot fight the Boston Daily Globe has beat the Boston Daily Herald has made a great sensation. The Daily Globe in January had an average circulation of 111,351, and the Herald, 110,530. The Sunday Globe averaged 106,696, and the Sunday Herald, 82,724. Thousands of new readers are being added every week to the Globe's lists, and there seems to be no limit to the circulation the Globe may reach.

ANOTHER SUDDEN DEATH.

Hardly a week passes without the mention by the newspapers of sudden deaths, and of late the alarming frequency of the statement that death was caused by rheumatism or neuralgia of the heart cannot fail to have been noticed. In all probability many deaths attributed to heart disease are caused by these terrible diseases, which are far more dangerous than is generally considered. Is there any positive cure? The best answer to such a question is given by those who have been cured by the use of Athlophoros.

Dover, N. H., March 23, 1886.

I have for years suffered with muscular rheumatism in back of my head, neck and arms; the pain was intense and seemed to grow steadily worse. I used two bottles of Athlophoros and it brought relief almost immediately. I believe Athlophoros to be a sure, honest medicine, and there is no position it will certainly cure rheumatism.

MRS. F. KENNEDY, Orchard Street.

Chicopee, Mass., May 23, 1886.

I have suffered for over five years with muscular rheumatism, being treated by several physicians, besides taking numberless remedies; the doctors could not cure me and the different medicines gave me no relief. There was one remedy I had not tried—Athlophoros. I bought three bottles of it, taking them according to directions. I commenced at night before retiring. The next morning, after a good night's rest, I was perfectly free from pain. My rheumatism went and has never returned. Athlophoros effected a cure in my obstinate case and I believe it will in that of any one suffering with rheumatism or neuralgia.

G. E. LEWIS.

Every druggist should keep Athlophoros and Athlophoros Pills, but where they cannot be bought of the druggist the Athlophoros Co., 112 Wall St., New York, will send either (carriage paid) on receipt of regular price, which is $1.00 per bottle for Athlophoros and 50c. for Pills.

For liver and kidney diseases, dyspepsia, indigestion, weakness, nervous debility, diseases of women, constipation, headache, impure blood, &c., Athlophoros Pills are unequalled. 2

THE OLD INSURANCE AGENCY,

AT THE OLD STAND,

No. 13 Pleasant Street,

PORTSMOUTH, N. H.

To my Old Customers and Friends. Are you insured? When your home or other property is being consumed by a raging fire, a good insurance policy is a great comfort. The subscriber, with his experience of fifteen years, is now prepared to place your Insurance in the Insurance Companies of New Hampshire, and in Companies organized in other States. No one can place your Insurance better or safer!

NOTE.—Mr. Ilsley, my late copartner, still states in his published card, that he purchased of me all my right to the "Fire Insurance Business of our late firm." I have heretofore denied this statement. He never offered to buy of me the business or goodwill of the firm, and I never offered or even thought of selling out my business. I hired our old office, and advertised to carry on the business in all its branches, weeks before a final settlement. Now, if he has a bill of sale, bond or any agreement whereby I conveyed to him any rights to the goodwill of the old firm or any rights to do a Fire Insurance Business in New Hampshire with old or new customers, let him prosecute me for a breach of contract, or cease publishing or repeating his false statement. I am ready to meet this issue in any court of justice. I make this statement in justice to my customers and friends and to vindicate my own integrity.

"ZOZO, THE MAGIC QUEEN."

"Zozo, the Magic Queen," is a piece of the spectacular order, with no plot to speak of, but plenty of fun, about the best scenic effects ever seen here, and an especially elaborate and praiseworthy transformation scene. The costumes are handsome and new, and give fine effect to the stage grouping. There is nothing offensive to people of refinement in the language of the play, and the incidents are not "loud" in tone. Mr. George H. Adams did some good rope-jumping, and the drill of the queen's guards was capital; and a diminutive darkey, whom we heard referred to by one of the audience as being about as big as a schooner of beer—whatever that may be—made sport out of all proportion to his size. "Donovan Rossy" also contributed his full share toward the evening's entertainment, and everybody in the house enjoyed several hours of absurd mirth. The fairies, as a company, are the most attractive we ever saw on any stage.

There was a very large audience in Music hall last evening, and will be again to-night, when Zozo will again make love to the Yankee captain and circumvent the evil one.

CAPT. JOHN H. WILLEY.

The ship Continental, of New York, Capt. John H. Willey commanding, arrived at San Francisco on the 14th of January, 142 days from New York, in charge of the first officer, Mr. Bunker, the captain being unable to attend to his duties on account of illness, from which he died on board his vessel at the wharf on the 27th, in the 64th year of his age. Capt. Willey was a native of this city, and was a seaman way through. He ran away from home at the age of nine years to go to sea as cabin boy, and his seafaring experience ended only with his life. Throughout his long career he never lost a vessel or suffered shipwreck, and though a strict disciplinarian, was popular with the men under his command. He had a gold medal presented to him by the king of Denmark for rescuing the master and crew of a Danish vessel in the Baltic, under very trying circumstances. Three vessels has previously spoken the sinking ship, but the tempestuous weather prevented their taking the crew off. Captain Willey, however, succeeded in saving the whole crew about an hour before the vessel sank. The captain thus saved sailed with Captain Willey as mate several voyages afterward, and was killed by lightning off Cape Horn on the Lagoda, the same vessel which rescued him. Capt. Willey's health was poor at the time he sailed from New York on his last voyage; he was in this city last summer, calling on some of his old friends, having previously been hauled up on shore by illness for a year or so, and shortly afterward went to New York to take command of the Continental. He leaves a son and two daughters, who reside at his late home in Chelsea, Mass., to which place his remains will be brought for interment.

"RING OUT, WILD BELLS."

The mayor has given orders that the bells on the Cabot street schoolhouse, the South wardroom building, and the Franklin schoolhouse at Christian Shore, be rung daily at 8:45 A. M. and 1:45 P. M., fifteen minutes before the opening of the public schools. This step is taken to avoid, if possible, the large number of tardinesses among the scholars, who, apparently, are unable to remember at what time school commences. The school bells will be rung for the first time next Monday morning.

The firemen are requested to take notice of the above, in order that the ringing shall not be taken for an alarm of fire.

Thomas Cash, who was in this city some days ago with his feet frozen, and who was sent away by rail to Halifax, Nova Scotia, his home, has sent a letter to one of the officers in this city. He is now in a hospital, and it has been found necessary to amputate one of his feet.

Hon. Ezra A. Stevens, formerly of this city, has been elected one of the Board of Sinking Fund Commissioners for the city of Malden, Mass.

The snow buntings, usually so plentiful throughout New England during the cold weather, have not been seen at all here this winter. The English sparrows have been about as numerous as in previous seasons.

Thirty-five, or more, members of the Women's Relief Corps and comrades of Storer Post, G. A. R., took barges for Seabrook on Wednesday evening, the 9th inst., to visit the post of the G. A. R. at that place. A ride of thirty-two miles on a cold winter's night counts as nothing when compared with the pleasures of a camp-fire.

The funeral of Miss Lizzie May White, daughter of Rev. Joseph W. White of Greenland, formerly of Portsmouth, took place at the Advent church in this city on the afternoon of the 9th inst., and was very largely attended. The casket was literally buried in flowers, the offerings of her young friends in this city and Greenland, a large number of whom were present.

The total amount of death claims paid by the Mutual Life Insurance company of New York, for the week ending Feb. 4th, was $259,188.92; and for the same period the amount of endowments paid was $86,338.73. For every $1.00 paid in premiums the company returned $2.43.

Several members of the Dover Clerk's association went down to Portsmouth yesterday and visited the rooms of the Portsmouth Athletic club, where they were shown the many attractions there by Col. Michael Crowley, who was one of the founders of the club. The Dover visitors speak very highly of what they saw, and propose to get up a gymnasium something after the one of the P. A. C. It is doubtful however if they can get up as good as one as that which is an honor to Portsmouth and her athletic club.—Dover Democrat.

There were eleven births, eleven marriages and eleven deaths reported by City Clerk Goodrich during January. The oldest person whose decease was recorded was Mary Morrissey, aged eighty-four years.

It is suggested that the oil light on the corner of Gates and Water streets, halfway between two electric lights, might with good advantage be shifted to the corner of Manning and Hancock streets, where it would illuminate a place that now has no light at all on dark nights.

Born in York, Me., Dec. 20th, to A. K. Plaisted and wife, eight pounds of democratic boy. Born in York, Me., Feb. 4th, to Edward Baston and wife, 10 3-4 pounds of republican boy. Republican majority 2 3-4 pounds—which is about the usual majority in Maine.

ELIOT, ME., Feb. 7th.

Sturgeon creek has for the last week or two afforded fine trotting ground for some of the fast steppers of Eliot, among which are "Japonica," owned by John H. Mathes, "Hardscrabble," owned by Samuel Clark, "Lancelot," owned by Albert D. Rowe, "Dandy," owned by William E. Raitt. There are a few more, the names of which are not known. There can be seen a large crowd of spectators each day to witness the trotting, the gentlemen on the ice of the creek, and the ladies (not wishing to be quite so conspicuous) obtaining a fine view of the ground from the residences of William Nason and his sister, Mrs. M. V. Freeman. Nothing happening to these young and noble horses, we have reason to believe that in a few years they will make some of the fastest steppers in this part of the country. All are invited to witness their speed. HEADREACH.

State Representative Sillars of Danvers, Mass., says the Eastern and Boston & Maine railroads do not comply with the Massachusetts law of 1882, which requires certain apparatus to be kept in parlor, drawing-room, passenger, baggage, mail and express cars, under $300 penalty for each failure to obey.

THE COOKING SCHOOLS DON'T HAVE IT.

"I've been married sixteen years, and this is the first time I've ever been asked to buy a salt mackerel," remarked a nomadic son of Portsmouth to a quiet citizen of acknowledged gastronomic ability; adding, "How do you freshen it?"

"I will tell you how I freshen mine," was the answer. "Capt. T——, of Newcastle, twelve years ago told me never to try to freshen a salt mackerel in water if I could procure a pan of snow in which to place it, in a cool (not freezing) place over night. The salt would be better extracted, from its affinity to the snow, and the fish would not be sodden as if placed in water; but in the morning would be just right to place upon the broiler. Upon the coast, the captain told me they used to go ashore and lay their mackerel for the next day in the snow banks, gathering them in next morning for breakfast. I have tried it ever since, and would never use a fish of the kind in any other way. Why the cookbooks do not give it may be from two causes:—In all localities snow is not available;—in July and August, when fresh mackerel is available, snow is not plenty even in New England."

—There's the land slide, the snow slide and the toboggan slide; but the slide that has the money in it is the slide of the bad cashier into Canada.

Beaten at Their Own Game.

It was at the seaside resort. A lonely merchant was in search of health, and he took a great deal of exercise in playing poker. He had two opponents, and they always won. There is nothing so liable to ruin a man's reputation as to win regularly at poker. Your dearest friend mistrusts four aces, and to have four kings frequently spoils the pleasure of the game—to others. Those two gentlemen always won. A friend of the lonely merchant whispered to him one day that they were not so lucky as he was green, and that they were well-known sharpers. He was out $60. He did not like to lose it. So he said to his friend one day, as one of the sharpers came up behind him:

"Follow my lead. Keep the conversation to suit."

He pretended he was not aware of the sharper's presence, and he said in a casual way to his friend:

"I've been darned lucky lately at cards. But to-morrow I have $600 coming, and you bet I'll clean those fellows out."

The sharper stole away. That night he played again, and his luck changed. He backed his luck, and it cost him $80. He won $80. Then he quit.

"You're ahead," said one of the sharpers, blandly.

"A little."

"Well, you must give us revenge."

"When that $600 comes," he said, and winked. The two sharpers kicked themselves metaphorically all over the hotel.—San Francisco Chronicle.

The charge is made that rustlers manufacture mavericks to order in the vicinity of Douglas, W. T., by splitting the tongue. The calf thus fixed cannot suckle and soon ceases to follow its mother.

A Connecticut clock company has prepared drawings for the great clock to be placed in the tower of the new City Hall at Philadelphia, and which, if completed in accordance with their plans, will be the largest in the world. The bells upon which it will strike the hours and quarters will weigh 50,000 pounds, and the glass dials, as contemplated, measure twenty-five feet in diameter.

CAPTAIN S. GREENWOOD,

Master of the Steamship Kanawha.

About a year ago he observed a strange change in his feelings. He felt tired instead of vigorous; nervous instead of strong. His appetite became poor and his sleep broken. He tried to overcome these feelings, but they would not go. He then noticed pains and irritation in the water channels, and that the fluids passed were often thick and with a scum on top or a brick-dust sediment at the bottom. All these were the sure symptoms of that fearful disease, Catarrh of the Bladder, which has always been considered incurable, and they continued until the Captain was in a terrible condition. But he is the picture of health and vigor to-day, and he owes it entirely to that wonderful medicine, Hunt's Remedy. Capt Greenwood says: "I am so certain of the great value of Hunt's Remedy that I always carry a supply on shipboard for the use of my men, and I prescribe it whenever they are ailing. After curing me as it did, and restoring my wife, (whom the best physicians of New York and I was dying of rumor,) to perfect health, I swear by it."

This Great Remedy absolutely cures all Kidney Liver and Urinary Diseases.

DR. HAM'S

Aromatic Invigorator.

SURE CURE FOR
DYSPEPSIA, LIVER AND KIDNEY COMPLAINTS, HEADACHE.
WIND IN THE STOMACH OR PAINS IN THE BOWELS, INDIGESTION.

DR. HAM, March 2, 1885.

Dear Sir:—I feel it a pleasurable duty to extol your medicine to the very highest. I have been a sufferer from the dreadful disease dyspepsia from childhood, and very often after eating have vomited up the greater part of my meal. About 3 months ago I was induced to try a bottle of your invigorator, which at once gave me relief, and I have not had a vomiting spell since. I feel like a new man, and am perfectly well. I have tried many medicines, but none had the least effect until I took your Invigorator. Hoping you may go on in your great work for suffering humanity, I am, Respectfully Yours,

H. E. WOODMAN,

A CARD.

To all who are suffering from the errors and indiscretions of youth, nervous weakness, early decay, loss of manhood, &c., I will send a recipe that will cure you, FREE OF CHARGE. This great remedy was discovered by a missionary in South America. Send a self-addressed envelope to the REV. JOSEPH T. INMAN, Station D, New York City.

The schooner Samuel Daly, of New London, Conn., stone laden, was cut through by ice at Saybrook point, Conn., on the afternoon of Feb. 8th, and sunk. Captain Samuel Spaulding, with his wife, child and three seamen got into the yawl, but before it could be freed from the vessel she went down. The captain and one seaman were saved, but the others were lost. Mrs. Spaulding was found floating, held up by her clothing, but dead.

Don't Do It,

Said my physician, who for six months had doctored me for dyspepsia without success, when I told him I was going to try Sulphur Bitters, they will only make you worse. I did try them, and now I am a well man and can eat anything. Sulphur Bitters are a great foe to doctors. —George Bastett, N. Y. C. & H. R. Railroad.

A despatch received at Rome from Massowah, Soudan, says the Abyssinians lost 5000 men in the battles in which the Italian forces were defeated near Massowah on Jan. 26th and 27th. They are now retreating from Massowah, having apparently abandoned their plan of attack upon the place. An official despatch from Massowah announces that in the recent encounter with the Abyssinians the Italians had twenty-three officers and 407 men killed, and one officer and eighty-one men wounded.

In Dekalt, Texas, Feb. 8th, Col. J. E. Ross, accompanied by his son and another man, attempted to eject J. C. White, a preacher, from property claimed by both parties. White was killed, and also his two young nephews, who took no part in the fight. Ross was killed, and his son, aged fifteen years, who killed the two White boys, was shot through the body but may recover. A despatch of the 9th from Lewiston, Me., says: "Three weeks ago Dr. E. H. Morrill reported to the coroner the death of Matilda Clook in a house on Franklin street. Investigation showed criminal malpractice; that Morrill had engaged rooms, prescribed for her, and was alone present at her death. He subsequently admitted the facts stated, but claimed that he was employed by George F. Dutton, and that instruments had been used before he took charge of the case. Dutton admitted that he was the author of the girl's trouble, but denied using instruments. They were indicted for murder. The trial began Saturday, and closed to-night with a verdict of murder in the second degree against both."

The bookbinders employed by G. W. Alexander & Co., one of the largest bookbinding firms in New York city, struck on the 9th inst. because the firm refused to abolish contract work. Three men take the contracts, and the workmen charge that they hire boys at $3 per week to do men's work, throwing many journeymen out of work. The firm, who occupy a large portion of the "Century" building, refused to concede the demands of the employes on the ground that it would result in continual strikes. New hands have been engaged in the places of the strikers, and no inconvenience to employers has resulted.

The employes of Fogg, Shaw, Thayer & Co., boot and shoe manufacturers at South Weymouth, Mass., left work on the 9th inst. The men claim that two of their number have been blacklisted, and they were ordered out by Master Workman John Short of district assembly No. 30. There were over 100 men employed, and the difficulty has resulted in a total suspension of work. On this account the adjoining factory of H. Breed & Co., has been closed because of inability to secure motive power.

The Beginning of the End.

The beginning of disease is a slight debility or disorder of some of the vital organs, the stomach, the liver or the bowels usually. There are dyspeptic symptoms, the liver is troublesome, the skin grows tawny and unhealthy looking, there are pains in the right side or through the right shoulder blade. The climax is often an utter prostration of the physical energies, perhaps a fatal issue. But if the difficulty is met in time with Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, which is always effective as a remedy, and it should be resorted to at an early stage, there will be no reason to apprehend those injurious subsequent effects upon the system often entailed by entirely cured diseases. Far better it is, also, to employ this safe remedial agent in fever and ague, and other malarial complaints, than quinine and other potent drugs, which, even when they do prove effectual for a time, ruin the stomach and impair the general health.

MIND-READING.

A Practical Demonstration by a Young Man in a Restaurant.

One night I went into a restaurant on Washington street and ordered me a modest supper, one which I thought would fill my stomach and not distress my pocket-book. It was one of those large eating-houses where a well-dressed colored hostler takes you and leads you into a box-stall while you wait for your provender. There were a Boston Daily Globe and printed bill of fare in the manger. The latter contained most everything from bread and beer to canvas-backs and champagne. I ordered fried tripe.

"And have it honeycombed," said I, "with plenty of batter, for I'd as lief eat a piece of my last year's chinchilla overcoat as some of the tripe you serve."

"Don't happen to have your overcoat with you, do you, sir?" asked the colored man.

"No, it's in pawn."

"Well, we ain't got no tripe, nuther; we're all out."

After a debate with my pocket-book I compromised on meat hash and coffee. Then while the waiter went round to pick up the meat from the plates I took up the Globe and began to read about mind-reading, and how one man can tell what another man has been thinking of by just looking at him or putting his hands on his wrists and feeling his pulse wobble. I soon found out it was a big thing, if properly worked.

I am something of a mind-reader myself. When a big man who is walking along the street and looking up at a window trying to mash a chambermaid suddenly steps on ice and falls down I know what he is thinking of: and when the chambermaid sticks her head out of the window to laugh at him, and four bushels of snow slides down between her pink shoulder blades, it don't require much science to divine her thoughts. If they should put their willing souls into words at that moment they could be indicted before any court in the commonwealth for making an unlawful mixture of sacred and profane English.

I heard a rustle of the draperies, and, looking up, a slim, genteel young man, dressed in a tall hat and cane, as well as a few other garments, stood before me. By his side stood the colored 'ostler, who took his hat and hung it on a peg.

"I ordered hashed meat," said I angrily.

"Directly, sir; directly."

"Oh, all right, only I didn't know but you thought I wanted a soup-bone."

I said this for sarcasm, looking at the young man all the time. The young man was smaller than I, and I can be very sarcastic to little people. It is a habit I have.

"I see you are studying through transference," said the young man; "do you understand it?"

"Understand which?" said I.

"Why, mind-reading, to be sure. Can you fathom these subtle mysteries by which one mind takes cognizance of what another mind is cogitating? Do you recognize the psychological affinities by which the ego divines the non-ego and——"

"Hold on, young man," said I, gravely; "stop right there. I can fathom nothing. I reckon, however, that about a fathom of fried sausages would do your anatomy a heap of good, and I'll order them for you the next time the colored stable-boy comes this way."

He said he loathed food. It was very material and unsoulful stuff, and he wished he could go without it. I checked a rising witticism to the effect that he seemed to have been experimenting in that line lately, and allowed him to go on. Link by link he unrolled the chain of nature, as he called it, showing me how the human brain was simply a big galvanic battery, which could be placed in contact with all other human brains if it were properly charged (they never charge at this restaurant, it is C. O. D. or take your overcoat); link by link he unwound the chain which rapes the universe and holds up the human souls like so many watch charms, and link by link the gross material sausages went down his ethereal œsophagus. I was pleased, entranced, mystified. My feelings were so wrought up that I forgot about my pocket-book and ordered two beers, paying for them and for both our suppers with a new cart-wheel which I had.

"Now," said he, turning from the spirit in the abstract to that in the concrete, and making a move toward the two dimes which the waiter had left on the table, "now, mark the change."

I put the money in my pocket, and told him it was a needless precaution; I could look out for it just as well.

"I never saw a man," said he, "who responded to a congenial soul like you. You have a heart; a warm and throbbing heart." I replied that I did not want to commit myself on the subject, as I had never seen it, but I would venture the opinion that I had.

"Oh, yes, you have, and it is not a degenerate heart either."

The doctor at the hospital said I had a fatty, degenerate heart, and I had got to quit drinking beer if I wanted to live."

"Good advice, too," said he, draining my glass; "I read as much in your mind. I also read that you will lend me a dollar and a half to pay my rent. I have just come to Boston and opened an office. I will pay you next week. Until then I must live, for my mind is still bound to my body in fleshy fetters, and, much as I abhor it, I must still eat and sleep; therefore, I must pay."

He put his hand on my left side, and nodded while I took out the money and gave it to him.

"You have a heart," said he, at part-

A CHILD'S SKIN.

Ears and Scalp Covered with Eczematous Scabs and Sores Cured by Cuticura.

MY little son, aged eight years, has been afflicted with Eczema of the scalp, and affinaes a great portion of the body, ever since he was two years old. It began in his ears, and extended to his scalp, which became covered with scabs and sore, and from which a sticky fluid poured out, causing intense itching and distress, and leaving his hair matted and tangled. Underneath these scabs the skin was raw, like a piece of beefsteak. Gradually the hair came out and was destroyed, until but a small patch was left at the back of the head. My friends in Peabody know how my little boy has suffered. At night he would scratch his head until his pillow was covered with blood. I used to tie his hands behind him, and in many ways tried to prevent his scratching; but it was no use, he would scratch. I took him to the hospital and to the best physicians in Peabody without success. About this time, some friends, who had been cured by the CUTICURA REMEDIES, prevailed upon me to try them. I began to use them on the 10th of January last. In seven months every particle of the disease was removed. Not a spot or scab remains on his scalp to tell the story of his suffering. His hair has returned, and is thick and a song, and his scalp as sweet and clean as any child's in the world. I cannot say enough to express my gratitude for this wonderful cure by the CUTICURA REMEDIES, and wish all similarly affected to know that my statement is true and without exaggeration. CHARLES McKAY, 338
Oct. 6, 1885. Peabody, Mass.

I have seen Mr. McKay's boy when badly affected with the Eczema. He was a pitiful sight to look at. I know that he has tried our best physicians, and did all a father could do for a suffering child, but availed nothing. I know that the statements he has made you as regards the curing of his boy by your CUTICURA REMEDIES are true in every particular.
WILLIAM J. McCARTHY, 338
33 Foster St., Peabody, Mass.

A Word About Catarrh.

"Hide the mucous membrane, that wonderful semi-fluid envelope surrounding the delicate tissues of the air and food passages, that Catarrh makes its stronghold. Once established, it eats into the very vitals, and renders life but a long-drawn bath of misery and disease, dulling the sense of hearing, trammelling the power of speech, destroying the faculty of smell, tainting the breath, and killing the refined pleasures of taste. Insidiously, by creeping on from a simple cold in the head, it spreads into the membrane lining and envelops the bones, eating through the delicate coats and causing inflammation, sloughing and death. Nothing short of total eradication will secure health to the patient, and all alleviatives are simply procrastinated sufferings, leading to a fatal termination. SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE, by Inhalation and by Internal administration, has never failed; even when the disease has made rightful inroads on delicate constitutions, hearing, smell and taste have been recovered, and the disease thoroughly driven out."

SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE consists of one bottle of the RADICAL CURE, one box CATARRHAL SOLVENT, and one IMPROVED INHALER, neatly wrapped in one package, with full directions; price, $1.00.

The First Keen Twinge.

As the season advances, the pains and aches by which rheumatism makes itself known, are experienced after the exposure. It is not claimed that Hood's Sarsaparilla is a specific for rheumatism—we doubt if there is, or can be, such a remedy. But the thousands benefited by Hood's Sarsaparilla, warrant us in urging others who suffer from rheumatism of take it before the first keen twinge.

Holman "Objects;" What Will Randall Do?

In the national house of representatives, on the 9th inst., Speaker Carlisle laid before the house the senate bill to encourage the manufacture of steel for modern naval ordnance and other naval purposes, and to provide heavy ordnance adapted to modern naval warfare. Mr. Reed, of Maine, asked unanimous consent for the immediate consideration of the bill, but Mr. Holman, of Indiana, objected. Mr. Reed then asked that it be made special for Monday, the 14th, but encountered an objection from Mr. Eden, of Illinois.

In the brief discussion which followed, Mr. Reed put the members of the committee on appropriations in a position where the house was made to see, and the speaker to acknowledge, that if the Hawley bill for heavy guns is not allowed to come to a vote at this session, the responsibility will be with that committee, to which the bill was referred by the speaker, under the rules. There is no doubt that if a vote could be had on the bill, that it would pass by a decided majority.

Mr. Randall stoutly opposes large appropriations which must be expended under the ordnance bureau of the army. He is willing to give the navy what he regards as reasonable sums. The cause of his hostility to the ordnance bureau is not known, but it seems to be quite decided. There is still strong hope that the committee will not care to shoulder the responsibility of holding the bill back, and that when reported, the senate bill or something very nearly like it will be passed.

An Operatic Sensation.

In San Francisco, on the evening of Feb. 9th, a crank giving the name of Dr. James Hodges, a dyspepsia specialist, aged seventy-one years, was badly wounded by the explosion in his hand of a bomb just as he was in the act of throwing it from the gallery of the Grand Opera house to the stage, on which Madame Patti was singing. The excitement was intense, but Madame Patti proceeded to sing "Home, Sweet Home," as sweetly and calmly as ever, and was loudly cheered by the audience. The old scoundrel, who was not fatally hurt, stoutly maintained his innocence.

How Wives Should Treat Husbands.

BOSTON, February 10.—The special article on "How Husbands Should Treat Wives," in the last Boston Sunday Globe made a great hit. Everybody is talking about it. The Coming Yacht Race.

Lieutenant Henn, of the famous cutter yacht Galatea, who is wintering at St. Lucia, Indian river, Florida, has written his views on the proposed yacht race around the British islands, as follows: "I see by the papers that this race round the British islands is really to be. In my humble opinion it is the most absurd course for a race that could be devised. It will be extremely flukey, and local knowledge and pilotage will be everything. A good open sea course would be much more satisfactory, though it would perhaps be harder on the smaller vessels. Nothing would induce me to enter the Galatea for such a race, though I have considerable local knowledge of the coasts round which one would have to sail, more so than the majority of English yacht owners and skippers. As a member of the Royal Thames yacht club I would vote strenuously against it, and propose instead one of the following courses: From the Needles round one of the Azores and back, distance about 2300 miles; round the Burling islands, off the coast of Portugal, and back, distance about 1700 miles; round the Fastnet rock, Cape Clear, Ireland, and back, between 700 and 800 miles. All these courses are deep sea ones, and except in the English channel little affected by tides and currents. The Burlings and Fastnet are well-lighted. I am sure any of the above courses would be more agreeable to American yachtsmen than the one round the British isles, where it would be a case of coasting all the time, requiring unceasing vigilance, to say nothing of increased risks of collisions in localities swarming with coasters and fishing crafts with their nets."

"Bristol's Equescurriculum," a theatre and circus in which all the performers are horses, will be at Music hall on Thursday, Friday and Saturday of next week. Bartholomew's Equescurriculum, which was at Music hall for a week, two or three winters ago, was one of the most amusing and popular entertainments given here for years, and Bristol's is claimed to exceed it in interest.

When the Catholic diocese of Portland consisted of Maine and New Hampshire, the parish of Salmon Falls embraced the town of South Berwick. When the state of New Hampshire was created into a diocese, Bishop Healey of Portland concluded to make an independent parish of South Berwick. He delayed this action, however, until last fall. Of course when South Berwick was made a parish, a church edifice was necessary, and since the appointment of a pastor, Rev. Father Walsh, that clergyman has been busy taking preliminary steps for the erection of a church. On the 8th inst. he purchased a suitable lot in the heart of the village, and during the summer there will be a substantial and handsome church built on the lot.

The democratic reform postmaster of Sanford, York county, Me., not long ago dismissed Miss Clark, who had been assistant postmaster there for some years, to make room for a democratic voter from another town. The people of Sanford, regardless of party, protested against the change, but the spirit of reform was too strong in the postmaster, and Miss Clark had to go. On Thursday, the 3d inst., a complaint charging mismanagement in the affairs of the office was forwarded to department headquarters, and on the 7th the New England post-office inspector, Mr. Henry Chase of Augusta, arrived in the village, having been detailed to investigate the various charges. Mr. Chase found the assistant recently installed in the place of Miss Clark incompetent to perform the duties of the office, and said that he could not leave the office until some changes were effected. Matters were satisfactorily adjusted by the reinstatement of Miss Clark. Mr. Chase said he had little doubt that this will be made a presidential or salaried office next year.

Some time ago the Boston & Maine engine Minerva met with an accident at West Biddeford. The connecting rod broke, and stove the cab all to pieces. The machine was taken to the repair shop, and on the 8th inst. recommenced running, having been fixed up in all respects better than it was when new. The cab is eight inches higher inside than any other on the road, and is by far the best.

ANOTHER SUDDEN DEATH.

Hardly a week passes without the mention by the newspapers of sudden deaths, and of late the alarming frequency of the statement that death was caused by rheumatism or neuralgia of the heart cannot fail to have been noticed. In all probability many deaths attributed to heart disease are caused by these terrible diseases, which are far more dangerous than is generally considered. Is there any positive cure? The best answer to such a question is given by those who have been cured by the use of Athlophoros.

Dover, N. H., March 23, 1886.

I have for years suffered with muscular rheumatism in back of my head, neck and arms; the pain was intense and seemed to grow steadily worse. I used two bottles of Athlophoros and it brought relief almost immediately. I believe Athlophoros to be a pure, honest medicine, and there is no question it will certainly cure rheumatism. MRS. F. KENNEDY, Orchard Street.

Chicopee, Mass., May 23, 1886.

I have suffered for over five years with muscular rheumatism, being treated by several physicians, besides taking numberless remedies; the doctors could not cure me and the different medicines gave me no relief. There was one remedy I had not tried—Athlophoros. I bought three bottles of it, taking them according to directions. I commenced at night before retiring. The next morning, after a good night's rest, I was perfectly free from pain. My rheumatism went and has never returned. Athlophoros effected a cure in my obstinate case and I believe it will in that of any one suffering with rheumatism or neuralgia. G. E. LEWIS.

Every druggist should keep Athlophoros and Athlophoros Pills, but where they cannot be bought of the druggist the Athlophoros Co., 112 Wall St., New York, will send either (carriage paid) on receipt of regular price, which is $1.00 per bottle for Athlophoros and 50c. for Pills.

For liver and kidney diseases, dyspepsia, indigestion, weakness, nervous debility, diseases of women, constipation, headache, impure blood, &c., Athlophoros Pills are unequaled. 2

THE OLD INSURANCE AGENCY,

AT THE OLD STAND,

No. 13 Pleasant Street,

PORTSMOUTH, N. H.

To my Old Customers and Friends. Are you insured? When your home or other property is being consumed by a raging fire, a good insurance policy is a great comfort. The subscriber, with his experience of fifteen years, is now prepared to place your Insurance in the Insurance Companies of New Hampshire, and in Companies organized in other States. No one can place your Insurance better or safer!

NOTE.—Mr. Ilsley, my late copartner, still states in his published card, that he purchased of me all my right to the "Fire Insurance Business of our late firm." I have heretofore denied this statement. He never offered to buy of me the business or goodwill of the firm, and I never offered or even thought of selling out my business. I hired our old office, and advertised to carry on the business in all its branches, weeks before a final settlement. Now, if he has a bill of sale, bond or any agreement whereby I conveyed to him any rights to the goodwill of the old firm or any rights to do a Fire Insurance Business in New Hampshire with old or new customers, let him prosecute me for a breach of contract, or cease publishing or repeating his false statement. I am ready to meet this issue in any court of justice. I make this statement in justice to my customers and friends and to vindicate my own integrity.

"TOPSY TURVY."

Had the Boston Comique Opera Co. been favored with pleasant weather, the Opera house last evening would have been crowded, as this meritorious little company is an established favorite here with theatre goers. The company, newly formed this season, includes two new members, and the former favorites, including pretty May Vars, Miss Ames and Mr. Snow. "Topsy Turvy" had the first presentation in Rutland last evening. It is a piece well adapted to display the merits of the different actors, and is replete with charming music and laughable situations. The audience enjoyed it immensely, applauding and encoring several numbers over and over again. Miss Vars as "Matilda Jane" is a picture for the eye and a delight to the ear. Her voice is a sweet, clear, well cultivated soprano, and her acting is natural and refined with an occasional dash of chic absolutely refreshing. Miss Ames as "Cicely" was acceptable, and Mr. F. E. Kendall as "Brambleton" was thoroughly excellent. One of the best songs on the programme is "My daughter's a charmer," sung by him in capital style, in a voice of rich baritone quality, especially praiseworthy for the added charm of distinct enunciation. Mr. Snow as "Lavender," the valet, was without question the best comedian of the company, and his ridiculous makeup, sweet singing and amusing actions combined to make a decided hit. Mr. Day as "Swanhopper," was not a whit behind his confreres in any respect. His recitations, mirth-provoking and realistic, were received with great favor.—Rutland Telegram.

AT HOME ON LAND OR SEA.

Genial Charlie Adams, now assistant passenger agent of the Fort Wayne and Pan Handle branches of the Pennsylvania Railroad Co. at Chicago, is too well known to the men of Portsmouth who were boys before the rebellion, to need introduction. Increasing honors have been accorded him in every branch of business he has undertaken, and his large executive ability has been demonstrated without failure through a remarkable career for so young a man. Charles W. Adams as a boy was restive and aggressive, showing traits at an early age that were to make him a leader of men. His father, Ex-Mayor Joseph B. Adams, no doubt was solicitous about his future, when, with true Portsmouth instinct, his sea-going propensities became uncontrollable. He laughed at all peril on land, and the dangers of sailorizing were but temptations to overcome them. So, at the age of fifteen years, he entered the merchant service as a boy before the mast. The New York World of recent issue published an alleged picture of Mr. Adams that would have been ample excuse for libel, it was such a wretched representation, had not the following lengthy notice appeared simultaneously with it. The World says of his sea-service:

Anxious to rise he applied himself earnestly to his work, and soon became an officer. In 1858 he went into the United States navy as master's mate, and made his first voyage in the service in the old sloop-of-war Portsmouth, which did duty on the African coast. At the breaking out of the war he was transferred to the frigate Santee, which was on duty in the blockade at Galveston and was present at the capture of that port. In the autumn of 1862 Mr. Adams was promoted to the position of acting ensign and was assigned to duty on the sloop-of-war Ossipee. He participated in the memorable battle of Mobile bay, under Farragut, just before which he was made acting master. Immediately after this fight he was ordered to the captured ram Tennessee as her executive officer, and then remained on her as commanding officer until she was dismantled at New Orleans after the close of the war. From that time until 1868 he was executive and recruiting officer on the Vandalia at Portsmouth.

Mr. Adams, however, had by this time become tired of the naval service and determined to quit it. His attention was turned towards the growing west, which he considered held out large opportunities for an ambitious, industrious man, and in 1869 he went to Chicago. He soon obtained a position on the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy road, and after only a year's drilling in this to him new business was made ticket agent in the Union depot of this road, and remained as such until 1876. In that year he was appointed general western agent of the Erie & Chicago line, which was composed of the Pittsburg & Fort Wayne, the Atlantic & Great Western and the Erie roads, forming a through line from New York to Chicago. For six years, until 1881, Mr. Adams worked in this capacity, when he was appointed to the position he now holds.

By dint of hard, conscientious work Mr. Adams has steadily risen through various positions of responsibility both in his sea service and in railroading, and today he is regarded with favor by all those who know him or who have business relations with him. Active and alert in the interests of his company, kind and obliging to all, Mr. Adams has made himself extremely popular not only with his superior officers, but in all his business and social connections.

His fellow-officers of the navy recently organized a Veteran Naval League for comradeship and interests similar to those of the Grand Army of the Republic, and with great unanimity chose him as their first commander-in-chief. The rapid advancement of Mr. Adams in all grades of service has been due solely to his own abilities, his enthusiastic and untiring efforts to subserve the interests of the vast enterprises in which he is and has been so conspicuous, and to an openhearted acknowledgment of the worth of his associates, which binds them to him as with bands of steel. MUNICIPAL AFFAIRS.

In Common Council, Thursday evening, Feb. 10th, President Crowley in the chair.

In the absence of the clerk, City Messenger Samuel R. Gardner was chosen clerk pro tem.

Councilmen Fraser, Cullen, Young and Haddock, were absent.

Councilman Mahoney, of the committee appointed to visit the city farm, presented a minority report, stating the establishment to be not greatly out of repair.

After some desultory discussion the board adjourned to the call of the president.

NOT GIVEN UP YET.

On Thursday the steamer James Sampson went around to Rye beach, and pulled several times on the schooner Flying Dart, ashore at Straw's point, but failed to move her, the lines parting repeatedly. Mr. Charles S. Browne, who owns the wreck, has given Capt. C. F. Duncan, of the James Sampson, the job of getting her off; and Capt. Duncan, having procured some gear heavy enough to hold the steamer, will this forenoon make another attempt, and hopes to bring the schooner into port with him when he returns.

HE IS TIRED.

Marcus P. Norton and his counsel have decided to abandon the Knibbs valve suits, on account of lack of funds to carry on the work. Judge Foster, counsel for Portsmouth, has been notified that the suit against the city will not be further prosecuted, and Norton has given his written consent to a non-suit. The trial of Norton's first suit against the city cost the municipalities which combined for the defence $30,000, and the plaintiff (or his backers) $15,000.

Officers of the Grand Chapter, Royal Arch Masons, will pay an official visit to Washington Chapter, No. 3, of this city, on Tuesday evening, Feb. 15th.

Col. Charles A. Sinclair arrived from Washington on Thursday evening. The alderman admits that Mr. Cleveland is the best democratic president the country has seen since James Buchanan!

The People and Patriot, of Concord, under the heading of "Portsmouth" says: "Miss Lillian M. Urch of Chelsea, formerly of Newcastle, is visiting her uncle, Mayor David Urch of this city." What have they done with Mayor Hodgdon?

Department Commander Otis C. Wyatt, G. A. R., of this state, in general orders No. One, among other staff appointments announces that of Comrade George E. Hodgdon, of this city, as judge advocate. Mr. Hodgdon has unusual qualifications for this position, and Commander Wyatt is to be congratulated on his good fortune in securing so able an assistant.

Wednesday evening, Feb. 10th, the anniversary of the natal day of a gentleman of this city prominent in musical circles was celebrated at his residence, the gathering on this particular occasion being somewhat unexpected to him. Among other delicious viands provided was a magnificent birthday cake prepared by the loving hands of his wife, the distribution of which our friend prefaced with a neat speech, closing with the following peroration: "I thank you, friends, heartily, for your presence this evening. The older we grow the more we appreciate those who never forsake a friend as long as there is anything to eat. I cordially invite you to partake freely of this delicious cake, which was made in honor of my accidental birthday."

This evening a party of married gentlemen and ladies, resident at the west end, who have relieved the tedium of the long winter months with weekly card parties at the residences of members of the club, will, at the invitation of one of their number, a gentleman noted for his hospitality and liberality, celebrate the close of the season with a trip by barge to Dover Point, where a supper will be served in the unexceptionable manner for which that famous hostelry is celebrated.

ing, "and a warm heart, too. Come and see me when I get started."

He left me. I saw him stalk proudly down the street, trailing his mind after him like a veil. Then I felt for my watch to know the time. My Waterbury was gone. The chain hung loosely from my waistcoat, like the thread of a broken discourse.

A policeman found my ethereal friend in a pawnshop, trying to swap my watch for a second-hand meerchaum.

"Can you read my mind now?" asked I when he had been arrested.

"Yes, you are going to bail me out."

"Not a bail," said I, "and if I can read the mind of the judges correctly you will not come off from Deer Island until the 'flowers bloom in the spring, tra la.'"

I left him wrapped in deep meditation. Like some forms of vegetable growth he was a cell within a cell.—Boston Globe.

"I thought I saw your brother Abraham around here yesterday," he observed to old Moses at the door of his clothing store the other day. "Yes, Abraham wasn't in peaceness in Toledo any more." "Burned out!" "No. A fire takes place next door and Abraham throws water all easier his shtock und says it vhary der firemen." "And how did they prove it wasn't?" "Because it vhas a chemical engine at der fire. Abraham vhas a dunder-head who vhill die in poverty."—Wall Street News.

When Peabody Jamison was in Boston he accompanied a young lady to church. After the preliminary service had been gone through with the choir arose and sung "As Pants the Hart for Cooling Streams." No sooner had the first line been sung than the young lady's face took on an expression of the deepest horror. "How inexpressibly vulgar!" she exclaimed under her breath. "What do you mean?" inquired Peabody. "Why, that song." "I don't see anything in particular the matter with it." "Why, they might at least have said trousers, don't you think."—Merchant Traveler.

Aromatic Invigorator.

SURE CURE FOR DYSPEPSIA, LIVER AND KIDNEY COMPLAINTS, HEADACHE, WIND IN THE STOMACH OR PAINS IN THE BOWELS, INDIGESTION.

DR. HAM, March 9, 1886.
Dear Sir:—I feel it a pleasurable duty to extol your medicine to the very highest. I have been a sufferer from the dreadful disease dyspepsia from childhood, and very often after eating have vomited up the greater part of my victuals. About 3 months ago I was induced to try a bottle of your Invigorator, which at once gave me relief, and I have not had a vomiting spell since. I feel like a new man, and am perfectly well. I have tried many medicines, but none had the least effect until I took your Invigorator. Hoping you may go on in your great work for suffering humanity, I am Truly yours,

CAPTAIN S. GREENWOOD,

Master of the Steamship Kanawha.

About a year ago he observed a strange change in his feelings. He felt tired instead of vigorous; nervous instead of strong. His appetite became poor and his sleep broken. He tried to overcome these feelings, but they would not go. He then noticed pains and irritation in the water channels, and that the fluids passed were often thick, and with a scum on top or a brick-dust sediment at the bottom. All these were the sure symptoms of that fearful disease, Catarrh of the Bladder, which has always been considered incurable, and they continued until the Captain was in a terrible condition. But he is now a picture of health and vigor to-day, and he owes it entirely to that wonderful medicine, Hunt's Remedy. Capt. Greenwood says: "I am so certain of the great value of Hunt's Remedy that I always carry a supply on shipboard for the use of my men, and I prescribe it whenever they are ailing. After curing me as it did, and restoring my wife, (whom the best physicians of New York said was dying of tumor,) to perfect health, I swear by it."

This Great Remedy absolutely cures all Kidney Liver and Urinary Diseases.

COCKLE'S ANTI-BILIOUS PILLS,

THE GREAT ENGLISH REMEDY

For Liver, Bile, Indigestion, etc. Free from Mercury; contains only Pure Vegetable Ingredients. Agent: C. N. CRITTENTON, New York.

William J. Gallagher, the alleged partner of Joseph C. Mackin in the eighteenth ward election frauds at Chicago, on the 9th inst. pleaded guilty before Judge Anthony of the forgery of warrants for water rebates on the city treasury, and was sentenced to a year in the penitentiary. As the crime of which Gallagher has been proved guilty was against the state laws instead of against national election laws, President Cleveland will not be able to pardon him, notwithstanding his excellent work "for the good of the party."

Don't Do It,

Said my physician, who for six months had doctored me for dyspepsia without success, when I told him I was going to try Sulphur Bitters, they will only make you worse. I did try them, and now I am a well man and can eat anything. Sulphur Bitters are a great foe to doctors. —George Bastett, N. Y. C. & H. R. Railroad.

A general tie-up of all the Boston horse railroads was threatened by the Knights of Labor on the 9th inst., in case the South Boston and Cambridge corporations did not make terms with their striking employes. We judge that public sympathy is very largely with the South Boston strikers.

Hon. Thos. Russell, ex-judge of the Massachusetts superior court and a member of the Massachusetts board of railroad commissioners, died at his residence in Boston on the 9th inst.

The best selling proprietary article in this section is Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Ladies all praise it and physicians recommend it.

The people of Farmington are fearing a labor disturbance in their town. Advices of the 9th say that "J. F. Cloutman found on starting his shoe factory for this run that he would not need as many men as formerly in his cutting room. One among the men dropped carried his case to the Knights of Labor executive committee, and they have demanded that Mr. Cloutman shall reinstate this man, or the order for a strike in all departments will be given. This is the largest shop in town, employing 400 well paid workmen. The firm have answered the committee that they have no work for the man discharged. The business men are watching with much anxiety for a favorable settlement of the difficulty. The Knights of Labor employed in Mr. Cloutman's factory have started a paper protesting against the action of the committee, and a large share of the employes have signed it. There is great indignation among the business men and many of the knights against the ordering of the strike."

Important Personal. Remember the virtues of hops, burgundy pitch and gums are combined in the clean, sweet and quick-acting Hop Plaster. Hop Plasters are sold everywhere. 25cts.

In New York, on the 9th, Agent Borden of the Pennsylvania line was approached by "beach walkers" and asked if he would take back the formerly-employed union men in case the strike was declared off. He refused to recognize the union in any way. The agent said this was his third experience with union men, and he would not turn out the present laborers, who were working satisfactorily. He said the strikers left without any grievance, and they could never come back except as individuals looking for work, and then only when vacancies existed.

Housekeepers that fail to acquaint themselves with the value of James Pyle's Pearline in the kitchen and laundry deprive themselves of the most convenient and useful article of the age.

In response to Representative Belmont's resolution the president has sent to the house all the correspondence on the fisheries which has passed between the state department and the British government since December 9th.

The striking miners at Blantyre, Scotland, on the 9th inst. engaged in riotous demonstrations and looted a number of shops. The police were powerless, and troops had to be called to quell the disturbance. A number of arrests were made. The miners' strike is spreading.

Safe, Sure and Speedy.

No external remedy ever yet devised has so fully and unquestionably met these three prime conditions as successfully as Allcock's Porous Plasters. They are safe because they contain no deleterious drugs and are manufactured upon scientific principles of medicine. They are sure because nothing goes into them except ingredients which are exactly adapted to the purposes for which a plaster is required. They are speedy in their action because their medicinal qualities go right to their work of relieving pain and restoring the natural and healthy performance of the functions of muscles, nerves, and skin.

I Was Disgusted

With the learned doctors after swallowlowing their costly medicine in vain for over a year for the relief of catarrh in my head, when I cured myself by using six bottles of Sulphur Bitters. My wife is now taking them for nervous dibility.—Abiel Carter, Parker house, Boston.

—A small Chicago boy was delighted one day when a slight fire in his father's house brought the firemen and the engine. "Say," he exclaimed to the first fireman he met, "Say, if there should be a big fire here and you want to save things, please don't save my winter flannels, for they tickle me."

WATERTOWN AND BRIGHTON LIVE STOCK MARKET.

For week ending Tuesday, Feb. 8th.

Amount of Live Stock at Market: Cattle, 605; Sheep and Lambs, 2,008; Calves, 548; Horses, 488; Swine, 12,155.

Prices of Market Beef—A few choice, $7 00 @ $7 50; extra, $6 50 @ $6 75; first quality, $6 00 @ $6 25; second quality, $5 00 @ $5 50; third quality, $4 00 @ $4 50.

Prices of Store Cattle—Working oxen ⅌ pair, from $160 @ $175; farrow cows, $15 @ $53; fancy cows, $50 @ $80; milch cows and calves, $25 @ $48; yearlings, $8 50 @ $18; two years old, $14 @ $28; three years old, $24 @ $40.

Swine—Western fat, live, 5¾ @ 5¾c ⅌ lb; northern dressed hogs, 6¾ @ 6¾c ⅌ lb.

Prices of Sheep and Lambs—In lots, $2 50, $3 50 @ $4 00 each; extra, $4 25 @ $5 50, or from 2¼ @ 5½c ⅌ lb; lambs, 5¾ @ 6¾c ⅌ lb.

Veal Calves, 2½ @ 7c ⅌ lb.

Prices of Hides, Tallow and Skins—Brighton hides, 7 @ 7½c ⅌ lb; brighton tallow, 2¾ @ 3c ⅌ lb; country hides, 6 @ 6½c ⅌ lb; country tallow, 1½ @ 2c ⅌ lb; calf skins, 8 @ 10c ⅌ lb; pelts, $1 35 @ $1 75 each; dairy skins, 25 @ 50c each.

The supply of northern and eastern cattle was again light, as expected at this season of the year. Nor a large delegation of buyers present. We found prices to rule about as last week. The quality included some cattle that were very fancy.

Milch Cows—Not any visible change in values, with a fair market. Range mostly from $25 @ $50 ⅌ head.

The Sheep Call—The arrivals were fully as many as last week. There were 1036 head of western that came direct from Chicago. The market proves steady on all grades.

Fat Hogs—Western live rule ¼c higher, and quoted 5¾ @ 5¾c ⅌ lb. Fancy northern would bring 7c ⅌ lb, dead weight, but none firm enough for that price.

Veal Calves—A steady market with fair supply.

Live Poultry—500 lbs, at 8 @ 10c ⅌ lb.

The Beginning of the End.

The beginning of disease is a slight debility or disorder of some of the vital organs, the stomach, the liver or the bowels usually. There are dyspeptic symptoms, the liver is troublesome, the skin grows tawny and unhealthy looking, there are pains in the right side or through the right shoulder blade. The climax is often an utter prostration of the physical energies, perhaps a fatal issue. But if the difficulty is met in time with Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, which is always effective as a remedy, and it should be resorted to at an early stage, there will be no reason to apprehend those injurious subsequent effects upon the system often entailed by entirely cured diseases. Far better it is, also, to employ this safe remedial agent in fever and ague, and other malarial complaints, than quinine and other potent drugs, which, even when they do prove effectual for a time, ruin the stomach and impair the general health.

—"Is he a young man of brains?" inquired an old gentleman respecting a swell youth. "Well, really," replied his daugher, "I have had no opportunity of judging. I never met him anywhere except in society."

"Very fast, and gives good satisfaction," writes Frederick Stevens & Co., druggists, of Bridgeport, Conn., of their sales of the great remedy for rheumatism and neuralgia, Athlophoros, and of the appreciation in which it is held by persons using it.

The South Boston horse railroad was running cars on Friday, with a number of their oldest and most reliable drivers and conductors, who refused from the start to join in the strike, and some new men. There was much excitement and hooting, but no serious disturbance, the police arrangements being judicious and ample.

FROM "SOU'WEST GEORGY."

A Citizen of that Country Tells of a Friend Who Was a "Hummer on Chickens."

He was looking for a "Cinsunnater" paper. Several lay on the table, right under his eyes, but he seemed unable to see them. He scattered five hundred exchanges upon the floor in hopeless confusion, but he never once touched a "Cinsunnater" paper. I was busy. A correspondent wanted to know if the inhabitants of the land of Nod could properly be called noddera, and I was searching some records of Adamite days hoping to find the desired information. I might have pointed out the "Cinsunnater" paper, but I didn't, because I was vexed by the fellow's persistent scratching among the exchanges. Just as I was about to call the janitor to put him out, he picked up a copy of a pamphlet sent out by the Georgia Poultry and Pet Stock union. He scanned its pages five minutes, I in the meantime reconsidering my intention to call the janitor.

"D'you ever know a feller by the name o' Smith?" he suddenly inquired with his right forefinger on the picture of a Shanghai rooster. "Absolum Smith was his full entitlements, but ev'ybody called him Ab for short. He lived down here in sou'west Georgy. He was a hummer on chickens. He had a chicken farm, biggest thing o' the kind in Georgy. He never made much money, though, 'cause the cholery had a way o' wackin' the life out o' his chickens fore they was ripe for market. He beat the world on 'speriments, an' some o' them had the most 'sprisin' results ever you heard tell of."

In the impressive language of the feminine novelists, I was "silent as the grave." The inhabitants of the land of Nod were still holding my close attention.

"Ab had a notion," continued the fellow, "that he could get up some sort o' new-fangled fowels by settin' a hen on a duck egg. He tried it, but it was a pow'ful long time 'fore the hen got done settin'. I disremember 'zactly how long 'twas, but 'twas nigh onto four months. When she did git done there come out o' the eggs a fowel that was chicken on one side an' duck on t'other."

"What became of the monstrosity?" I asked, exhibiting feeble interest.

"Why," he replied, "when the fowel was three weeks old the duck part was bigger than the chicken part. One day the two parts had a fight. The duck part wanted to go an' swim in a pond o' water an' the chicken part didn't. The duck part bein' bigger, pulled the chicken part into the pond an' drowned it. I don't know what become o' the duck part."

I returned to the inhabitants of the land of Nod.

"There was another 'speriment tried by Ab," said the fellow, taking a fresh start, "an' it was a success. He took a hen and stripped all the feathers off o' her. Then he set her on the biggest egg he could find. In 'zactly three weeks an' three days she hatched out a chicken that didn't have a sign o' feathers on it, an' what's more, it never has had. When the weather gits cold he wraps the chicken up in red flannel rags."

The inhabitants of the land of Nod ceased to interest me. I turned around and listened.

"Ab had a common Georgy rooster," continued the fellow, "that was a curiosity. It had three legs. Ab 'lowed he'd try a 'speriment with it. He got a dozen eggs, put 'em in a nest, an' tied the rooster down over 'em. In about four weeks the twelve eggs was twelve roosters, an' I'll be everlastin'ly besmoodled if they didn't ev'y one o' 'em have three legs. They was the most cur'ous fowels ever I saw."

"Did Ab try any other experiments?" I asked.

"Oh, yes," was the reply, "he beat the world on 'speriments. He had an old hen that was always wantin' to set on sweet potaters. She'd leave a nest o' eggs any day in the week to set on sweet potaters. Ab got tired o' puttin' up with her foolishness, an' so one day in Jan'ry he put her to settin' on two dozen sweet potatoes. Long about the middle o' May Ab went an' looked at her. She was way up in the air, about a foot an' a half from the ground. She'd hatched a tremenjous lot o' the grow out o' the sweet potaters, an' they'd pushed her up. They weren't such very big vines, sort o' slips, you know. Ab give 'em away to his neighbors, 'cause he was 'frald if he planted 'em hisself, they'd come up chickens."

The fellow put down the pamphlet of the Georgia Poultry and Pet Stock Union, and began again to scratch among the exchanges in search of the "Cinsunnater" paper.

"Say, my friend," I inquired, "from what part of the world are you?"

"I'm from down here in sou'west Georgy," he replied.

"Are there many more there like you?"

"A right smart consider'ble lot o' 'em."

"Are they acquainted with Ab?"

"Say," he said, not replying to the question, "there's one o' Ab's 'speriments I was about to forgit. There was a feller up here in Atlanta, a railroad feller, that had a chicken farm. He heard o' Ab, an' sent him an egg he said come from China. Ab put a hen to settin' on it, but she couldn't hatch it. Then he tried another, an' another, an' another, until he'd tried all the hens he had but one. That last hen was 44 years old. She'd passed through the war, an' had been hunted 'round by nearly ev'ry soldier in Sherman's army. She was tough. She was accidentally shot in the head with a musket once, but it didn't phase her. I disremember 'zactly, but it seems to me I heard she was in a barn once that was burned down. She come out just a little bit scorched. Oh, she was tougher'n a

A CHILD'S SKIN.

Ears and Scalp Covered with Eczematous Scabs and Sores Cured by Cuticura.

MY little son, aged eight years, has been afflicted with Eczema of the scalp, and at times a great portion of the body, ever since he was two years old. It began in his ears, and extended to his scalp, which became covered with scabs and sores, and from which a sticky fluid poured out, causing intense itching and distress, and leaving his hair matted and tangled. Underneath these scabs the skin was raw, like a piece of beefsteak. Gradually the hair came out and was destroyed, until but a small patch was left at the back of the head. My friends in Peabody know how my little boy has suffered. At night he would scratch his head until his pillow was covered with blood. I used to tie his hands behind him, and in many ways tried to prevent his scratching; but it was no use, he would scratch. I took him to the hospital and to the best physicians in Peabody without success. About this time, some friends, who had been cured by the CUTICURA RE EDIES, prevailed upon me to try them. I began to use them on the 16th of January last. In seven months every particle of the disease was removed. Not a spot or scab remains on his scalp to tell the story of his suffering. His hair has returned, and is thick and strong, and his scalp as sweet and clean as any child's in the world. I cannot say enough to express my gratitude for this wonderful cure by the CUTICURA REMEDIES, and wish all similarly afflicted to know that my statement is true and without exaggeration. CHARLES MCKAY,

Oct. 6, 1885. Peabody, Mass.

I have seen Mr. McKay's boy when badly affected with the Eczema. He was a painful sight to look at. I know that he has tried our best physicians, and did all a father could do for a suffering child, but availed nothing. I know that the statements he has made you as regards the curing of his boy by your CUTICURA REMEDIES are true in every particular.

WILLIAM J. MCCARTHY,
33 Foster St., Peabody, Mass.

A Word About Catarrh.

"It is the mucous membrane, that wonderful semi-tissue, the fortress surrounding the delicate tissues of the air and food passages, that Catarrh makes its stronghold. Once established, it eats into the very vitals, and renders life but a long drawn breath of misery and disease, dulling the sense of hearing, trammelling the power of speech, destroying the faculty of smell, tainting the breath, and killing the refined pleasures of taste. Insidiously, by creeping on from a simple cold in the head, it assaults the membranous lining and envelops the bones, eating through the delicate coats and causing inflammation, sloughing and death. Nothing short of total eradication will secure health to the patient, and all alleviatives are simply procrastinated, suffering lengthening to a fatal termination. SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE, by Inhalation and by Internal administration, has never failed, even when the diseases has made rightful inroads on delicate constitutions, hearing, smell and taste have been recovered, and the disease thoroughly driven out."

SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE consists of one bottle of the RADICAL CURE, one box CATARRHAL SOLVENT, and one IMPROVED INHALER, neatly wrapped in one package, with full directions; price, $1.00.

It is a Curious Fact

That the body is now more susceptible to benefit from medicine than at any other season. Hence the importance of taking Hood's Sarsaparilla now, when it will do you the most good. It is really wonderful for purifying and enriching the blood, creating an appetite, and giving a healthy tone to the whole system. Be sure to get Hood's Sarsaparilla, which is peculiar to itself.

A Great Failure.

District Assembly 49, Knights of Labor, which has been running the great strike of coal handlers and 'longshoremen, working on the piers of New York, ordered the stationary engineers and brewery workmen to strike on the 11th inst., but so far as could be ascertained not a man obeyed. Freight was being handled as satisfactorily as ever on the railroad and steamboat piers on the 11th; many of the union men had returned to work, and many more would have been glad to, but would not be received. The strike is a disastrous fizzle.

MARITIME NOTES.

The ship Grandee, of this port, Evans master, sailed from Hong Kong on the 5th ult. for New York.

The ship South American, of Boston, commanded by Capt. Geo. Wallace Tucker, formerly of this city, arrived in New York on the 9th inst., eighty-seven days from Calcutta. Capt. Tucker some ten or twelve years ago, when in command of the ship North American, of Boston, made the quickest passage ever accomplished between San Francisco and Liverpool, beating the next best passage ever made between those ports, either before or since, by a wide margin. He was sent to Calcutta some months ago by steamer, on short notice, to bring home from that port the South American, whose former captain had been obliged to relinquish the command on account of sickness.

The Gloucester fishing schooner A. R. Crittenden, Graham master, arrived in the lower harbor on Friday morning, the 11th inst., from Fortune Bay, with 300,000 frozen herring for bait, and opened her hatches to dispose of her cargo to the vessels fishing out of this port.

The French schooner Mary Amelia, Bishop master, was lying in the lower harbor on the 11th, awaiting orders from the agent. She is from Fortune bay for Boston with 300,000 frozen herring, and was sighted off Boon island on the morning of the 8th inst. with a signal of distress in the rigging, the captain not knowing where he was, and the vessel being leaking at the rate of 200 strokes an hour. Mr. William Williams, firs assistant keeper of Boon island light, went on board and piloted him into the lower harbor.

The receipts of fish at this port on Wednesday and Thursday of this week were as follows: Schooner Northern Eagle, 8,000 lbs.; Golden Rule, 13,000; Edith Conley, 20,000; Light Wing, 1,000; Anna H. Mason, 2,000; Josie Johnson, 2,000; Flora Temple, 500; Emerald, 5,000; Helen F. Tredick, 1,500; Bertha M. Miller, 11,000.

The schooners E. A. Williams, Abbie A. Snow and Emerald, which have been fishing out of this port this winter with gill-nets, have discarded them for trawls. The E. A. Williams arrived on Thursday from Gloucester, where she had been to put out her nets, and took on board seven dories furnished by E. Newton & Co.

The fishing schooner Bertha M. Miller, Miller master, on Thursday, the 10th inst., landed what the fishermen and fish dealers say was the handsomest fare of cod ever brought in here, all taken from the trawls that day. Out of a little over 11,000 lbs. of fish weighed out there were less than twenty-five pounds of what are called "market" fish, all the rest being fine steak cod.

The bill prohibiting off-shore mackerel fishing during the spawning season has been passed by the national senate.

The schooner Bertha M. Miller, while endeavoring to make a berth at Commercial wharf on Thusday afternoon last, hit Seaward's rock, which is eternally getting in the way of the fishing vessels, and stuck there until the rising tide floated her off.

On the afternoon of the 9th inst. there was a collision of two teams on Water street, near South School street. One of the teams, belonging to Mr. Thomas Hayward of Newcastle, was standing at the side of the street, and was run into by the other, which was being steered by two jovial fishermen whose vessel had just weighed out a big fare at bang-up prices. Mr Hayward's sleigh was made into kindling wood, suitable for use in a parlor stove; the other team escaped serious damage.

ANOTHER SUDDEN DEATH.

Hardly a week passes without the mention by the newspapers of sudden deaths, and of late the alarming frequency of the statement that death was caused by rheumatism or neuralgia of the heart cannot fail to have been noticed. In all probability many deaths attributed to heart disease are caused by these terrible diseases, which are far more dangerous than is generally considered. Is there any positive cure? The best answer to such a question is given by those who have been cured by the use of Athlophoros.

Dover, N. H., March 23, 1886.

I have for years suffered with muscular rheumatism in back of my head, neck and arms; the pain was intense and seemed to grow steadily worse. I used two bottles of Athlophoros and it brought relief almost immediately. I believe Athlophoros to be a pure, honest medicine, and there is no question it will certainly cure rheumatism.

MRS. F. KENNEDY, Orchard Street.

Chicopee, Mass., May 23, 1886.

I have suffered for over five years with muscular rheumatism, being treated by several physicians, besides taking numberless remedies; the doctors could not cure me and the different medicines gave me no relief. There was one remedy I had not tried—Athlophoros. I bought three bottles of it, taking them according to directions. I commenced at night before retiring. The next morning, after a good night's rest, I was perfectly free from pain. My rheumatism went and has never returned. Athlophoros effected a cure in my obstinate case and I believe it will in that of any one suffering with rheumatism or neuralgia.

G. E. LEWIS.

Every druggist should keep Athlophoros and Athlophoros Pills, but where they cannot be bought of the druggist the Athlophoros Co., 112 Wall St., New York, will send either (carriage paid) on receipt of regular price, which is $1.00 per bottle for Athlophoros and 50c. for Pills.

For liver and kidney diseases, dyspepsia, indigestion, weakness, nervous debility, diseases of women, constipation, headache, impure blood, &c., Athlophoros Pills are unequaled. 2

THE OLD INSURANCE AGENCY,

AT THE OLD STAND,

No. 13 Pleasant Street,

PORTSMOUTH, N. H.

To my Old Customers and Friends. Are you insured? When your home or other property is being consumed by a raging fire, a good insurance policy is a great comfort. The subscriber, with his experience of fifteen years, is now prepared to place your Insurance in the Insurance Companies of New Hampshire, and in Companies organized in other States. No one can place your Insurance better or safer!

NOTE.—Mr. Ilsley, my late copartner, still states in his published card, that he purchased of me all my right to the "Fire Insurance Business of our late firm." I have heretofore denied this statement. He never offered to buy of me the business or goodwill of the firm, and I never offered or even thought of selling out my business. I hired our old office, and advertised to carry on the business in all its branches, weeks before a final settlement. Now, if he has a bill of sale, bond or any agreement whereby I conveyed to him any rights to the goodwill of the old firm or any rights to do a Fire Insurance Business in New Hampshire with old or new customers, let him prosecute me for a breach of contract, or cease publishing or repeating his false statement. I am ready to meet this issue in any court of justice. I make this statement in justice to my customers and friends and to vindicate my own integrity.

ROBBERY IN KITTERY.

The Globe Grocery Co.'s store at Kittery was burglarized on the night of the 10th inst., and about fifty dollars stolen. Suspicion rested on a young man, who, on being confronted, confessed the crime and returned the money. Entrance was effected to the store by breaking a window. The youth has been arrested, and held in $100 for trial before the supreme judicial court for York county.

FIFTY YEARS AGO.

"A catalogue of the officers and students of the Portsmouth male high school, New-Hampshire, for the fall term, 1837," printed by Thomas J. Whittem, has been handed to us by Mr. Charles W. Marden of Greenland. From it we learn that the board of school committee that year consisted of Hon. Abner Greenleaf, chairman, William D. Little, Esq., and James W. Emesy, Esq., the latter being secretary of the board. The instructors were Chandler E. Potter, principal, Charles H. Mendum, assistant in English, and Joseph H. Potter, assistant in Latin and English.

The catalogue announces that "Lectures are given by the principal, upon the various sciences pursued in the school," and that "Any one wishing to obtain a liberal education, can pursue a course of study preparatory for entering any of the New England colleges." Also that "Geological and botanical excursions are frequently made, under the direction of the principal, during the spring, summer and fall terms," a much better plan than to have the pupils go off on botanical excursions of their own about strawberry or green apple time, as it is alleged some schoolboys of the present day occasionally do.

The male high school that year numbered sixty-four pupils, which the catalogue mentioned as "The largest number of scholars that can be received," their names being given below:

GAS CO. ELECTION.

At the annual meeting of the stockholders of the Portsmouth Gaslight Co., held this week, Messrs. John Sise, John J. Pickering, Joseph W. Peirce, William W. Cotton and Harrie W. W. Jackson were chosen directors; John Sise, president; Frank J. Philbrick, treasurer and clerk; Thomas R. Martin, superintendent.

AN OLD ENGRAVING.

Hon. John Dame of this city has in his possession a very old engraving, the important part of which is a half-length portrait enclosed in a circle, a Latin inscription on which proclaims the picture to be a true likeness of Richard Baxter, the non-conformist preacher who died in England in 1691, and who was author of the "Saints' Rest," "Call to the Unconverted" and other theological works which are still read by thousands of people. The picture was probably printed not long after his death, and looks as if it might have been printed a hundred or two years before. Within the circle enclosing the portrait is a representation of a handbill pinned to a pillar, and bearing the following words: "Thy benignity is better than life. Ps. 63:3." This quotation was evidently taken from some other version of the bible than the one (King James') now in common use among all Protestant sects, as in that the passage reads "Thy loving kindness is better than life."

Of Baxter's nobleness of character and devotion to principle there can be no question; but he was by no means a handsome man, if this picture is what it claims to be, a true likeness. The ancient idea that christianity was inseparably connected with gloom and death, as exemplified by carving on the gravestones of the most pious men and women the most hideous devices—the skull and crossbones preferred—is illustrated in this picture of the good and pure preacher, the circle enclosing his likeness being represented as standing on a sarcophagus which bears an inscription as follows:

Farewell VAINE WORLD: as thou hast bin to me
DUST and a SHADOW: those I leave with thee:
The unseen VITALL SUBSTANCE I committ
To him that's SUBSTANCE, LIFE, LIGHT, LOVE to fit.
The LEAVES & FRUIT are dropt, for soyle & seed,
Heavens heirs to generate: to heale and feed:
Them also thou wilt flatter and molest,
But shalt not keep them Everlasting Rest.

This old engraving is quite an interesting curiosity, and the work, though coarsely done, was done faithfully; and though the paper on which it is printed is brown with age, every line of the picture is as distinct as when it was struck off.

NAVY YARD ITEMS.

Capt. Robert F. Bradford, U. S. N., of this city, for some time past captain of the Portsmouth navy yard, and since the death of Commodore Johnson acting commandant of the yard, has been ordered to the permanent command. The selection is as judicious as could be made. Capt. Bradford's energy, efficiency and devotion to the interests of the service are not second to those of any officer of the navy, and he justly enjoys the esteem and respect of our citizens, as well as the confidence of the navy department.

Asst. Engr. John W. Annan has been detached from the Portsmouth navy yard, and ordered to the Richmond. Passed Asst. Engr. Arthur Price has been ordered to the yard.

RAILROAD LEASES IN NEW HAMPSHIRE.

The Portsmouth correspondent of the Boston Advertiser makes the following statement:

Several leading lawyers of the state are of opinion that it is by no means certain that the leases of the Boston, Concord & Montreal railroad and the Northern railroad company, to the Boston & Lowell railroad, sought to be set aside in a suit pending in Merrimac county, will be held to have been legally made.

The case is under advisement of Chief Justice Doe, who perhaps will astonish the suitors in an opinion on the question next month. If the act under which the leases are made is held to be inconsistent with the rights of minority stockholders, it will create no little disturbance in railway circles. The Boston & Maine railroad, with a legal lease or union with the Eastern railroad company, which is only a Massachusetts corporation, to which was leased the Eastern railroad in New Hampshire, which corporation as agent of the Eastern, in turn leased the Portsmouth & Dover and the Portsmouth, Great Falls & Conway railroad, may stand well enough, and preserve its new relations without friction, and perhaps without additional legislation next June.

With the Boston & Lowell railroad the case is far different, and after its extensive outlays on its leased lines in New Hampshire, to reach some of which the B. & L. has to traverse the length of the Concord railroad, it will doubtless be a frigid day to the trunk road should the court hold that it has been too previous in taking these leases. One of the judges who heard the case in the lower court and who allowed the transfer to the law term, Judge Carpenter, does not sit in this hearing, nor does Judge Bingham, who was counsel before the legislature when the act passed, nor Judge Blodgett, who has been counsel for the Northern railroad company. It is a case containing all these important intricacies with which the comprehensive mind of the eminent chief justice delights to grapple. The opinion is anticipated with much interest by the profession in and without the state.

The funeral of Mrs. Mary W. Moran took place Thursday afternoon at her late residence on Miller avenue, Rev. W. H. Alden, D. D., officiating. There were present eight of her ten children, seven sons and the daughter, the other two sons residing at points too far distant to admit of their getting here in time for the funeral. The sons officiated as pall bearers. There was a large attendance at the obsequies, and many beautiful floral tributes. Interment took place in the south cemetery.

The entertainment in Franklin theatre, Friday evening, by the Boston Opera Comique Co., was attended by a smaller audience than it merited, the rain and the extremely slippery condition of the sidewalks and streets no doubt keeping away many who otherwise would have attended. The piece, "Topsy Turvy," has just plot enough to introduce a large number of pleasing musical selections, and plenty of fun and ridiculous situations. Miss May Alice Vars was unable to appear, but her place was most acceptably taken by Miss Emma C. Tuttle, leading lady of Stetson's Mikado company, and a charming singer and actress. The singing and recitations were all good, the acting all that was required, and the entertainment as a whole very pleasing.

The number of deaths in Hampton last year was twenty, of which seventeen were of persons over seventy years of age. The population last year was 1,180, including 107 persons over seventy years of age.

A Great Victory

A Terrible Case of Scrofula Cured by

Hood's Sarsaparilla

"In the winter of 1879 I was attacked with Scrofula in one of the most aggravating forms. At one time I had no less than thirteen large abscesses over and around my neck and throat, continually exuding an offensive mass of bloody matter disgusting to behold, and almost intolerable to endure. It is impossible to fully describe my sufferings, as the case was complicated with Chronic Catarrh. After three years of misery, having been treated by three physicians, I was induced to try Hood's Sarsaparilla. And now, after having taken twelve bottles, within the last twelve months, the scrofulous eruptions have entirely ceased, and the abscesses have all disappeared, except the unsightly scars, which are daily becoming smaller by degrees, and beautifully less. I do not know what it may have done for others, but I do know that in my case, Hood's Sarsaparilla has proved an effective specific indeed. As an evidence of my gratitude I send these facts unsolicited, and I am ready to verify the authenticity of this cure, by personal correspondence with any one who doubts it." CHARLES A. ROBERTS, East Wilson, N. Y.

This statement is confirmed by W. J. Huntley, druggist, of Lockport, N. Y., who calls the cure a great victory for Hood's Sarsaparilla. Send for book giving statements of many cures.

right'ood cord. When she saw that egg she shook her head an' ruffled her feathers. She meant business. She set herself down on it an' got ready to stay. There's no tellin' how much earnestness she put into that settin'. She did her duty, an' don't you forgit it. She set on that egg six months, an' then she got up an' cackled. She'd hatched out a lock an' key."

"What!" I exclaimed, "she hatched out a lock and key?"

"Course she did," he replied, "she'd been settin' on a white door knob, an' what else but a lock and key could she hatch out?"

It is needless to add that I gave the fellow the "Cinsunnate" paper for which he was looking, and then immediately conducted him to the elevator.—Atlanta Constitution.

Billy Sellers, a traveling man, was waiting for the St. Louis girl he was going to take to the theater to put on her wraps. "Ah," said he, as he strayed toward the center table, "I see that some of your folks are admirers of the manly art. To whom do these boxing-gloves belong?" "Will you be kind enough to hand me my earmuffs which you have in your hand," she returned jelly. A chilliness then arose between them which has not yet been dispelled. —Merchant Traveler.

Indulgent Pa—"My daughter, it is a puzzle to me what you do with so much money. You haven't had on a new dress for a month, and yet you are shopping continuously." Petted Daughter—"Why, I've been buying underwear and such things." "With all that money?" "Why, of course, and I haven't half enough yet." "Well, it's a most incomprehensible mystery why a woman will spend so much money on articles of wear which no one ever sees but herself." "Why, you foolish pa. The clothes-line isn't in the house."

The Nobel Brothers, who have the monopoly of the oil production of the Caucasus, have in view the elimination of the American product. Prince Bismarck, who some years ago established a powder factory on his estate at Varzin, transferred it recently to the Nobel Brothers, with the essential proviso, however, that the dividends should be paid regularly.

CAPTAIN S. GREENWOOD,

Master of the Steamship Kanawha.

About a year ago he observed a strange change in his feelings. He felt tired instead of vigorous; nervous instead of strong. His appetite became poor and his sleep broken. He tried to overcome these feelings, but they would not go. He then noticed pains and irritation in the water channels, and that the fluids passed were often thick and with a scum on top or a brick-dust sediment at the bottom. All these were the sure symptoms of that fearful disease, Catarrh of the Bladder, which has always been most cried incurable, and they continued until his life became a terrible condition. But he is the picture of health and vigor, and has been it entirely so that wonderful medicine, Hunt's Remedy. Capt. Greenwood says: "I am so certain of the great value of Hunt's Remedy that I always carry a supply on shipboard for the use of my men, and I prescribe it whenever they are ailing. After curing me as it did, and restoring my wife, (whom the best physicians of New York said was dying of tumor,) to perfect health, I swear by it."

There is a serious question whether the disfranchisement of the Mormons by the Nevada legislature is constitutional, or in accordance with the American view of personal liberty. Polygamists might be disfranchised as offenders against the law, but simple believers in the Mormon church have the same rights as Jews or Christians. Zeal against an evil should not lead to the infraction of personal rights.

The Massachusetts legislature is considering whether it will change the Sunday laws or allow their systematic violation.

Don't Do It,

Said my physician, who for six months had doctored me for dyspepsia without success, when I told him I was going to try Sulphur Bitters, they will only make you worse. I did try them, and now I am a well man and can eat anything. Sulphur Bitters are a great foe to doctors. —George Bastett, N. Y. C. & H. R. Railroad.

Pike Stanton, about seventy years old, who for several years has lived at Alton, a remote and thinly settled portion of the town of Brookfield, was recently found dead in his house, the body lying on the floor beneath the bed, partially dressed and frozen stiff. In former years he had contributed many articles to the press upon agricultural subjects.

The best selling proprietary article in this section is Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Ladies all praise it and physicians recommend it.

Experience vs. Inexperience.

It is a matter of regret that in introducing Hood's Sarsaparilla, its proprietors are obliged to overcome a certain distrust by some people who have unfortunately bought worthless compounds mixed by persons ignorant of pharmacy. Messrs. C. I. Hood & Co. are reliable pharmacists of long experience, and they make no claims for Hood's Sarsaparilla which cannot be substantiated by the strongest proof. And we say to those who lack confidence, read the unsolicited testimonials in favor of Hood's Sarsaparilla, and then prove its merits by actual personal test. We are confident you will not be disappointed, but will find it a medicine of peculiar curative value, which can be implicitly relied upon.

—One of a gang of ice-cutters near Mount Carmel, Ill., cut out a block of ice on three sides and then laid a saw on it, remarking: "Some fool will go to pick up that saw, and in he'll go." He proved to be a prophet, for, forgetting his trick a few moments later, he himself stepped on the ice cake and went down in seven feet of water.

Another Diploma Mill.

Reports from Lewiston, Me., indicate that "Dr." Buchanan, of Pennsylvania, has been distanced in the special industry which he successfully prosecuted until oppressive law interfered with his personal liberty—the furnishing of ready made diplomas to alleged doctors, and degrees to clergymen, with no other trouble to the beneficiaries than the payment of a moderate fee, no foolish study, or knowledge of his profession on the part of the applicant, being required.

"Dr." James M. Buzzell of Portland, Me., and "Dr." Merrill of Lewiston, having been arrested for illegal practice, and both convicted of murder in the second degree, led to an enquiry as to how they became M. D.'s, and the investigation has developed a stupendous and cheeky fraud on the part of "Dr." Samuel Yorke of Lewiston, an alleged physician, who has carried on a wholesale traffic in diplomas and degrees, he representing himself to be at the head of the Maine Eclectic college, also of the Maine Eclectic infirmary, and dean of the Druidic university of America, which eminent institution of learning has a branch in Maine of which he has charge. It is said the learned "doctor" has graduated at least 5000 persons as A. M., M. D. or D. D.

The Beginning of the End.

The beginning of disease is a slight debility or disorder of some of the vital organs, the stomach, the liver or the bowels usually. There are dyspeptic symptoms, the liver is troublesome, the skin grows tawny and unhealthy looking, there are pains in the right side or through the right shoulder blade. The climax is often an utter prostration of the physical energies, perhaps a fatal issue. But if the difficulty is met in time with Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, which is always effective as a remedy, and it should be resorted to at an early stage, there will be no reason to apprehend those injurious subsequent effects upon the system often entailed by entirely cured diseases. Far better it is, also, to employ this safe remedial agent in fever and ague, and other malarial complaints, than quinine and other potent drugs, which, even when they do prove effectual for a time, ruin the stomach and impair the general health.

The total number of deaths by the Woodstock disaster, so far as has been determined, was thirty-seven, and two persons known to have been on the train are missing. Probably some bodies were incinerated, and very likely others were carried away by the current of the river. The exact loss of life can never be told with certainty.

"Young People's History of Ireland," by George Makepeace Towle, author of "Young People's History of England." Cloth, illustrated. Price, $1.50. Lee & Shepard, publishers, Boston. Although the Irish-American element occupies such an important place in our public and private schools, up to the present time Irish history has not been studied in any American school. Mr. Towle is eminently qualified to supply this want, and in the preparation of this work has brought the best resources of his skilled pen. Chapter one treats of the dim and vague legends which surround the institutions and customs of the races who preceded the Celts in the occupation of Ireland, and the successive chapters describe in interesting and vigorous language the heroic struggles and romantic events which mark Irish history down to August, 1886, when Gladstone and his colleagues resigned from the English parliament. A valuable chronological table of Irish history is given at the close of the book.

Don't Do It,

Said my physician, who for six months had doctored me for dyspepsia without success, when I told him I was going to try Sulphur Bitters, they will only make you worse. I did try them, and now I am a well man and can eat anything. Sulphur Bitters are a great foe to doctors. —George Bastett, N. Y. C. & H. R. Railroad.

The Buda-Pesther Journal urges Austria to attack Russia before the latter has completed her preparations on the lower Danube. It says: "War is inevitable, and it is better to begin fighting before the Balkan states have been Russianized. Austria would thus secure an alliance with Servia and Bulgaria, giving her 100,000 additional troops."

Les Miserables.

For what are we thankful? O, sages, declare
From your high, carven pulpits to suffering mind,
We list to the sermon, the anthem, the prayer,
The soft benediction—no answer is there
To the question we ask you: the chill autumn air
Blows the words to our faces again.

We battled at noontide with dust and with heat;
We sung and we jested to lighten our toil.
We hoped the drear winter with plenty to greet—
Ah! the mirage to near-fainting hearts was so sweet—
But empty our hands, bare and bleeding our feet;
The labor was ours, not the spoil.

The harvests are garnered; the myriad sheaves
That piled the wide fields, like gold from the mine,
Fill up the great barns from the floor to the eaves;
The grapes that grew ripe amid whispering leaves
Stain red, laughing lips, while a starving one grieves
Outside for the dregs of the wine.

For what are we thankful? For prisons and pain;
For the babes, murd'ring sleep with their famishing cries;
For the wind, the sleet, the hail, and the rain,
Blighting the dull life from the heart and the brain;
For the grave we at last in potter's field gain,
For the stone with its dole—but—I'm Margaret Holmes.

A SOLDIER'S PET.

Coffee had just been served, and the room was filled with smoke and that genial afterglow of pleasant reminiscent talk that always follows a good dinner where old friends have met, old friendships been revived, and old stories told. These men had been comrades in war, had served under the same flag, held the same political opinions, and suffered the same losses. It seemed pleasant now, after the lapse of years, to exchange experience from an easy chair, with the best of cigars in one's mouth and a bottle of wine at one's elbow. They enjoyed it keenly in their somber, middle-aged fashion; told their stories with gusto, drank their toast with enthusiasm, and listened to each other's talk with an eagerness of attention and a freshness of sympathy at once as novel as it was delightful. Innumerable changes were rung upon three themes, viz., "before the war," "the war," and "since the war." We of the new generation can easily imagine the style of talk.

Each had told his story, when our host turned toward me and said: "Well, Harrison, we are waiting for your story."

Harrison smiled deprecatingly, gazed into the fire, and then began the following in his soft, southern drawl: Well, my story happened when we were in Georgia, just outside of Marietta, and our mess consisted of six men—two Georgians, one Alabamian, a Virginian, myself, and a creole with a beautiful face and a tenor voice that would charm the birds from the trees, named, singularly enough, Orphee. We became a very tuneful set under his inspiration, and exchanged musical information with much generosity. Our favorite air was that famous camp song, "Tenting on the Old Camp Ground." You should have heard us sing it. Orphee's tenor, my baritone, and the three other fellows chiming in softly, until the very pine trees stopped whispering to listen, and the fire burned softly in admiration, and the war somehow did not seem so hard and cruel. Well, one dark night we were sitting around the fire, discussing with unwearied enthusiasm the prospects of the cause, when we heard irregular footsteps outside, and paused in our talk to listen.

"You can turn in here until further orders," said our Lieutenant's cheery voice, and a minute afterward a short, thickset man entered. He made an apologetic little bow, shook himself like a dog, and, taking off his large wide-awake, disclosed a dark, square face, with shy, dark eyes, blue-black hair, and a wide, firm mouth. He smiled tenderly, giving an air of great sweetness to an otherwise somber face. He sat down on a blanket, Turkish fashion, quietly hoped he was not disturbing us, and then dropped his eyes meditatively on the ground. Silence reigned. We were too disconsolate to be polite, and so listened uneasily to the slow, indefinite stirrings of the wind through the trees, when suddenly a new sound arose, as of stealthy, uncertain footsteps coming nearer and nearer. The newcomer pricked up his ears, and his face wore an expression almost approaching guilt. "A spy" was my first illogical conclusion as I rose to my feet and waited expectantly. The flap of the tent stirred slightly, cautiously; the wind rose and swept the darkened landscape; the rained poured down with a rush, as if to give a tragic significance to what was to happen, for—something did happen—the flap was suddenly pushed aside, and a goat walked in and went straight to the stranger, who received her with indescribable tenderness of look and gesture.

"A run go," said the Virginian, under his breath.

We all agreed, but contented ourselves with staring at the strange spectacle of a man and a goat fondling each other with uncouth marks of affection. After a while we resumed our lazy positions, and silently awaited further developments. The little man signed the goat to a remote spot, where she lay down, and then, turning towards us, said, as if taking up an unexpressed thought: "You see, boys, I could not help it if Nannie would follow me. I have been good to her, and she remembers it. I had to leave home secretly to escape her, and all through the journey I felt like a scoundrel, and now—well, here she is."

He stopped abruptly, without waiting for comment, and lay down with a short good-night. I lay awake several hours after the others, wondering idly as to the probable tie which bound the new-

A CHILD'S SKIN.

Ears and Scalp Covered with Eczematous Scabs and Sores Cured by Cuticura.

MY little son, aged eight years, has been afflicted with Eczema of the scalp, and at times a great portion of the body, ever since he was two years old. It began in his ears, and extended to his scalp, which became covered with scales and sores; and from which a sticky fluid poured out, causing intense itching and distress, and leaving his hair matted and lifeless. Underneath these scabs the skin was raw, like a piece of beefsteak. Or dually the hair came out and was destroyed, until but a small patch was left at the back of the head. My friends in Peabody know how my little boy has suffered. At night he would scratch his head until his pillow was covered with blood. I used to tie his hands behind him, and in many ways tried to prevent his scratching; but it was no use, he would scratch. I took him to the hospital and to the best physicians in Peabody without success. About this time, some friends, who had been cured by the CUTICURA REMEDIES, prevailed upon me to try them. I began to use them on the 13th of January last. In seven months every particle of the disease was removed. Not a spot or scab remains on his scalp to tell the story of his suffering. His hair has returned, and is thick and strong, and his scalp as sweet and clean as any child's in the world. I cannot say enough to express my grat itude for this wonderful cure by the CUTICURA REMEDIES, and wish all similary afflicted to know that my statement is true, and without exaggeration. CHARLES MCKAY,
Oct. 6, 1886. Peabody, Mass.

I have seen Mr. McKay's boy when badly affected with the Eczema. He was a pitiful sight to look at. I know that he has tried our best physicians, and did all a father could do for a suffering child, but availed nothing. I know that the statements he has made you as regards the curing of his boy by your CUTICURA REMEDIES are true in every particular.
WILLIAM J. MCCARTHY,

I do not know of any instance in which the Cuticura Remedies have failed to produce satisfactory results. I believe I have sold more of them than of any other skin remedies I have ever handled during the thirty-three years of my experience as a druggist.

A Word About Catarrh.

"It is the mucous membrane, that wonderful semi-fluid envelope surrounding the delicate tissues of the air and food passages, that Catarrh makes its stronghold. Once established, it eats into the very vitals, and renders life but a long drawn breath of misery and disease, quilling the sense of hearing, trammelling the power of speech, destroying the faculty of smell, tainting the breath, and killing the refined pleasures of taste. Insidiously, by creeping on from a simple cold in the head, it assaults the membranous lining and envelops the bones, eating through the delicate cells and causing inflammation, sloughing and death. Nothing short of total eradication will secure health to the patient, and all alleviatives are simply procrastinated, affording leading to a fatal termination. SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE, by Inhalation and by internal administration, has never failed; even when the disease has made frightful inroads on delicate constitutions, hearing, smell and taste have been recovered, and the disease thoroughly driven out."

SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE consists of one bottle of the RADICAL CURE, one box CATARRHAL SOLVENT, and one IMPROVED INHALER, neatly wrapped in one package, with full directions; price, $1.00.

The National Disease Downed.

Hundreds of so-called diseases under various names are the results of indigestion, and when this one trouble is removed the others vanish. The best known remedy for indigestion, according to thousands of testimonials, is one that has been used in the United States for more than fifty years—Brandreth's Pills. These Pills will cure the worst form of indigestion or dyspepsia, and by their use the national disease is easily conquered.

"Suspicion Always Haunts The Guilty Mind."

The Concord People and Patriot holds that "no man should go from the treasury department into the service of a national bank, because a suspicion of improper relations between the bank and the treasury management will be cherished in some quarters, if he does so." The trouble with the P. & P. is that it knows, when Manning goes out, the best head in the cabinet leaves the presence of the executive, and goes where its ability will be appreciated.

There will no doubt be kindly "relations" between the Manning bank and the Ex-Manning department. The deposits of public money may quite likely be thought safer under Daniel's guardianship than elsewhere. There are a number of prominent democrats who have taken stock in the new bank; indeed, the wish to subscribe was almost akin to the crush in London, when Allsop's ale brewing concern was changed to a stock company, and the public was allowed to participate in the diluted stock. Manning's bank shares were at forty per cent premium before the bank organized. But Manning is a reformer, you know.

The Boston Horse Railroad Troubles.

The back-bone of the South Boston horse railroad tie-up was broken on Friday, when nine cars were run for six and a half hours over the road at intervals of ten minutes, and about the usual amount of business done, the excellent preparations of the police preventing any serious outbreak by the rough element, which was what was feared, and not violence by the striking workmen. One lady, Mrs. Freeborn Adams, Jr., started in the first car from South Boston, and rode to Temple place, Boston, where she got out, saying to the conductor with a smile, "I've had a very pleasant trip." The subsequent trips were taken by many ladies.

A committee of the striking employes of the Cambridge horse railroad on Friday afternoon called at the office of the company, seeking a conference with the directors in regard to the strike. President Cummings asked them if they were applicants for work, and on their replying in the negative refused to have any more talk with them, and requested them to retire. The committee reported that they were fairly frozen out; that the directors refused to recognize them as an organized body, and totally ignored the position of Mr. Pike, chairman of the committee, as master workman of the Knights of Labor.

The Cambridge road started its cars running Saturday forenoon, to a limited extent; they were patronized to their full capacity, and there was no organized opposition. The South Boston road started its cars at 7:30 Saturday morning, and ran them through the day. No serious disturbance took place on either line, and the managers and striking employes of each line expressed the most absolute confidence of coming out ahead, though it is not easy to see how both sides can win.

The president continues to be embarrassed by the number of men in the country whose friends regard them as just the proper men to be designated as commissioners under the new interstate commerce law. The president has headed off the hungry out-going congressmen who will be out of a job in March, by declaring, with a big D., that he will not appoint to this position any member of the present congress. This is to his credit. Ex-Congressmen ought not to be appointed to offices of their creation.

A Washington despatch of the 11th says: Chairman Randall, finding that he cannot suppress the senate ordnance bill entirely, has graciously permitted the committee on appropriations to agree to report a substitute for the senate bills, appropriating $10,000,000 instead of the $21,000,000 appropriated by them. The house will probably consider the measure at once on its being called up, and an attempt to increase the appropriations to the amount fixed by the senate will probably succeed.

The Boston Globe is convinced that this democratic administration is not doing all it should in the way of extending proper postal facilities for New England. The Globe furnishes a bill of particulars which Mr. Vilas will do well to peruse.

MARITIME NOTES.

The steamer James Sampson pulled on the schooner Flying Dart, ashore on Rye beach, last Friday, and started her, but the northeast wind which was blowing at the time raised sea enough to stave in the temporary repairs which had been made, and let the schooner fill, so she was allowed to settle back in her old bed.

The fish arrivals at this port on Friday and Saturday were as follows: Schooner Mary E. Smith, 4,000 lbs.; Hattie N. Reed, 7,500; Lady Thorne, 7,000; Anna H. Mason, 1,500; John W. Caswell, 3,000; Blue Jay, 1,500; Lady Lincoln, 1,200; Franklin S. Schenck, 16,000; Albert Woodbury, 4,000; Fannie Reed, 3,000; A. C. Prices on Saturday ranged from $2 25 to $3 per hundred.

The fishing schooner Sylvester came into this port Saturday afternoon, having on board a man who had been taken violently ill that morning while the vessel was fishing in Ipswich bay. He was taken to the Cottage Hospital.

The schooner Agnes E. Downs, Downs master, of this port, carried 8000 lbs. of fish into Boston on Saturday, and sold her fare at $3 per hundred lbs. The price paid in this city on Saturday was $2.50 per hundred.

The schooner Lizzie J. Call has been chartered to take a cargo of pig iron from New York to Boston at $1.90 per ton. She was expected to sail on the 12th inst.

A LIQUOR BILL.

A bill in equity has been filed in the supreme court of Massachusetts for Suffolk county by William Ward of Portsmouth, N. H., and others, against Daniel E. Chase and others. The plaintiffs constitute the New England Distillers' Association, which is made up of seven concerns engaged in the business of distilling rum, and the object of the bill is to compel the defendants, who are members of the association, to account for certain sales of rum made in alleged violation of an agreement entered into between them and the plaintiffs, by the terms of which the parties, for the purpose of "preventing unnecessary and ruinous competition between the parties in the manufacture and sale of rum," agreed to limit the quantity of sum to be sold, and fix the price at which sales should be made. The bill alleges that the defendants have violated the agreement and sold greater quantities than they were allowed to do under the agreement, and the plaintiffs ask that the defendants be ordered to account to the association for such excess. Damages are claimed in the sum of $10,000. The defendants claim that the agreement is void because in restraint of trade.

ANOTHER SUDDEN DEATH.

Hardly a week passes without the mention by the newspapers of sudden deaths, and of late the alarming frequency of the statement that death was caused by rheumatism or neuralgia of the heart cannot fail to have been noticed. In all probability many deaths attributed to heart disease are caused by these terrible diseases, which are far more dangerous than is generally considered. Is there any positive cure? The best answer to such a question is given by those who have been cured by the use of Athlophoros.

Dover, N. H., March 23, 1886.

I have for years suffered with muscular rheumatism in back of my head, neck and arms; that pain was intense and seemed to grow steadily worse. I used two bottles of Athlophoros and it brought relief almost immediately. I believe Athlophoros to be a pure, honest medicine, and there is no question it will certainly cure rheumatism.

MRS. F. KENNEDY, Orchard Street.

Chicopee, Mass., May 23, 1886.

I have suffered for over five years with muscular rheumatism, being treated by several physicians, besides taking numberless remedies; the doctors could not cure me and the different medicines gave me no relief. There was one remedy I had not tried—Athlophoros. I bought three bottles of it, taking them according to directions. I commenced at night before retiring. The next morning, after a good night's rest, I was perfectly free from pain. My rheumatism went and has never returned. Athlophoros effected a cure in my obstinate case; and I believe it will in that of any one suffering with rheumatism or neuralgia.

Insurance Notice.

THE OLD INSURANCE AGENCY,

AT THE OLD STAND,

No. 13 Pleasant Street,

PORTSMOUTH, N. H.

To my Old Customers and Friends. Are you insured? When your home or other property is being consumed by a raging fire, a good insurance policy is a great comfort. The subscriber, with his experience of fifteen years, is now prepared to place your Insurance in the Insurance Companies of New Hampshire, and in Companies organized in other States. No one can place your Insurance better or safer!

NOTE.—Mr. Ilsley, my late copartner, still states in his published card, that he purchased of me all my right to the "Fire Insurance Business of our late firm." I have heretofore denied this statement. He never offered to buy of me the business or goodwill of the firm, and I never offered or even thought of selling out my business. I hired our old office, and advertised to carry on the business in all its branches, weeks before a final settlement. Now, if he has a bill of sale, bond or any agreement whereby I conveyed to him any rights to the goodwill of the old firm or any rights to do a Fire Insurance Business in New Hampshire with old or new customers, let him prosecute me for a breach of contract, or cease publishing or repeating his false statement. I am ready to meet this issue in any court of justice. I make this statement in justice to my customers and friends and to vindicate my own integrity.

JOSEPH P. MORSE,

Fire, Life & Accident Insurance Agent and Broker.

STAR JUVENILE TEMPLE.

Star Juvenile Temple, No. 4, a children's I. O. G. T., was organized in the Universalist vestry Saturday afternoon, Feb. 12th. The following officers were chosen:

Tommy Stackpole, C. T.;
Barbara Vogler, V. T.;
Ella Lowd, S.;
George Pettigrew, F. S.;
Grace Rand, A. S.;
Fred Lear, M.;
Nellie Sherman, D. M.;
Jimmie Pettigrew, T.;
Fannie Russell, R. S.;
Minnie Green, L. S.;
Arthur Gordon, Sentinel;
Fred Langdon, G.;
Louie White, Chaplain;
Frank Berry, P. C. T.

There are twenty charter members, there being in addition to the above Ida Bishop, Fred H. Clark, Annie DeCourcey, Carrie Hein, Eliza Russell and Bertha Russell. The members of the same Temple meet in the same vestry next Saturday afternoon at two o'clock for the initiation of candidates. L. H. Fisher, Supt of Temple.

COASTING ACCIDENTS.

Saturday forenoon, while some boys were having a fine time coasting on Russell street, one of their number, John Leary, the ten-years-old son of Cornelius Leary, ran foul of John Conlon's grocery team, which was proceeding along Market street, and had one of his legs broken. City Physician Berry was called, and attended to the patient. It is a matter of wonder to those who see the recklessness with which the boys coast in the streets, that more of them do not break themselves somewhere. Scores of them come very near getting killed, but we do not remember when any serious accident actually occurred in this city from this cause, until the one reported above.

Saturday evening, as a party of boys and one young damsel were sliding down Prospect hill at Christian Shore, on a double-ripper, they suddenly discovered —when too late for the discovery to be of any use—that Mr. Daniel D. Waldron had left his house out of doors over night, and that it had got exactly in the way of the swiftly-gliding sled. There was a collision. The sled shut itself up like a telescope, in pieces a foot long, and the boys were piled up against the building in such way that it took them several minutes to sort themselves out satisfactorily. There was no more coasting by the party that evening, though none of them were hurt.

The superb coasting down Lincoln hill was enjoyed on Saturday by a large assemblage of our youthful population. "Double-rippers" were in a large majority, and some of the heaviest made the coast extend far around into Richards avenue, while most of their confreres were content with the easier turn into Miller avenue. Many little ones also found opportunity to "air (?) their skates," on the tempting ice in adjacent fields. A party, with set torchlights, utilized the same grounds for healthful recreation on the night previous to the late thaw; but the coast is incomparably finer now.

POLICE COURT--HATCHELDER J.

SATURDAY, Feb. 12th.

John Lynch, Jr., drunk, fine $3, costs $6.90.

AN ICE PACK.

More ice came down the river with the ebb tide on Friday afternoon than has been known before for twenty years. About twenty feet of Dixon's wharf at Eliot was carried away by an enormous cake of ice, variously estimated, by those who saw it, to have been from twenty acres to two hundred in extent—a liberal margin for guessing, certainly. The huge cakes were packed against Portsmouth bridge at an early stage of the ebb tide, and by the time the navy yard workmen were ready to go home the pack was so solid and extended so far up the river that many of them had to walk all the way from the bridge to Eliot neck, four miles by the road, not being able to get through the pack with their boats.

A FINE PIECE OF WORK.

As handsome a plan as we ever saw was shown us on Saturday by Timothy Dame, Esq., of Eliot, Me., civil engineer, who made it. It is a plan of "Champernoun farm," a tract of land at Cutt's island, Kittery, including about 140 acres, and extending from the boundary of the Goodwin place, about a mile east of Pocahontas point, to Brave Boat harbor. The plan was made for John Thaxter, who owns the place, and who intends to sell a number of eligible lots for building sites, on the ridge along the sea shore. These lots, thirty-two in number, and having a frontage of about 100 feet each, are well elevated, and capable of being easily and thoroughly drained; and from each of them is to be had a wide view of the broad Atlantic. A private road (Oakland avenue) has been laid out in the rear of the lots, extending from the new town road on Gerrish's island to the ocean entrance of Chauncy's creek; and when the new railroad at Kittery Point is completed there can be found no more desirable spot for a summer residence by the deep blue sea than will be offered by Mr. Thaxter to the right class of seekers. The lots will be easily accessible, by rail or team, and at the same time free from all disagreeable surroundings.

PERSONAL.

Miss Morgan will give a reception at the Young Ladies' seminary on Wednesday evening from eight o'clock to eleven.

Wm. B. Trask of Erie, Penn., formerly resident in this city, is in town.

Ex-Gov Prescott, Governor-elect Sawyer, Ex-Senator (and according to the Journal, to be Senator-elect) Rollins, were in town on Saturday.

Hon. Frank Jones and wife left Washington on Friday, and arrived in Florida on Saturday.

WORKED HIS PASSAGE.

Among the passengers on the first car run over the Cambridge horse railroad from Harvard square, Cambridge, to Bowdoin square, Boston, Saturday morning, was Woodward Emery, Esq., formerly of this city, who is reported in the papers as having been one of those who, after paying their fare in due form, got off the car and pushed when the horses were stalled at the start. This reminds us of the Irishman who worked his passage on a canal boat from Albany to Troy, and was kept leading a canal horse all the way; and who afterward told a friend that "only for the name of the thing he had just as lief have walked!"

The question, "Shall we Pray?" was asked in the Universalist church yesterday, and thus answered, "Ask, and ye shall receive, that your joy may be fulfilled." John 16:24.

God is unchangeable; yet a direct answer to prayer from God does not imply any change in him nor in his ordinances, but simply that in prayer a certain instrumentality is used upon the exercise of which certain results will follow, which would not ensue without this agency.

It is a spiritual exercise upon the employment of which certain results are contingent. And that God should grant peculiar and direct blessings upon the touching of that one spring, that he will give in no other way, is no more a break in his established laws than that he should give a harvest when seed is sown.

How he answers prayer is not always clear to us; but is no more a mystery than the process which converts the kernel and the soil into the full corn in the ear,—than the connection between thought and action,—than the existence of God and the methods of his communication with the human soul. Within us he nourishes the still seeds of thought in the sunshine of reason and in the dew of prayer, and our joy is fulfilled.

YE CITY GOVERNMENT BUSY.

Saturday evening was a busy one for aldermanic committees at the city rooms. The committee on bills on their second reading were in session to consider Alderman Hodgdon's famous ordinance to abolish the canine element from our city, and to pass upon the bills increasing the pay of the police department and of city laborers. The committee on streets granted a hearing to petitioners for the removal of certain steps in front of No. 71 Pleasant street, which project dangerously upon the sidewalk; and the committee on street lights considered an application for a new electric light on Hanover street. The result of these grave deliberations will be made known at the session of the city government next Thursday.

Do not forget the St. Valentine's party at Congress hall this evening, in aid of the Children's Home; supper from six to eight o'clock, and dancing from 8:30 to eleven; music by Harlow's quadrille band; home-made candies, cake and ice cream. See advertisement.

M. Goodrich, corner of Daniel and Market streets, has a very complete assortment of valentines, artistic, sentimental, comic, and mixed, from which every one will be able to make a satisfactory selection.

The roads in the towns adjacent to this city were "a glare of ice" on Saturday. In the fields the snow was solidly encrusted, and the top of the crust veneered with ice, making difficult walking but splendid sliding. Teams from the country were very numerous in town, a number of loads of hay and many of wood being sold during the day on the Parade.

Rheumatism

It is an established fact that Hood's Sarsaparilla has proven an invaluable remedy in many severe cases of rheumatism, effecting remarkable cures by its powerful action in correcting the acidity of the blood, which is the cause of the disease, and purifying and enriching the vital fluid.

It is certainly fair to assume that what Hood's Sarsaparilla has done for others it will do for you. Therefore, if you suffer the pains and aches of rheumatism, give this potent remedy a fair trial.

A Positive Cure.

"I was troubled very much with rheumatism in my hips, ankles, and wrists. I could hardly walk, and was confined to my bed a good deal of the time. Being recommended to try Hood's Sarsaparilla, I took four bottles and am perfectly well. I cheerfully recommend Hood's Sarsaparilla as one of the best blood purifiers in the world." W. F. WOOD, Bloomington, Ill.

For Twenty Years

I have been afflicted with rheumatism. Before 1883 I found no relief, but grew worse. I then began taking Hood's Sarsaparilla, and it did me more good than all the other medicine I ever had." H. T. BALCOM, Shirley, Mass.

"I suffered from what the doctors called muscular rheumatism. I took Hood's Sarsaparilla and am entirely cured." J. V. A. PROUDFOOT, letter carrier, Chicago, Ill.

We shall be glad to send, free of charge, to all who may desire, a book containing many additional statements of cures by comer to the goat, but arriving at no solution.

From that night Parsons and his goat became a subject of never-ending speculation to the mess. He was very quiet and unobtrusive, never resenting, although contriving to evade impertinent questions, and bearing everything with a good-nature amounting to stupidity. As for the goat, she became the hapless butt of the whole division. We called her derisively "Miss Anna," treating her with an amount of mock consideration that made Parsons' eyes fairly glisten with appreciation.

The second night after their arrival we began to sing, as usual, when the Virginian rose, and in a speech, the delicate humor of which I shall not attempt to reproduce, begged that "Miss Anna's" rest should not be broken by our rude chanting. I shall never forget the broken, tender, deprecating little reply that came from Parsons, and how we consented at last to sing. His face was so rapt as he sat beating time with his forefinger and occasionally quavering out an effective "Dying-to-night, dying-to-night," which we sang as if our very life blood were ebbing away, that I began to realize the absolute unwarlike of ridiculing a perfectly innocent, unconscious man. I began to try and shield him from the funmakers and was finally joined by Orphee, who became his most ardent and eloquent partisan. As for Parsons, he grew almost to worship the handsome, sweet-voiced lad.

One luckless afternoon Parsons, Orphee and I strolled off together, leaving "Miss Anna" to the mercies of our mess, but, tormented by some vague presentiment of evil, I induced my companions to return a little earlier than they intended. As we neared the tent my ear caught the sounds of derision that came first from our Virginian and were then finally caught up by the others, and ended in peal after peal of laughter.

We pushed eagerly in. Alas! "Miss Anna" decked out in the most ridiculous toggery, had been tied between four stakes driven into the ground, and the men were engaged in pricking her with pine burrs until the poor animal fairly writhed in agony. In a minute we had freed her, and Parsons held the poor bleeding creature close to his breast. His small, square figure seemed to rise and dilate with a certain sense of superior power as he turned his blanched face and blazing eyes upon the crowd.

Dear Sir:—I feel it a pleasurable duty to extol your medicine in the very highest. I have been a sufferer from the dreadful disease dyspepsia from childhood, and very often after eating have vomited up the greater part of my victuals. About 3 months ago I was induced to try a bottle of your invigorator, which at once gave me relief, and I have not had a vomiting spell since. I feel like a new man, and am perfectly well. I have tried many medicines, but none had the least effect until I took your Invigorator. Hoping you may go on in your great work for suffering humanity, I am Truly yours,

The Beginning of the End.

The beginning of disease is a slight debility or disorder of some of the vital organs, the stomach, the liver or the bowels usually. There are dyspeptic symptoms, the liver is troublesome, the skin grows tawny and unhealthy looking, there are pains in the right side or through the right shoulder blade. The climax is often an utter prostration of the physical energies, perhaps a fatal issue. But it the difficulty is met in time with Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, which is always effective as a remedy, and it should be resorted to at an early stage, there will be no reason to apprehend those injurious subsequent effects upon the system often entailed by entirely cured diseases. Far better it is, also, to employ this safe remedial agent in fever and ague, and other malarial complaints, than quinine and other potent drugs, which, even when they do prove effectual for a time, ruin the stomach and impair the general health.

On Sunday a house in New Bedford, occupied by two Italian families took fire, but the blaze was soon extinguished. It was then found that the building was saturated with kerosene and part of the furniture packed for removal. Each family accuses the other of setting the fire, and makes other charges which will be investigated.

Don't Do It,

Said my physician, who for six months had doctored me for dyspepsia without success, when I told him I was going to try Sulphur Bitters, they will only make you worse. I did try them, and now I am a well man and can eat anything. Sulphur Bitters are a great foe to doctors. —George Bastett, N. Y. C. & H. R. Railroad.

A Jersey City despatch of the 14th says: The Pennsylvania railroad company has decided, in the anticipation of the return of the striking freight handlers, to retain the best of the non-union men, and have chosen ten whose names have been put on the regular payroll. It is said that two of the men graduated from one of the best known colleges in this country.

The National Disease Downed.

Hundreds of so-called diseases under various names are the results of indigestion, and when this one trouble is removed the others vanish. The best known remedy for indigestion, according to thousands of testimonials, is one that has been used in the United States for more than fifty years—Brandreth's Pills. These Pills will cure the worst form of indigestion or dyspepsia, and by their use the national disease is easily conquered.

A SOLDIER'S PET.

"You call yourselves gentlemen," he said, harshly, "you, who have tortured the poor, dumb, defenseless creature left in your care. Thank God, my meaning of the word is different! You have no excuse. You are all supposed to be men, and honorable men, men who are fighting for the rights of their country, and yet you can amuse yourselves with senseless cruelty such as you have practiced this afternoon. You have branded yourselves as cowards and liars, for" —his voice broke suddenly—"I trusted you."

There was an ominous, threatening stir in the little tent, and several men stepped toward the speaker, picturesque in his very unpicturesqueness, whose grotesque figure stood out sharply against the bit of landscape showing through the opening of the tent. But his face awed them back. The goat turned and moaned pitifully, rubbing her nose against Parsons' coat with mute insistence. His faced softened wonderfully; he seemed to forget the men, his anger, everything and he whispered to her in soft, caressing tones: "You have followed me through thick and thin, 'Miss Anna.' When the overflow came, and we were starving, it was you who struggled back to us through the water, and it was your milk that kept us alive. Everything depended then on your strength. We called our baby after you, and when the poor little one died it cut me cruelly—cruelly. Be brave, 'Miss Anna,' be brave," and putting his cheek on "Miss Anna's" head the tears fairly rolled out of his eyes.

He stopped a minute, drawing in his breath in short, quick little sobs, and threw out both hands with a forlorn gesture of abandonment.

"O, great God! I was so lonely when his wife and babies all were dead, and I loved 'Miss Anna' then; I love her now as the one relic left me of that beautiful, vanished past. Then the war came, and I tried to leave you, thinking it would be best, but you followed me, to be ridiculed, despised, and even tortured. All the conduct of the last week breaks over me, and I see what a blind fool I have been."

"Parsons, you are to go on picket duty to-night, and you had better start now," called in the voice of our Lieutenant. The men, now thoroughly ashamed of themselves, came nearer, and were about to offer some heartfelt words of apology, but Parsons turned away, and delivering "Miss Anna" over to Orphee said, pleadingly, "if anything should happen to me, you will take care of her."

Orphee's eyes filled with tears as he pressed the extended hand. Without another word or look Parsons strode out into the dark.

"We're brutes — cowardly brutes," said our Virginian, disgustedly.

"I would rather face a million Yankees than hear that man's story told in that voice again," said another.

That night was a weary one. We could not forget the solemn figure, the dark, patient face, the broken, harsh, tender voice, and the pines above and the river far away seemed to mingle their grief at our cowardice and brutality. Meanwhile "Miss Anna" slept peacefully on the best blanket of the mess, while we lay there speechless, thoughtful, unhappy, even the greater issue of the war momentarily forgotten.

With the dawn came action. The Yankees were upon us, and we fought like wildcats. As evening came on the fight was suspended, and when our mess met everybody was there, "Miss Anna" included, except Parsons. We had made up a scheme to beg his forgiveness and to swear to be gentlemen, at least. Each of us had a separate speech of apology to make, expressive of shame and contrition. When night settled down, and Parsons did not appear, we grew anxious and sat silently around, not daring to breathe the great fear uppermost in our minds. "Miss Anna," too, walked up and down uneasily, sniffing the air and rubbing her nose against my convenient shoulder. As we sat thus, our lieutenant called in to me: "Harrison, step here a minute." I arose and went out a little unsteadily. "Parsons was hurt last night on guard, and has asked to see you. Go now; there isn't much time. I'm afraid." He turned to lead the way.

"No use," he answered shortly, as Orphee's stricken face appeared in the doorway.

Well, I followed him to the rude hut selected for our hospital. It was lighted by torches, and the surgeons were busy with the men who had fallen in that day's fight. In the farthest corner of the room lay Parsons. I knelt down by him and took his hand. He smiled faintly, reassuringly, and whispered: "It's not so hard—it was so quick, you know—just a flash, a burn, and then a dull pain. Only I lay there so long, Harrison, that I thought everything very clearly out, and I'm sorry. How could those fellows know? I am afraid I lost my temper. I'm such a devil of a fellow when I lose my temper," he said, pathetically, "and, Harrison, I beg your pardon, old fellow—but Miss Anna?" His eyes apologized amply for his inquiry, and I went in search of the men and their charge. They followed me eagerly, and we unconsciously fell into a procession and moved through the door with "Miss Anna" in our midst. It must have been a strange sight, a half-dozen men and a goat marching up the aisle of the rude cabin, but to the credit of human nature be it said, nobody laughed or seemed to observe the humorous side of the situation.

"Miss Anna!"

The voice broke like a sob across the stillness, and the faithful friend pressed close to her master's side. The strong

A CHILD'S SKIN.

Ears and Scalp Covered with Eczematous Scabs and Sores Cured by Cuticura.

MY little son, aged eight years, has been afflicted with Eczema of the scalp, and at times a great portion of the body, ever since he was two years old. It began in his ears, and extended to his scalp, which became covered with scabs and sores, and from which a sticky fluid poured out, causing intense itching and distress, and leaving his hair matted and lifeless. Underneath these scabs the skin was raw, like a piece of beefsteak, or duality the hair came out and was destroyed, until but a small patch was left at the back of the head. My friends in Peabody know how my little boy has suffered. At night he would scratch his head until his pillow was covered with blood. I used to tie his hands behind him, and in many ways tried to prevent his scratching; but it was no use, he would scratch. I took him to the hospital and to the best physicians in Peabody without success. About this time, some friends, who had been cured by the CUTICURA RE EDIES, prevailed upon me to try them. I began to use them on the 15th of January last. In seven months every particle of the disease was removed. Not a spot or scab remains on his scalp to tell the story of his suffering. His hair has returned, and is thick and strong, and his scalp is sweet and clean as any child's in the world. I cannot say enough to express my gratitude for this wonderful cure by the CUTICURA REMEDIES, and wish all similar afflicted to know that my statement is true and without exaggeration. CHARLES MCKAY,
Oct. 6, 1885. Peabody, Mass.

I have seen Mr. McKay's boy when badly affected with the Eczema. He was a pitiful sight to look at. I know that he has tried our best physicians, and did all a father could do for a suffering child, but availed nothing. I know that the statements he has made you as regards the curing of his boy by your CUTICURA REMEDIES are true in every particular.

WILLIAM J. MCCARTHY,
38 Poetry St., Peabody, Mass.

A Word About Catarrh.

"It is the mucous membrane, that wonderful semi-fluid contrivance covering the delicate tissues of the air and food passages, that Catarrh makes its stronghold. Once established, it eats into the very vitals, and renders life but a long-drawn death of misery and disease, dulling the sense of hearing, trammelling the power of speech, destroying the faculty of smell, tainting the breath, and killing the refined pleasures of taste. Insidiously, by creeping on from a simple cold in the head, it assaults the membranes lining and envelops the bones, eating through the delicate coats and causing inflammation, sloughing and death. Nothing can stay the general conflagration will secure health to the patient, and all air-vivalves are simply procrastinated, sufferings, leading to a fatal termination. SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE, by Inhalation and by Internal administration, has proved a boon to many; even when the disease has made frightful inroads on delicate constitutions, hearing, smell and taste have been recovered, and the disease thoroughly driven out."

SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE consists of one bottle of the RADICAL CURE, one box CATARRHAL SOLVENT, and one IMPROVED INHALER, neatly wrapped in one package, with full directions, price, $1.00.

Rejected Proposals.

The officials of the South Boston horse railroad and its striking employes rejected the proposals of each for a settlement on Sunday. The company offered to fill all vacancies with the strikers, and submit all the matters in dispute to the state board of arbitration; but this would mean the retention by the road of its new men, and was promptly rejected by the strikers. The strikers offered to accept the proposal of the company, provided all strikers were put on the cars they were on before the strike; but this would mean the discharge of all the new men, and was promptly rejected by the company.

Dissatisfied With Their Rulers.

In New York city on Sunday the Brewers' Union had a very full meeting, at which the members were outspoken against the leaders of District Assembly 49, Knights of Labor, and said they could not understand why the brewers, of all the trades, had been ordered to help bolster a falling cause at the eleventh hour. Mr. Herberandt, secretary of the National Brewers Union, expressed the belief that the strike had been most wofully mismanaged from the start, and was doomed to disastrous collapse from its inception. The brewers would not strike because they were earning good wages and would not risk these advantages, besides breaking their contract, when the result would only be an addition to the common loss. Resolutions embodying these opinons were adopted, and this action was supplemented by an official determination that the brewers' organization should withdraw its delegates from District Assembly 49, which is practically secession from that body. The beer drivers' organization at a meeting in the same hall later in the day, took action identical with that of the Brewers' Union.

Delegations from all the 'longshoremen's unions of New York, Brooklyn and Jersey City had a convention in New York on Sunday afternoon. The men were in conference four hours, and they decided not to return to work save at forty cents per hour, day work, and sixty cents per hour for overtime. One ship owner was present and agreed to set 125 men at work at once at forty and sixty cents, pending a permanent adjustment of prices, but with the understanding that if the general scale became thirty-five and forty-five cents his work should be then done by the men at the same rates. This proposition was accepted. A strong undertow of feeling was developed against the union managers who led the men into the late strike.

So Great of a Lion.

"Two big copper cents, issued in 1817," says the Philadelphia Call, "are among the rarest in the coin collection of the Philadelphia mint. These have the liberty head well defined, but on the top of the head, over the liberty cap, is a small protuberance, which, under the microscope, appears as a crown. This was cut in the die by an English engraver, who thus covertly set the British crown over the American liberty head." It is more commonly known that the back hair of the maiden who represents Liberty on our standard silver dollars is done up in semblance of a lion's head when viewed upside down. As it is also the work of an English artist, the lion may be taken for a British lion. The engraver, however, was considerate enough to put the animal under Liberty's cap, which acts in a measure as a cage or an extinguisher, although the fierce creature shows a disposition and an ability to get out and roar at almost any time, the maiden's attention being attracted in another direction.—Boston Advertiser.

We have looked very carefully at a standard silver dollar to find the alleged lion, and have come to the conclusion that the fierce creature has not only got out of his cage, but has run away. If he is still there he is but a poor representation of the British lion, that quadruped having never been backward in making his presence a pronounced feature of anything he takes part in.

What One Sailor Believes In.

Rear Admiral James E. Jouett, U. S. N., is quoted as saying: "We are sure to have a war within ten years, and that is but a short time to prepare for its coming. I do not think the construction of a line of fortifications along our coasts would be the best means of repelling the attacks of foreign invaders. What we want are fleets of monitors or floating batteries. These are the best coast defenders. They can be built so that they can turn in their own length by the use of four of the Kunstadter screws placed at right angles. With this class of vessels a foreign man-of-war, while lying off our coast, could be surrounded at night and literally annihilated. They would be practically invulnerable, and being flat-bottomed could, if necessary, elude pursuit by seeking shallow water."

Congressman Reed's mackerel bill, as passed by the senate last week, provides that for a period of five years from and after the first day of March, 1888, no mackerel, other than what is known as Spanish mackerel, caught between the first day of March and the first day of June, of each year, shall be imported into the United States or landed upon its shores. This if approved will stop the work of the southern mackerel fleet, so called, in the spring, at which time the fish are little better than frames.

—Railway president—"See here, I understand that after that last catastrophe you sent the survivors to their homes in distant states, and charged the expense to the company?" Conductor—"Yes, sir." "Do you suppose, sir, that this railroad is a benevolent society? What did you do that for? Give me an unanswerable reason at once, or your resignation, sir." "To prevent them from testifying before the coroner." "Resign, sir." "Why?" "I want you for superintendent."

—Kansas City young lady (to a young Englishman)—"Yes, Miss Sloe gets her beautiful dark eyes and raven hair from her great grandmother, who was the daughter of an Indian chief, you know. She has Indian blood in her veins." Young Englishman—"The blood of the Tudors and Plantagenets courses through my viens." Kansas City young lady—"Indeed; I don't know the tribes."

—A doctor of divinity was deliberating at a bad crossing in the street. An impatient person behind him called out, "Doctor, go ahead." The doctor replied, "That's just the thing I don't wish to do. I want to go afoot."

—De Garmo—"And how do you stand on evolution, Miss Brewster? Don't you believe man is descended from the monkey?" Miss Brewster—"Oh, yes, I think man is; but what puzzles me, Mr. De Garmo, is where woman came from."

Tradition teaches us that this is the holy time when coying doves mate, and the high-soaring lark seeketh his partner for the summer solstice. To come down to hard pan "a gentleman not unconnected with the indigo trade" [that is, he sails the blue water,] furnishes us his experience as follows: During the last three days one of his most exemplary hens has appeared with a ruff around her neck of the color that boys generally use to "paint the town;" his dog, after a short tour to one of the islands in the harbor, has reported with his starboard ear jettisoned, and his cat, (nomenclature Jacob Sharp,) after a still longer absence, claims admission to the domicile with a tail plentifully decorated with cockle-buttons, which he objects to having removed. The hog and the hand-sled are still to be reported upon.

—A short hand writer at Washington can report a speech with so much rapidity that the speaker finds it utterly impossible to keep up with him.

IT IS WONDERFUL

how easily rheumatism begins, and how insidiously it grows in the system, until one is startled to find himself its victim in either the acute or chronic form. He then learns the fearful tenacity of its grip and the utter powerlessness of the ordinary remedies to give relief.

Probably no no disease have physicians given more study, and none has more completely baffled their efforts to provide a specific; and until Athlophoros was discovered there was no medicine which would surely cure rheumatism, neuralgia and nervous or sick headache. Thousands of testimonials like the following prove beyond question that Athlophoros is the only reliable remedy, and that it will do all that is claimed for it.

Manchester, N. H., March 15, 1886.

One year ago while suffering with a rheumatic difficulty I was induced by friends of mine to try a bottle of Athlophoros, although I had little belief in anything of the kind, but, contrary to my expectations, it gave me immediate relief, and it is with pleasure that I can now recommend it to my acquaintances, feeling sure that they will find it the remedy of the age for such difficulties, as I had tried everything else with little or no relief.

PARK H. KELLY.

Northampton, Mass., May 21, 1886.

For relief from rheumatic pains and trouble, I believe your Athlophoros is infallible. For many years I have been subject to rheumatism in its worst forms. During my last siege of sickness I was induced to try Athlophoros and found it to be all it claimed to be, a cure for rheumatism.

THE OLD INSURANCE AGENCY,

AT THE OLD STAND,

No. 13 Pleasant Street,

PORTSMOUTH, N. H.

To my Old Customers and Friends. Are you insured? When your home or other property is being consumed by a raging fire, a good insurance policy is a great comfort. The subscriber, with his experience of fifteen years, is now prepared to place your Insurance in the Insurance Companies of New Hampshire, and in Companies organized in other States. No one can place your Insurance better or safer!

NOTE.—Mr. Ilsley, my late copartner, still states in his published card, that he purchased of me all my right to the "Fire Insurance Business of our late firm." I have heretofore denied this statement. He never offered to buy of me the business or goodwill of the firm, and I never offered or even thought of selling out my business. I hired our old office, and advertised to carry on the business in all its branches, weeks before a final settlement. Now, if he has a bill of sale, bond or any agreement whereby I conveyed to him any rights to the goodwill of the old firm or any rights to do a Fire Insurance Business in New Hampshire with old or new customers, let him prosecute me for a breach of contract, or cease publishing or repeating his false statement. I am ready to meet this issue in any court of justice. I make this statement in justice to my customers and friends and to vindicate my own integrity.

THE TEMPERANCE MEETING.

The meeting in the North church on Sunday evening attracted a very large congregation, the body of the house being filled. Rev. W. A. McGinley, Rev. Dr. Jasper, and Rev. Wm. H. Alden, D. D., took part in the opening exercises; Rev. Wm. P. Israel, who arrived after the meeting was opened, took a seat with the congregation. The address of the evening was by Mrs. Emily McLaughlin, who spoke under the auspices of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union, and made an earnest and convincing appeal in favor of total abstinence, and of constant and earnest endeavor on the part of every one to promote it.

THE PEIRCE PATENT STONE.

We take the following from the Morning News of Savannah, Ga., of date Feb. 10th:

The Peirce patent, with the plant and all the improvements on the lot at the foot of William street, near the canal, has been purchased by a syndicate of Savannah capitalists. The company will erect sheds and other buildings for the manufacture of a superior quality of artificial stone for all purposes, and sidewalk and building blocks of all kinds. Cemetery work will be made a specialty. The officers of the company will be announced in a few days.

This is the patent for an improved artificial building stone which is owned by Col. James S. Peirce of this city, and is considered by many to be the most practical invention of the kind yet introduced to the public. Col. Peirce went south last fall with the intention of selling state rights, and what he has disposed of is probably the right for Georgia, and not the entire patent.

MAY BUY THEM ALL.

The bill introduced in the Maine legislature to allow the Boston & Maine railroad to purchase certain connecting roads was before the railroad committee in a new draft last Thursday. No opposition was made to it, and it will probably be reported in a few days. The following is a portion of the bill:

The Boston & Maine railroad is authorized to acquire by purchase the road, franchises and property of the Eastern railroad company, and after such acquisition and purchase may also acquire by purchase the road, franchises and properties of any railroad corporations whose roads are operated in Massachusetts or New Hampshire, either by it or said Eastern railroad company, under lease, contract or through ownership of stock, and also of the following railroad corporations in the State of Maine, namely: the Portland, Saco & Portsmouth railroad, the Portland & Rochester railroad, the Portsmouth, Great Falls & Conway railroad, the Kennebunk & Kennebunkport railroad company, and the Orchard Beach railroad company. * * * After the purchases herein authorized, or any of them, said Boston & Maine railroad shall have and enjoy all the rights, privileges, franchises and property theretofore had and enjoyed by the corporation whose road, franchises and property it has purchased, and shall, with reference to said road, franchises and property, be subject to its duties, debts and liabilities.

PERSONAL.

Mrs. Nathaniel Downes of Kennebunk, Me., is in this city on a visit to her cousins, Mrs. Frank W. Miller and sisters.

Mrs. Martha Freeman of Portland, Me., and her daughter, Miss Annie Freeman, are visiting in this city with the family of Mr. W. Freeman.

Asst. Engr. John W. Annan, for some time past attached to the Portsmouth navy yard, and last week detached, left this city on Monday morning to join the flag-ship Richmond at New York.

Passed Asst. Surgeon Arthur C. Heffenger, U. S. N., is in town on a brief furlough from the new war ship Atlanta, which is making a cruise attached to the wharf at the Brooklyn navy yard.

Mr. Charles W. Hersey, president of the South Boston horse railroad company, whose name has been very prominently brought before the public by the great strike of employes on that road, is a Portsmouth man, and learned the trade of machinist at the navy yard. He marra Portsmouth lady, Miss Gray.

The musical entertainment and supper at the Methodist church, Monday evenine, was very well attended; there was some very pleasing music, vocal and instrumental, and a good supper was served.

The St. Valentine's party at Congress hall on Monday evening was a very pleasant and successful affair as to the numbers attending and the enjoyment they had, and we hope also in the amount added to the fund of the Children's Home, in aid of which commendable charity the party was given. The supper tables were well patronized in the early part of the evening, and the home-made candies, cake and ice-cream went off well. The hall was very prettily decorated with evergreen and Chinese lanterns, and Harlow's quadrille band furnished music for dancing, which was indulged in quite largely by the young people for two or three hours after supper.

A grand dance in Franklin upper hall, under the direction of Peter Williams, will be given Wednesday evening, Feb. 16th. Ladies free; gentlemen fifty cents; all are invited.

An entertainment consisting of selections from Childe Harold, read by Rev. Alfred Gooding and illustrated by the stereopticon, will be given on Tuesday evening, Feb. 22d, in the Unitarian chapel on Court street, in aid of the N. H. S. P. C. A. Admission thirty-five cents.

Mr. Daniel M. Camp, manager of the restaurant at the Boston & Maine railroad station, is to furnish the supper to be served during the evening at the Masonic ball on the night of the 21st inst.

The annual ball of Henry L. Richards Camp, S. O. V., will be held in Franklin hall on Thursday evening, Feb. 17th. Their first one was given Feb. 17th, 1884, and they have always been very largely attended. The S. O. V.'s were the first to supply their dance hall with parlor furniture, which was such a decided success last year that it will be repeated on the present occasion, from Sheldon Brothers' ware rooms. Harlow's orchestra, eleven pieces, will give a concert from 7:30 to 8:45. Gallery tickets twenty-five cents.

Sometimes the Concord newspapers bound for this city go on a little excursion to Boston, and come here in the afternoon of the next day, being then about as interesting as a returned prodigal. It is unfortunate for us that the Concord evening dailies could not be mailed at the station in Concord at 3:30 P. M., so we could secure them the same night. The Dover daily evening papers come up smiling the next morning, arriving we know not at what hour of the night, or almost any time the next day. This, too, is bad for us. If we ever enjoy one of Foster's gentle and guileless articles we want it hot before we retire for the night, so we may have something to dream on, and not have to take it cold sometime during the next day.

Capt. Horatio Moody a well known shipmaster of Kennebunkport, Me., died Saturday, Feb. 12th, aged sixty, leaving a widow. He formerly commanded some noted vessels, including the ships Rembrandt, Longfellow, Fanny Giffney and others, but retired from the sea about nine years ago, after losing his two boys, who were swept from his ship's deck in the Pacific ocean, leaving him childless.

The following are among the recent transfers of real estate in York county, as left for record in the office of the register of deeds: York—Hannah Jacobs of Wells to Moses L. Staples of the same place, real estate in York for $1; William H. Littlefield of North Berwick to Moses L. Staples of Wells, real estate in York for $1; Lizzie A. Seavey of Kittery to Moses L. Staples of Wells, real estate in York for $100; Charles W. Littlefield of Amesbury, Mass., to Moses L. Staples of Wells, real estate in York for $100; James K. Whitney of Concord, N. H., to Albert W. Gale of same place, real estate in York for $250.

At South Sanford, Me., Saturday night, in a quarrel over a watch trade Howard E. Moulton was stabbed by Walter Knight.

The event of the season will be the Sons of Veterans' ball next Thursday evening. Every one should go and help the boys.

The farm buildings of William and Joseph Hall of North Berwick were burned Feb. 13th by an incendiary fire; loss $4,000; insurance $2,500. Several cattle were cremated.

LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S VEGETABLE COMPOUND,

Is a Positive Cure For ALL of those Painful Diseases and Weaknesses so common among our Wives, Mothers, and Daughters.

IT IS PLEASANT TO THE TASTE, INVIGORATES AND LASTING IN ITS EFFECT. IN LIQUID, PILL OR LOZENGE FORM, IS FOR $1. DURING MOST OF THE LATTER YEARS OF THE LAST CENTURY, SENT BY MAIL, FREE FROM CHARGE, OR ANY AGENT OF PRICE. MRS. PINKHAM'S "GUIDE TO HEALTH" CONTAINING VITAL CIRCULAR MAILED TO ANY LADY SENDING ADDRESS AND STAMP TO LYNN, MASS. Mention this Paper.

Lydia E. Pinkham

Ladies' Weaknesses.

Mr. T. H. Gafford of Church Hill, Md., is so thankful for the restoration of his wife to complete health, that he is willing to certify to the fact and manner of her cure. To Mrs. Lydia E. Pinkham: This is to certify to the grand effects of your Vegetable Compound. My wife was suffering from a terrible disease which seemed to baffle the skill of the best medical men. She was in a poor, languid, depressed, nervous condition. We finally concluded to try your Vegetable Compound and to our great surprise the half of one bottle had not been taken before there seemed to be a decided change in her whole condition, and now to day she is in good health and entirely relieved from all former depressed feelings.

T. H. GAFFORD and wife.

PHYSICAL SALVATION.

"Blessed Art Thou above all Others."

Some of the expressions of gratitude for the physical regeneration wrought by Mrs. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound read like the rejoicings of converts after a religious revival. It brings Salvation to the body. A lady in Franklin Parish La., writes: "I tried one bottle of your Compound for Prolapsus Uteri and Leucorrhea. I never had anything in my life that did me as much good. I was hardly able to walk about without difficulty. I could not step upon anything without pain. When I think how much good that one bottle did me, I feel as if I could fall on my knees to you and say: Blessed art thou above all others, for thou art one of the greatest benefactors that woman ever had."

men who had faced death, so unflinchingly all day quivered and shrank before this new phase. Orphee looked longingly into the dying face as the white lips murmured of bygone days, of baby hands and tender, wifely kisses.

"Miss Anna," the voice began again, weakly, "the boys all know and love her;" and then suddenly recollecting, turned his eyes on the manly, bearded faroman him, and noticed their moist eyes; then with the ghost of a fond smile of appreciation he muttered: "Dying to-night, dying to-night. Sing it, Orphee."

The river rushed and sang, the wind sighed airily through the sorrowful pines, but distinct and clear rose the voice of Orphee, that sweet, high tenor, thrilling with tears and pathos. It quivered and fell as it reached the chorus, and the "dying to-night" was sobbed out on his knees as he held the poor, cold hands close to his breast. The wounded man turned on the rough floor, the surgeons desisted from their work, and one little fellow, his breast shot to pieces, crossed himself involuntarily, surred by the sorrowful sweetness.

Again Parsons spoke. "Be good, boys, to Miss Anna." No better, truer sweetheart could you find. Say with me now, God bless 'Miss Anna.'"

And we said it with him.

"Amen," he answered, solemnly, and with a spasm of pain he was lying there quite still, smiling tenderly, as of old, with "Miss Anna" close to his breast.

"And 'Miss Anna?'" asked the host.

"Was shot down the next morning in the first charge."

There was silence for a few minutes, and then Harrison raised his glass and looked wistfully around. In an instant the glasses were refilled, and, with reverently bowed heads and hushed tones, the whole room drank to the memory of "Miss Anna."

Mr. JOHN W. FURBUSH,

An Army Veterran,

OF WAKEFIELD,

who has probably suffered more than any man or woman in America today. Taken sick while in the Army, he has endured untold agonies since. Describing his first symptoms he said: "My head ached and my appetite was poor. I felt a faintness at the pit of the stomach, and a bad taste in my mouth, while my skin was sometimes hot and sometimes cold. I went felt pains to my back and around the lower p rtion of my body, and noticed a peculiar odor and color in the water I passed, which was scanty at one time and free at others. Sometimes it pained me to void it, and again it was painful impossible to do so at all. Finally I began to pass clear blood accompanied with the greatest strain and agony."

No less than 20 eminent physicians attended Mr. Furbush at various times, but not one of them could help him. He was near death's door. And yet he says: "I am alive and well to-day, wholly through the wonderful power of Hunt's Remedy, which took me from the verge of the grave."

This Great Remedy absolutely cures all Kidney, Liver and Urinary Diseases.

The Beginning of the End.

The beginning of disease is a slight debility or disorder of some of the vital organs, the stomach, the liver or the bowels usually. There are dyspeptic symptoms, the liver is troublesome, the skin grows tawny and unhealthy looking, there are pains in the right side or through the right shoulder blade. The climax is often an utter prostration of the physical energies, perhaps a fatal issue. But if the difficulty is met in time with Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, which is always effective as a remedy, and it should be resorted to at an early stage, there will be no reason to apprehend those injurious subsequent effects upon the system often entailed by entirely cured diseases. Far better it is, also, to employ this safe remedial agent in fever and ague, and other malarial complaints, than quinine and other potent drugs, which, even when they do prove effectual for a time, ruin the stomach and impair the general health.

Ten years ago Miss Julia A. Malcom, a school teacher at New Haven, Conn., had jokingly presented to her by a friend a deed of certain lands in Colorado, which at the time were considered worthless by the owner. She had nearly forgotten the matter, when the other day a letter came from Colorado offering her $250,000 for the land, a rich mine having been discovered on it. The offer was accepted.

Don't Do It.

Said my physician, who for six months had doctored me for dyspepsia without success, when I told him I was going to try Sulphur Bitters, they will only make you worse. I did try them, and now I am a well man and can eat anything. Sulphur Bitters are a great foe to doctors. —George Bastett, N. Y. C. & H. R. Railroad.

Rev. Mr. Mills, revivalist, held union meetings in the city hall at Newburyport, Mass., on Sunday, Feb. 13th, the churches all being closed. A series of meeting will be held, extending over several weeks, and Mr. Sankey is expected to be present before they close.

The National Disease Downed.

Hundreds of so-called diseases under various names are the results of indigestion, and when this one trouble is removed the others vanish. The best known remedy for indigestion, according to thousands of testimonials, is one that has been used in the United States for more than fifty years—Brandreth's Pills. These Pills will cure the worst form of indigestion or dyspepsia, and by their use the national disease is easily conquered.

A London despatch of Feb. 14th says "a misunderstanding seems to have arisen between the London and St. Petersburg cabinets, relating to the publication of the Bulgarian blue book by the English government. It is stated that Russia objected to the publication of a portion of the despatches in the present stage of negotiations as premature. The objection is believed to have taken the form of an intimation that such publication would be regarded as an act of unfriendliness. Hence a suspicion that relations are somewhat strained. The stormy interviews between the Russian ambassador and the late British foreign secretary had reference chiefly to this subject. It is feared that the blue book will prove the harbinger of war."

Winter.

Little Boy Blue by the hearth is dreaming,
The ripe corn is turned into gold-dust gleaming.
The sheep are all pent in the warmest fold;
The poppy's away in her cap of scarlet,
And down in the meadow not one small starlet
Blinks up at the sky through the still, white cold.

The leaves long ago danced off together,
Giddy with wine of the autumn weather;
The birds sought old sweethearts over the seas;
The river was strangled by cruel fingers;
The vagabond brooklet in prison lingers,
And is wed to the ghost of the willow-tree.

The days will not stay long where no more grace is,
But hurry away to cheerier places,
Not one of them tarries to glance at the cloak;
The wind soon kindles her fire in the heaven,
To light the way of the blindfold even,
Long ere the farmboy has fed his flock.

Paler and paler Dame Nature is growing
To see how her gay guests all are going,
To pine her alone in the midst of her death;
The wind in her sad ear is shrilly sighing,
Even the silence seems to be crying,
The foot of the frost's like a wound to the earth.

Then down from the skies with a merry bluster
Sweep the white snow-flakes, cluster on cluster,
Firelight leaps up from the chimney's wide throat;
The wind does are shining like beds of posies,
Little maids' cheeks are as red as roses,
The wind 'twas complaining his blither note.

Bells in the belfry break into singing,
Joyous laughter is everywhere ringing,
Home sings the footsteps so long apart;
Christmas is here with a beauty that blesses,
Rosy young Summer the eye caresses,
White-haired old Winter gladdens the heart.

DOMESTIC HELP.

Mrs. Helen Campbell has drawn graphic pictures of the suffering of poor sewing-women in New York. Already charitable people are offering aid. The human sympathy, which is never lacking where there is real need, shows itself afresh in the case of these poor sewing-women. But charity is not the thing for a permanent necessity. The case calls for some provision by which these poorly-paid workers can be made self-supporting and more. They should be enabled not only to supply present needs, but to lay up something for old age or for a rainy day. Work which is required, which has a constant market, and to which these woman are equal, should be found for them. This could easily be done—at least for a very large per cent of them—and those who were left to sew would command better wages.

There are thousands of women who suffer for lack of domestic help in another way as much as any poor sewing-woman can. The most pathetic letters I ever read came to me from a young woman in Wisconsin, a farmer's wife. The harvest season was coming. Her husband had ridden for days looking in vain for help for his wife at a time of year when every man was wanted in the fields. The woman was already overburdened with the work which she had done, unrelieved, for several years. She had, besides her own family, all the "hands" on the farm to cook and work for. Two or three little children had come in the meantime to warm her heart, but to be an added burden on her hands. She wrote to me: "It seems as though I should go wild. I must be up early to get breakfast for the men, I must set up late to put away the supper and do the dishes. My mending basket piles up higher and higher, and I have not time to take a stitch; my children cry and I can not comfort them nor teach them, nor do a mother's duty to them, and not a woman anywhere to help me." She had borne up under it till failing strength and health compelled the farmer to lease his farm or lose his wife. Here would have been a home for some woman, with abundant food and good wages that could have been saved in the bank. All over the farms at the west are multitudes of just such cases.

In the western towns it is hardly better. In a small country town in Nebraska I saw the wife of the hotel-keeper doing all the work for eighteen men, as well as for transient guests. Till night she had not a moment's rest. Two little children wandered around unmothered, because she had no time to care for them. No other woman was near. When it came her meet-time she put the dinner she had cooked on the table and then shut the children out of doors while she waited on these eighteen hungry men. One little boy turned his grieved lips up as the door closed on him, but she had to wait on the table, and the child must be out of the way. While the first course was being eaten I saw her pass the window outside with the little one in her arms, covering its face with kisses. In a moment she was back again at her post. Dinner over she was washing up the pots and kettles. The door being open between, I heard the eldest child, himself almost a baby, say to his mother of the other little one, "Do keep this baby in; I am afraid the horses will step on him." She called him "mother's little man," and with a pot in one hand she swung the child by one arm with the other into the now deserted dining-room and shut the door. It was her only way to keep him safe. She had a fine face and figure and was dignified in manner. It was easy to see she was not a mere drudge. On the wall hung a photographed group of faces, her own among the number. In answer to my inquiring look she said: "Those are photographs of the class I graduated with." Here was an educated woman, now strong and well, but sure to break down before many years under such a load.

These instances illustrate what is really a great want. Now, instead of offering charity, would it not be far better to put these half-starved sewing-women who need food and homes and better wages in communication with women east and west who are perishing for lack

A CHILD'S SKIN.

Ears and Scalp Covered with Eczematous Scabs and Sores Cured by Cuticura.

MY little son, aged eight years, has been afflicted with Eczema of the scalp, and at times a great portion of the body, ever since he was two years old. It began in his ears, and extended to his scalp, which became covered with scabs and sores, and from which a sticky fluid poured out, causing intense itching and distress, and leaving his hair matted and tangled. Underneath these scabs the skin was raw, like a piece of beefsteak. Gradually the hair came out and was destroyed, until but a small patch was left at the back of the head. My friends in Peabody know how my little boy has suffered. At night he would scratch his head until his pillow was covered with blood. I used to tie his hands behind him, and in many ways tried to prevent his scratching; but it was no use, he would scratch. I took him to the hospital and to the best physicians in Peabody without success. About this time, some friends, who had been cured by the CUTICURA REMEDIES, prevailed upon me to try them. I began to use them on the 12th of January last. In seven months every particle of the disease was removed. Not a spot or scab remains on his scalp to tell the story of his suffering. His hair has returned, and is thick and strong, and his scalp as sweet and clean as any child's in the world. I cannot say enough to express my great joy for this wonderful cure by the CUTICURA REMEDIES, and wish all similarly afflicted to know that my statement is true and without exaggeration. CHARLES McKAY, Oct. 6, 1886. Peabody, Mass.

I have seen Mr. McKay's boy when badly affected with the Eczema. He was a pitiful sight to look at. I know that he has tried our best physicians, and did all a father could do for a suffering child, but availed nothing. I know that the statements he has made you as regards the curing of his boy by your CUTICURA REMEDIES are true in every particular.
WILLIAM J. McCARTHY,
33 Foster St., Peabody, Mass.

A Word About Catarrh.

"It is the mucous membrane, that wonderful semi-fluid covering surrounding the delicate tissues of the air and food passages, that Catarrh makes its stronghold. Once established, it eats into the very vitals, and renders life but a long-drawn breath of misery and disease, dulling the sense of hearing, trammelling the power of speech, destroying the faculty of smell, tainting the breath, and killing the refined pleasures of taste. Insidiously, by creeping on from a simple cold in the head, it assaults the membranous lining and envelops the bones, eating through the delicate coats and causing inflammation, sloughing and death. Nothing short of total eradication will secure health to the patient, and all alleviatives are simply procrastinated, suffering, leading to a fatal termination. SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE, by Inhalation and by Internal administration, has never failed; even when the disease has made frightful inroads on delicate constitutions, hearing, smell and taste have been recovered, and the disease thoroughly driven out."

SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE consists of one bottle of the RADICAL CURE, one box CATARRHAL SOLVENT, and one IMPROVED INHALER, neatly wrapped in one package, with full directions; price, $1.00.

The Labor Problem.

Reports from all over the country indicate that the organization of the Knights of Labor is rapidly losing its hold on workingmen, and its power is fast diminishing. Desertions are numerous. Workingmen have thought for themselves, and many assert that the organization can confer no lasting benefit on the laboring man or mechanic. The professional labor agitator is a man whose only work is to stir up those who would labor in a peaceful and contented way.

There is one phase of this labor question which we think deserves consideration, and candid investigation. The men and women of this country who work for a living, whether they are trained or unskilled, have, like all the wage-winners of the world, but a day's work to sell. If there are continual strikes, it is not difficult to perceive that very many articles now manufactured and produced in this country by a better-paid workman than makes a similar article abroad, will be unable to withstand the competition of the cheaper foreign artisan. Even now, European manufactures are sent to South America, (where by reason of our ill-advised horror of encouraging our own commercial facilities, the products of other nations are carried cheaply in the ships by those countries encouraged,) and marked as made in the United States. That is to say, the reputation of our better goods is stolen by foreign manufacturers in order to sell their commodities, manufactured by cheap labor, in what ought to be the marts where our better class of wares would find sale.

Now what is to be the result of the proposed enhanced price of labor, when it is increased above the price at which the manufacturers can afford to pay for it? Every stoppage of a factory in this country, every day's labor lost by our workmen, every period of enforced idleness in whatever pursuit the bread-winner would otherwise be employed, is a gain to our trans-Atlantic competitors and a loss to the American workmen. The manufacturers of Great Britain and Germany enjoy these labor disturbances in our country.

But we are glad to see evidence that calm and practical consideration of the labor problem is beginning to convince the workman that he will be paid, not according to what is asked for his labor, but what he earns; that wealth will not come to him by the payment of assessments to support officers who do not work themselves, or families of strikers often improperly kept from their daily toil. The capacity to improve the condition of the labor seller depends upon his skill, industry, self-denial, thrift and honest labor, and not upon any fancied fabric built in the air by some theorist, which will topple over at the first adverse blast. The world generally will never pay for a day's work, for any length of time, a higher price than it can afford. There are of course occasional exceptions to this, but labor, like wheat, has to adjust its prices to the condition of the market.

Disconsolate Strikers.

A despatch of Feb. 14th from New York says:

It is a pretty blue lot of 'longshoremen that can be found to-day. There was not a big rush of strikers to get back to work, for the reason that many of the companies having piers along the river front refused point blank to take back the old hands. The Harlem railroad, the New York & Northern and the Pennsylvania companies have given orders that none of the new hands shall be turned away as long as they are competent to do the work. On the other hand, at some piers the strikers have gone back in a body, while at many others the old hands are being taken back quietly and individually. The agent of the Baltimore & Ohio dock has given orders that none of the strikers be given work. On many of the piers where the order has been given not to employ strikers or recognize the union, many regular 'longshoremen have found employment, but it is on the representation that they are not connected with the union. The men go where they are not known, to get work. Gangs of "cold" men are going from pier to pier in search of work.

The strike in Brooklyn is virtually at an end. The 'longshoremen are returning to work wherever they can get their former wages.

In Jersey City the striking 'longshoremen of the Red Star and Inman steamship lines returned in a body to obtain work, but they went away in a body, for the agent wouldn't have them back at any price. The striking freight handlers at the Pennsylvania company's freight station in that city also returned to be reinstated that morning. They won't be taken back unless President Roberts orders it. The Erie strikers pleaded for work, but were refused.

The bituminous and hard coal docks at South Amboy, N. J., are still guarded night and day. Some of the strikers have been loudly threatening to assault the new men, if not reinstated in their places. The officers of the coal companies say the have no places for strikers, the "new" men being perfectly satisfactory.

Exhibitions of Life-Saving Apparatus.

Three years ago the exhibition of life-saving apparatus in the treasury department at Washington was abolished, but there has been such a demand for a continuance of this very useful display that the treasury officials have been considering fitting up the hall in the treasury building for the purpose of exhibiting to all interested the paraphernalia and workings of the life-saving service. A very intelligent colored man, who was employed to explain the models and apparatus before the old exhibition was done away with, has again been secured, and the exhibition or museum is now again in working order, and attracts a great many visitors. Among the number who visited the exhibition on the 14th inst. was an old gentleman from one of the principal towns in Maine, who took a very lively interest in all that he saw, and who said he proposed to interest a number of other gentlemen in a project which he had just thought of, and that was a similar exhibition all along the coast. He thought that such a plan would be of great value in educating the residents of coast towns to the use of life-saving appliances, and he thought the result would be that a valuable auxiliary force would be created, which would be of great service in case of need.

The New England tobacco growers held their annual meeting at Hartford last week. The deliberations were in favor of a higher standard of the growth of the Connecticut valley. We are as a general rule pretty sound on the question of protection to our farmers and manufacturers, but if we must smoke the Connecticut product let the producers in the land of steady habits improve the brand.

The striking Shenango valley, Pa., furnace men have returned to work on the employers' terms.

The coroner's jury on the case of Seth Robinson, who died at Kennebunk some weeks ago after drinking alcohol in which arnica had been mixed, rendered a verdict on the 14th inst., to the effect that he died of heart disease, aggravated by the trash which he put into his stomach. The analysis of what was left in the bottle from which Robinson and his mates drank resulted in showing that the mixture was alcohol and arnica, with no other substance present.

IT IS WONDERFUL

how easily rheumatism begins, and how insidiously it grows in the system, until one is startled to find himself its victim in either the acute or chronic form. He then learns the fearful tenacity of its grip and the utter powerlessness of the ordinary remedies to give relief.

Probably to no disease have physicians given more study, and none has more completely baffled their efforts to provide a specific; and until Athlophoros was discovered there was no medicine which would surely cure rheumatism, neuralgia and nervous or sick headache. Thousands of testimonials like the following prove beyond question that Athlophoros is the only reliable remedy, and that it will do all that is claimed for it.

Manchester, N. H., March 15, 1886.

One year ago while suffering with a rheumatic difficulty I was induced by friends of mine to try a bottle of Athlophoros, although I had little belief in anything of the kind, but, contrary to my expectations, it gave me immediate relief, and it is with pleasure that I can now recommend it to my acquaintances, feeling sure that they will find it the remedy of the age for such difficulties, as I had tried everything else with little or no relief.

PARK H. KELLY.

Northampton, Mass., May 21, 1886.

For relief from rheumatic pains and trouble, I believe your Athlophoros is infallible. For many years I have been subject to rheumatism in its worst forms. During my last siege of sickness I was induced to try Athlophoros and found it to be all it claimed to be, a cure for rheumatism.

LEVI I. CLARK.

Every druggist should keep Athlophoros and Athlophoros Pills, but where they cannot be bought of the druggist the Athlophoros Co., 112 Wall St., New York, will send either (carriage paid) on receipt of regular price, which is $1.00 per bottle for Athlophoros and 50c. for Pills.

For liver and kidney diseases, dyspepsia, indigestion, weakness, nervous debility, diseases of women, constipation, headache, impure blood, &c., Athlophoros Pills are unequaled. 3

THE OLD INSURANCE AGENCY,

PORTSMOUTH, N. H.

To my Old Customers and Friends. Are you insured? When your home or other property is being consumed by a raging fire, a good insurance policy is a great comfort. The subscriber, with his experience of fifteen years, is now prepared to place your Insurance in the Insurance Companies of New Hampshire, and in Companies organized in other States. No one can place your Insurance better or safer!

NOTE.—Mr. Ilsley, my late copartner, still states in his published card, that he purchased of me all my right to the "Fire Insurance Business of our late firm." I have heretofore denied this statement. He never offered to buy of me the business or goodwill of the firm, and I never offered or even thought of selling out my business. I hired our old office, and advertised to carry on the business in all its branches, weeks before a final settlement. Now, if he has a bill of sale, bond or any agreement whereby I conveyed to him any rights to the goodwill of the old firm or any rights to do a Fire Insurance Business in New Hampshire with old or new customers, let him prosecute me for a breach of contract, or cease publishing or repeating his false statement. THE WEATHER.

For New England to-day:—

Rain or snow, followed by colder, fair weather, wind shifting to northerly.

The Thermometer at the CHRONICLE Office, at 4:00 o'clock this morning, indicated 36 degrees above zero.

Sky Clear.

A SUCCESSFUL PARTY.

The treasurer of the Children's Home gratefully acknowledges the receipt of $149, being the net proceeds of the St. Valentine's party given by the ladies' sewing circle connected with the Children's Home.

BRISTOL'S EQUESCURRICULUM.

This wonderful exhibition of animal intelligence and training, which is to be at Music hall on Thursday evening and for the remainder of this week, was at Bangor, Me., last week, and a correspondent writes a Boston paper as follows:

This has been a phenomenal week at the opera house in Bangor, the city and many of the surrounding towns, in fact, having gone wild over Bristol's Equescurriculum. The sign "standing room only" has been in use at nearly every performance, something here never before known when an attraction has been in the house for a whole week. Excursion trains have been run for the past three days from Ellsworth, Bucksport and Oldtown, bringing large crowds to the show. Even the children have been carried away by the occasion, and the crowds have waited after the performance to see them go on the stage and ride and climb over the horses and ponies at the invitation of the owner.

The matinee at Music hall, Saturday afternoon, will be a rare occasion for the little people of this city and vicinity.

MARITIME NOTES.

Several slight changes in the running time of the steamer Mystic have been made. Those interested will find the changes noted in the steamer's regular advertisement.

The schooner Grace K. Green, Seaward master, arrived at this port Feb. 15th from Brunswick, Ga., with a cargo of hard pine lumber for the bridges of the York Harbor & Beach railroad. She will be towed to York by the steamer Clara Batemen, to discharge.

The schooner Maggie G. Hart, Williams master, arrived in the lower harbor on the 15th inst., eleven days from Brunswick, Ga., with hard pine lumber for the bridge of the York Harbor & Beach railroad over Spruce creek, Kittery. She will discharge at Kittery Point.

HAMPTON JOTTINGS.

HAMPTON, Feb. 14th.

The supervisors met on Saturday to look over the checklists.

During the past two weeks some very handsome lumber has been cut and hauled to the mills in this section.

The T. F. A. club of Newburyport recently spent the night at the Union house; one of Whittier's best turkey suppers was enjoyed, very fine music furnished, and dancing and games indulged in until four o'clock in the morning, when the merry party left, arriving home in season to go to their day's work.

On Friday evening last twenty-five couples came from Newburyport and took supper at the Union house, after which dancing was kept up until morning, the party enjoying a pleasant moonlight ride home.

We read of spicy breezes. On Sunday, the 6th inst., the air in Hampton was fragrant with that curse called cider, —for the beverage is abused in this town; many families were disturbed by those who were filled up. Where are the laws of the Granite State, that no force is used to stop this sale of cider, especially on the Sabbath, not only by venders who are only half civilized, but by private families, who do sell more than some people know of?

There will be a gospel temperance meeting in the south wardroom this evening at 7:30 o'clock, which all are cordially invited to attend. The bell will be rung at seven o'clock.

The third annual ball of the Sons of Veterans, in Franklin hall to-morrow evening, will be a most enjoyable affair. The concert which will precede the dancing will be worth more than the price of a gallery ticket, 25 cts. The work of decorating the hall for the occasion will commence this morning. A number of camps in other towns will be well represented at the ball.

The working hours on the navy yard are now from eight o'clock to twelve, and from one to five, the change having gone into effect on Monday morning.

The Cambridge, (Mass.) Horse Railroad Co. advertise for men to act as drivers and conductors, at $2 per day; see notice in another column.

Mr. Henry Harlow, who has for several seasons so acceptably directed the orchestra at the hotel Wentworth, Newcastle, has been engaged to furnish the music at that popular summer resort the coming season. Mr. Harlow has taken steps to secure the best musical talent, and the prospect is that the music of the next season will surpass that of any preceding one. Those who contemplate passing the season or any part of it at the Wentworth may be sure of enjoying the pleasure of superior music.

The announcement of the minstrel and athletic entertainment in Music hall on the evening of Feb. 22d by the Portsmouth Athletic club creates much interest, and there is already a good call for tickets. The young men propose to give one of the best variety entertainments ever offered here, including novelties never produced on any stage.

At one place in this city at sunrise Monday morning the thermometer indicated three degrees below zero, and Tuesday morning at the same hour thirty-four degrees above,—a difference of thirty-seven degrees.

The Episcopal Dramatic club of Biddeford produced the old comedy "Toodles" in the vestry of Christ church in that city last Friday evening, and the Biddeford Journal says of it: "The play was finely mounted, and the characters were sustained in a manner that has given this club an excellent reputation in amateur dramatic circles. The titular role was taken by Orville D. Bryant, who created a marked impression and won rounds of applause. He displayed a fine conception of his part, spoke his lines easily and naturally, and in every respect did an exceptionally good bit of acting for an amateur. In fact his efforts of last evening would put to blush that of many professionals who have appeared here. Mr. Bryant was particularly strong in the scene in which he simulated drunkenness, and was enthusiastically applauded." The gentleman named, who was for many years a resident of this city, and an overseer in the old Kearsarge mill up to the time of its destruction by fire, after which he removed to Biddeford, while living here was always assigned a leading part in any amateur theatricals, and always took his part in such manner as to indicate that had he taken to the stage as a profession he would have won an honorable position thereon.

The Chautauquans of Spruce Creek Round Table, Kittery, celebrated the memory of St. Valentine by a reception held at the residence of Mrs. Mary B. Wilson on Thursday evening, Feb. 10th. Tasteful programmes were distributed to the company which gathered. The exercises consisted of singing, quotations and select readings. The president opened the readings with an essay on the origin of "St. Valentine's Day." Choice selections of prose and poetry were then read by the class, interspersed with singing. The ex-president closed these exercises by reading "The vision of Mirza," an oriental allegory on human life, by Addison. After these literary exercises an elegant collation followed, and while partaking of this repast, the C. L. S. C. mail arrived with valentines for each individual present, affording another intellectual treat. The entertainment closed by singing "The near To-morrow," and the company dispersed feeling they had passed an agreeable occasion. M.

Leading citizens of Saco and Biddeford are talking ever a scheme to construct a lock at the mouth of the river, so that the water will not rise with the tides. The objects are to keep the water fresh, make the river more beautiful, increase ice harvesting and shipping, and to get rid of the sand bar across the mouth of the river. It is proposed to recommend the expenditure for this purpose of a part of the $25,000 recently appropriated by the government for improvements for the river and breakwater.

The stabbing affray between Howard E. Moulton of South Sanford and Walter Knight of Alfred, Me., on the night of the 12th inst., was due more to rum than to a watch trade as was first reported. The young men attended a dance in a hall at South Sanford, and during the evening were treated to rum by Ivory P. Allen, who went to Sanford village and got a quart of raw producer. Then they traded watches, quarrelled about the trade, and were with difficulty kept from fighting in the dance hall; and after the dance was ended, at midnight, they did fight, Knight slashing Moulton four times in the face with a clasp knife. Knight is also said to have been badly injured during the fracas, but just how is not stated. It would not be a bad idea for the York county officials to institute an enquiry as to where Mr. Allen got his quart of rum.

Xavier Bouchier of Biddeford, aged about nineteen years, while out shooting in the woods on the 12th inst. had one of his hands blown to pieces and a large hole made through one leg, by the accidental discharge of his gun. There is some hope of his recovery.

Three Peculiarities

Hood's Sarsaparilla, the great blood purifier and regulating medicine, is characterized by three peculiarities, namely:

1st: The combination of the various remedial agents used.

2d: The proportion in which the roots, herbs, barks, etc., are mixed.

3d: The process by which the active medicinal properties are secured.

The result is a medicine of unusual strength and curative power, which effects cures heretofore unequalled. These peculiarities belong exclusively to Hood's Sarsaparilla, and are

Unknown to Others

Hood's Sarsaparilla is prepared with the greatest skill and care, by pharmacists of education and long experience. Hence it is a medicine worthy of entire confidence. Lydia E. Pinkham

Ladies' Weaknesses.

Mr. T. H. Gafford of Church Hill, Md., is so thankful for the restoration of his wife to complete health, that he is willing to certify to the fact and manner of her cure. To Mrs. Lydia E. Pinkham: This is to certify that the effects of your Vegetable Compound. My wife was suffering from a terrible disease which seemed to baffle the skill of the best physicians. She was in a poor languid, depressed, nervous condition. We finally concluded to try your Vegetable Compound and to our great surprise the half of one bottle had not been taken before there seemed to be a thorough change in her whole condition, and now to-day she is in good health and entirely relieved from all former depressed feelings.

T. H. GAFFORD and wife.

PHYSICAL SALVATION.

"Blessed Art Thou above all Others."

Some of the expressions of gratitude for the physical regeneration brought by Mrs. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound read like the rejoicings of converts after a religious revival. It brings Salvation to the body. A lady in Franklin Parish La., writes: "I tried one bottle of your Compound for Prolapsus Uteri and Leucorrhea. I never had anything in my life that did me as much good. I was hardly able to walk about without difficulty. I could not sleep upon anything without pain. When I think how much good that one bottle did me, I feel as if I could fall on my knees to your feet and say: Blessed art thou above all others, for thou art one of the greatest benefactors that woman ever had."

of such help as these women can give? Advertisements for such places should be made over the names of a reliable committee and references given and received. Railroad fares should be paid, and the workers enabled to go where their work is needed and where it would be in constant demand.

Some sewing-women have no knowledge of housework. Very well. Let them work for their board while they learn. They would have plenty of food and a good home. They would be better off than they are now, when their $2.50 or $3 or $4 a week has to pay for their scanty food and fuel and wretched rooms and nothing is left. Good housewives would willingly teach one accustomed to work if she would receive for wages after she could earn them. What would not the two women I have instanced gladly have done in the way of teaching, if at first only washing dishes, making beds, and sweeping could have been done for them, even if it had been done badly? It seems to me this is the solution of the question for women who barely make a living at sewing. They must be put in communication with those who so bitterly need domestic help. Many of them would no doubt take kindly to housework. They would feel the sense of comfort and permanence and warmth of family life. They would save the larger part of their wages, and in time have a small but real independence.

If underpaid sewing-women will take well-paid domestic service they will not need charity.—Lucy Stone, in Boston Herald.

Chester A. Arthur, during his sophomore year at Union college, was compelled to leave college and teach a village school at Schaghticoke, Rensselaer county, N. SURE CURE FOR LIVER AND KIDNEY COMPLAINTS, HEADACHE, DYSPEPSIA, WIND IN THE STOMACH OR BOWELS, PAINS IN THE BOWELS, INDIGESTION.

Dr. Ham, Dear Sir:—I feel it a pleasurable duty to extol your medicine to the very highest. I have been a sufferer from the dreadful disease dyspepsia from childhood, and every one after eating have vomited up the greater part of my victuals. About 3 months ago I was induced to try a bottle of your invigorator, which at once gave me relief, and I have not had a vomiting spell since. I feel like a new man, and am perfectly well. I have tried many medicines, but none had the least effect until I took your Invigorator. Hoping you may go on in your great work for suffering humanity, I am Truly yours,

— FOR —

INDIGESTION & DYSPEPSIA.

A POTENT REMEDY FOR

Indigestion, Acute and Atonic Dyspepsia, Chronic and Gastro-Intestinal Catarrh, Vomiting in Pregnancy, Cholera Infantum, and in convalescence from Acute Diseases.

Over 5,000 physicians have sent to us the most flattering opinions upon Digestylin as a remedy for all diseases arising from improper digestion.

For 30 years we have manufactured the Digestive Ferments expressly for PHYSICIANS' use, and for the past year DIGESTYLIN has been ordered extensively prescribed, and to-day it stands without a rival as a digestive agent. It is not a secret remedy but a scientific preparation, the formula of which is plainly printed on each bottle. Its great DIGESTIVE POWER is created by a careful and proper treatment of the ferments in manufacture. It is very agreeable to the taste, and accomplishes the most delicate stomach. For the reliability of our statements we would respectfully refer to all Wholesale and Retail Druggists, and PHYSICIANS generally. Price $1.00. Sold by Druggists, or

The Beginning of the End.

The beginning of disease is a slight debility or disorder of some of the vital organs, the stomach, the liver or the bowels usually. There are dyspeptic symptoms, the liver is troublesome, the skin grows tawny and unhealthy looking, there are pains in the right side or through the right shoulder blade. The climax is often an utter prostration of the physical energies, perhaps a fatal issue. But it the difficulty is met in time with Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, which is always effective as a remedy, and it should be resorted to at an early stage, there will be no reason to apprehend those injurious subsequent effects upon the system often entailed by entirely cured diseases. Far better it is, also, to employ this safe remedial agent in fever and ague, and other malarial complaints, than quinine and other potent drugs, which, even when they do prove effectual for a time, ruin the stomach and impair the general health.

The National Disease Downed.

Hundreds of so-called diseases under various names are the results of indigestion, and when this one trouble is removed the others vanish. The best known remedy for indigestion, according to thousands of testimonials, is one that has been used in the United States for more than fifty years—Brandreth's Pills. These Pills will cure the worst form of indigestion or dyspepsia, and by their use the national disease is easily conquered.

From Ex-Senator Al. Daggett.

The Hon. Albert Daggett, writing from the Senate Chamber, Albany, New York, says: I have used Allcock's Porous Plasters for the past ten years with marked results. I have found them especially effective when depleted and worn out from weeks of incessant labors in political campaigns; the application of them to my chest and spine gave me great relief when my voice had become hoarse and worn down from speaking in the open air. They seemed to act as tonic to the whole system, curing the soreness consequent from over-exertion and restoring the tone of the system more readily than any remedy I have ever found. I have also used them for rheumatism with very beneficial results.

To Get Rid of Warts.

The arsenic treatment is well adapted for warts. The top of the wart should either be sliced off with a sharp knife, cut off with a pair of scissors, or destroyed with a drop of some caustic, such as nitric acid. It is then to be painted with the arsenic solution two or three times a day. In a short time it undergoes a change and appears to break up into a number of pieces. It may then be removed or turned out without the slightest pain or difficulty. There are several other means of getting rid of warts. Their vitality is low, and they are usually readily destroyed by the application of the caustic or astringent. The strong acetic acid is often used for this purpose. It should be applied with a glass rod until the wart is pretty well sodden with the acid. It may have to be applied more than once, and care should be taken to prevent it from coming in contact with the surrounding skin, or it may cause a blister. Small warts occurring in numbers may usually be got rid of certainly and painlessly by keeping them constantly moist with a lotion made by adding two drams of dilute nitric acid to a pot of water. Lunar caustic is sometimes used for warts, but its action is, as a rule, too superficial to be of much service. When warts or warty growths occur on the nose, lips, or any part beside the hands, chromic acid may be used. The solution is made by dissolving a hundred grains of crystallized chromic acid in an ounce of water. The solution is best applied by the acid of a pointed glass rod, or, when a large quantity is required, by means of a small glass tube drawn to a point. Only so much should be applied, as will saturate the diseased growth, and it should not be brought in contact with the surrounding tissues. Any superfluous acid is to be removed by a piece of blotting paper or wet lint. The application usually produces only a temporary smarting, unless, indeed, the part is ulcerated, when the pain is more severe and of longer duration. After the application of the chromic acid it is a good plan to dress the part with lint dressed in lead lotion, as it relieves the soreness and restrains the inflammation. Under the influences of this treatment the growth usually rapidly wastes, in some cases being thrown off altogether and in others undergoing a partial, though distinct, diminution in size. In the majority of cases one application suffices, the cure being complete in four to eight days. When, however, the warts are very large, repeated applications may be necessary.—The Family Physician.

The Physiognomy of the Days.

Tuesday has only this hold on our recognition, that it is not so far from Sunday but there is a distinct, if diminished flavor of its being still "along the first of the week." Things promised for this conveniently vague period can still be creditably performed. But to-morrow, we feel, will be already the middle of the week. There is, accordingly, a slight "hurry-up" tinge about Tuesday.

Wednesday is still worse off for identity of countenance. Its face is chiefly to be known by its not being that of any other day in the week, as some persons are known only by their not being anybody else. The middle of its forehead is the time when we ask some one, "What day is this?" It has occurred to me that there might be, in quiet families, some special bit of food as a mnemonic of Wednesday. If the fish was sacred to the Teutonic Venus, and so came into Friga's day, is there not some flesh or fowl that might be considered to belong to Woden? Do we not know, indeed, of a wholesome vegetable, a little under a cloud, perhaps, whose subdued fragrancy in the house might stir the fountains of memory (and of tears), and mark the day? Yet if we search cautiously in our mental impression of Wednesday, we may find a kind of leisurely and humdrum look that is all its own. The hour for the first-of-the-week dash into great enterprises is gone. We are in the midst of everything, with time enough before us to prevent hurry, but not enough to invite any vigor of attack. This early-middle-of-the-week-ness it is which vaguely marks Wednesday to the mind.

Thursday, however, begins to have a dim pensiveness of the sense of end-of-the-week about it. It has to a greater degree the hurry-up suggestiveness of Tuesday, but with this marked difference: on Tuesday it was the haste of hope; now it is the haste of fear. It is the day of feeling oppressed with the lot of things that were to have been (on Wednesday we should have said "to be done," now we use the regretful or remorseful "to have been") done this week,—"and here we are," we say, "past the middle of it." Thursday is therefore the working-day par excellence. If a man ever does any stroke of solid work,—if he is not constitutionally opposed to "working between meals" at all,—he is likely to do it now.—E. R. Sill, in January Atlantic.

Circumstantial Evidence.

I have very little faith in circumstantial evidence, having seen so many instances where it was in error. In direct testimony a witness may destroy the truth, but in circumstantial evidence he has a double opportunity to lie, and no way of tripping him up. I remember a case in Mississippi, happening when I was a boy, that has made me chary about using circumstantial evidence since I have been engaged in the practice of law. The victim was a poor man, who came there from the north, got hold of a small farm to cultivate, and constructed a log hut down by the river, in which he lived all alone. Near him resided a rich planter. Around his hut the country was very soft and swampy. It was off the main road and

A CHILD'S SKIN.

Ears and Scalp Covered with Eczematous Scabs and Sores Cured by Cuticura.

MY little son, aged eight years, has been afflicted with Eczema of the scalp, and at times a great portion of the body, ever since he was two years old. It began in his ears, and extended to his scalp, which became covered with scabs and sores, and from which a sticky fluid poured out, causing intense itching and distress, and leaving his hair matted and filthy. Underneath these scabs the skin was raw, like a piece of beefsteak. Gradually the hair came out and was destroyed, until but a small patch was left at the back of the head. My friends in Peabody know how my little boy has suffered. At night he would scratch his head until his pillow was covered with blood. I used to tie his hands behind him, and in many ways tried to prevent his scratching; but it was no use, he would scratch. I took him to the hospital and to the best physicians in Peabody without success. About this time, some friends, who had been cured by the CUTICURA REMEDIES, prevailed upon me to try them. I began to use them on the 15th of January last. In seven months every particle of the disease was removed and not a spot or trail remains on his scalp to tell the story of his suffering. His hair has returned, and is thick and strong, and his scalp as sweet and clean as any child's in the world. I cannot say enough to express my gratitude for this wonderful cure by the CUTICURA REMEDIES, and wish all similarly afflicted to know that my statement is true and without exaggeration. CHARLES McKAY,

Oct. 6, 1885. Peabody, Mass.

I have seen Mr. McKay's boy when badly affected with the Eczema. He was a pitiful sight to look at. I know that he has tried our best physicians, and did all a father could do for a suffering child, but availed nothing. I know that the statements he has made you as regards the curing of his boy by your CUTICURA REMEDIES are true in every particular.

WILLIAM J. McCARTHY,

33 Foster St., Peabody, Mass.

A Word About Catarrh.

"It is the mucous membrane, that wonderful semi-fluid cellular tissue surrounding the delicate tissues of the air and food passages, that Catarrh makes its stronghold. Once established, it eats into the very vitals, and renders life but a long drawn breath of misery and disease, quilling the sense of hearing, trammelling the power of speech, destroying the faculty of smell, tainting the breath, and killing the refined pleasures of taste. Insidiously, by creeping on from a simple cold in the head, it assaults the membranous lining and envelops the bones, eating through the delicate coats and causing inflammation, sloughing and death. Nothing short of total eradication will secure health to the patient, and all alleviatives are simply procrastinating suffering, leading to a fatal termination. SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE, by Inhalation and by Internal administration, has never failed, even when the disease has made rightful inroads on delicate constitutions, hearing, smell and taste have been recovered, and the disease thoroughly driven out."

SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE consists of one bottle of the RADICAL CURE, one box CATARRHAL SOLVENT, and one IMPROVED INHALER, neatly wrapped in one package, with full directions, price, $1.00.

AFFAIRS IN KITTERY.

KITTERY, ME., Feb. 15th.

Sunday night about twelve o'clock several residents in the vicinity of the Christian church at the Foreside were awakened by loud screaming, which sounded at first like a female voice. Among those aroused by the sound were two of Kittery's bravest men, but their bravery was not of sufficient force to induce them to venture out to aid in the rescue of the unfortunate female, and they left her to her fate. Next morning it was learned that the noise was made by a drunken marine who had got lost.

Morrill Lodge of Good Templars are preparing for an entertainment, which will probably be an apron and necktie party with all the fixin's included.

There came pretty near being a tragedy one night last week at a well known boarding house at the Foreside. One of the gentlemen boarders came home at an unseasonable hour for boarders, and attempted to gain admittance to the house by a back window so as not to be heard. Some of the ladies hearing the noise and thinking it a burglar aroused a young man in the house, who catching his pistol rushed to the place from whence the sound proceeded, and was about to shoot when he discovered his fellow boarder very much exhausted.

Whipple Lodge of Good Templars is preparing to celebrate its 21st anniversary next month.

Brackett's portable steam saw mill has arrived at the Dennett farm, and a force of men are engaged in converting the logs into lumber.

School in district No. 7, (the Austin school,) William L. Fernald principal, closed on the 14th inst. after a successful term.

The civil engineers who have been employed surveying for the York Harbor & Beach railroad, after going over five or six different routes have returned to Salem, Mass., and we expect soon to know the exact route they will build on.

SUB ROSA.

YORK DIST. LODGE, I. O. G. T.

At the annual meeting of York District Lodge, I. O. G. T., held with Salus Lodge, No. 156, of Kennebunk, Me., the following officers were elected for the ensuing year:

Dist. Templar, Dr. Thomas Haley of Biddeford;
Dist. Council, Dr. John C. Stewart of York;
Dist. Vice Templar, Mrs. Josie Pollard of North Kennebunk;
Dist. Sec., Mrs. Joseph T. Mason of Biddeford;
Dist. Asst. Sec., Charles E. Richardson of Kennebunk;
Dist. Treasurer, George Rhodes of Lyman;
Dist. Chaplain, Rev. Charles F. Parsons of Kennebunk;
Dist. Marshal, Arthur Verrill of Saco;
Dist. Dep. Marshal, Mrs. Florence Leavitt of North Kennebunk;
Dist. Inside Guard, Miss Susie Bonser of North Kennebunk;
Dist. Sentinel, Walter L. Bryant of Kennebunkport.

Frank C. Eaton of Kennebunk was recommended for District Deputy.

THE PAY OF THE POLICE.

The wholesale burglarizing carried on without interference on Tuesday night of this week will probably have some influence on the decision of the proposal to raise the pay of the police; but it should not. If the pay of the officers was insufficient a month or a week ago, it is insufficient now, and the occurrences of that famous Tuesday night have nothing whatever to do with the matter. If certain members of the force, or the entire force, are inefficient, they should be superseded by men better fitted for the duty they are called upon to perform; but the fact that a dozen or fifteen business places were broken into in a single night, and in some instances pretty thoroughly rummaged, without the thieves being detected at their work, or detained when leaving the city by a railroad train, has no bearing on the question as to the amount of compensation which a first-class officer—and no other kind is wanted—should receive.

SUGGESTIONS.

PORTSMOUTH, Feb. 16th.

Mr. Editor: If the aldermen on Thursday evening determine to increase the pay of the night watchmen, how would it do to have a corresponding increase in efficiency? ??.

PORTSMOUTH, Feb. 16th.

Messrs. Editors: I see by the papers of this evening that the only obstacle met by the burglars during their raid last night was a dog in Stott's store, which prevented them from entering. There are bills pending in the city councils to provide for the annihilation of all the dogs, and the raising of the policemen's pay. Would it not be better to annihilate the police, and raise the pay of the dogs? FAIR PLAY.

MARITIME NOTES.

The schooner Annie F. Conlon, Seaward master, sailed for this port on the 15th inst. from Baltimore with a cargo of coal. After discharging she will take aboard a large lot of apples for Baltimore on account of Charles H. Hayes & Son.

The schooner Mystery, Baker master, arrived at Boston on the 15th inst. from York, Me., after a long passage during which she dropped in at about every intermediate port for shelter.

Rev. John A. Goss of Haverhill, Mass., formerly of this city, was in town on the 16th inst. to officiate at the funeral services of the late Mrs. Elizabeth R. Martin, in accordance with the special request of the deceased.

Frank Brown, living on Banfield road, on Tuesday of this week shot a grey owl measuring four and one-half feet from tip to tip of the extended wings. He has presented the bird to Stringer, the barber, and it will be stuffed and mounted for an ornament in his tonsorial saloon.

Mr. Prescott Littlefield of Kennebunk, an employe at the Portsmouth shoe factory, had all the fingers, the thumb and part of the palm of his left hand taken off by a cutting machine, Wednesday forenoon.

Elvin Newton & Son have this winter shipped to Boston fifty barrels of extra nice cod-liver oil, for medicinal use. The livers of the cod landed at this port this season are reported as not yielding more than two-thirds the amount usually realized from a given quantity, and in some cases not more than one-half.

Are You In Fashion?

BOSTON, February 16.—The fact that the Boston Daily Globe now has a larger circulation than any other Boston daily paper has given a new impetus to its boom in circulation. People will be in fashion, and the people of New England have decided by a large majority that the Boston Daily Globe is the best newspaper in Boston. Thousands of people are ordering the Globe who have never read it regularly before. The Globe put in a new double lightning press last summer at a cost of $30,000, and although it now has five lightning presses, the astonishing increase of circulation will force the Globe to buy still another press immediately.

IT IS WONDERFUL

how easily rheumatism begins, and how insidiously it grows in the system, until one is startled to find himself its victim in either the acute or chronic form. He then learns the fearful tenacity of its grip and the utter powerlessness of the ordinary remedies to give relief.

Probably to no disease have physicians given more study, and none has more completely baffled their efforts to provide a specific; and until Athlophoros was discovered there was no medicine which would surely cure rheumatism, neuralgia and nervous or sick headache. Thousands of testimonials like the following prove beyond question that Athlophoros is the only reliable remedy, and that it will do all that is claimed for it.

Manchester, N. H., March 15, 1886.

One year ago while suffering with a rheumatic difficulty I was induced by friends of mine to try a bottle of Athlophoros, although I had little belief in anything of the kind, but, contrary to my expectations, it gave me immediate relief, and it is with pleasure that I can now recommend it to my acquaintances, feeling sure that they will find it the remedy of the age for such difficulties, as I had tried everything else with little or no relief.

PARK H. KELLY.

Northampton, Mass., May 21, 1886.

For relief from rheumatic pains and trouble, I believe your Athlophoros is infallible. For many years I have been subject to rheumatism in its worst forms. During my last siege of sickness I was induced to try Athlophoros and found it to be all it claimed to be, a cure for rheumatism.

LEVI I. CLARK.

Every druggist should keep Athlophoros and Athlophoros Pills, but where they cannot be bought of the druggist the Athlophoros Co., 112 Wall St., New York, will send either (carriage paid) on receipt of regular price, which is $1.00 per bottle for Athlophoros and 50c. for Pills.

For liver and kidney diseases, dyspepsia, indigestion, weakness, nervous debility, diseases of women, constipation, headache, impure blood, &c., Athlophoros Pills are unequaled. 2

THE OLD INSURANCE AGENCY,

AT THE OLD STAND,

No. 13 Pleasant Street,

PORTSMOUTH, N. H.

To my Old Customers and Friends. Are you insured? When your home or other property is being consumed by a raging fire, a good insurance policy is a great comfort. The subscriber, with his experience of fifteen years, is now prepared to place your Insurance in the Insurance Companies of New Hampshire, and in Companies organized in other States. No one can place your Insurance better or safer!

NOTE.—Mr. Ilsley, my late copartner, still states in his published card, that he purchased of me all my right to the "Fire Insurance Business of our late firm." I have heretofore denied this statement. He never offered to buy of me the business or goodwill of the firm, and I never offered or even thought of selling out my business. I hired our old office, and advertised to carry on the business in all its branches, weeks before a final settlement. Now, if he has a bill of sale, bond or any agreement whereby I conveyed to him any rights to the goodwill of the old firm or any rights to do a Fire Insurance Business in New Hampshire with old or new customers, let him prosecute me for a breach of contract, or cease publishing or repeating his false statement. I am ready to meet this issue in any court of justice. I make this statement in justice to my customers and friends and to vindicate my own integrity.

Burglary By Wholesale.

ONE THIEF CAPTURED.

About three o'clock A. M. on Wednesday, the 16th inst., Officers Kehoe and Adams were notified by the railroad night hands at the station that two young fellows named John Blute and Andy Callahan had been cruising around all night, for no good purpose the railroad men thought. The officers had a talk with the fellows, but did not see any reason for their arrest, though Callahan was a known thief, and Blute's reputation not the best. The two suspects after that kept out of sight among the freight cars, and when the Pullman train passed through at four o'clock took passage toward Boston.

Early in the morning news was brought to Capt. Hobbs of the night watch that a number of stores on Market street had been entered during the night, and the "business" which had kept Messrs. Callahan and Blute from their beds was at once manifest. Capt. Hobbs hastened to the depot and telegraphed to all the places where the Pullman stops, for the arrest of the thieves. Answer was shortly received from Newburyport to the effect that they had got off the rear end of the train at that place, and taken to the track, but the police there expected to catch them in a short time, and Marshal Norton and three officers took the first train for Newburyport.

The places operated on by the thieves were as follows:

Wm. A. Plaisted, flour and grocery store, No. 121 Market street, glass in door broken, cigars and about $1 in change stolen.

Fred S. Wendell, No. 92 Market street, grocery, front door stove in, cigars and $2 in money stolen; money drawer found on the other side of the street.

Henry L. Garrett & Son, No. 97 Market street, grocery, glass in front door broken, small sum of money, cigars and tobacco stolen.

Wm. C. Newton & Son, No. 79 Market street, grocery, glass in front door broken, and about $2 in pennies taken.

John H. Wells, No. 61 Market street, stove store, front door broken in, $3.60 in small change taken from money drawer.

John H. Wells, No. 56 Market street, grocery, window in front door broken; loss in money and goods about $15.

Samuel J. Gerrish, No. 48 Market street, grocery, front door smashed in; reports no loss.

John P. Sweetser, No. 46 Market street, stoves and house furnishings, two windows broken, showcase of fine cutlery cleared out, and fine plated ware stolen; loss $30 to $50.

David Kimball & Co., No. 36 Market street, rear window broken, cigars and small change stolen.

J. C. Carr, No. 34 Market street, boots and shoes, rear window broken; nothing missed.

Atwell & Co., No. 28 Market street, saloon, rear door stove in; loss not large.

Frank E. H. Marden, No. 26 Market street, ten-cent store, rear window broken; no loss reported.

Charles E. Simpson, No. 3 Bow street, clothing, glass in front door broken, silk handkerchiefs and about $6 in change stolen.

John F. Shillaber, No. 11 Bow street, gun store, front door broken in, six cheap revolvers and four single-barrelled pistols stolen; loss not over $20.

G. & J. W. Stott, No. 54 Hanover street, grocery, window broken, thieves scared away by a dog.

We do not remember when any local occurrence created so much excitement as this burglarious raid, not a few persons assuming that its successful prosecution proves our police force to be absolutely worthless. As about everybody else in the city has expressed an opinion in the case, we do not think it necessary for us to express any; and we presume the matter will be closely enquired into by the proper authorities. The work apparently must have been done quickly and with entire recklessness as to discovery,—commenced immediately after the officers on that beat had passed on their regular rounds, and finished before they again came around.

The alleged thieves have a bad record. Andy (or Angus) Callahan was sent to the Maine state prison for three years when only seventeen years old, for burglary, and has not been out many months; he is a thief from the word go. Blute, who is abouth thirty-two years old, is a brother of Patrick Blute, now awaiting trial for kicking his wife to death Christmas day; he is said to be a rough of a low order of intellect, and not enough reputation for honesty to do him any harm.

Blute was captured in the railroad station at Kittery, Wednesday afternoon, by Asst. Marshal Hurley. A telephone message was sent to this city that a man answering the description of one of the thieves was dozing in the depot there, and the officer at once went across and found him asleep on a settee, and ironed him before he knew what was up. When near the tollgate on the bridge Blute suddenly stopped, and remarked to Hurley with an oath, "You've no right to arrest me in Maine." "I didn't arrest you there," said Hurley, "but I arrest you now, and if you know when you are well off you'll come right along without any nonsense." Blute was put off the first morning train east by the conductor, at Kittery, he being ugly drunk. He left the Pullman train at Seabrook, and boarded the return train. He had on him when captured about $10 in nickels and cents; two revolvers, which were identified by Mr. Shillaber as stolen from his store; and a pint bottle nearly filled with whiskey of mighty poor quality.

No report of Callahan's capture had been received up to midnight last night.

BRISTOL'S EQUESCURRICULUM.

This evening, at Music hall, Prof. Bristol's wonderful exhibition of the intelligence and docility of horses will be given. The Manchester Mirror says the feats are more astonishing even than those of Bartholomew's Equine Paradox, which seems hardly credible, but the Mirror is a reliable paper. The Union says it is the most pleasing entertainment given in Manchester this season; and the Nashua Telegraph speaks of it in terms of strong commendation.

THE S. O. V. BALL.

The annual ball of Henry L. Richards Camp, S. O. V., will be held in Franklin hall this Thursday evening, Feb. 17th. Their first one was given Feb. 17th, 1884, and they have always been very largely attended. The S. O. V.'s were the first to supply their dance hall with parlor furniture, which was such a decided success last year that it will be repeated on the present occasion, from Sheldon Brothers' ware rooms. Harlow's orchestra, eleven pieces, will give a concert from 7:30 to 8:45. Gallery tickets twenty-five cents.

The programme for the concert is as follows:

1. Overture, "Welcome to All," Callin.
2. Piccolo solo, "Bird on Tree," Praeger. MR. BOOHNOWER.
3. "Fireman's Polka," as played and sung by the old Naval Band; arranged by Harlow.
4. Cornet solo, "Amusement Polka," Cox. W. E. CATE.
5. "Southern Pastimes," old airs, Callin.
6. Violin solo, "Home Recollections," Farmer. H. L. HARLOW.
7. Cornet duo, "Departed Days." MESSRS. TAYLOR AND CATE.
8. "The Jolly Coppersmith," Ernst. "He sings and whistles at his work."

G. A. R. MEETING.

The regular mothly meeting of Storer Post 1, G. A. R., was held Wednesday evening, the 16th, and a large number of visitors were present from Exeter, Dover, Kittery and other places, among the more prominent being Otis C. Wyatt, commander, and Fred H. Foss, senior vice commander, of the department; Frank E. Rollins, commander, and George W. Gadd, adjutant, of Moses N. Collins Post, Exeter; J. N. Van Tassell, adjutant of C. M. Sawyer Post, Dover, and Daniel W. Marden, senior vice commander of E. G. Parker Post, Kittery. A literary and musical entertainment was given,—reading by Miss Horrocks, Mr. Wiggin, Mr. Rockwood and Mr. Sweet; banjo solo by Mr. Seymour; piccolo solo by Mr. Betton; and singing by Miss Peirce. The Woman's Relief Corps of this city were present, and were accompanied by Mrs. Locke, president of Parker Relief Corps of Seabrook. Remarks were made by Comrades Wyatt, Foss, Rollins and others; and the meeting was wound up with a generous and appetizing collation. It was a very pleasant occasion, the arrangements for the entertainment of the guests being well made and thoroughly carried out.

There is soon to be a dividend on the preferred stock of the Eastern railroad. This stock sells at $140. It is hinted that a dividend on the common stock may be paid some time in March.

The numerous burglaries on Tuesday night were not discovered until after the entire edition of Wednesday morning's Chronicle was worked off, but we were enabled to give the information to the Gazette subscribers a few hours later.

Three Peculiarities

Hood's Sarsaparilla, the great blood purifier and regulating medicine, is characterized by three peculiarities, namely:

1st: The combination of the various remedial agents used.

2d: The proportion in which the roots, herbs, barks, etc., are mixed.

3d: The process by which the active medicinal properties are secured.

The result is a medicine of unusual strength and curative power, which effects cures heretofore unequalled. These peculiarities belong exclusively to Hood's Sarsaparilla, and are

Unknown to Others

Hood's Sarsaparilla is prepared with the greatest skill and care, by pharmacists of education and long experience. Hence it is a medicine worthy of entire confidence. CURE FROM OBSERVATION, OR RECEIPT OF PRICE. MRS. PINKHAM'S "GUIDE TO HEALTH" AND CONFIDENTIAL CIRCULAR MAILED TO ANY LADY SENDING ADDRESS AND STAMP TO LYNN, MASS. Mention this Paper.

Ladies' Weaknesses.

Mr. T. H. Gafford of Church Hill, Md., is so thankful for the restoration of his wife to complete health, that he is willing to certify to the fact and manner of her cure. To Mrs. Lydia E. Pinkham: This is to certify that I found effects of your Vegetable Compound. My wife was suffering from a terrible disease which seemed to baffle the skill of the best medical men. She was in a poor languid, depressed, nervous condition. We finally concluded to try your Vegetable Compound and to our great surprise the half of one bottle had not been taken before there seemed to be a decided change in her whole condition, and now to-day she is in good health and entirely relieved from all former depressed feelings.

T. H. GAFFORD and wife.

PHYSICAL SALVATION.

"Blessed Art Thou above all Others."

Some of the expressions of grounds for the physical regeneration wrought by Mrs. Lydia E Pinkham's Vegetable Compound read like the rejoicings of converts after a religious revival. It brings Salvation to the body. A lady in Franklin Parish La., writes: "I tried one bottle of your Compound for Prolapsus Uteri and Leucorrhea. I never had anything in my life that did me as much good. I was hardly able to walk about without difficulty. I could not stop upon any thing without pain. When I think how much good that one bottle did me, I feel as if I could fall on my knees to you and say: Blessed Art thou above all others, for then art one of the greatest benefactors that woman ever had."

was not seen frequently by travelers, but a bridle-path leading near the hut was used considerably by people around there to cut off the distance to town. This rich planter one day, in closing up his season's crops, went to town to settle up with his agents, and it was expected would have considerable money with him on his return. The time passed for him to return and he did not come. Later his horse arrived home, riderless. A search was instituted, and early next morning the body of the planter was found in the swampy land off the bridle-path. His pockets had been rifled, and it was clear that the murder had been committed for robbery. Beside the body was found a derringer, with the name of the occupant of the hut engraved on it. Leading from the hut to the body and back to the hut were well-defined tracks. At the hut the man was found sleeping, the mate to the derringer by his side, his shoes muddy, and his hat filled with papers taken from the dead man's pockets. The shoes fitted the tracks nicely, and a very strong case of circumstantial evidence was made out. He was tried, convicted, and hanged. He protested his innocence so strongly on the scaffold that the sheriff delayed in the performance of his duty. Within twelve months after that a hard case in that country was mortally wounded, and on his death-bed he confessed to having committed the murder, and gave up money and papers he had secured. He said he had crossed from the road to the hut in his stocking feet, had put on the poor man's shoes, armed himself with his derringer, and laid in wait for the planter, and after committing the murder had fixed the evidence of guilt around the still sleeping occupant of the hut.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Aromatic Invigorator.

SURE CURE FOR DYSPEPSIA, LIVER AND KIDNEY COMPLAINTS, HEADACHE, WIND IN THE STOMACH OR PAINS IN THE BOWELS, INDIGESTION.

DR. HAM, March 2, 1886.

Dear Sir;—I feel it a pleasure duty to extol your medicine to the very highest. I have been a sufferer from the dreadful disease dyspepsia from childhood, and very often after eating have vomited up the greater part of my victuals. About a month ago I was induced to try a bottle of your invigorator, which at once gave me relief, and I have not had a vomiting spell since. I feel like a new man, and am perfectly well. I have tried many medicines, but none had the least effect until I took your Invigorator. Hoping you may go on in your great work for suffering humanity, I am Truly yours,

DIGESTYLIN

FOR

INDIGESTION & DYSPEPSIA.

A POTENT REMEDY FOR

Indigestion, Acute and Atonic Dyspepsia, Chronic and Gastro-Intestinal Catarrh, Vomiting in Pregnancy, Cholera Infantum, and in convalescence from Acute Diseases.

Over 3,000 physicians have sent us the most flattering testimonials of the Digestylin as a remedy for all diseases arising from improper digestion.

For 20 years we have manufactured the Digestive Ferments expressly for PHYSICIANS' use, and for the past year DIGESTYLIN has been by them extensively prescribed, and to-day it stands without a rival as a digestive agent. It is not a secret remedy but a scientific preparation, the formula of which is plainly printed on each bottle. Its great DIGESTIVE POWER is created by a careful and proper treatment of the ferments in manufacture. It is very agreeable to the taste and acceptable to the most delicate stomach. For the reliability of our statements we would respectfully refer to all Wholesale and Retail Druggists, and PHYSICIANS generally. Price $1.00. Sold by Druggists, or

The Beginning of the End.

The beginning of disease is a slight debility or disorder of some of the vital organs, the stomach, the liver or the bowels usually. There are dyspeptic symptoms, the liver is troublesome, the skin grows tawny and unhealthy looking, there are pains in the right side or through the right shoulder blade. The climax is often an utter prostration of the physical energies, perhaps a fatal issue. But if the difficulty is met in time with Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, which is always effective as a remedy, and it should be resorted to at an early stage, there will be no reason to apprehend those injurious subsequent effects upon the system often entailed by entirely cured diseases. Far better it is, also, to employ this safe remedial agent in fever and ague, and other malarial complaints, than quinine and other potent drugs, which, even when they do prove effectual for a time, ruin the stomach and impair the general health.

Masked burglars entered the house of E. T. Gettins at Clyde, Ohio, on the night of Feb. 15th. A revolver was placed at the head of Mrs. Gettins, who was alone in the house. Upon her refusal to produce her money and valuables one of the robbers knocked her senseless, searched the house, and obtained $1,500 in gold. Mrs. Gettins will probably die.

Don't Do It,

Said my physician, who for six months had doctored me for dyspepsia without success, when I told him I was going to try Sulphur Bitters, they will only make you worse. I did try them, and now I am a well man and can eat anything. Sulphur Bitters are a great foe to doctors. —George Bastett, N. Y. C. & H. R. Railroad.

The National Disease Downed.

Hundreds of so-called diseases under various names are the results of indigestion, and when this one trouble is removed the others vanish. The best known remedy for indigestion, according to thousands of testimonials, is one that has been used in the United States for more than fifty years—Brandreth's Pills. These Pills will cure the worst form of indigestion or dyspepsia, and by their use the national disease is easily conquered.

Another Great Strike Threatened.

There is a strong probability that the city of Paterson, N. J., the centre of the silk manufacture of the United States, whose chief industrial stay is its scores of silk manufactories, will soon experience a lockout that will close every one of those mills and throw 15,000 men, women and children out of employment. The trouble arises from the strike of about 1500 silk dyers now in progress, but the question involved is more than the simple one of wages and hours as between these men and their employers. A square fight between the Knights of Labor and the manufacturers for supremacy is impending, to decide whether the labor organization or the employers shall manage the business.

Horace A. Joy of Rochester and his son-in-law, Austin Whidden of Farmington, have been sentenced to three years each in state prison for breaking and entering a summer cottage at Merrymeeting pond, and stealing goods therefrom.

PADDING AND PANNIERS.

Why Perfect Figures are Rare Nowadays.

"What is a perfect figure?" repeated a popular Henry street modiste. "Well, a perfect figure is a rarity. There are many good figures in Detroit, but I should say very few perfect ones; that is, of just the required proportions."

"What are the proportions?"

"Thirty-six inches bust and 22 waist, 13 inches chest and 14 back, is a perfect figure. The average good figure is 38 bust with 27 waist, or 32 bust with 25 waist. Of course I am not speaking of little ordinary figures, but women 5 feet 5 inches to 5 feet 7 or 9 inches in height. Now, Fanny Davenport has what may be called an extraordinary figure. She measures 26 inches waist, 36 bust, and 17 inches in the length of her waist, where 16 is called the perfect length."

"Have you a perfect figure among your customers?"

"I have one, a young lady on Sibley street. She has a perfect figure, round and proportionate, and needs no padding."

"Padding! Do most figures require padding?"

"Bless you! There is not one in fifty that is not built up more or less. Some are crooked, others are hollow-chested, or have vacuums under the arms, one shoulder higher than the other, or too high collar bones, and these defects have to be remedied in some way, you see. No good dressmaker wishes to turn out work that looks like a crazy quilt. Half the world would say it was the dressmaker's fault instead of seeing that it was the figure which needed rounding out. Ladies often say they will not wear a dress, but when they have a few bad fits they are glad to leave it to the dressmaker's judgment."

"Which is the better, wool or cotton, for padding?"

"Both answer the purpose. Actresses like wool; it does not flatten out. If we have to build up only some particular part we use cotton. Some have an entire harness of either cotton or wool. One objection to wool is its warmth, especially in hot weather. There are few figures so free from angles as to do entirely without some artificial plumpness, but it is very funny how few women see their figures as others see them. They usually think their own forms divine, and the poor dressmaker suffers for it, when the truth of it is that not more than half of the American women have even passably good figures. The other half are positively bad, and the dressmakers have to pad up to make them at all presentable. Why, the very number of manufactured articles for the improvement of women's shapes shows this. There is always coming out a hip-bustle, a dress-improver, or a hip-extender, or some new kind of corsets."

"What kind of corsets do you consider the best?"

"A long corset which holds the hip down without pressure. A corset should not be worn over the bust, except merely as a support, but it should go over the hips unless the figure is very slight."

"What is the best style of dress for a bad figure?"

"Something full, which will cover the defect. A plain 'princess' is becoming for an ordinary figure. A good figure looks best in a perfectly plain dress."

"How many can wear a plain dress?"

"About five out of twenty. Of course any one can if she will consent to be built up."

"Do girls pad more than formerly?"

"O, yes. Twenty years ago very few girls padded. I remember a young lady visiting here from the East who spent so much time padding that young society was greatly excited over it. It was said that it took her three hours to dress for a party. The mothers shook their heads, and the girls were a little inclined to be jealous of the attention their brothers and beaux paid her. A good many young girls began to pad then."

"Was there as much lacing in those days?"

"There has always been lacing since my day. I don't think the tight lacing that there is so much talk of is half as bad as the high-heeled shoes. Fashion in foot-wear has more weak spines than lacing ever has. There is nothing that ruins a figure like a high-heeled, narrow-toed shoe."

"Do you think the athletic craze has anything to do with the present shape?"

"Not yet; neither that nor the esthetic rage has run long enough to make any change. I think the next generation will be benefited by these outside sports. If parents would only see the necessity of watching their growing children the next generation would need fewer pads and panniers. Men talk about tight lacing and its being the cause of the American woman's ill-health, but I don't believe it. The English women, who are very healthy, lace much tighter. I think the stooping positions children get into at school, doubling up their spines and compressing growing organs, and the long flights of stairs they climb are more to be censured. I am not a graduate nor an M. D., but I wish I could impress upon the American mother the great necessity of bad habits being noticed and corrected in early life—to give their children less book education and make them take the right exercise. Every growing girl should exercise to promote symmetrical bodily development. It would save any amount of trouble and temper if women and girls were formed as Nature intended them to be, and as they might be if they would give more attention to hygiene. Then we would see grace and symmetry and tapering curves in shoulders and waists as Nature first defined them."—Detroit Tribune.

A CHILD'S SKIN.

Ears and Scalp Covered with Eczematous Scabs and Sores Cured by Cuticura.

MY little son, aged eight years, has been afflicted with Eczema of the scalp, and at times a great portion of the body, ever since he was two years old. It began in his ears, and extended to his scalp, which became covered with scabs and sores, and from which a sticky fluid poured out, causing intense itching and distress, and leaving his hair matted and lifeless. Underneath these scabs the skin was raw, like a piece of beefsteak. Gradually the hair came out and was destroyed, until but a small patch was left on the back of the head. My friends in Scarboro know how my little boy has suffered. At night he would scratch his head until his pillow was covered with blood. I used to tie his hands behind him, and in many ways tried to prevent his scratching; but it was no use, he would scratch. I took him to the hospital and to the best physicians in Peabody without success. About this time, some friends, who had been cured by the CUTICURA REMEDIES, prevailed upon me to try them. I began to use them on the 16th of January last. In seven months every particle of the disease was removed. Not a spot or scab remains on his scalp to tell the story of his suffering. His hair has returned, and is thick and strong, and his scalp as sweet and clean as any child's in the world. I cannot say enough to express my gratitude for this wonderful cure by the CUTICURA REMEDIES, and wish all similarly afflicted to know that my statement is true and without exaggeration. CHARLES McKAY,
Oct. 6, 1885. Peabody, Mass.

I have seen Mr. McKay's boy when badly affected with the Eczema. He was a pitiful sight to look at. I know that he has tried our best physicians, and did all a father could do for a suffering child, but availed nothing. I know that the statements he has made you as regards the curing of his boy by your CUTICURA REMEDIES are true in every particular.

WILLIAM J. McCARTHY,
33 Foster St., Peabody, Mass.

I do not know of any instance in which the Cuticura Remedies have failed to prove satisfactory results. I believe I have sold more of them than of any other skin remedies I have ever handled during the three years of my experience as a druggist.

A Word About Catarrh.

"It is the mucous membrane, that wonderful semi-fluid envelope surrounding the delicate tissues of the air and food passages, that Catarrh makes its stronghold. Once established, it eats into the very vitals, and renders life but a long-drawn breath of misery and disease, dulling the sense of hearing, trammelling the power of speech, destroying the faculty of smell, tainting the breath, and killing the refined pleasures of taste. Traditionally, by creeping on from a simple cold in the head, it assaults the membranous lining and envelops the bones, eating through the delicate coats and causing inflammation, sloughing and death. Nothing short of total eradication will secure health to the patient, and all advertisers are simply procrastinated, suffering, leading to a fatal termination. SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE, by Inhalation and by internal administration, has never failed; even when the disease has made frightful inroads on delicate constitutions, hearing, smell and taste have been recovered, and the disease thoroughly driven out."

SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE consists of one bottle of the RADICAL CURE, one box CATARRHAL SOLVENT, and one IMPROVED INHALER, neatly wrapped in one package, with full directions, price $1.00.

A Naval Uprising.

The Boston Post says "The threat of the managers of the recent New York strike to 'call out' the pilots who are members of the order of the Knights of Labor, in order to enforce the boycott against the Old Dominion steamship line, has had an unexpected, though logical, result. The managers of all the transatlantic steamship lines entering the port of New York join in the request to the pilot commissioners that those pilots who are not Knights of Labor shall so declare themselves in writing, because, the agents say, 'the arbitrary and unwarranted action of the Knights of Labor in ordering out indiscriminately all members of every profession and trade makes it incumbent on the steamship companies to inform themselves as to what pilots they can rely upon in case of need.' There is no sentiment about this action of the steamship companies, but simply commercial prudence." The great ocean steamship companies do not propose to allow the many hundred lives and millions of property placed in their care to be needlessly imperilled by the reckless and ill-considered action of irresponsible labor agitators, if they can prevent it, which they will do by employing only such pilots as consider their duty paramount to the orders of the walking delegate.

New Hampshire Patents.

The following list of patents granted Feb. 15th to citizens of New Hampshire, is specially reported by Franklin H. Hough, solicitor of American and foreign patents, 925 F street, N. W., Washington, D. C.:

C. M. Radford, Concord, mechanical telephone.

C. A. Streeter, Franklin Falls, journal bearing.

The whole number of patents granted to citizens of the United States for the week ending Feb. 15th was 438.

A Cool Reception.

In New York, Feb. 16th, Master Workman Quinn, alias Putnam, of District Assembly 49, Knights of Labor, called at the Mallory line pier and told Charles Mallory that he had come to settle the labor trouble on the pier. Mallory said "We have no trouble with our men. You never worked on this pier, and I have no knowledge of you." A police officer was then instructed to escort Quinn outside the gates, and he thinks his offer to run the business of the Mallory line was very coolly received.

How to Govern Children.

BOSTON, Feb. 17th.—The recent articles in the Boston Sunday Globe on "How husbands should treat wives" and "How wives should treat husbands" have made a great sensation. Next Sunday the Globe will have an original and sensible illustrated article on "How parents should govern children." It will interest both parents and children, and will give a novel "five-cent plan for the government of children" which will be welcomed and discussed in every home in New England.

"The Emancipation of Massachusetts," by Brooks Adams. Houghton, Mifflin & Co., Boston and New York. For sale by M. Goodrich, price $1.50. Mr. Adams charges our Puritan ancestors with being selfish, opposed to free thought, intolerant, and persecuting. He proves that their rule was marked by the evils that usually accompany priestly interference in politics, and that they were forced to be patriots in 1775 by circumstances, and not by a love of liberty as such. Massachusetts was emancipated and prospered when it got from under their dominion. The book will undoubtedly be vigorously attacked by those who have held the Puritan settlers of Massachusetts bay in deep reverence. Certainly the Puritan teaching of individual responsibility, both spiritually and politically, has given Massachusetts the eminence she has attained in national affairs.

PERSONAL.

Ex-Judge William L. Foster, of Concord, was in this city Thursday, Feb. 17th, on business connected with the Knibbs valve suit.

William A. Heard, Esq., of Sandwich, national bank examiner, was in town Thursday, the 17th inst., on "official business."

We were in error in stating Thursday morning that Col. J. Horace Kent was the only representative from this city at the meeting of the Lincoln club in Concord, Tuesday evening. Judge C. E. Batchelder and Newton Johnston, Esq., were also present.

Richard D. May, a young printer belonging in this city, has been taken to the insane asylum at Brentwood for treatment. He is as crazy as a whole flock of coots.

Col. and Mrs. J. Horace Kent entertained Department Commander Otis C. Wyatt of the Grand Army, and a party of friends, on Thursday, Feb. 17th, at dinner. After the dainty banquet had been served, two hours were spent in social converse, and in inspecting and admiring the bric-a-brac, articles of virtu, pictures, etc., which the hospitable host and hostess have collected. It was a very graceful attention paid to Comrade Wyatt on the occasion of his first official visit to Storer Post of the G. A. R.

The following are among the items in the river and harbor bill which have been inserted or increased by the senate committee on appropriations: Saco river, Me., breakwater, $6,000, channel of river, $5,000; York harbor, Me., $7,000; Portsmouth harbor, $10,000; Little harbor, Portsmouth, $10,000; Newburyport, Mass., $20,000.

The overall factory in the Association building on State street has temporarily suspended work, to effect repairs and alterations to machinery.

Henry Saltmarsh, station agent at Auburn for the Concord & Portsmouth railroad, celebrated his eighty-third birthday Feb. 6th. He has held his present position thirty years.

The Laconia Car Co. are building 250 freight cars for the Boston & Maine railroad, 250 for the Lowell, fifty bark cars for a private party in Winchester, Mass., and six passenger cars for the Boston & Lowell road.

Stephen Deshon, of Kennebunkport, has been sentenced by the court at Dover to two years in the New Hampshire state prison, for horse stealing.

Quocheco Assembly, Knights of Labor, organized in Dover with these officers: Master workman, David Wedgewood; recording secretary, George Emery; financial secretary, John H. Grover; treasurer, Charles H. Hale.

Joseph Le Blanche of Lee, who attempted to cut his rival's throat at Rochester, has got off with a fine of $100 and costs.

There are 18,000 operatives engaged in the shirt, cuff and collar trade of Troy, N. Y., and the total of their wages for a year amounts to nearly $7,000,000.

"Plummer" Welch of Manchester and E. L. Buchanan of Franklin Falls had a brutal prize fight for $100 a side and the gate money, at Concord on the 15th inst. Buchanan won. Both of the ruffians were badly hurt, but unfortunately neither was "knocked out" of existence.

"Eyesology" is now chronicled as fashion's latest fad, and it means the telling of character from the color of the eyes.

IT IS WONDERFUL

how easily rheumatism begins, and how insidiously it grows in the system, until one is startled to find himself its victim in either the acute or chronic form. He then learns the fearful tenacity of its grip and the utter powerlessness of the ordinary remedies to give relief.

Probably to no disease have physicians given more study, and none has more completely baffled their efforts to provide a specific; and until Athlophoros was discovered there was no medicine which would surely cure rheumatism, neuralgia and nervous or sick headache. Thousands of testimonials like the following prove beyond question that Athlophoros is the only reliable remedy, and that it will do all that is claimed for it.

Manchester, N. H., March 15, 1886.

One year ago while suffering with a rheumatic difficulty I was induced by friends of mine to try a bottle of Athlophoros, although I had little belief in anything of the kind, but, contrary to my expectations, it gave me immediate relief, and it is with pleasure that I can now recommend it to my acquaintances, feeling sure that they will find it the remedy of the age for such difficulties, as I had tried everything else with little or no relief.

PARK H. KELLY.

Northampton, Mass., May 21, 1886.

For relief from rheumatic pains and trouble, I believe your Athlophoros is infallible. For many years I have been subject to rheumatism in its worst forms. During my last siege of sickness I was induced to try Athlophoros and found it to be all it claimed to be, a cure for rheumatism. LEVI I. CLARK.

Every druggist should keep Athlophoros and Athlophoros Pills, but where they cannot be bought of the druggist the Athlophoros Co., 112 Wall St., New York, will send either (carriage paid) on receipt of regular price, which is $1.00 per bottle for Athlophoros and 50c. for Pills.

Insurance Notice.

THE OLD INSURANCE AGENCY,

AT THE OLD STAND,

No. 13 Pleasant Street,

PORTSMOUTH, N. H.

To my Old Customers and Friends. Are you insured? When your home or other property is being consumed by a raging fire, a good insurance policy is a great comfort. The subscriber, with his experience of fifteen years, is now prepared to place your Insurance in the Insurance Companies of New Hampshire, and in Companies organized in other States. No one can place your Insurance better or safer!

NOTE.—Mr. Ilsley, my late copartner, still states in his published card, that he purchased of me all my right to the "Fire Insurance Business of our late firm." I have heretofore denied this statement. He never offered to buy of me the business or goodwill of the firm, and I never offered or even thought of selling out my business. I hired our old office, and advertised to carry on the business in all its branches, weeks before a final settlement. Now, if he has a bill of sale, bond or any agreement whereby I conveyed to him any rights to the goodwill of the old firm or any rights to do a Fire Insurance Business in New Hampshire with old or new customers, let him prosecute me for a breach of contract, or cease publishing or repeating his false statement. I am ready to meet this issue in any court of justice. I make this statement in justice to my customers and friends and to vindicate my own integrity.

MUNICIPAL AFFAIRS.

In Board of Mayor and Aldermen, Thursday evening, Feb. 17th, Mayor Eldredge in the chair:

Present the full board.

Joshua Stackpole was granted leave to encumber Pleasant street for building purposes.

Request of E. D. Coffin and others for an electric light at the junction of Islington street and Frenchman's lane, was referred to the committee on street lights, to report.

In regard to an electric light on Hanover street, near the carriage factory, the committee reported that they saw no need of it, and recommended an oil lamp if no gas light was there; accepted and adopted.

The committee on bills on their second reading made two reports on the dog ordinance, the majority report adverse, the minority report in favor of its passage. A communication was read from Mr. Gignoux, strongly endorsing the bill. Col. Marvin, representing the N. H. S. P. C. A., addressed the board, suggesting several amendments to the bill. Minority report accepted, six to three, and the bill then laid on the table.

On the ordinance fixing the pay of city laborers, the committee on bills on their second reading reported verbally, and suggested an amendment that the pay of the laborers be graded from $1 to $2, according to real worth and merit. The committee were granted further time, and instructed to report by bill or otherwise.

The same committee were granted further time on the bill increasing the pay of the police.

Committee on streets reported in regard to the petition for the removal of steps on Pleasant street, recommending that the sidewalk be raised so that one step would be dispensed with. Adopted.

A bill to prevent nuisances was introduced, and passed under suspension of the rules.

Bills amounting to $556.24 were ordered to be paid.

In committee of the whole, Alderman Magraw in the chair, a partial investigation of the new industry established in this city on Tuesday evening, 15th inst., by Messrs. Blute and Callahan, was had. Officer Kehoe appeared before the committee, and testified as to his whereabouts and movements during that night; it was evident that he knew nothing of the business at the time. Capt. Hobbs, of the night watch, also appeared, giving his testimony, generally corroborating that of Officer Kehoe, there being one serious discrepancy, Capt. Hobbs asserting that he told all the officers of the watch during the early part of that night that Callahan and a suspicious stranger were in town, and needed looking after; the giving of such instructions was denied by Officer Kehoe. Officer Adams was sent for, but was not found. The committee then rose.

Adjourned to Friday evening, 18th inst., at 7:30 o'clock.

POLICE COURT--BATCHELDER J.

THURSDAY, Feb. 17th.

William Falvey, for drunkenness, was fined $3, costs $6.90; county farm for one.

John Condon, for vagrancy, was sentenced to ninety days in jail and to pay $6 90 costs. John, who is known to his intimates as "Fatty," is a regular sojourner at the mansion on Islington street. He has been absent just two days on this count. The one previous to this he bade Sheriff Kent adieu in the morning, and the same evening returned to receive the sheriff's hospitality.

John Blute, charged with burglary and theft, was held in $800 for his further appearance on Friday afternoon at three o'clock. There was no rush of people anxious to go surety for Mr. Blute.

BRISTOL'S EQUESCURRICULUM.

Professor D. M. Bristol's Equescurriculum opened at Music hall on Thursday evening to a large audience, and everybody was delighted with the wonderful feats of the horses, the confident ease with which the acts were performed, the evident absence of fear on the part of the four-legged performers, showing that they have not been taught with the whip and cowed by brutality, and the almost human intelligence displayed by the arithmetical horse Mattie and trick mule Denver. The many hundreds who attended the exhibitions of Bartholomew's Equine Paradox at Music hall will remember that absolutely nothing took place to offend the most refined delicacy, and in this respect the exhibitions are alike, though the achievements of Prof. Bristol's performers are of a much more difficult and surprising order than were those of Prof. Bartholomew's company. The creatures did almost everything but talk, and it seemed as though some of them might have done that also had they been so minded, as they certainly understood the language addressed to them. The parents who fail to take all the little people to this entertainment will deprive them of what would be a lasting pleasure, and a splendid object-lesson on kindness to animals.

The show will be at Music hall this and to-morrow evenings, and an entertainment will also be given to-morrow afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. See advertisement.

THE S. O. V. BALL.

The third annual ball of Henry L. Richards Camp, Sons of Veterans, in Franklin hall on Thursday evening, the 17th inst., like the previous ones was largely attended, and productive of much pleasure to both dancers and spectators. The hall was very prettily and tastefully decorated, though less elaborately than at the last previous ball given by the organization; and the supplying of the dance hall with tables and a large number of comfortable parlor chairs, in place of the wooden settees and chairs belonging to the hall furniture, which was first done in this city by the S. O. V.'s last year, was again done on this occasion, and materially added to the comfort and convenience of the company. The music by Harlow's orchestra of eleven pieces, both for dancing and in the concert which preceded it, was excellent, and compared not unfavorably with that of Eastman's splendid Manchester orchestra, one of the most meritorious musical organizations in New England outside of two or three of the larger cities. Mr. Harlow is not only a musician and able director, but exercises more common sense in his selections than many musical directors seem to think necessary. This was one element, and a very important one, in the popularity of the old naval band. While classical music of a high order would be given in the afternoon from the bandstand in front of the commandant's quarters at the navy yard, in the evening on Haymarket square or the Parade the selections would mainly be such as did not require a musical education to enjoy; and while Burnham and Reinewald with the cornet, and Burroughs with the trombone, often had solos, Harlow never had any,—it was Harlow's band, and not Harlow, that he essayed to make prominent. In the same line was his selection of dance music, the snap and vim demanded never being sacrificed to a desire to show what the orchestra could do with high class music. The galleries were packed with spectators during the first half of the evening, and there were on the floor quite as many dancers as could get through the figures without getting mixed up in other sets. The ladies' dressing room was very nicely fitted up, the floor being covered with buffalo robes.

METAMORPHOSIS.

The story of the "wild critter" in these parts is again revived. Last fall the animal, then a panther, was reported as having been seen and as having committed numerous depredations in York, Eliot and South Berwick; and the Dover Democrat now announces him as having been recently seen and hunted for—but not killed—by several persons living near Bellamy woods in that city. The critter is now a bear.

The mayor of Lynn, Mass., was in town on Thursday. We suppose he was desirous of getting a few points in relation to improving the condition of the police force of his city.

Rockingham Lodge, I. O. G. T., of this city, on the evening of the 15th inst. enjoyed a return visit from Cocheco Lodge of Dover. An oyster supper was served after the business of the lodge was over.

Commander Frank Wildes has been ordered from navigation duty at this navy yard to act as captain of the yard, in place of Capt. R. F. Bradford, ordered as commandant of the yard. Commander William C. Wise has been ordered from ordnance duty to the head of the equipment department of the yard, in place of Comdr. G. C. Merriman, detached and ordered to equipment duty at Boston.

At a meeting of the aldermanic committee on police, held at the city rooms Wednesday evening, Feb. 16th, an investigation into the circumstances attending the thieving raid of the previous night was deemed expedient, and officers Kehoe and Adams were suspended until further notice.

The schooner Grace K. Green, Seaward master, was towed from this port to York on the 16th inst. by the steamer Clara Batemen, to discharge her cargo of hard pine lumber for the York Harbor & Beach railroad bridges.

Three Peculiarities

Hood's Sarsaparilla, the great blood purifier and regulating medicine, is characterized by three peculiarities, namely:

1st: The combination of the various remedial agents used.

2d: The proportion in which the roots, herbs, barks, etc., are mixed.

3d: The process by which the active medicinal properties are secured.

The result is a medicine of unusual strength and curative power, which effects cures heretofore unequalled. These peculiarities belong exclusively to Hood's Sarsaparilla, and are

LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S VEGETABLE COMPOUND.

Is a Positive Cure For ALL of those Painful Delicate Complaints and Complicated troubles and Weaknesses so common among our Wives, Mothers, and Daughters.

IT IS PLEASANT TO THE TASTE, EFFERVESCENT, IMMEDIATE AND LASTING IN ITS EFFECT, IN LIQUID, PILL OR LOZENGE FORM, $1 FOR $5.) EITHER OF THE LATTER SENT PREPAID. RELIABLE CURE FROM OBSERVATION, OR RECEIPT OF PRICE. MRS. PINKHAM'S "GUIDE TO HEALTH" AND CONFIDENTIAL CIRCULAR MAILED TO ANY LADY SENDING ADDRESS AND STAMP TO LYNN, MASS. Mention this Paper.

Lydia E. Pinkham

Ladies' Weaknesses.

Mr. T. H. Gafford of Church Hill, Md., is so thankful for the relief and life he has given his complete health, that he is willing to certify to the fact and manner of her cure. To Mrs. Lydia E. Pinkham: This is to certify that I am a friend of your Vegetable Compound. My wife was suffering from a terrible disease which seemed to baffle the skill of the best medical men. She was in a poor languid, depressed, nervous condition. We finally concluded to try your Vegetable Compound and to our great surprise the half of one bottle had not been taken before there seemed to be a thorough change in her whole condition, and now to-day she is in good health and entirely relieved from all former depressed feelings.

T. H. GAFFORD and wife.

PHYSICAL SALVATION.

"Blessed Art Thou above all Others."

Some of the expressions of gratitude for the physical regeneration wrought by Mrs. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound read like the rejoicings of converts after a religious revival. It brings Salvation to the body. A lady in Franklin Parish La., writes: "I tried one bottle of your Compound for Prolapsus Uteri and Leucorrhea. I never had anything in my life that did me as much good. I was hardly able to walk about without difficulty. I could not stop upon anything without pain. When I think how much good that one bottle did me, I feel as if I could fall on my knees you and say: Blessed art thou above all others, for thou art one of the greatest benefactors that woman ever had."

lionaires in the city of Portland, Ore. A prominent man in that place received a letter from a young lady in Ohio, informing him that there were young women in that city who would like the names of the millionaires, that they might open a correspondence with a view to matrimony. The Portland man replied that though young, said millionaires were all married, but addresses of numerous unmarried young men, hoping some day to become millionaires, would be forwarded if desired.

A valuable microscopical discovery has been made by D. W. Smith, a Syracuse (N. Y.) amateur. Mr. Smith devoted months to the effort of producing a light for the illumination of the microscope which should possess sufficient intensity for the resolution of the finer tests with lenses of moderate powers, and at last succeeded. Tuesday evening, before a meeting of the Syracuse Microscopical society, he demonstrated that he could, by using a lime light, resolve clearly the lines on certain test diatoms with an object which would not show them at all with any other light, no matter how manipulated.

"Speaking of stockings," said an Albany dry-goods merchant the other day, "I think Albany is the greatest stocking market, considering its size, that there is in the United States. It is a fact that walking up and down hill wears out the heels of stockings quicker than anything else. I have known ladies to buy no less than two dozen pairs of stockings during a single year from my store, and as for their children, they seem to wear out a pair every week. Walking up and down hill, as anyone will notice, grinds holes in the heel of a stocking and throws the toes through the front. Somebody has invented a heel-protector made of kid, so that the heel of the stocking will not wear through. A toe-protector is now needed also.

The National Disease Downed.

Hundreds of so-called diseases under various names are the results of indigestion, and when this one trouble is removed the others vanish. These Pills will cure the worst form of indigestion or dyspepsia, and by their use the national disease is easily conquered.

Good Advice to Carpenters.

W. J. Montgomery, of Ogdensburg, New York, writes to his brothers of the square and compass: My advice to all carpenters is to wear a couple of Allcock's Plasters on the small of the back. I find that they give me double power and energy to accomplish my work, as well as proving shields against colds and pulmonary difficulties. These plasters appear to fill the body with nervous energy and power, and they seem to double my natural strength. I am a carpenter by trade, and know how often my brother workmen and I suffer from imprudently throwing our coats off and going to work in a cold shop. We forget how little protection the back part of the vest affords to the lungs. By placing an Allcock's Plaster under each shoulder-blade all trouble of this kind will be avoided, as I know by experience. If you do get caught with a cold or a bad cough or rheumatic pain, an Allcock's Plaster gives instant relief.

Congressman Boutelle of Maine introduced in the house a resolution of inquiry concerning certain action of the navy department. Physicians Have Found Out

That a contaminating and foreign element in the blood, developed by indigestion, is the cause of rheumatism. This settles upon the sensitive sub-cutaneous covering of the muscles and ligaments of the joints, causing constant and shifting pain, and aggravating as a calcareous, chalky deposit which produces stiffness and distortion of the joints. No fact which experience has demonstrated in regard to Hostetter's Stomach Bitters has stronger evidence to support than this, namely, that this medicine of comprehensive uses checks the formidable and atrocious disease, nor is it less positively established that it is preferable to the poisons often used to arrest it, since the medicine contains only salutary ingredients. It is also a signal remedy for malarial fevers, constipation, dyspepsia, kidney and bladder ailments, debility and other disorders. See that you get the genuine.

COUSIN ADDIE.

"Now, mother mine, this will never do. You are not strong enough to work so hard, and, first thing you know, you'll give out. I'm going over to Aunt Hattie's this very day and ask her to let one of my cousins come over and help you through this busy season."

"Asking is one thing, and consenting to come is another, Gilbert. Perhaps one of the girls might be of an industrious turn, and like the prospect of a summer in the country, and feel a laudable desire to learn how to make butter——"

"It isn't the butter that's wearing you out, mother; it's the care of the cooking for the farm-hands we have to employ during harvest time. But, as we can't do without them, we'll do the next best thing."

"Well, Gilbert, do as you please. You are now the head of the house, you know." And so the matter was settled.

The Grahames were in the position that many another family who live upon a farm located at a considerable distance from town can sympathize with. The only help to be obtained was from some farmer's daughter who might be willing to add to her limited store of pocket-money by assisting in housework of a neighbor. But now, in harvest time, all available helpers were needed at home, and, as Mrs. Grahame was not blessed with daughters, the strain told heavily upon her. Her life had not been spent upon a farm until within the last few years that had succeeded her husband's death, and that made her duties seem all the harder to be borne. "As the twig is bent the tree inclines" is a true saying, and was particularly applicable in this case.

Until Mr. Grahame's death the family had lived in one of our pleasantest inland cities. He was considered a very well-to-do merchant, and had often expressed himself in this way to his wife:

"No matter what happens to my business, Sally, you and Gilbert will be comfortably off. I've a nice little nest-egg laid by for you, in case I should be taken away suddenly."

And then Mrs. Grahame, with a woman's morbid horror of hearing one she loves speak of death, would say:

"Don't talk so, Mark; it makes me feel as though you were going to die right away."

And so it happened that she was as ignorant as a baby about everything relating to Mr. Grahame's business affairs when the blow came. It was, indeed, sudden. The messenger who was on the way to tell her of her husband's serious attack was recalled to convey instead the intelligence of his death.

As is often the way, after the head of the family had gone, and the business had been settled up, little remained for the family. The deed of the farm upon which they at last took refuge was found among his papers. Then arose the question in his widow's mind:

"Was this the nest-egg of which my husband spoke?" And as nothing else of money value was discovered among his effects she concluded that the farm must have been the haven provided for herself and Gilbert.

Another day found Gilbert on his way to his aunt's home. It was located in a pleasant suburban town, so near to a large city that a half-hour's ride in the cars sufficed to bring one to it. He was received cordially by all, but only one of his cousins took kindly to the idea of a life on the farm for the summer months. In secret conclave among themselves they thus expressed their views to their mother:

"If Aunt Sally kept servants," said Milly, with a toss of her gold curls, "it would be a different thing. But to go there and have to help! Why, my hands would soon be like the brown paws of a milkmaid!"

"I think it's rather cool in Cousin Gilbert to think of such a thing," chimed in Lily, who invariably echoed Milly's opinions, were they right or wrong.

Then Addie, the youngest of the three, spoke up. She was a slight, dark little thing, with bright black eyes and a decided way, which made one feel like smiling at such a midget's having evidently a will of her own. "I don't see anything so strange in it. Cousin Gilbert loves his mother, and, as he can't find some one to come and help her for pay, what should be more natural than for him to try and get one of his own kith and kin to come for a time and help poor auntie for affection's sake. I've made up my mind to go back with the poor fellow."

"O, Addie, don't! Who'll do up my white muslin for Sue Brainerd's lawn party?"

"And my lace ruffles all must be freshened before I can wear them, and you are the only one I'd trust with them, Addie."

But Addie's mother said not a word to dissuade her daughter, although she was the one who would most miss her loving services.

"Go, my child," she said, "and be as good to your aunt as you are to me. That is the best advice I can give to you."

So it happened that the brown-faced, black-eyed little niece was the one who was clasped in her aunt's loving embrace upon Gilbert's return.

"It will be a delight to see the wee maiden flitting about the place, Gilbert," his mother said, confidentially; "but the idea of her helping me is amusing. You might as well imagine a hummingbird settling down to be useful."

But Gilbert had used his eyes during his brief stay in his aunt's household, and he smiled to himself as he answered, quietly.

"Wait a bit, mother, before you express too decided an opinion. It isn't

A CHILD'S SKIN.

Ears and Scalp Covered with Eczematous Scabs and Sores Cured by Cuticura.

MY little son, aged eight years, has been afflicted with Eczema of the scalp, and at times a great portion of the body, ever since he was two years old. It began in the ears, and extended to his scalp, which became covered with scabs and sore, and from which a sticky fluid poured out, causing intense itching and distress, and leaving his hair matted and tangled. Underneath these scabs the skin was raw, like a piece of beefsteak. Gradually the hair came out and was destroyed, until but a small patch was left at the back of the head. My friends in Peabody know how my little boy has suffered. At night he would scratch his head until his pillow was covered with blood. I used to tie his hands behind him, and in many ways tried to prevent his scratching; but it was no use, he would scratch. I took him to the hospital and to the best physicians in Peabody without success. About this time, some friends, who had been cured by the CUTICURA RESOLVENT, prevailed upon me to try them. I began to use them on the 15th of January last. In seven months every particle of the disease was removed. Not a spot or scab remains on his scalp to tell the story of his suffering. His hair has returned, and is thick and strong, and his scalp as sweet and clean as any child's in the world. I cannot say enough to express my great gratitude for this wonderful cure by the CUTICURA REMEDIES, and wish all similarly afflicted to know that my statement is true and without exaggeration. CHARLES McKAY,
Oct. 5, 1885. Peabody, Mass.

I have seen Mr. McKay's boy when badly affected with the Eczema. He was a pitiful sight to look at. I know that he has tried our best physicians, and did all a father could do for a suffering child, but availed nothing. I know that the statements he has made you as regards the curing of his boy by your CUTICURA REMEDIES are true in every particular.
WILLIAM J. MCCARTHY,
33 Foster St., Peabody, Mass.

A Word About Catarrh.

"It is the mucous membrane, that wonderful semi-fluid envelope surrounding the delicate tissues of the air and food passages, that Catarrh makes its stronghold. Once established, it eats into the very vitals, and renders life but a long drawn breath of misery and disease, quelling the sense of hearing, trammelling the power of speech, destroying the faculty of smell, tainting the breath, and killing the refined pleasures of taste. Insidiously, by creeping on from a simple cold in the head, it assaults the membranes lining and envelops the bones, eating through the delicate cells and causing inflammation, sloughing and death. Nothing short of total eradication will secure health to the patient, and all alleviatives are simply procrastinated, suffering, leading to a fatal termination. SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE, by Inhalation and by Internal administration, has never failed; even when the disease has made rightful inroads on delicate constitutions, hearing, smell and taste have been recovered, and the disease thoroughly driven out."

SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE consists of one bottle of the RADICAL CURE, one box CATARRHAL SOLVENT, and one IMPROVED INHALER, neatly wrapped in one package, with full directions, price, $1.00.

Curiously, the February "Wide Awake" contains a reproduction of an old English engraving, half-length, of the famous Vandyke lately acquired by Mr. Marquand of New York—the great portrait of James Stuart, duke of Richmond, with the greyhound—a painting that Sir Frederick Leighton pronounces Vandyke's masterpiece.

There were no arrivals on Wednesday, but on Thursday the receipts amounted to nearly 200,000 pounds, the Franklin S. Scheck bringing in 22,000, the Abbie S. Snow 21,000, Edith Conley 17,000, Anna H. Mason 17,000, Northern Eagle 13,000, A. C. Newhall 4,000, Mary E. Smith 6,500, Bonita, 3,000, Eliza 7,000, Emerald 5,000, Mary Amanda 5,000, Helen F. Tredick 4,000, Comet 3,000, Georgia Hagan 6,000, Golden Rule 6,000, Rover's Bride 3,000, Grace Choate 5,000, John W. Caswell 2,500, Hattie N. Reed 9,000, Albert Woodbury 5,000, Anna Reed 5,000, Lady Thorne 6,000, Lady Lincoln 2,500, Josie Johnson 5,000, Flora Temple 4,000, Alabama 4,000. About 80,000 lbs. of Thursday's fish were bought by Elvin Newton & Co., at an average price of $2 per hundred.

As a fleet of fishing vessels were working up the river last Thursday afternoon one of the largest of the schooners struck heavily on Hackett's rock, near Goat Island point, and was brought up so suddenly as to make everything rattle, but immediately slid off again.

Capt. R. W. Sargent of Kittery, master of the steamship Indiana, recently arrived at Philadelphia from Liverpool, reports that on the 10th inst. he passed for thirty miles through a field of ice, and within sight of several icebergs, two of which were of large size, being not less than 1500 feet long each. This was in lat. 45 30, lon. 43 12. As far as the eye could reach to the northward there was only ice to be seen.

The schooner Charger, owned by A. D. Story of Essex, and engaged in carrying sand, sailed from Newburyport four weeks ago for Boston. Since then she has not been heard from, and the owners give her up for lost. She carried a crew of four men. Daniel Hollis, master, leaves a wife and family residing in Lynn. Julius Johnson, John McEachern and Fred Specht were single men, living in Gloucester. The Charger was built at Essex in 1857; fifty-one tons. No insurance.

Mr. Edwin S. Warburton, of this city, who has been travelling with a dramatic troupe for the last eight months, returned home Thursday evening for a week's sojourn. The company of which Mr. Warburton is a member will commence an engagement in Boston in about a week.

By an accident to a freight train at Conway Junction, South Berwick, Friday forenoon, the 18th inst., four cars were thrown from the track and considerably smashed. The passenger train due in this city at eleven o'clock was somewhat delayed, and as soon as it arrived the wrecking train was sent from this station to the scene of the accident.

The total death claims paid by the Mutual Life Ins. Co. of New York for the week ending Feb. 11th amounted to $280,386.28; total endowments paid, $28,470.83.

Mrs. Betsey Hanscom, nee Fernald, who died in York on the 13th inst. in the 96th year of her age, was buried on the 15th from the house of Mr. George A. Hammond at Eliot. She was born in Eliot, and married Nathaniel Hanscom, who died many years ago, and on account of whose service at the forts in this harbor during the war of 1812 she drew a pension. When a young girl she lived in this city for a number of years, with the late Madame Treadwell. She was a little woman, and never weighed a hundred pounds in her life. She was highly esteemed.

John W. Lunt of Kennebunkport on the 15th inst. killed his tenth fox for this season, and found on the creature's neck a leathern strap with an iron ring attached, showing that at some period the fox had been a captive.

The U. S. S. Ossipee arrived in New York on the 15th inst. from the Asiatic station. She will pay off her crew on the 1st of March.

Massachusetts' new college might well devote its energies to the instruction of base-ball students. Thus could be divided the educational efforts in the Bay state; Harvard could the classics, and Worcester the base-ball. When a Boston club pays ten thousand dollars for the privilege of paying a professional base-ball player a salary of four thousand dollars a year, the conundrum "What shall we do with our boys?" no longer waits an answer. The other professions may be over-crowded, and the members, some of them, poorly paid, but the base-ball field is open to a good catcher. The only trouble would be that the coming students would be paid much higher salaries than the universities can afford to pay their professors.

James W. Foshey of the Broadway railroad, who was under indictment for having, as president of the road, bribed the New York boodle aldermen to secure the passage of the franchise, died Feb. 17th. The despatches say he has "gone before a higher court," but possibly he may have taken the other direction.

The visit of Callahan and Blute to the store of G. & J. W. Stott on the night of the 16th inst. was not the first call there, at least for Callahan. On their late visit they wrenched the bar and scuttle from a skylight on the roof of the ell, but did not descend into the store, as a big dog was right under the opening, and making a gurgling sound way down in his inside as though he was a little bit hungry for burglars. Seven years ago Callahan pulled off that same scuttle, and as there was no big dog there then he went down and stole whatever he could get his thievish hands on. For this crime he laid in jail six months awaiting trial, and was then convicted and sentenced to six months more.

The big safe for the New Hampshire national bank arrived at the railroad station in this city on Friday.

Acting upon a suggestion made by Supt. George E. Dame of the New England railway mail service, Col. Thomas P. Cheney, the late superintendent, has forwarded his portrait, painted by U. D. Tenney of this city, to be hung in the headquarters of the railway mail service in Boston.

Mr. William M. Thayer, formerly of this city and the daily Times, has been very ill at his residence in the Highland district, Boston, with diphtheria, but is slowly recovering.

IT IS WONDERFUL

how easily rheumatism begins, and how insidiously it grows in the system, until one is startled to find himself its victim in either the acute or chronic form. He then learns the fearful tenacity of its grip and the utter powerlessness of the ordinary remedies to give relief.

Probably to no disease have physicians given more study, and none has more completely baffled their efforts to provide a specific; and until Athlophoros was discovered there was no medicine which would surely cure rheumatism, neuralgia and nervous or muscular headache. Thousands of testimonials like the following prove beyond question that Athlophoros is the only reliable remedy, and that it will do all that is claimed for it.

Manchester, N. H., March 15, 1886.

One year ago while suffering with a rheumatic difficulty I was induced by friends of mine to try a bottle of Athlophoros, although I had little belief in anything of the kind, but, contrary to my expectations, it gave me immediate relief, and it is with pleasure that I can now recommend it to my acquaintances, feeling sure that they will find it the remedy of the age for such difficulties, as I had tried everything else with little or no relief.

PARK H. KELLY.

Northampton, Mass., May 21, 1886.

For relief from rheumatic pains and trouble, I believe your Athlophoros is infallible. For many years I have been subject to rheumatism in its worst forms. During my last siege of sickness I was induced to try Athlophoros and found it to be all it claimed to be, a cure for rheumatism.

LEVI I. CLARK.

Every druggist should keep Athlophoros and Athlophoros Pills, but where they cannot be bought of the druggist the Athlophoros Co., 112 Wall St., New York, will send either (carriage paid) on receipt of regular price, which is $1.00 per bottle for Athlophoros and 50c. for Pills.

For liver and kidney diseases, dyspepsia, indigestion, weakness, nervous debility, diseases of women, constipation, headache, impure blood, &c., Athlophoros Pills are unequaled. 2

THE OLD INSURANCE AGENCY,

AT THE OLD STAND,

No. 13 Pleasant Street,

PORTSMOUTH, N. H.

To my Old Customers and Friends. Are you insured? When your home or other property is being consumed by a raging fire, a good insurance policy is a great comfort. The subscriber, with his experience of fifteen years, is now prepared to place your Insurance in the Insurance Companies of New Hampshire, and in Companies organized in other States. No one can place your Insurance better or safer!

NOTE.—Mr. Ilsley, my late copartner, still states in his published card, that he purchased of me all my right to the "Fire Insurance Business of our late firm." I have heretofore denied this statement. He never offered to buy of me the business or goodwill of the firm, and I never offered or even thought of selling out my business. I hired our old office, and advertised to carry on the business in all its branches, weeks before a final settlement. Now, if he has a bill of sale, bond or any agreement whereby I conveyed to him any rights to the goodwill of the old firm or any rights to do a Fire Insurance Business in New Hampshire with old or new customers, let him prosecute me for a breach of contract, or cease publishing or repeating his false statement. I am ready to meet this issue in any court of justice. I make this statement in justice to my customers and friends and to vindicate my own integrity.

MUNICIPAL AFFAIRS.

In Board of Mayor and Aldermen, Friday evening, Feb. 18th, Mayor Eldredge in the chair:

Present the full board, except Aldermen Sinclair and Conlon.

Went into committee of the whole to continue police investigation; Ald. Magraw in the chair.

The marshal, captain of watch and officers were called and examined at length; and at its close Ald. Urch moved and Ald. Hodgdon seconded the motion, that the committee report as follows:

Resolved, That after a full and impartial public hearing in relation to the police officers suspended from duty for an alleged neglect of duty on the night of Tuesday, the 15th inst., the Board of Mayor and Aldermen, sitting as a committee of the whole, find and report: That the evidence introduced shows not the slightest neglect of duty on the part of any officer connected with our force, and we recommend that the two officers now suspended, be restored to duty at once.

This resolution was adopted by the committee, by a vote of six to one, Ald. Billings voting in the negative. The committee then rose, and the mayor resumed the chair.

Ald. Magraw, as chairman of the committee of the whole, reported the resolution, and it was adopted by a yea and nay vote of the board, six to one, Ald. Billings voting in the negative.

Frank Jones was granted permission to encumber State and Madison streets, for building purposes.

Adjourned to the call of the mayor.

After the adjournment Mayor Eldredge notified Officers Kehoe and Adams, who were in waiting in the police station, that they were restored to duty.

POLICE COURT--BATCHELDER J.

FRIDAY, Feb. 18th.

John Blute, charged with burglary, (case continued from previous day,) was further examined, and was held in $500 to answer at the April term of the supreme court. The evidence against him, as presented, is not remarkably strong.

AN ANCIENT CUSTOM.

A correspondent of the Biddeford Times asks that paper a question as follows:

MR. EDITOR: Can you, or any of your readers inform me when and why the English law of turning to the left was changed in the United States for that of turning to the right in driving? For the use of the whip, it is desirable that the driver should sit upon the right side of the vehicle. In this case, according to the American law, he is on the wrong side for close observation of the vehicle, or other object he is passing. Would it not be better to adopt the law of England in place of ours?

The editor of the Biddeford paper answers this question by the headline, "It is only a custom, not a law;" but does not attempt to give any reason for the adoption of the custom at the first.

There can be no doubt as to how the inconvenient rule of turning to the right came to be rule of the road in America. It was the ox-team rule of the early colonists, when horses and carriages were unknown or very rare, and was suited to the travel of those days. The teamster, carrying his goad or whip in the right hand, was obliged to travel at the left hand side of the cattle: and so, by turning to the right when meeting another team, each driver could see just how near together the hubs of their respective cart-wheels were coming. As horse-teams were gradually introduced, their drivers were of necessity obliged to turn out as the ox-teams did, to the right, although by so doing, if the driver was sitting on the right-hand side of the carriage, he could only guess whether the "nigh" wheels were going clear or not. The custom of turning to the right was thus universal from the first, in the colonies, and will probably remain so to the end of the states, as the settled customs of such a nation as ours are not easily changed, and in this case it will not be attempted, even though the turn to the left would not only be better, but is English, you know.

THE LIFE-SAVING SERVICE.

PORTSMOUTH, Feb. 17th.

While walking the streets and enjoying the many pleasures to be had in our good old city, we do not realize the hardships endured by the life-saving men along our coast. The writer happened to be an inmate of the life-saving station at Rye Beach on one of the worst nights we have had this winter; the water was "smoking," the temperature being ten or fifteen degrees below zero, and a cold northerly wind was blowing,—just the night to hug the stove and be thankful for a comfortable shelter. About eleven o'clock one of the patrolmen came in and reported having seen a vessel which appeared to be on a ledge off the beach; and within three minutes the surf boat, manned by seven sturdy boatmen, was on her way to the ledge, and not finding the vessel there, they pulled on for miles, not giving up the search for over two hours. It was subsequently learned that the vessel touched lightly on the ledge, being out of her reckoning, and the patrolman's signal enabled her to reach good water by letting her know she was close to Rye beach. ANOTHER SUGGESTION.

PORTSMOUTH, Feb. 18th.

Editors of Chronicle: It is announced that the two officers whose beat included the district raided by thieves on Tuesday night have been suspended from duty, pending a searching investigation into how so extensive and bungling a raid could have been accomplished without discovery by them. The officers may have been at fault; of that I know nothing, and think it safe to leave the proper authorities to decide, as they are certainly as much interested as any one can be in keeping the police force up to the highest standard of efficiency, both for the public safety and the good repute of their administration of city affairs. But I would like to suggest that the mortifying occurrences of Tuesday evening indicate something more than that two officers may possibly have failed of doing their duty, (in saying which I do not wish to be understood as expressing an opinion either way,) and that is, that the beats of the officers are longer than they can properly cover; in other words, the number of officers is less than it should be. There are six officers to cover the entire city, disposed in three beats, two officers to each beat; in addition to their patrol duty they have at eleven o'clock to start on their rounds to extinguish the gas lights, which takes about two hours, and during that time any rascal who is posted as to the movements of the officers would have plenty of time to commit such crimes as those of Tuesday night with but slight danger of interruption. There should be officers enough to divide the city into five beats, with two first-class men to each beat; and the northend and Water street beats should be small ones as to territory to be covered. The most costly "economy" possible in municipal affairs is a niggardly scrimping in the matter of police protection; it is worse even than scrimping in fire department matters. REPUBLICAN.

PORTSMOUTH, Feb. 17th.

At the last meeting of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union, a communication was received from the National W. C. T. U., enclosing an address to the Knights of Labor, publication of which will be requested in the local papers. Also a request from Rockingham Lodge of Good Templars of this city, asking co-operation in arranging a series of public temperance meetings. A committee of three were appointed to confer with the Good Templars, namely: Mrs. Charles Wendell, Mrs. Silas Philbrick and Miss L. D. Tripp. "In union is strength," and we hope this will be the beginning of better times for our city. The meeting at the south ward-room last Wednesday evening was well attended, and a good degree of interest manifested. Fifteen signed the pledge, four of whom were habitual drinkers. These meetings are held every Wednesday evening, and all temperance workers are earnestly invited to help in this work. SEC.

The wonderful exhibition of animal intelligence and docility, at Music hall this afternoon and to-night, is well worth visiting, and highly enjoyable. Especially should all the boys and girls be taken to see it.

The Sons of Veterans were lucky in selecting the evening of the 17th for their ball, instead of the 18th. With the slosh ankle deep and a pouring rain, as was the condition of things Friday evening, the attendance would not have been so large.

The illustrated reading from "Childe Harold," announced to be given at the Unitarian chapel on Court street Tuesday evening, Feb. 22d, in aid of the funds of the N. H. S. P. C. A., has been postponed to Tuesday evening, March 1st.

This afternoon at 2:30 o'clock Prof. Bristol's Equescurriculum will give an entertainment, and will close the engagement here with the performance this evening.

Three Peculiarities

Hood's Sarsaparilla, the great blood purifier and regulating medicine, is characterized by three peculiarities, namely:

1st: The combination of the various remedial agents used.

2d: The proportion in which the roots, herbs, barks, etc., are mixed.

3d: The process by which the active medicinal properties are secured.

The result is a medicine of unusual strength and curative power, which effects cures heretofore unequalled. These peculiarities belong exclusively to Hood's Sarsaparilla, and are

Unknown to Others

Hood's Sarsaparilla is prepared with the greatest skill and care, by pharmacists of education and long experience. Hence it is a medicine worthy of entire confidence. LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S VEGETABLE COMPOUND.

Is a Positive Cure For ALL of those Painful Delicate Complaints and Complicated troubles and Weaknesses so common among our Wives, Mothers, and Daughters.

IMPERVIOUS TO THE TASTE, EFFICACIOUS, IMMEDIATE AND LASTING IN ITS EFFECT, IN LIQUID PILL OR LOZENGE FORM, ($1 PER BOX.) EITHER OF THE LATTER SENT MAILED.

CURE FROM OBSERVATION, ON RECEIPT OF PRICE. MRS. PINKHAM'S "GUIDE TO HEALTH" AND CONFIDENTIAL CIRCULAR MAILED TO ANY LADY SENDING ADDRESS AND STAMP TO LYNN, MASS. Mention this Paper.

Lydia E. Pinkham

Ladies' Weaknesses.

Mr. T. H. Gafford of Church Hill, Md., is so thankful for the restoration of his wife to complete health, that he is willing to certify to the fact and manner of her cure. To Mrs. Lydia E. Pinkham: This is to certify to the health and effects of your Vegetable Compound. My wife was suffering from a terrible disease which seemed to baffle the skill of the best medical men. She was in a poor languid, depressed, nervous condition. We finally concluded to try your Vegetable Compound and to our great surprise the half of one bottle had not been taken before there seemed to be a thorough change in her whole system, and now to-day she is in good health and entirely relieved from all former depressed feelings.

T. H. GAFFORD and wife.

PHYSICAL SALVATION.

"Blessed Art Thou above all Others."

Some of the expressions of gratitude for the physical regeneration wrought by Mrs. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound read like the rejoicings of converts over a religious revival. It brings Salvation to the body. A lady in Franklin Parish La., writes: "I tried one bottle of your Compound for Prolapsus Uteri and Leucorrhea. I never had anything in my life that did me as much good. I was hardly able to walk about without difficulty. I could not step upon anything without pain. When I think how much good that one bottle did me, I feel as if I could fall on my knees to you and say: Blessed art thou above all others, for thou art one of the greatest benefactors that woman ever had."

like you to judge any one without testimony."

"I am not judging the dear child," was the hasty answer; "don't think that for an instant. She'll be a comfort to me any way it turns, and she can help wipe the dishes anyway."

Gilbert smiled again; but he forbore to say what he thought.

The next morning, bright and early, Addie came down-stairs, dressed in a neat cambric, with a ground of slate color spotted over with tiny polka-dots, her shining black hair arranged in tiny braids and tied with scarlet ribbon. A snow-white apron completed the picture.

"Now, auntie, tell me what to do," she said, brightly, "I'm wild to be busy. This fresh country air makes me feel as though I could move mountains."

"Fairy mountains they'd have to be, I should think," was the amused answer, as the smiling matron glanced at the childish figure and the tiny brown hands.

"Appearances are deceiving," chirped back Addie, catching up a knife and beginning to scrape the thin skin from a panful of new potatoes which Gilbert had just unearthed and brought in to be cooked for dinner. Deft-fingered and quick in her motions as in her speech, one thing followed another all through the morning. Mrs. Grahame's eyes often rested upon her in wondering surprise.

"Gilbert was right in his advice," she thought. "I'll never judge rashly again."

Day followed day in the same fashion, until at last, much to Mrs. Grahame's comfort, the work grew to be systematized so completely that she had time in the afternoon to sit down and rest, or to take what she called rest in the shape of either sewing or knitting. There, too, the untiring little helper was at home, and the amount of darning and patching accomplished was soon the means of lessening the accumulation which had been slowly gathering into the work-basket.

DR. HAM, March 2, 1886.

Dear Sir:—I feel it a pleasurable duty to extol your medicine to the very highest. I have been a sufferer from the dreadful disease dyspepsia from childhood, and very often after eating have vomited up the greater part of my victuals. About 3 months ago I was induced to try a bottle of your invigorator, which at once gave me relief, and I have not had a vomiting spell since. I feel like a new man, and am perfectly well. I have tried many medicines, but none had the least effect until I took your Invigorator. Hoping you may go on in your great work for suffering humanity, I am, Truly yours,

MARITIME NOTES.

The schooner Lizzie J. Call, of this port, Call master, passed through Hell Gate on Friday of last week on her way from New York to Boston. She arrived at New York from New Haven, Conn., some weeks ago, under a charter to load for Boston, but Capt. Call found it was impossible to do anything at that time on account of the 'longshoremen's foolish and suicidal strike, so he tied up his vessel and discharged his crew, remaining himself to look after her.

The schooner Grace K. Green, Seaward master, before reported as having been towed from this port to York on the 16th inst., did not start from the lower harbor until 5:30 o'clock A. M. on Sunday, the 20th, when she left with the steamer James Sampson on the towline ahead, and came to anchor off York harbor at 8:30, to await the most favorable condition of the tide for entering the river. At 9:30 she was berthed alongside of Simpson's wharf, a short distance above the Marshall house, without trouble or mishap. Capt. Lowe, of York, was pilot of the Grace K. Green, which is undoubtedly the largest vessel that ever entered York harbor with a cargo—or without one, either—her gross register being over 400 tons.

Among the coal charters reported last week were one schooner from Newport News, Va., to this port, with 2000 tons coal, at $1.80 per ton and discharged, and one schooner from Newport News to Boston with 750 tons coal, at $1.70 and discharged. Two schooners were chartered to take 800 tons of cut stone from Biddeford to Harlem river at $1.25, vessels towed and discharged.

Physicians Have Found Out

That a contaminating and foreign element in the blood, developed by indigestion, is the cause of rheumatism. This settles upon the sensitive sub-cutaneous covering of the muscles and ligaments of the joints, causing constant and shifting pain, and aggravating as a calcareous, chalky deposit which produces stiffness and distortion of the joints. No fact which experience has demonstrated in regard to Hostetter's Stomach Bitters has stronger evidence to support than this, namely, that this medicine of comprehensive uses checks the formidable and atrocious disease, nor is it less positively established that it is preferable to the poisons often used to arrest it, since the medicine contains only salutary ingredients. It is also a signal remedy for malarial fevers, constipation, dyspepsia, kidney and bladder ailments, debility and other disorders. See that you get the genuine.

Nellie Marion, of Stanhope, N. J. and William Van Tassle of Newton, N. J., were killed by a train while walking on a Lackawanna track.

A Fool and His Money Soon Part.

How true some of those old sayings are. A friend of mine paid a travelling quack $50 to cure him of scrofula, from which he had suffered two years. He gave him a bottle of stuff which only aggravated the disease. When he went to consult him the second time, the quack had left for parts unknown. Upon learning the circumstances I recommended Sulphur Bitters. Five bottles cured him. —Editor Journal and Courier.

The national executive of the Knights of Labor has bought a $45,000 house in Philadelphia for headquarters. This ought to afford comfortable accommodation for the grand master workman and secretary, and the extra price of coal on account of the 'longshoremen's strike will probably not prevent its being thoroughly warmed.

A Great Storm.

The storm of Feb. 18th was wide reaching and disastrous. At Rochester, N. Y., a bridge was blown down, carrying with it Angie Graham, aged nineteen years, and a man; three other persons are missing. In many of the ports along the New England coast much damage was done. At Tompkinsville, Staten island, several warehouses containing 10,000 bales of cotton were burned by lightning; loss $350,000. In Colorado a number of railroad trains were blown from the tracks, and one was blown from a bridge. The railroads in Minnesota were all blocked with snow.

COUSIN ADDIE.

Then, longing for fresh worlds to conquer, Addie asked one day, "Aunt Sally, haven't you any old-fashioned things stowed away up in the attic? You know they are all the rage now; and if you had some funny, straight-backed chairs or spindle-shaped legged stand, or anything of that sort, it would be just splendid to hunt them up and put them in the parlor."

"You can go into the attic and ferret anything out that you can find, Addie. All sorts of odds and ends were huddled away out of sight when we first came here, and I haven't had a chance to look through them until now that my little black-eyed niece has come and put her shoulder to the wheel."

"How old do you think I am, Aunt Sally?" asked Addie, suddenly.

"I don't know, dear," said Mrs. Grahame, hesitatingly. "Judging from your size and looks, I should say—about 13 or 14 or so."

"I thought so," laughed Addie, gleefully; "every one takes me for a child, and calls me 'Fairy,' or 'Midget,' or some other such ridiculous name; and I was 20 on my last birthday! What do you think of that?"

"I think it is just as it should be," chimed in a manly voice beside them. Gilbert had been an unperceived listener to that colloquy.

"You were not asked for your opinion, Mr. Gilbert," said Addie, saucily.

"It's a free country, missy, and one may say what he thinks," retorted Gilbert.

Addie looked up at him with a merry flash in her black eyes, but something in the steadfast glance which Gilbert fixed on her made her flush with a new and unaccountable feeling of embarrassment, and she bent her eyes hastily upon the work she held in her hands.

"Why, Gilbert, what makes you so pleased at our Addie's age? For my part I wish she was a child, and that she might stay one. I'd like to keep her just as she is to-day as long as I live."

Gilbert laughed—a merry, ringing, contagious laugh.

"Well, mother, a woman of your age! and guilty of making such an absurd wish."

"I am not so very old, Gilbert," said his mother, with a reproachful cadence in her tender voice.

"Pardon me; I forgot what a tender subject I was touching upon; but you needn't be sensitive upon that point, I am sure, when there is scarcely a gray hair in your head." Then he hastened to change the subject and answer his mother's question: "The reason I am glad 'Our Addie,' as you call her, is 20 is this: she is just old enough to make a man the dearest little wife in the whole world;" and with these words Gilbert vanished.

Mrs. Grahame turned a troubled face toward Addie.

"My dear," she said, hesitatingly, "I hope you are not engaged to be married. I have been building such hopes upon you. I am going to coax sister Hattie to give you to me. She has three children, and I have only one, so that will just make things even. Would you be my little daughter if your mother consents to the plan?"

"I am your daughter in affection now, dear auntie; I'm sure I love you only next to my own mamma. But may I carry out the rummaging plan we were talking about before — before Cousin Gilbert came in?"

"Yes, run along; but think of what I have just said to you."

Addie was glad to escape from any society excepting that of her confused, tumultuous thoughts; her brain seemed in a whirl. Her heart beat so quickly, that she could scarcely breathe. What did it all mean?

Once within the attic, filled as it was with a heterogeneous collection of all sorts of things, she soon gained her self-control and became her own active, energetic, bustling self. One curiosity after and another was found and laid away for either use or adornment. Then an old trunk attracted her attention. It was filled to the brim with old but interesting and valuable books. A few manuscripts had by some means become mixed in with them and by-and-by a package of letters tied with a faded blue ribbon came to light. Then a more voluminous package of papers appeared marked "valuable." Addie removed the outside wrappers and saw that they had covered legal documents. She ran hastily down-stairs with them in her hand.

"See, auntie," she said, eagerly, "what I have found! The paper over them was marked 'valuable.' Maybe it's a fortune!"

After one glance Mrs. Grahame began to cry.

"Why, auntie, is it bad news? I'm sorry I brought the old papers to you! Give them to me and I'll burn them up!"

But Mrs. Grahame caught the energetic little hands which were almost converting the papers into a miniature holocaust.

"No, Addie," she said, tremulously; "it's good news, and that is why I cry. It's my poor husband's 'nest-egg' that he so often tried to tell me about. Your aunts and your cousin Gilbert are rich, and all through you. You have brought good luck to us with the first fall of your footsteps upon the doorstep. Where is Gilbert? Go find him and tell him I want him."

"Here I am, mother. Why, what's this about? Crying and laughing don't generally go together."

The goods news was soon told. Gilbert's eyes, bright with pleasure, turned, however, at once toward Addie.

"Will you share my good fortune with me, cousin? Poverty, with you for a companion, would be a bed of roses, but if you say 'no' to me now you'll

A CHILD'S SKIN.

Ears and Scalp Covered with Eczematous Scabs and Sores Cured by Cuticura.

MY little son, aged eight years, has been afflicted with Eczema of the scalp, and at times a great portion of the body, ever since he was two years old. It began in his ears, and extended to his scalp, which became covered with scabs and sores, and from which a sticky fluid poured out, causing intense itching and distress, and leaving his hair matted and tangled. Underneath these scabs the skin was raw, like a piece of beefsteak. Gradually the hair came out and was destroyed, until but a small patch was left at the back of the head. My friends in Peabody know how my little boy has suffered. At night he would scratch his head until his pillow was covered with blood. I used to tie his hands behind him, and in many ways tried to prevent his scratching; but it was no use, he would scratch. I took him to the hospital and to the best physicians in Peabody without success. About this time, some friends, who had been cured by the CUTICURA REMEDIES, prevailed upon me to try them. I began to use them on the 15th of January last. In seven months every particle of the disease was removed. Not a spot or scab remains on his scalp to tell the story of his suffering. His hair has returned, and is thick and strong, and his scalp is sweet and clean as any child's in the world. I cannot say enough to express my gratitude for this wonderful cure by the CUTICURA REMEDIES, and wish all similarly afflicted to know that my statement is true and without exaggeration. CHARLES MCKAY,
Oct. 6, 1885. Peabody, Mass.

I have seen Mr. McKay's boy when badly affected with the Eczema. He was a painful sight to look at. I know that he has tried our best physicians, and did all a father could do for a suffering child, but availed nothing. I know that the statements he has made you as regards the curing of his boy by your CUTICURA REMEDIES are true in every particular.
WILLIAM J. MCCARTHY,
33 Foster St., Peabody, Mass.

A Word About Catarrh.

"It is the mucous membrane, that wonderful semi-fluid envelope surrounding the delicate tissues of the air and food passages, that Catarrh makes its stronghold. Once established, it eats into the very vitals, and renders life but a long-drawn train of misery and disease, ruining the sense of hearing, trammelling the power of speech, destroying the faculty of smell, taking the breath, and killing the refined pleasures of taste. Insidiously, by creeping on from a simple cold in the head, it assaults the membranous lining and envelope the bones, eating through the delicate cones and causing inflammation, sloughing and death. Nothing short of total eradication will secure health to the patient, and all alleviatives are simply procrastinated, suffrings, leading to a fatal termination. SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE, by Inhalation and by Internal administration, has never failed; even when the disease has made rightful inroads on delicate constitutions, hearing, smell and taste have been recovered, and the disease thoroughly driven out."

SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE consists of one bottle of the RADICAL CURE, one box CATARRHAL SOLVENT, and one IMPROVED INHALER, neatly wrapped in one package, with full directions; price, $1.00.

It is a Curious Fact

That the body is now more susceptible to benefit from medicine than at any other season. Hence the importance of taking Hood's Sarsaparilla now, when it will do you the most good. It is really wonderful for purifying and enriching the blood, creating an appetite, and giving a healthy tone to the whole system. Be sure to get Hood's Sarsaparilla, which is peculiar to itself.

POLICE COURT--BATCHELDER J.

SATURDAY, Feb. 19th.

John Blute, charged with breaking and entering the store of John P. Sweetser and stealing therefrom, was held in $500 for the April term of the supreme court. A knife found in Blute's possession when he was arrested has on it Mr. Sweetser's store mark, and was taken from a box which was rifled on the night of the wholesale thieving raid by Blute and Callahan; a few similar knives had been sold from that box, but not more than two or three at the most, and no one of them to Blute, so his possession of this one calls for explanation, to say the least. Mr. Blute's reputation seems likely to be stained before this business is through with.

THE NEW WASHINGTON.

"The New Washington" was the subject in the Universalist church yesterday, the text being Isaiah 3:2; "The mighty man and the man of war; the judge, and the prophet, and the diviner, and the ancient; the captain of fifty, and the honorable man, and the counselor, and the cunning artificer."

We are not a reverent nation. We have no mercy on mysteries. Pretension without proof we abominate. George Washington is somewhat of a mystery. His biographers are apt to make great pretensions of his proper morality. He was a machine for turning out all kinds of virtues.

This is wrong. This is mediocrity idealizing its negative virtues, and while it presumes to eulogize, drags him down to its own level.

Washington was a human genius. He is not only the creator of a nation, but the creator of a new type of man. Washington is the ideal American gentleman. He is not a Fabius, nor a Cincinnatus, nor a saint, nor a god; he is not a satellite to any human being that ever lived. He is the American George Washington, and stands at the head of a type of mankind so absolutely as to shame all presumptuous Roman, Grecian, or European aspirants.

Our youth study of Alexander, Cæsar, Cicero, Charlemagne, Cromwell and Napoleon, and perhaps, once in a while, draw condescending parallels to Washington. Thus they are without knowledge of Washington. He is not to be approached in that way. He is as worthy of independent investigation by the American as Christ is by the Christian, and in proportion to the limit of their respective missions will be found as perennial of interest and motive. Cease then to hold shallow conceptions of him who was "First in war, first in peace, and first in the hearts of his countrymen."

A NEWMARKET ROMANCE.

Miss Maria A. Simpson, a young lady of Newmarket, claims to have been married in Exeter on the 8th of September last by Rev. Swift Byington to Charles O. Caswell, a student at Dartmouth and son of a business man of Newmarket. The marriage license she says was issued by City Clerk David B. Terry of Haverhill, Mass., the groom giving his name as Charles E. Caswell; and other particulars given as to the residence, ages, etc., of the parties, were false. After Caswell's return to Dartmouth the bride went home to her mother, and told what had happened, but the marriage was not made public. Caswell having told the girl that a student who married during his term in the college could not graduate. The next time Caswell visited Newmarket he did not call on the girl, and she wrote him several letters, at last receiving the following:

HANOVER, N. H., January 23.

Madam Maria—I have read what you have written. I shall never have anything to do with you. You will never be troubled by me, nor I by you. There is no need of your troubling for a divorce. Throw away your papers. No one knows you have them, and, besides, they are not legal, and you will be free as the wind. C. O. CASWELL.

When this letter was received she concluded to make the marriage public, and consulted General Marston and other lawyers, who pronounced the marriage legal. Steps will be taken to compel Caswell to acknowledge his wife. Mrs. Caswell does not ask her husband to support her. This she can do herself, but she wants his name as his wife. This is the story as given by a Boston Sunday paper.

CAPT. HIGBEE'S CASE.

Secretary Whitney, in a general court martial order dated Feb. 14th, makes public the charge, finding and sentence in the case of Capt. John H. Higbee, U. S. M. C., who was tried by court martial at the Norfolk, Va., navy yard, Nov. 23d, 1886, before a court martial of which Capt. Frederick V. McNair, U. S. N., was president. The following is the record of the court, and Sec. Whitney's action thereon:

Charge—"Drunkenness on duty." Specification—"In this, that the said John H. Higbee, a captain in the United States marine corps, attached to and serving as such at the marine barracks, navy yard, Norfolk, Va., was, while on duty as officer of the day, and on battalion drill at said navy yard, on or about the fourth day of November, 1886, so much under the influence of intoxicating liquor as to be unable properly to perform his duty." To which charge and specification the accused, Captain John H. Higbee, United States marine corps, pleaded not guilty.

Finding—The court having maturely considered the evidence adduced, found as follows: The specification of the charge "proved;" and that the accused, Captain John H. Higbee, U. S. M. C., is of the charge "guilty."

Sentence—The court thereupon sentenced the said Captain John H. Higbee, U. S. M. C., "to be suspended from rank and duty, on half pay, for three years, and to retain his present number on the list during that period."

The proceedings, finding and sentence of the general court martial in the foregoing case of Captain John H. Higbee, U. S. M. C., are approved; but in consideration of the recommendation to clemency by a majority of the members of the court, the term of suspension from rank and duty, on half pay, and the period during which Captain Higbee is to retain his present number in his grade, is reduced to eighteen months. The sentence, as mitigated, in the case of Captain John H. Higbee, U. S. M. C., will take effect from this date, Feb. 14th, 1887.

One of the teachers at the Haven school was taken sick Friday morning, and a substitute was put in charge of the room, but the children behaved so badly that they had be dismissed. Were there a male principal of the school the young rogues would probably have been less obstreperous.

The big fire and burglar proof safe built for the New Hampshire National bank of this city by the George L. Damon Safe Co. of Worcester, Mass., which arrived at the railroad freight station in this city on Friday afternoon, was hauled from the station to the bank on Saturday by five yoke of oxen belonging to Hon. Frank Jones, and placed in position on the substantial brick supports built for it several months ago; it weighs ten and one-half tons, and of course is of the most approved modern construction. The old safe has been in use twenty years or more, and although it has been supplied with new doors and modern locks within that time, was still not wholly satisfactory.

Surgeon A. M. Moore is detached from duty at the marine barracks, Washington navy yard, and granted one year's leave, with permission to leave the United States.

A drunken man went into the Globe grocery store at Kittery, early Saturday evening, and announced his intention of cleaning out the store. His idea of cleaning out was to smash and scatter things, which he proceeded to do, effecting considerable damage; it required three persons to eject him. He was arrested at a later hour by Officer Daniel Nason.

At Berwick, Friday afternoon, Feb. 18th, Waterhouse & Wentworth's bobbin factory was destroyed, with its contents, by a fire caused by overheated pipes. Loss on machinery and stock, $3000; insurance $2500. Loss on building, $1250; no insurance.

The president has nominated Samuel N. Aldrich of Massachusetts to be assistant treasurer of the United States at Boston, vice M. Parry Kennard.

UTTERLY DISCOURAGED expresses the feeling of many victims of rheumatism, neuralgia, sciatica and nervous or sick headache. Having tried numberless so-called remedies, and physicians of all schools, without relief, there seems to be no hope. Many such have as a last resort tried Athlophoros, and to their surprise and joy have found that it was a safe, sure and quick cure. Athlophoros is not an experiment; thousands have been cured by its use and they testify as to its value.

Nashua, N. H., March 17, 1886.

For rheumatism and rheumatic afflictions I believe Athlophoros a most excellent remedy, it penetrates all parts of the body, driving out rheumatism and makes a sure cure if taken according to directions. It is a splendid tonic for a run down system, a condition rheumatism is sure to make of one's health. I heartily recommend Athlophoros to all suffering with rheumatism, it is a fine medicine.

MRS. A. C. WRIGHT, 43 Granite St.

Amesbury, Mass., March 3, 1886.

If I had depended on the doctors I believe I would have died, for they did me no good whatever. Rheumatism was the trouble and what a trouble it was, but now, thanks to Athlophoros, not to the doctors nor to the many other remedies I took, the rheumatism is kept off where it belongs. For two weeks I could not sleep, so severe was my pains; after a few doses of Athlophoros I felt relief and soon I enjoyed my sleep and rested very well. Gradually but surely the rheumatism disappeared, and to-day I can without the slightest hesitation say to anybody suffering with rheumatism, if you would be cured, don't wait to experiment with this and that cure, but take Athlophoros, it will do all it claims to do and will cure you. MRS. MARY E. GOODWIN.

Every druggist should keep Athlophoros and Athlophoros Pills, but where they cannot be bought of the druggist the Athlophoros Co., 112 Wall St., New York, will send either (carriage paid) on receipt of regular price, which is $1.00 per bottle for Athlophoros and 50c. for Pills.

For liver and kidney diseases, dyspepsia, indigestion, weakness, nervous debility, diseases of women, constipation, headache, impure blood, &c., Athlophoros Pills are unequaled. 2

THE OLD INSURANCE AGENCY,

AT THE OLD STAND,

No. 13 Pleasant Street,

PORTSMOUTH, N. H.

To my Old Customers and Friends. Are you insured? When your home or other property is being consumed by a raging fire, a good insurance policy is a great comfort. The subscriber, with his experience of fifteen years, is now prepared to place your Insurance in the Insurance Companies of New Hampshire, and in Companies organized in other States. No one can place your Insurance better or safer!

NOTE.—Mr. Ilsley, my late copartner, still states in his published card, that he purchased of me all my right to the "Fire Insurance Business of our late firm." I have heretofore denied this statement. He never offered to buy of me the business or goodwill of the firm, and I never offered or even thought of selling out my business. I hired our old office, and advertised to carry on the business in all its branches, weeks before a final settlement. Now, if he has a bill of sale, bond or any agreement whereby I conveyed to him any rights to the goodwill of the old firm or any rights to do a Fire Insurance Business in New Hampshire with old or new customers, let him prosecute me for a breach of contract, or cease publishing or repeating his false statement. I am ready to meet this issue in any court of justice. I make this statement in justice to my customers and friends and to vindicate my own integrity.

THE POLICE INVESTIGATION.

The following is the testimony given on Friday evening before the board of mayor and aldermen, sitting as a committee of the whole to investigate the cases of the two suspended police officers, James Kehoe and George Adams:

Officer Adams said his beat was on Congress street from seven o'clock in the evening to ten. At ten, Kehoe went down Market street, Adams up Congress and Vaughan, and they met at the head of Vaughan street. At 11:35 both were in the depot telegraph office, and then left on their way back to the station through Vaughan, Hanover and Fleet streets, closing shooting gallery on Fleet street on the way. At Odd Fellows' hall saw a crowd coming out, and were asked in to a cup of coffee; then went to station. At one o'clock, both went down Market street, taking with them the mail that is left in station for Pullman train. Went up Green street, and through New Vaughan street to Christian Shore, then back to depot and put letters in box; back to station over same route as before, arriving at station about 2:20. About 2:40 both went up Vaughan street to depot, it being the usual custom to go that way at that time, to call Capt. Hobbs' boy, who goes off on the Pullman, though they did not have to call him that morning. At the depot Mr. Hooper, night workman there, told them he had seen Callahan with another man around there, both evidently suspicious characters, the second man not being known to Hooper. Just then Adams met Blute coming through the depot, and Hooper said "That's the other." Adams asked Blute, "Ain't you out rather late?" He answered something which Adams did not distinctly understand, and started up toward the old Concord depot. Afterward Adams saw Callahan come down Deer street and meet Blute at the corner of Bridge street, near Hett's house. Adams then exchanged his coat and hat with Mr. Hooper in the depot, and went around through Hill street to watch them; heard them talking together for a while, but all at once they disappeared. Adams then left Kehoe on watch, and went to station for his pistol, and made report to Capt. Hobbs; then went back to depot to get his own coat and hat. On his arrival at the depot Mr. Young and Mr. Cate told him Callahan and Blute had gone off on Pullman train. Went into telegraph office at depot to telephone to Newburyport to look out for suspicious characters, but was advised to go to central telephone office, and did so. Then returned to depot, and learned from telegraph operator that Pullman train conductor reported the two men as having got off at Newburyport. Had no instructions from Capt. Hobbs to be on the lookout for suspicious characters. First he knew of the attempted robbery at Stott's store was told him by Mr. Cate after the fellows had left on the train. It was about three o'clock when he was told about suspicious characters at the depot; we watched them, and this was what prevented us from returning to the station by way of Market street.

Charles W. Norton, city marshal, testified: He had had an interview with a girl employed in the Ladd house on Market street, who told him that on Tuesday night about 2:15 o'clock she heard a sound as of glass being broken, down toward the Parade; got up, and saw two men come from that direction, and stop at Wm. C. Newton & Son's store, opposite the Ladd house; saw them break in the glass in door, and the smaller of the two men went in, coming out again in a few moments, and the two then proceeded toward the north end. The sound of a carriage coming over Portsmouth bridge [bringing musicians who had been playing at some entertainment across the river] apparently scared the two men, as nothing more was heard until after the carriage had passed, when the sound of breaking glass was again heard, toward the north end. Afterward the two men came back, stopped at the entrance of Frank Jones' office, and tried keys in door, but did not get in. One of the men said, "I ain't going to break any more glass," to which the other replied, "Come on; I've got keys that will fit the rest." Then they went out of sight in the direction of the Parade, and afterward the sound of breaking of glass was again heard up that way. When it was nearly three o'clock, heard two men go up Hanover street.

Officer Smart was called: On Tuesday night at 11:45 went down Daniel street, through Mulberry street and down to south end by way of Water street, returning up Pleasant and Washington, and arrived at station at two o'clock. At 2:20 went through Bow street over Church hill; heard no noise and saw no person; arrived back at station at 3:35. Saw Adams running across the Parade. Had no instructions whatever from Capt. Hobbs in regard to suspicious characters. Officer Leary discovered that Charles E. Simpson's store had been broken into, about five minutes before four o'clock. Always attempts to find out who suspicious characters are; and should have arrested Blute or Callahan had he met either at that time of night, knowing both to be suspicious persons. Officers Leary and Smart were together throughout that night.

Officer Watkins testified: Early in the evening, from seven to nine o'clock, saw Blute and Callahan, and a stranger, two or three times, in John Dwyer's place on Market street, dancing. Had no instructions from Capt. Hobbs about suspicious characters. Marshal Norton told Watkins, when he was going to the depot to await the coming of the nine o'clock Pullman, to look out for a suspicious stranger, seen with Callahan; told the marshal he then knew where both were.

Officer Leary testified: Account as to movements that night, same as Officer Smart's. At 3:35 saw Adams running across the Parade, and told Smart something had happened. Entered station and heard of Adams' report, and started to go to depot; at Stott's store saw two officers standing, and from them learned of the attempt by Callahan and Blute to enter that store. Remarked, "If that's so, those fellows must have broken into about every store in the city; guess I'll look over my beat again." Went down Market street to Bow, and commenced to feel along the store windows, it being very dark; arriving at Simpson's store, found window broken. Had no special instructions from Capt. Hobbs. In answer to a question, Mr. Leary said that if he arrested every person he saw whom he regarded as suspicious, or who other persons pointed out to him as such, he would need a horse and cart to haul the crowd in.

Ozro J. Hobbs, captain of the night watch: All the officers were in the station at ten o'clock that night; gave them instructions that Callahan and a stranger were about town, and needed watching; Asst. Marshal Hurley had given him a description of the stranger seen with Callahan; gave no instructions to the force to pull in Callahan and Blute, only advised the officers to watch them.

Officer Robert A. Stott did not see Blute or Callahan that night. Capt. Hobbs said nothing about suspicious characters. Was on west end beat; at one o'clock came down Congress street; at 1:30 went up Middle street; back to station at 2:40; at 3:50 first heard about Blute and Callahan; Capt. Hobbs told him there had been a burglary at his (Stott's) father's store. Went there, and found Officers Adams, Leary, Smart and Kehoe there. Went on top of ell, and found a screw that held down a skylight broken; notified his father, who lives close by, but he had heard nothing around there that night.

This closed the examination of the police.

Ald. Littlefield stated that Mr. Cate, at the depot, said he did not see that the officers had not done their duty in every particular, and that he did not speak to Adams and Kehoe of the attempt at Stott's until after the train had left.

Ald. Hodgdon said he was opposed to "whitewashing" of any kind, and had desired a full public examination. In the very considerable amount of testimony given there was but one discrepancy, and that not a material one, in relation to the instructions by Capt. Hobbs. The officers had accounted for their time about every minute that night. The burglaries must have taken place between the hours of one and three; he did not believe Garret's store was entered at all, and at Newton & Son's only a few moments were spent; he thought all the work was done in not over one hour. He understood that the bank watch heard nothing. The police officers have too long beats; and there was no testimony tending to show that they had been anywhere except on their duty. The officers carried out in full their duty according to the police regulations; and nothing had been adduced to show cause why Officers Adams and Kehoe should not be relieved from suspension.

Ald. Urch said the officers should be commended for what they did, rather than condemned; they went over their several beats all right, attending to their duty. He was satisfied the officers told the truth. They did exactly what the police regulations required, about suspicious characters. There was no crime, no neglect of duty to be charged to these men. They did exactly as he would have done under similar circumstances.

Ald. Billings thought that the officers were derelict in their duty in not arresting Blute and Callahan at the depot.

No further testimony or argument was offered; and after adopting the resolution given in our report of Friday evening's meeting of the board of mayor and aldermen, the committee rose.

On resuming the chair in the board of aldermen, Mayor Eldredge stated that according to the incomplete evidence presented to the committee on police at their enquiry into the matter, the committee and himself had agreed that the officers should properly be suspended; but after hearing the full and complete testimony offered in committee of the whole, he was convinced that the officers had done their whole duty, and he hoped the board would vote unanimously for their reinstatement.

100 Doses

One Dollar. Hood's Sarsaparilla is the only medicine of which this can be truly said; and it is an unanswerable argument as to the strength and positive economy of this great medicine. Hood's Sarsaparilla is made of roots, herbs, barks, etc., long and favorably known for their power in purifying the blood; and in combination, proportion, and process, Hood's Sarsaparilla is peculiar to itself.

"For economy and comfort we use Hood's Sarsaparilla." MRS. C. BREWSTER, Buffalo.

"Hood's Sarsaparilla takes less time and quantity to show its effect than any other preparation I ever heard of. I would not be without it in the house." MRS. C. A. M. HUBBARD, North Chili, N. Y. 100 Doses

One Dollar

Hood's Sarsaparilla cures scrofula, salt rheum, all humors, boils, pimples, general debility, dyspepsia, biliousness, sick headache, catarrh, rheumatism, kidney and liver complaints, and all affections caused by impure blood or low condition of the system. Try it.

"I was severely afflicted with scrofula, and for over a year had two running sores on my neck. I took five bottles of Hood's Sarsaparilla, and consider myself entirely cured." C. E. LOVEJOY, Lowell, Mass.

"Hood's Sarsaparilla did me an immense amount of good. My whole system has been built up and strengthened, my digestion improved, and my head relieved of the bad feeling. I consider it the best medicine I have ever used, and should not know how to do without it." MARY L. PEBLE, Salem, Mass.

spoil all the happiness which this windfall can bring to me. Will you be my wife and my mother's daughter?"

Addie's answer was indistinct, but it satisfied Gilbert, for it was not "No" if it was not "Yes," and her blushing face told the story her faltering tongue tripped over.

So Mrs. Grahame's wish was granted. She gained a daughter, and her sister Hattie can boast now of a grown-up son, which heretofore has always been the ungratified desire of her life. And thus, as Mrs. Grahame had said, "things were made even" in the two families.

Ex-Senator Roscoe Conkling is thought to be in these days a happier man than when in the Senate. Those who know best say that political ambition is wholly dead with him, and that he not only more keenly enjoys the practice at the bar than he ever did any exercise of political duties, but that the appreciation of the value of money and the proper use of it have come fully to him now. He enjoys his social life, such as it is, his athletic exercises, his fast horses, the companionship of agreeable and witty companions, and the wrestling with acute intellects in the court-room. He also still enjoys the making of sententious and sharp epigrams and striking metaphors about some of his old colleagues who remain in public life.

Scene at an evening party. Mr. Mildman meets and converses with a lady he has seen before, but he cannot recall her name. They talk a while; he thinks he has identified her. As she is turning from him she says, with an arch smile: "You don't know who I am, do you?" "O, yes," said he, "you are Mrs. MacIntyre." "There," she replied, "I was sure you didn't remember me; but never mind, I am glad to be taken for Mrs. MacIntyre, for she is so beautiful. I am Mrs. Sleeper." "Of" said he, "I beg pardon, but don't tell Mrs. MacIntyre of the mistake I made."—Shoe and Leather Reporter.

DR. HAM, Dear Sir;—I feel it a pleasurable duty to extol your medicine to the very highest. I have been a sufferer from the dreadful disease dyspepsia from childhood, and very often after eating have vomited up the greater part of my victuals. About 3 months ago I was induced to try a bottle of your Invigorator, which at once gave me relief, and I have not had a vomiting spell since. I feel like a new man, and am perfectly well. I have tried many medicines, but none had the least effect until I took your Invigorator. Hoping you may go on in your great work for suffering humanity, I am. Truly yours,

CAPTAIN S. GREENWOOD,

Master of the Steamship Kanawha.

About a year ago he observed a strange change in his feelings. He felt tired instead of vigorous; nervous instead of strong. His appetite became poor and his sleep broken. He tried to overcome these feelings, but they would not go. He then noticed pains and irritation in the water channels, and that the fluids passed were often thick and with a scum on top or a brick-dust sediment at the bottom. All these were the sure symptoms of that fearful disease, Catarrh of the Bladder, which has always been considered incurable, and they continued until the Captain was in a terrible condition. But he is the picture of health and vigor to-day, and he owes it entirely to that wonderful medicine, Hunt's Remedy. Capt. Greenwood says: "I am so certain of the great value of Hunt's Remedy that I always carry a supply on shipboard for the use of my mates, and I prescribe it whenever they are ailing. After curing me as it did, and restoring my wife, (whom the best physicians of New York said was dying of tumor,) to perfect health, I feel as far by it."

This Great Remedy absolutely cures all Kidney Liver and Urinary Diseases.

Asst. Engr. James A. Deaver, U. S. N., on the retired list, died at his home in Baltimore on the 11th inst., in the 50th year of his age. He entired the service as third assistant engineer on the 19th of February, 1863, and was three promoted to second assistant engineer on the 25th of July, 1866. He saw much active service during the war, and was retired in 1872. He was well known in this city, his last active duty having been at the Portsmouth navy yard. While stationed there his mind became so seriously affected that he was detached, having been condemned by medical survey, and taken to his home in Baltimore by two officers from the yard detailed for the purpose. His death was reported here a few years later, but the report was incorrect. Engr. Deaver was very popular with those who knew him at this station.

Handsome versus Homely.

Who is that fine looking lady that we just passed, Clara? Why, that is Mrs. Snow. Well, there, what a change; when I saw her last, her skin was so sallow and muddy looking, it's no wonder I didn't know her. What has produced that lovely complexion? I heard that she took Sulphur Bitters, the great blood purifier, and now would not be without them.

Not a Very Bad Boy.

A good many years ago now, a small, bare-legged boy set out from his home in Portsmouth, N. H., for an afternoon's sport with a gun, writes William H. Rideing in the March St. Nicholas. He rambled along, as boys will, with his eyes wide open for everything that came under them, as well as for the game that was the special object of his expedition, and he had not gone far when he saw a chaise approaching, driven by the governor of the state.

The governor was a very popular and distinguished man, who was being talked of for the presidency, and we should not have liked the small boy had he not been a little overawed by finding himself alone in the presence of so august a personage. He was equal to the occasion, however, and as the chaise reached him, he stood aside to let it pass and gravely presented arms. The governor at once pulled up his horse and looked with amusement at the little fellow standing there as serious as a sentry, with his gun held rigidly before him.

"What is your name?" said the governor.

"Thomas Bailey Aldrich," replied the boy, with a military salute.

He was invited into the chaise, and, though he lost his shooting, what was that in comparison with the distinction of riding into Portsmouth town with Gov. Woodbury?

This was forty years ago, and since then Thomas Bailey Aldrich has earned a place among the foremost of American authors by a series of books, some in prose and some in verse, which are distinguished by the purity of their tone, the refinement of their style and the picturesqueness of their invention. One of them is called "The Story of a Bad Boy," and, except that some of the names of persons and places are changed, it is so faithful a picture of the author's boyhood that it might be call an autobiography.

Where Their Merit Lies.

When anything stands a test of fifty years among a discriminating people like the Americans it is a pretty good evidence that there is merit somewhere. Such a test Brandreth's Pills have stood, and thousands of unsolicited testimonials every year prove their merit. The pills are purely vegetable and are the result of the highest medical and chemical skill. They have never been known to fail in their work; they have never caused any one the slightest inconvenience, no matter when taken, and there is little doubt that they have really saved thousands of lives. The best evidence of their value lies in their increasing sale. Brandreth's Pills have truly become a household necessity.

He this month purchased another ticket, and happily got one-tenth of No. 91,960, which drew $190,000, and at the office of the Company, was given a check on the New Orleans National Bank.—New Orleans Picayune, Jan. 22d.

A Famous Wedding Recalled.

Mrs. Mary Amelia Maginnis, daughter of the late "Boss" William M. Tweed, and wife of Arthur Ambrose Maginnis, famous in Tweed's day as "Send for Maginnis," died in New Orleans Feb. 18th. She was married to Maginnis in 1868, when Tweed was so strongly entrenched in power that he was able to sneer "What are you going to do about it?" to the public, and every ring thief contributed so liberally of gold and precious stones that her wedding gifts aggregated $150,000 in value. Two years later Tweed was in jail.

THE REAL MARTHA WASHINGTON.

She Was Inclined to Stoutness—A Curtain Lecture—A Good Wife.

The private letters of the time, and a description here and an action there, taken together, are the only materials for making up the real Martha Washington of the latter part of the last century. All accounts agree that she was under middle size, and that, though well formed in her early years, she was inclined to stoutness after her marriage. I don't think her pictures, as engraved upon the new one dollar silver certificates, give the proper idea of her. The bust there displayed evidently represents a very tall woman; and Mr. Andrews, the artist, in his painting of Martha Washington, which hangs as a companion piece to Stewart's portrait of Gen. Washington in the East room of the White House, carries out the same idea. The truth seems to be that she was, in her latter days, short and dumpy rather than tall and symmetrically shaped.

A queen is always beautiful, no matter what be her face and figure, and no president's wife was ever anything else in the eyes of the throng that went to her receptions. The mild expressions of the time concerning Martha Washington's stoutness must be multiplied many times to approximate the reality, and short, stout women are seldom dignified. George Washington was six feet two, and rather thin than fat. The contrast between the sizes of the husband and wife must have been very striking, and it is said that Lady Martha was wont to attract her liege lord's attention by seizing him by the button of his coat, and looking up into his face.

Neither live is rather a large shoe for a lady under middle height; still, one of Washington's orders to London for his wife's supplies, given shortly after he was married, includes a pair of black and a pair of white satin shoes of the smallest fives, and her gloves were probably of the same generous proportions. Martha Washington had a nose inclined to the Roman. Her hair was a chestnut brown, and her eyes were a dark hazel. A silhouette made of her shortly before her death by her granddaughter, Nellie Custis, represents her with a short, fat neck and an immense cap. It is said that she had a very sweet voice, which flowed gently in ordinary conversation, but which became quicker when she grew excited. Miss Bremer, the authoress, tells a story of a stranger who, being entertained at Mount Vernon, occupied a bedroom adjoining that of the general and his wife. The partition between the rooms was thin, and the visitor plainly heard Lady Washington giving the general a curtain lecture. Martha Washington brought the money into the family and I doubt not she sometimes asked the general the same question that was thrown at him by Davy Burns, the old Scotch farmer, who owned a large part of the land upon which our national capital is built. This old man grew angry at Washington about some real estate transaction, and spoke of him to his face as an upstart, asking him where he would have been had he not had the good fortune to marry the rich Widow Custis.

Martha Washington was, however, a good wife. There is ample evidence that her whole being was wrapped up in that of her husband, and it is equally certain that George Washington dearly loved her. Her grandson, Parke Custis, says that Gen. Washington wore a miniature portrait of her upon his breast during the whole of his married life. He liked to have her with him whenever possible, and, outside of the curtain lecture above spoken of, I find no evidence that their matrimonial relations were anything but the most loving.—Frank G. Carpenter in Cosmopolitan.

How to Live a Full Century.

Professor Humphry, of Cambridge, has prepared a series of tables which contain some interesting information about centenarians. Of fifty-two persons whom he mentions, at least eleven—two males and nine females—actually attained the age of 100. Others attained very nearly the hundred years. Only one of the persons reached 108 years, while one died at the alleged age of 106.

Twelve of the fifty-two centenarians were discovered to have been the eldest children of their parents. This fact, adds Mr. Humphry, does not agree with popular notions that first children inherit a feebleness of constitution, nor with the opinion of racing stables, which is decidedly against the idea that "firstlings" are to be depended on for good performance on the course. The centenarians generally regarded were of sound build. Gout and rheumatism were, as a rule, absent. "It seems," says Professor Humphry, "that the frame which is destined to great age needs no such prophylactics, and engenders none of the peccant humors for which the finger joints (as in gout) may find a vent."

Of the fifty-two aged people, twenty-four only had no teeth, the average number of teeth remaining being four or five. Long hours of sleep were notable among these old people, the period of repose averaging nine hours; while out of door exercise in plenty and early rising are to be noted among the factors of a prolonged life. One of the centenarians "drank to excess on festive occasions;" another was a "free beer drinker," and "drank like a fish during his whole life." Twelve had been total abstainers for life, or nearly so, and mostly all were "small meat eaters."—St. James' Gazette.

"If you cannot compete with a man," says Van Holden, "in rank, or wealth, or knowledge, meet him on the level ground of humanity. There you can always be his equal or superior."

The Indians in the neighborhood of Nevada City, Cal., build houses and own wagons and cattle.

AN APPALING HISTORY.

Mr. John W. Furbush, an Army Veteran of Wakefield, Makes a Startling Discovery.

Boston Advertiser.]

The following narrative is so graphic, so interesting and so valuable, that we give it for the benefit of our readers, in Mr. Furbush's own words. He says:

"I am impelled to make this statement, not only for the benefit of my fellow veterans, but for the thousands of people who are to-day in the greatest danger and who do not know it. I enlisted as a member of Co. D. of the 28th Massachusetts regiment, possessed of hope and vigor; I retired at the close of the war bankrupt in both. The first sign I had of coming trouble was a strange restlessness. I was not afraid of battles for I had passed through many of them, but I was very nervous. My head ached and my appetite was poor. I felt a faintness at the pit of my stomach and a bad taste in my mouth, while my skin was sometimes hot and sometimes cold. I tried to throw these feelings off by force of will, but they would not go. I don't see how I could have been so blind, and yet men and women are as careless to-day as I was then. I next felt pains in my back and around the lower portion of my body, and noticed a peculiar odor and color in the water I passed, which was scanty at one time and free at others. Sometimes it pained me to void it, and again it was almost impossible to do so at all. Finally I began to pass clear blood, accompanied with the greatest strain and agony. And so I left the army a physical wreck."

JOHN W. FURBUSH.

"I went to Thomaston, Me., and while there put myself under Doctors Rose and Baker. But I found no relief. I then went to North Berwick, Me., and consulted Dr. Staples and also Dr. Gerrish, with the same results. At Great Falls, N. H., I consulted Dr. Peavey, but he was unable to help me. I then went to Exeter, N. H., and placed myself under Dr. Bartlett, but it was the same old story of failure to relieve. At Dover, N. H., I visited Dr. Fenno, who found the disease beyond his reach. I then settled at Melrose, Mass., and was treated by Dr. Vincent Smith, Dr. S. A. Kimball and the well-known Dr. Bigelow of Boston. Still no relief. At that time my condition was horrible. I was confined to my bed, which was in an inclined position so my head could be higher than my feet. Every fifteen minutes during the night I was obliged to rise, and the straining I underwent forced the ribs over my heart out of position more than an inch. The agony was indescribable. Great drops of sweat would stand out upon me, even though the mercury were below zero. To add to my misery rheumatism of the worst form came on. My hands and joints were drawn up, my knees were twisted out of shape, and my right shoulder bone drawn in so I could not move my arm. I do not believe any one ever suffered as I did.

A COMRADE'S CALL.

"While in this condition, more dead than alive, I received a call from an old army friend. He seemed to realize how near death I was and insisted on my making one more effort. I consented. In two days I was better; in a week I could sit up; within three weeks I was attending to business; and I know I am alive to-day wholly through the wonderful power of Hunt's Remedy, which took me from the verge of the grave, restored me to health and keeps me in perfect condition to-day. This remedy is the purest, grandest preparation I ever saw, and I have probably taken more medicine than any other man of my age in America."

"Since my recovery I have given this subject very much thought and investigation, and I am firmly convinced nearly every man and woman has some kidney or bladder difficulty, beginning usually in a small way, as mine did, and ending in catarrh of the bladder, Bright's disease or death! I wish I had the power to talk to all who have these symptoms and show them what danger they are in and how readily they can be saved I believe Hunt's Remedy is a God-send to the world, and if I had only known of it in time I might have escaped indescribable agonies and been a comfort instead of a burden to my family. I am terribly in earnest in this matter, for I believe it is a serious subject and one that concerns the happiness, the health and the life of thousands. I have seen awful sights on the battlefield; sights that might well make strong men quake, but the horrors of disease are far greater. When we realize that most of these horrors can be readily avoided, how solemn is the responsibility, and how great the duty to act without delay.

Gold Watch Free to All!

In 1886 we gave away over one million of our cards and scrap pictures. We have the prettiest lot of Sunday School, Reward, Birthday, Fringed and Visiting Cards, Scrap Pictures and Fancy Tissue Papers of any house in the trade. To introduce samples at once we make this liberal offer: The person telling us the longest verse in the Bible before March 15th, will receive a lady's watch worth $60, solid gold, hunting case, stem winding. If there be more than one correct answer, the second will receive a gentleman's gold watch worth $50, hunting case, stem winding; the third, a solid silver watch $25; the fourth, a gold-finished watch; each of the next ten persons, an open-face, nickel watch. Enclose twenty-four cents in stamps or silver with your answer, for which we will send you a pack of samples of our lovely cards and scrap pictures, price list, agents' terms and a 32-page book of over 150 illustrations, and a pretty gold ring, made from heavy 18k. pure rolled gold plate. We warrant every one for five years. Name this paper and write at once, as this will not appear again. Address W. C. Griswold & Co., Room 2, P. O. Building, Canterbrook, Conn.

The coroner has filed the result of his investigation in the Tiffin, Ohio, railroad disaster, fixing the blame upon the railroad officials and Conductor Fletcher. The engineer, on whom it was sought to lay the blame, is exonerated. He was not drunk, but was worn out with seventeen hours of consecutive labor.

This Is Different From That.

The mugwump papers, which are either silent or very mild over President Cleveland's signing of the bill giving pensions to all veterans of the Mexican war on their attaining the age of sixty-two years, regardless of whether they are in need of a pension or not, are eager and warm in their praise of him for vetoing the bill to pension such union veterans of the late war as are unable to support themselves. There was not an argument in Cleveland's long and labored veto message against the dependent pension bill, that did not apply with greater force to the Mexican war bill which he hastened to sign. The dependent pension bill applied only to veterans who need the aid which the nation owes them for their service when its very existence was imperilled; while the Mexican pension is a gift of $8 a month to every man whose name was on the army rolls for sixty days during the Mexican war, whether he ever saw a battle or did any duty, and regardless of his present circumstances. And worse than this even, the bill makes no distinction between a traitor and a loyal soldier, and a large share of the money appropriated by it will go to men who have forfeited all the claim they may have had to a government bounty.

This probably explains the president's contradictory action on the two bills, better than all the labored editorials of the mugwump and democratic press. The dependent soldiers' pensions, had the bill passed, would have been paid to men who fought for the union, and most of them to men in the northern states; the Mexican war pensions will to a very great extent be paid to men who fought to destroy the nation, as the soldiers who fought in the Mexican war were largely from the southern states. An instructive illustration of this is found in the fact that the first person to receive the benefit of the Mexican pension law was "Cerro Gordo" Williams of Kentucky, who last week filed his claim one day and was given his certificate the day following. General Williams distinguished himself in the Mexican war, but when the rebellion broke out entered the confederate service as a colonel, and was subsequently promoted to the rank of major general. He continued in the confederate army to the finish, and surrendered with Gen. Johnston in North Carolina. The prediction made a few years ago that the union would yet have to pension the soldiers of the confederacy does not seem so "cranky" to-day as it did then.

Famous War Ships Condemned.

A Washington correspondent gives the following particulars regarding the worn-out men-of-war recently ordered to be stripped, appraised by the naval board of inspection, and then offered for sale to the highest bidder whose bid shall reach or exceed the appraised value:

The Cyane, a sailing vessel, is the oldest of the worn-out cruisers. She was captured along with the Levant, (both at once,) both of them British ships, by the Constitution in 1814. The Levant was lost in the south Pacific a good many years ago. The Cyane has always been on the Pacific station, taking little part consequently in the naval battles of the rebellion. She captured one privateer, however, though some idea of its value may be had from the fact that the portion of prize money coming to one of the Cyane's sailors was ninety cents.

The Lackwanna and Shenandoah were both built during the war, and both were in the Mobile bay fight. The Shenandoah was also in the assault on Fort Fisher, in North Carolina, in 1864. The Wachusett, a screw steamer, served in Farragut's Mississippi squadron, and also cruised in foreign waters during the latter part of the war. The Ticonderoga was built during the rebellion, too. She has been on various stations, but has not had a noted career.

The Tennessee was built in July, 1865, and was then called the Madawaska. She is the largest frigate in the navy, but has done nothing beyond the routine service of peace. She was repaired at various times between 1871 and 1875, and became the flagship of the North Atlantic squadron. She took part in the exercises at the unveiling of Bartholdi's Statue of Liberty, leading in the salutes. Since then she has lain in the East river, New York. She has cost, including repairs, over $1,500,000.

The Powhattan is an old time side-wheel man-of-war, built in 1847. She served as Commodore Perry's flagship on his expedition to Japan. Commodore Tatnall took her to the aid of the British ships at the battle of the Pi-Ho forts in China. This action was explained afterward in the commodore's famous sentence: "Blood is thicker than water." The Powhattan served through the rebellion also, and has sailed several times around the world.

The Pilgrim, another condemned ship, lying at League island in the Delaware river, is only a sort of tug. She has no record as a cruiser, of course, and will not be missed like the old men-of-war.

SECTION 1. No person shall unload any cart or other vehicle containing vault manure, and deposit the contents thereof in any public or private place in said city of Portsmouth within one and one-half miles from Market Square; and any person offending against this provision shall be liable to a fine of not exceeding twenty dollars.

SECTION 2. This Ordinance shall take effect upon its passage.

MATTERS IN YORK.

YORK CORNER, ME., Feb. 21st.

J. Willard Titcomb is now under the medical care of Dr. C. P. Gerrish of South Berwick, who holds to the opinion that there is a chance for recovery. We hope so. Willard receives the best of nursing at the hands of his wife and her mother, Mrs. N. B. Freeman, who with willing hearts and hands are ready to minister to his every want.

"Mr. Geo. Lunt has removed his family to the village, as has also Will T. Keen. Walter Trafton has moved in where they moved out," at Scituate, Mass. So says the Scituate Echo.

Geo. Hill has moved to the Lord house, recently occupied by Willard Titcomb.

Eld. Mason and his estimable lady received another effective pounding last Tuesday night. Among the pounds were a pound of silver dollars. Seventy people were present, and a very enjoyable evening was passed by all.

Pratt's astral oil at Plaisted's.

J. P. Norton thought, as he had nothing to do only strip three or four large wood lots, and saw out a million of lumber at his mill, and put in lots of new machinery, and get ready to make ten million bricks the coming season, that he would take the eastern section of the Y. H. & B. R. R. to build, merely to keep him out of idleness, you know. His men are also getting out, and his teams hauling, a very handsome lot of culvert granite which will be used on the railroad.

C. A. Grant of Sea Cottage isn't afraid of hard work. He also is drawing stone for the railroad.

Sarah Bragdon, wife of Roswell Bragdon of Cape Neddick village, was a month ago possessed of certain real estate in York, and also (it is said) of a bank book showing deposits in a bank. She deeded the real estate to John Welch of Portsmouth, (a son by a former husband,) who she says promised, verbally, to take care of her during the remainder of her life time, but gave no writings to that effect. There was incorporated in the body of the deed from her to Welch an agreement,—but of course any possible agreement of that kind, there,—entirely out of its place, has no binding effect on anybody. The result of the whole thing is that she was brought from Portsmouth last week and carried to York almshouse, and there left for York to maintain.

The Biddeford Times thinks you have a "novel way of inserting birth notices."

Boston Daily Globe sold at Plaisted's; two cents!

The examination of the accounts of the town officers, by the auditor, will be commenced on Wednesday next. Town meeting will be held on Monday, March 14th.

The report in the Biddeford Journal as to Mrs. Sophia Putnam selling her late residence (the old homestead of the late Hon. N. G. Marshall) to S. W. Junkins, Esq., is entirely without foundation. Mrs. E. C. Moody is the purchaser from the other heirs, of their parts, and she is now the owner in fee simple.

Capt. John B. Fernald of York village celebrated his eightieth birthday on Saturday, the 19th inst. The captain is still hale and hearty, with all his faculties unimpaired. His wife, who was the widow of Capt. Paul Langdon, is, we understand, in her eighty-eighth year. P.

Cook is to the front with Cabinet Photos., twelve for two dollars. They are beauties.

A great reduction has been made in the price of Ladies' and Children's Cloaks, by Lewis E. Staples, 7 Market street. At the prices now marked they will sell rapidly.

PORT OF PORTSMOUTH.

ARRIVED Feb. 21st.

Sch Frank Barker, Gilbert, Boothbay.

Tristram Goldthwait of Biddeford died Feb. 19th, aged eighty-two years. He represented Biddeford in the Maine legislature in 1838, 1839 and 1841, and was once a member of the board of assessors. He was inspector of customs of the port of Saco under President Taylor's administration, and was one of the first keepers of Wood island lighthouse. He was originally a whig, but joined the democratic party in its early days, and has since been a stanch democratic partisan. Large pieces of real estate near Hill's beach and Biddeford pool belonged to him. Seven children survive him, among them being Alderman Goldthwait of Biddeford.

The "Bowker Fertilizer Company," which has offices in Boston, New York, and Savannah, Ga., have issued two handsome pamphlets setting forth the merits of their fertilizers and phosphates, with many testimonials of their worth from farmers in New England and other parts of the country. The use of fertilizers has very much increased within a few years, for all sensible farmers recognize that if properly made they contain the plant food in available forms and ready to promote quick growth. It is foolish to plant good seed and stint either in the amount of fertilizer applied, or put on some cheap kind. "The best is the cheapest in the end." This company furnishes the best.

To my Old Customers and Friends. Are you insured? When your home or other property is being consumed by a raging fire, a good insurance policy is a great comfort. The subscriber, with his experience of fifteen years, is now prepared to place your Insurance in the Insurance Companies of New Hampshire, and in Companies organized in other States. No one can place your Insurance better or safer!

NOTE.—Mr. Insley, my late copartner, still states in his published card, that he purchased of me all my right to the "Fire Insurance Business of our late firm." I have heretofore denied this statement. He never offered to buy of me the business or goodwill of the firm, and I never offered or even thought of selling out my business. I hired our old office, and advertised to carry on the business in all its branches, weeks before a final settlement. Now, if he has a bill of sale, bond or any agreement whereby I conveyed to him any rights to the goodwill of the old firm or any rights to do a Fire Insurance Business in New Hampshire with old or new customers, let him prosecute me for a breach of contract, or cease publishing or repeating his false statement. I am ready to meet this issue in any court of justice. I make this statement in justice to my customers and friends and to vindicate my own integrity.

SCHOOL EXERCISES.

The pupils in Mr. Sweet's and Miss Prescott's divisions of the Walker school had a "Washington day" on Monday, in the upper room, the blackboards which divide Mr. Sweet's school from Miss Drake's being raised, so as to make one room of the two. The room was very tastefully and appropriately decorated with flags, pictures of the president's, etc., and all the pupils wore bows of red, white and blue ribbons, the whole making a very pleasing picture. There were present many of the parents and friends of scholars—a larger number, we are informed, than has before attended on any occasion which was particularly pleasing to Mr. Sweet, who greatly regrets that parents and other citizens interested in the welfare of the schools so seldom encourage the children with their presence, although there is a standing and earnest invitation for them to do so, at any and all times. The programme of exercises was as follows:

1. Song, "America," by the school.
2. Reading in concert, "Love of Country," by the school.
3. Essay, "Washington," Lizzie Gardner.
4. Reading, Miss Simpson.
5. Recitations, "Some Years in Washington's Life;" Frank Rand; 1732, Henry Locke; 1754, Arthur Harriman; 1775, Irving Hammond; 1776, Willie Foley; 1777, John Dunphy; 1780, Daniel McIntire; 1781, Bennie Smith; 1789, Willie Kirby; 1799, Horace Whalley.
6. Recitation, Bennie Smith.
7. Reading, "Story of Gen. Washington," Mabel Osgood.
8. Reading, "Washington's Visit to Portsmouth," Nellie Long.
9. Duet and chorus, "Mt. Vernon Bells," Lizzie Gardner and Edith Crossett, and school.
10. Reading, Ella Ducker.
11. Speaking, "Patrick Henry," Willie Green.
12. Recitation, "Extract from Patrick Henry's Great Speech," Frank Wright.
13. Concert exercise, by school.
14. Recitation, "John Adams," George Gray.
15. Concert exercise, "Columbia," school.
16. Singing, "Hail Columbia," school.
17. Recitation, "Thomas Jefferson," George Ducker.
18. Recitation, "Extract from Declaration of Independence," Agnes Sullivan.
19. Recitation, "Israel Putnam," Willie Paul.
20. Reading, "Paul Revere's Ride," Blanche Sears.
21. Singing, "Red, White and Blue," school.
22. Recitation, "Gen. Warren," Willie Tanton.
23. Recitation, "Francis Marion," Willie Morrison.
24. Reading, "Bryant's Song, and Marion's Band," Blanche Boynton.
25. Solo and chorus, "Star Spangled Banner," Mabel Perkins and school.
26. Recitation, "John Paul Jones," Arthur Larrabee.
27. Recitation, "Benjamin Franklin," Nettie Cartwright.
28. Recitation, "Longfellow's 'Building of the Ship,'" Cora Foote.
29. Singing, "Keller's American Hymn," school; organist, Miss Bertie Rugg.

The programme was carried out most pleasingly to the visitors, and creditably to teachers and pupils. Some of the readings and recitations would not have been considered inferior if given on the public stage, and the singing showed plainly the value of musical instruction in the schools.

At the Jones school (Academy) exercises appropriate to Washington's birthday were observed in each room. In Miss Akerman's, the school repeated in unison the dates of his birth and death, and of important events in his life. Essays were read by Misses Mabel Vaughan, Cotton, Morrison and Bertha Vaughan, and Masters Sides and Clark. Quotations from "Washington's precepts" were repeated by the school. "America" was sung by the school, and facts about Washington's life were read by different scholars. A dialogue was given by Misses Adams, Thurston and Hamlin, from Miss Rand's room, and Misses Oxford and Rand, and Master Carpenter and Conlon from Miss Akerman's room,—Master Carpenter personating Washington; Master Conlon, Mr. Lear, Washington's private secretary; Miss Mabel Rand, Martha Washington; Miss Thurston, Mrs. Clinton; and Miss Oxford, Mrs. Adams, —— all dressed in appropriate costumes. The room was prettily decorated with flags and pictures, and many friends of the pupils and school were in attendance.

The Literary club of the first division of the Haven school on Monday afternoon had exercises appropriate to Washington's birthday, the programme being as follows:

PART I.

1. Song, "New Year's Bells."
2. Reading by C. Ridge, "Children of the Year."
3. Declamation by M. Conlon, "The New-Fashioned Girl."
4. Composition by W. Jenness, "The Old Wentworth House."
5. Medley, Trefethen and Osgood.
6. "Reproduction Story," B. Martin.
7. Dialogue by Russell, James, Trefethen and Randall, "Honesty is the Best Policy."
8. Composition by B. Hayford, "Fort Constitution."
9. Piano solo by H. Osgood.
10. "Memory Gems," by school.
11. Composition by F. Sanborn, "The Navy Yard."
12. Dialogue by Morgan, Ayers, Tucker and Murphy, "The Street Girl's Good Angel."
13. Composition by H. Randall.
14. Singing by school, "Sweet Bye and Bye."
15. March and Sicilian Circle, by school.

PART II.

1. Patriotic song by school.
2. Recitation, "Love of Country," W. James.
3. Introductory by H. Randall.
4. Reading by C. Ridge, "Washington."
5. Declamation by M. Rand, "Washington and Union."
6. Song, "Mt. Vernon Bells"
7. Reading by E. Russell, "Patrick Henry."
8. Concert exercise by school.
9. Song, "Battle-Cry of Freedom."
10. Reading by C. Martin, "John Adams."
11. Declamation by L. Morgan, "Feb. 22d."
12. Reading by A. Murphy, "Thomas Jefferson."
13. Recitation by Hayford, "Paul Revere's Ride."
14. Reading by G. Wendell, "Israel Putnam."
15. Declamation by B. Martin.
16. Reading by A. Trefethen, "Gen. Warren."
17. Reading by F. Sanborn, "John Paul Jones."
18. Solo and chorus, "Turning on the Old Camp Ground."
19. Reading by A. Ayers, "Ben Franklin."
20. Declamation by M. Tucker, "How Cyrus Laid the Cable."
21. Singing by school, "America."

There were present a goodly number of the parents and friends of the pupils, who were greatly pleased with the manner in which the programme was gone through with, showing as it did, careful instruction by the teacher, Miss Annie E. Smart, and appreciative attention by the scholars. It was a very pleasant occasion.

FOUND, A HOLE.

Workmen who were on Monday engaged in searching for a leak in the aqueduct on Deer street, on the crest of the hill, developed a very dangerous condition of the highway, there being found under a frozen crust about a foot thick, a hole about two feet deep and of such lateral extent as could not be determined. This defect was not in the newly-made ground, where the sewer trench was excavated and filled in, but near the sidewalk on the part of the street where the tunnelling was done. It was probably due in some way to the underground blasting operations.

OUR POLICE PROTECTION.

Editor of Chronicle: I have read with interest the exculpation of the police officers from any blame for their failure to discover the wholesale burglaries of last week, or to arrest the suspicious characters of whom they had been warned, and whom they watched till they disappeared! With regard to this I have nothing to say, as the mayor and aldermen have decided that the accused have come off with flying colors. What I am more interested in, as a citizen and property holder, is the fact, made patent to the dullest comprehension, including all rogues and burglars actual and prospective, that we have no right to expect the slightest protection from our night police. Everybody knows now, (or if they do not, from failing to read the papers, can probably get the information at the marshal's office when they need it,) just where every policeman is expected to be at each hour of the night, and how much time can be depended upon for doing what may be necessary in the way of appropriating other people's property. If in Market street, for instance, any time after 2:20 would seem to be suitable; if at the west end, any time after dark, except between one and two o'clock; and so on for the rest of the chapter.

Now I seriously ask you, Mr. Editor, is this any protection at all? Is it worth while to pay anything for such inefficient caretaking? Would not a few well located watchdogs, and electric lights which could be induced to burn all night, be a thousand times more reliable as defence, and cheaper beside? True, they have no votes, but that difficulty might not be insuperable.

Seriously: it behoves every man and woman who owns anything which can be stolen, or who desires to sleep at night without keeping one eye ear open, not to allow this disgraceful affair to be smoothed over and forgotten, and nothing done about it. PROPERTY HOLDER.

A GOOD MAN GONE.

Mr. Wm. Harvey Locke, whose death in Rye on Saturday of last week is announced in the usual place, was one of the best known and most highly respected citizens of the town. He was earnest in support of all enterprises to advance the material interests of Rye, and ready not only with judicious advice, but to put his own shoulder to the wheel; and he had long been a pillar of the Christian church, constant in his attendance on its ministrations, and strong in the example afforded by his worthy life. He owned and carried on a good farm, and also did considerable business as a carpenter and builder, his work in that line, as in all others, being marked by the most faithful thoroughness. The death of such a man is a sad loss to any place, and doubly felt in a small town. He leaves a widow, but no children, their only child having died a number of years ago.

THE BALL.

The Masonic ball on Monday evening was a completely successful affair, the brethren of the mystic tie and their lady friends enjoying themselves to the full. The hall was very tastefully dressed with streamers, Masonic banners, mottoes and emblems, etc., and there were on the floor scores of the greybeards whose liveliest dancing days were past a score of years ago. Of the music by Eastman's orchestra of course nothing need be said. The supper served by Camp was all that was required, and when the participants in the dance separated, it was with a sense that they had enjoyed one of the pleasantest reunions of the season.

THE MONUMENT.

Messrs. Editors: When the newspaper announced the munificent gift of the Eldridge family to the city and the conditions on which it was offered, a more delighted public is seldom seen, and everybody was congratulating everybody else on the prospect of our city being beautified by a park, with the much-talked-of Soldiers' and Sailors' Monument as its chief distinction and charm. But when it is learned that something like $1,000 is needed to complete this monument in accordance with the original place, there is silence!

We are not a rich community, but probably there is no place of its size, where there is more ecomfort, more well educated people, more love of the beautiful than in Portsmouth. Could it be possible that we would allow this opportunity for adorning our city, for perpetuating the memory of those who went into the war, while many of us staid idly and safely at home, for adding to the prestige of our dear old town, so interesting and distinguished in the past, to slip by?

Why cannot we have a plain obilisk of granite, say twenty, thirty or forty feet high? The Egyptians, Romans, Assyrians and all the grand historic peoples had obelisks of all sizes at their temple doors or on the open plains, and it seems to me we could do no better than copy from them according to our means and ability,

If this thing should fall through, we should be less well off than before it was started, for New Hampshire would laugh at us, and in case of war we would not seem worth a defence. C. V. W.

AROUND HOME.

To-day being a legal holiday, we shall issue no Chronicle to-morrow.

The boys who regard it as a duty to go skating, Washington's birthday, have no ice to skate on to-day.

The Sagamore fire engine was on Monday utilized to thaw out the sewer inlets wherever they were choked by ice.

Mr. Henry C. Barnabee, who has been a member—and a very prominent one—of the Boston Ideal Opera Co. ever since its inception, announces that he will not be under Mr. W. H. Foster's management next season.

A number of Boston people were present at Mrs. Whiton-Stone's Wednesday reception in South Boston. It was a very lovely day, and Mrs. Stone's handsome house was very attractive with flowers, and several charming young girls who dispensed the hospitality of tea chocolate at a beautifully arranged table, brilliant with tulips and red shaded wax lights in silver candelabras. Mrs. Wright assisted Mrs. Stone in receiving her friends, and Miss Rose Hollingsworth presided at the tea table.—Boston Herald.

Culver hall, one of the finest of the college buildings at Hanover, owned jointly by Dartmouth college and the New Hampshire college of Agriculture and Mechanic Arts, containing the Hitchcock geological collection and natural history specimens, narrowly escaped destruction by fire Sunday afternoon. The blaze originated around the ashes bin in the basement, but was extinguished by students before it gained much headway. Damage slight.

Worth's Unpardonable Fault.

Worth has committed the fault, not to be forgiven by a woman, of duplicating ball dresses for two leading society women in Virginia. The fall came out at the British legation ball last week, and the little scene was a funny one. The first of the two to enter the ballroom was a lady from Philadelphia, the daughter of a millionaire in congress. Her dress elicited general admiration, and the remark, "No doubt of that being a Worth dress," went in a little buzz around the room. A few moments later a New York woman appeared in a dress of the same lovely maize color, the exact material and fashioned as much like the other dress as two peas. They met, and there were looks—it need not be said they were looks of astonishment, disappointment and polite chagrin. They saw the explanation in the duplicated gowns, and no words were necessary.

But women usually finds words necessary, if only to relieve their feelings. "I hope—you—haven't a—pink—one—too," gasped the New York woman, faintly, seized with the horrible foreboding that Worth might be wicked enough to duplicate pink as well as yellow. "Oh—I—have," replied the Philadelphia woman in tones equally faint and despairing. When they had sufficiently recovered to talk it over calmly, the truth was told, and they knew the pink dresses were also duplicates. Fortunately, as a third party said, "They are both awfully rich and can afford to throw away the dresses if they choose." But they are very mad.—Washington Cor. New York Tribune.

"Praying to Death."

Among certain simple Melanesian tribes the curious custom called "praying to death" still exists. A man who has a feud publicly announces his intention to pray a certain enemy to death. In these cases the victim as a rule makes no resistance, but quietly arranges his affairs, withdraws to his hut, lies down, and in a few hours, and without manifesting any sign of illness, dies, purely and wholly of his own imagination.—New York Tribune.

UTTERLY DISCOURAGED

expresses the feeling of many victims of rheumatism, neuralgia, sciatica and nervous or sick headache. Having tried numberless so-called remedies, and physicians of all schools, without relief, there seems to be no hope. Many such have as a last resort tried Athlophoros, and to their surprise and joy have found that it was a safe, sure and quick cure. Athlophoros is not an experiment; thousands have been cured by its use and they testify as to its value.

Nashua, N. H., March 17, 1886.

For rheumatism and rheumatic affliction I believe Athlophoros a most excellent remedy, it penetrates all parts of the body, driving out rheumatism and makes a sure cure if taken according to directions. It is a splendid tonic for a run down system, a condition rheumatism is sure to make of one's health. I heartily recommend Athlophoros to all suffering with rheumatism, it is a fine medicine.

MRS. A. C. WHITE, 43 Granite St.

Amesbury, Mass., March 3, 1886.

If I had depended on the doctors I believe I would have died, for they did me no good whatever. Rheumatism was the trouble and what a trouble it was, but now, thanks to Athlophoros, not to the doctors nor to the many other remedies I took, the rheumatism has kept off where it belongs. For two weeks I could not sleep, so severe was my pains; after a few doses of Athlophoros I felt relief and soon I enjoyed my sleep and rested very well. Gradually but surely the rheumatism disappeared, and to-day I can without the slightest hesitation say to anybody suffering with rheumatism, if you would be cured, don't wait to experiment with this and that cure, but take Athlophoros, it will do all it claims to do and will cure you. MRS. MARY E. GOODWIN.

Every druggist should keep Athlophoros and Athlophoros Pills, but where they cannot be bought of the druggist the Athlophoros Co., 112 Wall St., New York, will send either (carriage paid) on receipt of regular price, which is $1.00 per bottle for Athlophoros and 50c. for Pills.

For liver and kidney diseases, dyspepsia, indigestion, weakness, nervous debility, diseases of women, constipation, headache, impure blood, &c., Athlophoros Pills are unequaled.

KIDDER'S

DIGESTYLIN

— FOR —

INDIGESTION & DYSPEPSIA.

A POTENT REMEDY FOR

Indigestion, Acute and Atonic Dyspepsia, Chronic and Gastro-Intestinal Catarrh, Vomiting in Pregnancy, Cholera Infantum, and in convalescence from Acute Diseases.

Over 5,000 physicians have sent to us the most flattering opinions upon Digestylin as a remedy for all diseases arising from improper diet-ion.

For 20 years we have manufactured the Digestive Ferments expressly for PHYSICIANS' use, and for the past year DIGESTYLIN has been by them extensively prescribed, and to-day it stands without a rival as a digestive agent. It is not a secret remedy but a scientific preparation, the formula of which is plainly printed on each bottle. Its great DIGESTIVE POWER is created by a careful and proper treatment of the ferments in manufacture. It is very agreeable to the taste, and acceptable to the most delicate stomach. Physicians Have Found Out

That a contaminating and foreign element in the blood, developed by indigestion, is the cause of rheumatism. This settles upon the sensitive sub-cutaneous covering of the muscles and ligaments of the joints, causing constant and shifting pain, and aggravating as a calcareous, chalky deposit which produces stiffness and distortion of the joints. No fact which experience has demonstrated in regard to Hostetter's Stomach Bitters has stronger evidence to support than this, namely, that this medicine of comprehensive uses checks the formidable and atrocious disease, nor is it less positively established that it is preferable to the poisons often used to arrest it, since the medicine contains only salutary ingredients. It is also a signal remedy for malarial fevers, constipation, dyspepsia, kidney and bladder ailments, debility and other disorders. See that you get the genuine.

Handsome versus Homely.

Who is that fine looking lady that we just passed, Clara? Why, that is Mrs. Snow. Well, there, what a change; when I saw her last, her skin was so sallow and muddy looking, it's no wonder I didn't know her. What has produced that lovely complexion? I heard that she took Sulphur Bitters, the great blood purifier, and now would not be without them.

A Fool and His Money Soon Part.

How true some of those old sayings are. A friend of mine paid a travelling quack $50 to cure him of scrofula, from which he had suffered two years. He gave him a bottle of stuff which only aggravated the disease. When he went to consult him the second time, the quack had left for parts unknown. Upon learning the circumstances I recommended Sulphur Bitters. Five bottles cured him. —Editor Journal and Courier.

Where Their Merit Lies.

When anything stands a test of fifty years among a discriminating people like the Americans it is a pretty good evidence that there is merit somewhere. Such a test Brandreth's Pills have stood, and thousands of unsolicited testimonials every year prove their merit. The pills are purely vegetable and are the result of the highest medical and chemical skill. They have never been known to fail in their work; they have never caused any one the slightest inconvenience, no matter when taken, and there is little doubt that they have really saved thousands of lives. The best evidence of their value lies in their increasing sale. Brandreth's Pills have truly become a household necessity.

Frank I. Roberts of Dover hung himself Feb. 22d, but was cut down before life was extinct.

R. S. B. Hatch, of Lebanon Springs, N. Y., is eighty-two years old. He says: I suffered from liver complaint for thirty years and could not obtain relief. I was persuaded to try Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy and it has cured me. I digest my food without difficulty and enjoy refreshing rest. Druggists; $1. Send two-cent stamp to Dr. Kennedy, Rondout, N. The only genuine porous plaster is Allcock's, and all other so-called porous plasters are nothing more than perforated counter irritants made to sell on the reputation of Allcock's. Allcock's Porous Plaster is the only external remedy that has the unqualified recommendation of professional men and the general public. Beware of imitations!

The Cunard steamer Etruria arrived at New York Feb. 19th in the shortest time on record, five days and twenty-three hours from Queenstown.

Schooner Harry A. Barry, Chatfield master, went ashore near Point Judith Feb. 20th; crew taken off by life-saving men.

CAPTAIN S. GREENWOOD,

Master of the Steamship Kanawha.

About a year ago he observed a strange change in his feelings. He felt tired instead of vigorous; nervous instead of strong. His appetite became poor and his sleep broken. He tried to overcome these feelings, but they would not go. He then noticed pains and irritation in the water channels, and that the fluids passed were often thick and with a scum on top or a brick-dust sediment at the bottom. All these were the sure symptoms of that fearful disease, Catarrh of the Bladder, which has always been considered incurable, and they continued until the Captain was in a terrible condition. But he is the picture of health and vigor to-day, and he owes it entirely to that wonderful medicine, Hunt's Remedy. Capt. Greenwood says: "I am so certain of the great value of Hunt's Remedy, that I always carry a supply on shipboard for the use of my men, and I prescribe it whenever they are ailing. After curing me as it did, and restoring my wife, (whom the best physicians of New York said was dying of tumor,) to perfect health, I swear by it."

This Great Remedy absolutely cures all Kidney Liver and Urinary Diseases.

A FANCY.

The dim religions of the east,
Building their misty fabrics, teach
That out of far eternities
We come again to human speech
For penance, and to suffer more
Than earth condemned us to before
We left its sad and lovely shore.

Ah, then, how guileless were the days
In that old life we used to live,
If depths of tranquil happiness
Are all the penance earth can give
In this new life, where year by year
We want no other heaven, dear,
Than heaven that is about us here!
—Harriet Prescott Spofford in Harper's Bazar.

A CRAZE FOR PHOTOGRAPHS.

Pictures of Pretty Scenes and Prominent Places in Great Demand.

Few persons have any idea of the size to which the manufacture of pictures of prominent places and pretty scenes in the country has grown. The proprietor of a large factory told a reporter recently that his employes made from 150,000 to 175,000 pictures a day. These pictures are all made from negatives, and are printed and mounted by girls. He said: "We take them on a very sensitive plate and, as a rule, use a shutter that falls in about 1-40th of a second. Very often in taking street scenes we get an express wagon and put the camera out at the back of it. In this way we get some very good scenes, and the pictures come out as fine as if made while we were stationary. Sometimes we have a horse's head right under the camera and very often we take men and women in some very peculiar positions. One picture I have of Madison square has a man in the act of blowing his nose. When we go through the country we take a large trunk of plates with us and take a picture whenever we see a pretty one. We come back sometimes with 200 plates ready to print from. One of the finest pictures we have ever taken is of the Washington monument, which is, you know, 570 feet in height. The picture is 17 by 20, and the plate was taken in about the 1-100th part of a second. Yet the lines at the apex are as sharp as those at the base. We had to stand about 1,000 feet from the monument to get a good picture.

"We were at the yacht races and for the big pictures used the same camera as we used for the Washington monument. We got some very fine pictures of the yachts, although we spent about $200 in getting them. Sometimes we will be printing on pictures all day long. At the time of Gen. Grant's death we had two plates going and turned out thousands a day. To show you how fast we can work, sometimes we receive an order in the morning, make the plate, develop it, print and mount and send 5,000 pictures in the evening. It is absurd for the men who take your photograph in studios to take so long about them. They try to make the public think that there is a lot of intricate artistic work to be done."

"Is there anything new in instruments?"

"Yes, there is a shutter being made that will close in the 1-500th part of a second. Rather quick that. We made all the Black Stocking nine pictures used in cigarettes, and make large numbers of them. The girls we brought to a studio and gave them the costumes. They are paid $3 for a sitting. We have a new idea now, and I think it will take well; that is, bicycle riders. We brought some girls here, fitted them out as bicycle riders and have taken their pictures in a variety of positions, such as taking headers, mounting and dismounting."—New York Mail and Express.

Devil Extracting in India.

The Madras small cause court has brought to light a gentleman who gains his living by devil extracting. This highly lucrative employment appears to be recognized as a perfectly legitimate profession. There was no disguise in court as to the exact nature of the claim. In fact, the judge, a native gentleman, appeared to resent the skepticism of the defendant's pleader as to the possibility of casting out devils, and his jocularity at the expense of the plaintiff's profession. "What, if a doctor does not cure he cannot recover!" his honor exclaimed on one occasion; and on another, when the defendant's pleader expressed his disbelief in devil extracting, he inconsequently observed, "But you believe in haunted houses?" To this remark the pleader replied, "There may be a spiritual manifestation," from which it would appear that he is not altogether free from the superstition which he ridiculed.

The plaintiff's cross examination was very diverting. Diseases, he said, were of three kinds—mental, spiritual and physical. Some physical sicknesses he could cure by his art, but not every case. Asked if he could cure love pains, he replied, "That is a very hard pain to cure; even my father could not cure that." He could not cure a person unless he were a negative.—Times of India.

Blind Man and Dog.

For some time past a familiar figure in London has been that of a blind old man, with the usual placard upon his breast, and led by a dog. This dog, however, is far from the usual, being an extremely sharp and energetic little animal. Instead of cautiously conducting his old master at a snail's pace through the hurrying crowds, he adopts the more radical plan of proceeding at a brisk trot, and unless he be allowed to gratify his taste in the matter of pace he refuses to render any service at all. The result is that master and dog run along one after the other through the most crowded and impatient streets of London, while people gifted with perfect vision, but dependent upon their guidance, can only get along at all with difficulty. The old man's stick is no sooner heard hurriedly knock-knock-knocking on the pavement than the foot passengers stand aside to avoid a collision as the couple trot by.—Cleveland Leader.

A CHILD'S SKIN.

Ears and Scalp Covered with Eczematous Scabs and Sores Cured by Cuticura.

MY little son, aged eight years, has been afflicted with Eczema of the scalp, and at times a great portion of the body, ever since he was two years old. It began in his ears, and extended to his scalp, which became covered with scabs and sores, and from which a sticky fluid poured out, causing intense itching and distress, and leaving his hair matted and filthy. Underneath these scabs the skin was raw, like a piece of beefsteak. Gradually the hair came out and was destroyed, until but a small patch was left at the back of the head. My friends in Peabody know how my little boy has suffered. At night he would scratch his head until his pillow was covered with blood. I used to tie his hands behind him, and in many ways tried to prevent his scratching; but it was no use, he would scratch. I took him to the hospital and to the best physicians in Peabody without success. About this time, some friends, who had been cured by the CUTICURA REMEDIES, prevailed upon me to try them. I began to use them on the 12th of June last. In seven months every particle of the disease was removed. Not a spot or scab remains on his scalp to tell the story of his suffering. His hair has returned, and is thick and strong, and his scalp as sweet and clean as any child's in the world. I cannot say enough to express my gratitude for this wonderful cure by the CUTICURA REMEDIES, and wish all similarly afflicted to know that my statement is true and without exaggeration. CHARLES McKAY,

Oct. 6, 1885. Peabody, Mass.

I have seen Mr. McKay's boy when badly affected with the Eczema. He was a pitiful sight to look at. I know that he has tried our best physicians, and did all a father could do for a suffering child, but availed nothing. I know that the statements he has made you as regards the curing of his boy by your CUTICURA REMEDIES are true in every particular.

WILLIAM J. McCARTHY,

35 Foster St., Peabody, Mass.

I do not know of any instance in which the Cuticura Remedies have failed to produce satisfactory results. I believe I have sold more of them than of any other skin remedy, and have ever handled during the thirty-three years of my experience as a druggist.

A Word About Catarrh.

"It is the mucous membrane, that wonderful semi-fluid envelope surrounding the delicate tissues of the air and food passages, that Catarrh makes its stronghold. Once established, it eats into the very vitals, and renders life but a long-drawn breath of misery and disease, quilling the sense of hearing, trammelling the power of speech, destroying the faculty of smell, tainting the breath, and killing the refined pleasures of taste. Insidiously, by creeping on from a simple cold in the head, it assaults the membranous lining and envelope the bones, eating through the delicate coats and causing inflammation, sloughing and death. Nothing short of total eradication will secure health to the patient, and all alleviatives are simply procrastinated suffering, leading to a fatal termination. SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE, by Inhalation and by Internal administration, has never failed; even when the disease has made frightful inroads on delicate constitutions, hearing, smell and taste have been recovered, and the disease thoroughly driven out."

SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE consists of one bottle of the RADICAL CURE, one box CATARRHAL SOLVENT, and one IMPROVED INHALER, neatly wrapped in one package, with full directions, price, $1.00.

It is a Curious Fact

That the body is now more susceptible to benefit from medicine than at any other season. Hence the importance of taking Hood's Sarsaparilla now, when it will do you the most good. It is really wonderful for purifying and enriching the blood, creating an appetite, and giving a healthy tone to the whole system. Be sure to get Hood's Sarsaparilla, which is peculiar to itself.
